DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor for the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers. In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION. If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT. Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words, MINIMUM Fourpence. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

YOU CANNOT HOPE

to catch birds unless you get proper appliances to work with. All goods sold by me are made by men who are not only practical men, but experienced bird catchers as well, so that they thoroughly understand what is required for the purpose, and neither trouble nor expense is spared to obtain best possible results. I am supplying all the leading professional catchers throughout the kingdom, and many of the Colonies, who, before giving me a trial thought it impossible to get workable articles from an advertisement. I don't ask anyone to purchase from me unless they first try and are satisfied with the goods I send them, and I always refund money in full if purchaser is dissatisfied. For some months last season I publicly asked anyone to have any of my appliances on approval, and a similar article from any other advertiser, and if mine was not far better value at a lower price, they were at liberty to break my articles up, and I would return every penny of their purchase money. Not one article was ever smashed up, nor was I asked to refund money in any single case, thus proving the truth of my statements. I believe in making a genuine article at a price within the reach of every working man, and do not ask for exorbitant profits, hence the low prices and high quality of my goods. Clap nets, made from genuine thread, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair; 4 yards, 5/-; 5 yards, 6/-; 6 yards, 7/-; 7 yards, 8/-; 8 yards, 9/-; 9 yards, 10/-; 10 yards, 11/-; per pair; all have two nets to the pair, and are 5 feet 6 inches deep, with 4 feet fly, and fitted complete with pegs, lines, stave poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Bat folding Sparrow nets for stacks, ivy hedges, etc., fitted on 19 feet bamboo poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches long, 1/- each; 18 inches long, 9d. each. These net traps are by far the largest and most simply worked on the market, and are guaranteed to catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook, without injury. Loose netting, as used in all my nets, made from ¾ inch mesh, genuine thread, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; 12 feet deep, 5d. yard, post free. This netting is very fine, and made specially for bird nets, and must not be confused with the thick, American cotton netting now being sold as bird netting. Send for sample, and compare it with others. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 10d. and 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; all have separate compartment for call bird, in addition to traps. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, work automatically, and guaranteed to reset immediately a bird is caught, without any attention whatever, 1/6 each. Real Japanese birdlime, absolutely strongest made guaranteed to hold a Hawk, will catch birds clean, and hold, even in rain, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6, sample box 3d., all post free. Every up-to-date appliance required by catchers kept in stock. Send stamp for full list and sample netting. Cages! Cages!! Cages!!! Goldfinch or Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Lark runner cages, 6d., 8d., 10d., and 1/- each; 3/6, 4/6, 6/- and 7/6 dozen. Round or square-topped calling cages, 3d. each; 2/6 dozen. Blackbird or Thrush cages, 2/6, 3/- each. Bow-fronted Lark cages, 2/- and 2/6 each. Singing box cages, 10d., 1/- and 1/3 each; 8/6, 10/6, and 12/- dozen. All brass drawing-room Canary cages, from 3/6 to 25/- each. Parrot cages, 4/- to £10 each. Dealers please send stamp for sizes and trade price of all cages, it will pay you. Penny tin drinkers, 6d. dozen; 6 dozen 2/3, or gross 4/-. Zinc drinking same size, 9d. dozen, 6 dozen 3/6, or a gross 6/-. Black enamelled drinkers for show cages, 1/- dozen, post free. Halfpenny tin drinkers, three dozen 10d., or 3/- gross. Few more testimonials given below of recent dates. "3, Box Gardens, Wellingborough, November 13th. Sir,—Please send ¼ lime. The netting I bought from you last year is as good as ever. Yours F. Marriott." "7, Cripplegate Cottages, Uckfield. November 18th. Sir,—Received netting, and am very pleased with it. Please send 6 yards more. Yours, F. Wren." "33, The Terrace, East Haddow. November 18th. Sir,—Received cages quite safe, and am well satisfied. Please send pair clap nets. Yours, R. Pudner." "7, Wimbolt-st., Great Moor, Stockport. Sir,—Please send another 24 yards netting. I am sure there could not be better, as it is both the finest thread and the strongest netting I ever used, and I have had a lot of different kinds. Yours, A. Pennor." "158, Kew-rd., Birkdale. Sir,—Received birdlime all right, and was very pleased with it. Please send following netting. Yours, S. Whitehead." "Llandrindod Wells. Sir,—Please send following netting. That I had from you last year is as good as ever, and well worth the price. Yours, J. Bufton." "Myrtle Cottage, Harboro' Park, Rushden. Sir,—Please send following. In August I had some netting and birdlime from you, and am more than pleased with it, and the lime is best I ever used. Yours, J. Robinson." "41 Church-st., Seaham Harbour. Sir,—Nets you sent me fortnight ago gave every satisfaction, so please send on the following. Yours, J. Coyle." "7, Birkland-st., Mansfield. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime. I had some from you last year and found it very good. Yours, Mr. Barson." "Limebrook, November 4th. Sir,—Received netting, and am well satisfied with it, not having to walk as I had last year from another firm in your city. I shall send again ere long. Yours, W. R." "Waltham Cross, November 7th. Sir,—Nets to hand, and very pleased with them. Yours, W. Watts." "34, Smithfield-st., Llandilo, November 10th. Sir,—Please send following. I had some cages from you last year, and they are very good, strong cages, and best I ever had, and very good fountains, also. Yours, W. Evans." Not merely one or two, but hundreds upon hundreds of similar unsolicited testimonials are open for inspection any time, the majority of which have never been published. Please note everything is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval, at my sole risk, either cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money refunded in full if every satisfaction not given. See Roller Canary column for further advertisement.

HARRY ALLEN,
THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING.

Champion of all champions, winner of more prizes than any three men. Patronised by all the leading exhibitors, Mule breeders, and contest singers. I claim to have the finest strain in the world bar none. Kindly note I never copy anyone, they all follow me. Beware of spurious imitations, they will not give you satisfaction; mine never fail to please. If you want value for money come to me and you will never regret. I have the finest selection of British in England. Big, fine cock Linnets, well pencilled, very tame, Norwich type, 1/6 each; extra picked birds, real gems, and sure winners, 2/- and 2/6 each. I have a few grand show specimens, tight as wax, grandly pencilled, shows white on wing, good nut brown, A1 condition, and the largest ever seen, 3/- and 3/6 each. Having supplied winners at all the leading shows, I can highly recommend them as the finest Linnets in England. Cock Linnet, singing beautifully, in singing cage, a packet of my special mixture, and instructions how to feed, 3/6 the lot, real bargains. These birds are being taught by the Champion of the World, owned by me, and not by a so-called Champion, but by one which has proved himself a real Champion, and which is termed by CAGE BIRDS as a veritable champion; none genuine but mine; I guarantee them to be the finest noted birds in England. House-moulted cock Linnets, singing hard and ready for contests, 10/6 each, with contest cage; beautiful large cock Bullfinches, with fine deep chest colour, beautiful cap and wing bars, steady as rocks, can win in good class, 3/- and 3/6 each; hens, sure mule breeders, all in good feather, 1/6 each, beautiful Greenfinches, good rich colour, grand wing bars, very tame, 1/- and 1/6 each; one of these secured 4th prize at Leeds Show. Large Redpolls, good colour, well marked, in good trim, 1/- each, one with pink chest, a real gem, 3/-; cock Larks, nicely on song, 1/- each, 3 for 2/6; satisfaction guaranteed.—Goldfinches, Goldfinches, I have the finest selection of Yorkshire specimens, Pear Tree cock Goldfinches in England, not little rubbish, but the largest and best that can possibly be got. Big fine cock Goldfinches, well buttoned and mooned, good broad heads, 2/6 and 3/- each, extra picked birds, real beauties, steady as rocks, and ready for show, 3/6 each. I have a few extra gems, with extra good well-cut blaze, grand buttons and wing markings, feathers like silk, 4/6 and 5/- each, all been caged months, not freshed caught ruhbish, direct from the catchers' nets. Having supplied numerous winners to exhibitors—I can recommend my gems as the finest Goldfinches in England. Please try the Original Linnet and Goldfinch firm and you will be delighted as others have been.—Babylon, Chedleton, Staffs.—Sir,—Received Goldfinch cock alright; he is a real beauty.—G. Oakley to H. Allen. 30, Graud Parade, Cork, Ireland.—Sir,—Am exceedingly thankful to you for Linnet and cage; it is one of the best marked birds I ever got; I have shown him to some of my friends, and they never saw a Linnet so well marked; they are going to give you a trial.—M. Armstrin to H. Allen. 37, Siddick, near Workington, Cumberland. —Sir,—Received Linnet safe; he is singing well, and is admired by all the village; I think you well deserve your name as Linnet King. He is the best bird I have ever heard.—H. Fell to Original Linnet King. Everybody welcome; hundreds of testimonials to look through; some from the most successful exhibitors. All my birds are on 7 days approval; cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system; no waiting; all birds sent out safely packed, and exactly as described. Four packets of my special mixture, 1/-; I beg to thank all the exhibitors of the Leeds Show for their patronage at my stall in Leeds Bird Market on Saturday last. I have no agents, so please beware of imitations.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist, 42, Brown Hill Crescent, Harehills, Leeds

BIRD CATCHERS.

Buy from Maker, and get best value obtainable; it would never pay me to send out cheap and blown together goods. I have been in the trade for years, and still sell more nets than all other so-called makers combined. Every article is sent out on approval; cash or deposit system; if not thoroughly satisfied return them and your money will be refunded; not a single article has been returned this season, but testimonials come in, by every post, although I seldom publish them. Here is one selected from scores, guaranteed unsolicited:—"Great Baddow, Chelmsford, Essex. Dear Sir,—Please send me a pair Clapnets, as per CAGE BIRDS, 18ft. by 4½ft.; amount enclosed. I had a pair of a Birmingham man which were practically useless.—Yours truly, S. G. Crisp." You can't afford to keep buying, but take my advice and buy a genuine article. MATTHEWS, LINNET KING.

Gentlemen, if you want a first-class winner or a winning team give my special birds a trial. I guarantee them the best strain in England, and have been selected by a practical man that understands exactly what you want. I am supplying winners every week from my valuable large stock, and my special birds are called by my customers real deck-sweepers. You can win in open shows when you wish with them. If you want to win at your show, send to me at once. Don't keep muddle-raters, which is only expense without results, when you can get winners from me at once at working men's prices. Let me fit you up with the finest winning team ever advertised at such prices as I supply all the leading exhibitors in England, and my birds are winning every week. They all send to me when they want a winner, as they know my special birds are selected from hundreds of dozens which I sell every week, not merely picked from a bought dozen which has been picked at before most dealers get them. If you want to win, send to me at once. All my selected birds have been caged mouths, and are in perfect show condition. I keep every variety of British. Inspection invited to the largest aviaries in England. I keep nothing but the best. Big, fine, healthy Linnets, with nutbrown backs, beautifully pencilled, Norwich type, 1/6 and 2/-. A few giant massive Linnets, beautifully pencilled, ready to win in the keenest competition, 3/- each, with double sure winners; also the finest lot of fierce singing Linnets in England, specially trained under my old noted Cheshire Champions, in full song; sacrifice, 2/-; with beautiful singing cage, packet of special seed, instructions, 3 - lot; best value ever offered; worth double; over 200 in stock. Goldfinches. Real Peartree Goldfinches, the largest and best you can possibly get, with good deep square scarlet blaze, extra well buttoned and mooned, beautifully tanned, 2/6 and 3 -. Also a few giants, massive in size, with enormous deep square scarlet blaze, extra special birds, sure winners, 4/6 and 5/- each; bargains. These special birds are the best you can possibly get. Bullfinches. Bullfinches with blood-red breast, broad black cap, good wing bars, win anywhere, as they are in perfect show condition, 3 - each. Large Yellow Giant Greenfinches, as large as Thrushes, ready for showing, steady; cocks, 1/6; hen, 6d. Large mealy Redpolls, good deep bibs, well laced, 1/6 each; splendid full-coloured Chaffinches, 1/-; large Cheshire Larks in song, 1/- each. All birds sent out exactly as described on seven full days' approval. Others are following me, so beware of worthless imitations, as you get the first preference from the catcher. Read further success:—Please send me on the following at once. You will be pleased to hear the Bullfinch you sent me a fortnight since won first and special at Kirkcaldy Show. Send me another as good at once. I am showing him again this week. He is a gem. From Anderson, Fernies-blds., Lower Oakfield, Kelty, Fife, to Matthews, Linnet King. From I. Isacca, Cundare, Aberdeen: Sir,—Received your special Peartree Goldfinch safe. He is a gem. I don't know how to thank you for such a grand bird. I have written to Editor to forward cash. To Matthews, Linnet King. From 26, Pauson-street, Cross Hall, Morley: Sir,—The Linnet I got from you is a grand, smart bird, steady as a top. I have got birds from other dealers that cost double, but not half as good as your birds. They are gems. I shall get all my birds from you, as you are an honest man. From A. Tempester to the Real Linnet King. Gentlemen, I am receiving dozens of testimonials like these every post, so send direct to the catcher or you will regret it, as I have the best living. Ignore useless imitators, as I send all birds out on seven days' approval, cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit.—Matthews, Professional Bird-catcher, 44, George-street, Hyde, Cheshire.

assertions to the contrary, I am the originator of approval system in connection with wild birds, and during the whole 16 years of trading have never dealt on any other terms. I send everything, I sell on approval at my risk, on CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and guarantee every satisfaction or money returned in full. If you want sound, healthy stock at a fair price, give me a trial; but if you want fresh-caught weeds, don't apply to me, as I will not supply them. Genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, big bold birds, in pink of health and condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, or 16/- dozen. Specially selected larger cocks, for show or muling, and in splendid song, 3/- each, three 7/6. Few superb specimens, fit for keenest competition, 4/- and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6. Two-year-old white-legged cock, guaranteed bred Mules last season, 7/6. Grand large cock Brown Linnets, with nut-brown backs and red breasts, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Specially selected cocks, in song, 1/- each, three 2/6. These Linnets are guaranteed exactly same as supplied by me to contest singers, fanciers, and dealers throughout Yorkshire, etc., and which are often re-sold by them at big prices. Absolutely incomparable for size and song. Splendid clean-moulted cock Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Few very large, steady, rich-coloured hens, for show or breeding, 1/6 each; cock Greenfinches, three 1/-, six 1/6. Specially selected Yellow Greenfinches, for show, 1/- each, three 2/-; cock Chaffinches, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Grand lot Snow Buntings, in perfect health and feather, cocks 1/6 each; hens, 1/- each, three 2/-. Few extra large light-coloured and well-marked cocks, for show, 2/6 each. These show specimens are picked from several hundreds, are almost white, and are kept in special steadying cages so as to be ready for immediate shows. Grand cock Skylarks, all big, plump cocks, not half hens, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Few singing nicely, 1/6 each. Two-year-old cock Goldfinch Mule, used to catching, pure Finch notes, and in full song. This is a regular "bell slammer," and just the bird for tricky Finches, price 10/-. Real Siberian Goldfinches, I have already secured a grand lot; price for ordinary specimens, 4/6 each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. These are the genuine Siberian Finches, imported in single wicker cages, not merely picked Russian birds, and my exhibition specimens are real deck-sweepers, with full complement of show points, and as I have supplied hundreds of winners, I know exactly what to send out. Cock Siskins, 2/- and 2/6 each. Few well-marked Yellow cocks, with full bib, etc., 3/- and 4/- each; hens, 1/- and 1/6 each. See following few letters recently received and unsolicited. "14, Marine-terrace, Skinningrove, Yorks.—Sir,—Last lot Linnets I got from you were beauties, and as large as Larks. Please send another six, as your birds sell well here; they are far better than those that come from Lancashire. Yours, C. Hart." "65, Faraday-road, Northwich, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Bird arrived safely. I am greatly pleased with it, and shall be pleased to have further dealings with you in the future. Yours, J. Murphy." "Morgan-row, Cwmhaslh, Aberdare.—Sir,—Cock Linnet arrived safe; he pleased me in every way. I have had Linnets from dozens of dealers before, but this is the boldest, sweetest, and prettiest I have ever had. Yours, D. Thomas." "Church-road, Mitcham, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am well satisfied with them. Yours, F. Tutty." "22, Kay-street, West Stanley.—Sir,—Thanks for birds received all right, and very satisfactory. I am quite pleased with them. Yours, J. Hutchinson." "Middlesbrough, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied. Yours, J. Moody." "Colcorton, Nov. 2nd.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in grand condition. I have never before had such value for the money. Yours, W. Richards." "Chapel House, Witton-le-Wear, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied with them. H. Hill." "75, Sellar-street, Abbeydale, Sheffield, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Please send three more Goldfinches. I was delighted with the last you sent. Yours, A. Macefield." "Hilldrop, Oxted, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinch you sent me few weeks ago has turned out a beauty. Please send another, also a Linnet. Yours, A. Wright." "West Newton, Aspatria, Nov. 5th.—Sir,—Goldie arrived safe and well, and I am greatly satisfied with him. Yours, J. Clarke." "Canalo-pairt, Tayport, Scotland, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in good condition, and I am highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Robertson." "21, Belgrave, Wilnecote, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Linnets arrived in splendid condition. I did not expect such birds at the price. Please send following. Yours, D. Hare." "2, Tenterfield-terrace, Lohmill, Todmorten.—Sir,—Please send following birds. The last Linnet I got from you has won several first prizes. Yours, Moore and Son." "4, Odell-street, Old Kent-road, London.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and I am highly delighted with them. I would not part with them, for they are a marvel at the price. Yours, E. Alderman." "21, Market-street, Tredegar.—Sir.—Received selected Linnets, and am very pleased with them. Two of them are singing now. Wishing you every success. Yours, A. Selvey." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in county of Worcester, and are well caged, steady, and properly on hard seed before being sent out, and are sent on appro. at my sole risk. Inspection cordially invited any time. See "Roller Canary" and "Appliance" columns for further advertisements.

SANDIFORD'S FAMOUS NORWICH

See Reports.

Won 4 Firsts, 2 Thirds, beautiful Gold Medal presented by Scotch N.P.C. for best Norwich shown by a member at Glasgow, also 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Crystal Palace, 1907, including 1st Unflighted Yellows, class of 30 champions, all bred by me; also won just on 40 firsts last season Blood will tell. This strain has cost me hundreds of pounds in cash, and I claim to have the best blood in the world. See wins already this season at Peterboro', Dulwich, Stoke, Chesterfield, Coventry, Leeds, etc. Won more prizes in Norwich this season than anyone in England. Have some marvellous prize-bred pairs from above winners at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-; pair odd cocks and hens, Yellows or Buffs, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; any on approval with pleasure. Send ½d. stamp for list of testimonials from winners I have supplied. They will surprise you. Mr. H. Ward, Charing, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"The cock Canary I had from you bred me three grand birds, which won 1st and special, 2nd and reserve at Ashford, Kent. See last week's Cage Birds." Mr. Jarvie, Glasgow, Oct. 28th, 1907—Sir, Send six Norwich cages and a good Goldfinch for enclosed. Mr. Young won medal for best hen at City show; the Yellow hen he got from you is its mother." Mr. Cook, Wellingboro'—"Sir, very pleased with the Yellow Norwich cock, and also the way you despatched him. The Yellow hen you sold me has won me 1st and special Wellingboro', 3rd Burton. I bred from her a Buff hen, which was 1st in a class of 13 at Wellingboro', also 3rd at Crystal Palace in class 32." Mr. J. D. Hird, Macduff—"Sir, send me four cage fronts, 20 by 12. The variegated cock you sold me won 1st at all our shows round here." Mr. J. D. Jones, Pentordawe—"Sir, Norwich cock arrived safe; well pleased; he won 1st and two specials here." April, 1907. Mr. H. McIver, Livingstone Buildings, Port Glasgow, writes—"Sir, the Norwich I had from you won 1st and special in class of eleven against all colours at Greenock." Mr. Fisher Cardendon, Fife, March, 1907—"Sir, I took 1st, special, and 2nd at Cowdenbeath with birds I had from you." Breeders 27 years.

All on week's approval. Money back in full if not approved, or deposit with Editor if preferred.

Read a few of the latest (not November of some unknown date) out of an enormous quantity received, unsolicited and open for inspection, in the Envelopes bearing OFFICIAL POST MARK.

Cannot speak too highly, etc.

Cardiff, November 14, 1907.—I am writing to let you know how pleased I am with my little gem. I cannot speak too highly of the way in which you have served me. I could not wish for a better bird than this, and the price I consider is dirt cheap. I cannot get such a bird in this City of Cardiff at the price. Anyone I know wanting birds I shall surely recommend them to you.—J. Redman to W. Rudd.

Splendid way, etc.

Ickworth Road, Sleaford, Nov. 13, 1907.—Roller and cage arrived in good condition. Many thanks for the splendid way in which you send your birds and cages out.—J. Dixon to W. Rudd.

Have to travel a long way to beat him.

74, Willis Street, Poplar, London, E., November 15, 1907.—I write to say the bird arrived quite safe, and that I am pleased with him. He is a grand singer, and I think that I should have to travel a long way before I could get one to beat him at the price.—W. H. Beament to W. Rudd.

Not the last order, etc.

Mosborough, November 15, 1907.—I received the Roller in the best of condition, and I thank you for your straightforward dealing. This is not the last time you will hear from me.—D. Turner.

11, King's Road, Warsop, November 16, 1907.—I received the H.M. Roller in grand condition. He soon commenced singing. I am quite satisfied with him.—Hy. Aitken to W. Rudd.

25, Oxford Road, Clacton-on-Sea, November 17, 1907.—I received the bird quite safe, and it gives me every satisfaction. It sings most beautifully.—T. Schofield to W. Rudd.

More than satisfied.

32, Whitfield Street, Newark-on-Trent, November 18, 1907.—The Roller is an excellent songster, and I am more than satisfied with him.—J. Selby to W. Rudd.

Delighted.

Pevensey and Westham Station, November 12, 1907.—I am delighted with the H.M. Roller cock you sent. Very many thanks for selecting me so pretty a bird. It has been singing almost incessantly since.—J. Dolloway to W. Rudd.

Just what wanted.

61, Birkbeck Road, Sidcup, November 18, 1907.—The H.M. Roller arrived quite safe and gives every satisfaction. He started singing soon as unpacked, and is just what I wanted.—G. Share to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

FREE ADVICE.

Why do dealers advertise birds that they have not got. I only advertise what I have in stock, which are the following: The first consignment of giant Siberian cock Goldfinches, the largest ever imported into this country, fit for show purposes; these birds are grand birds for muling purposes, and are in the finest condition, price 5/- each, or 28/- per stick of 7. Tame hen Bullfinches, sure mulers, 5/- each; St. Andreasberg Rollers, No. 1, 8/- each, or 52/6 per stick of 7; St. Andreasberg Rollers, No. 2, 7/- each, or 45/6 per stick of 7; St. Andreasberg Rollers, No. 3, 5/6 each, or 36/9 per stick of 7; real St. Andreasberg hens, 1/6 each, or 15/- per doz; Singing Hartz cock Canaries, 4/6 each, or 29/9 per stick of 7; Hartz hen Canaries, 11/- dozen. All orders to be made payable, Bethnal Green P.O. Terms cash with order. —E. Power, 91, Sclater-st., Shoreditch, E.

XMAS PRESENTS

will soon be wanted. Can you imagine a more acceptable one than a Cascade Roller? The sweetest, purest, most entrancing Roller song ever heard. Read this account of a Cascade Roller after travelling 300 miles to Mr. D. Montgomery, 85, Parkavenue, Belfast, 11/11/07, 24 hours on rail. "Sir,—Cascade Roller arrived Sat., at 4 p.m., and started to sing inside 15 minutes after travelling so far. He is a little wonder, and we are all delighted with him. No one here has ever heard anything like him. Every one is asking where did you get such a songster. I must thank you for sending me such a good bird." Usual price for these high-class birds, £2 2s.; my price at present 10/-, which includes a splendidly-fitted British Roller singing cage. An ornament for prince or peasant. By special request I have imported a few Cascade Schoolmasters. These are perfect Rollers, as sold in Germany for 100 marks. Suitable for the most expert and fastidious judges, with splendidly fitted cage, 15/-; terms, cash or deposit.

PEARSON, ONLY CASCADE ROLLER IMPORTER, GREENWICH.

DEPOSIT NOW.

The celebrated Preston contest St. Andreasberg Rollers have arrived, and are better than ever before, and, seeing the great number of winners we supplied last year, this is saying a great deal, and although we are paying more for them to the breeders we shall not advance the price, but we expect to sell more than ever. The price of these birds is only 15/-, and we send them on 14 days' trial at our risk, and we don't want your money until you are fully satisfied with the bird. Deposit the 15/- now with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS and don't you buy a Roller or any other article on any other terms, no matter if the advertiser is a large advertiser or a small one. Always deposit your cash, and then you can't be imposed upon. Send for one of these masterpieces, which you can't equal if you give £2 elsewhere. A word to the wise is sufficient. German Hartz Mountain Canaries in full song, same as sold by others as Rollers, price, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, and 8/6 each. Box cages for Rollers, 1/9 each complete. Anything alive bought, sold or exchanged. We have won thousands of prizes.—Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk-road, Preston.

PERHAPS YOU THINK

that because my prices are so astonishingly low that the quality of my birds is low also, but to convince you that this is not so I ask you to peruse the unsolicited letters printed below. I import all Rollers direct and save all middlemen's profits, therefore can sell better quality at lower prices than most dealers. I have a grand stock of pure St. Andreasberg hollow Rollers, all direct from Leipzig, in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, deep bass rolls, Nightingale jug-jug, bell, harp and du du pipes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from Titlark or any other harsh notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/6 each. Special Schoolmasters 10/- each. I also have a limited number of real contest masters, pure Scifert strain, price 15/- each. These contest birds are gems of the very first water and perfect masters of their art. Roller hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. Ordinary loud free Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, 5/- each. Hartz hens 2/6 couple, 12/6 dozen. These Hartz cocks are often described and sold by unscrupulous dealers as Hartz Mountain Rollers at fancy prices. All Rollers sold by me are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and if you would have a genuine Leipzig Roller you must purchase from me, as I am the sole importer, and no other dealer can get so much as one feather of this strain, unless purchased from me. Following few letters give an idea of quality of the Leipzig Rollers, but to obtain better proof please have one on a week's trial from me. "33, Dorset-st., Burnley, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller safe. I have written CAGE BIRDS to send you the money, as I am well satisfied with him, as he sings beautiful.—Yours, T. Bailey." "Dean-st., Oakham, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller this morning and am well satisfied with it. Thanking you very much.—Yours, T. Carter." "37, Windbourne-rd., Liverpool, Nov. 2nd. Sir,—Birds arrived safely on Friday. I am more than pleased with the light variegated cock; it started singing immediately on arrival.—Yours, F. Edwards." "29, Astor-st., Bramley, Leeds, Nov. 4th. Sir,—The Leipzig Roller arrived in splendid condition, and no worse for the long journey, and he is singing well. I shall not forget to tell my friends where he came from.—Yours, J. Pratt." "Paris House, Portmadoc, Nov. 4th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller cock. I bought one from you six years ago, and he is still singing as merrily as ever.—Yours, R. Owen." "9, Croft Terrace, Jarrow-on-Tyne, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller alright, and have no hesitation in keeping him as he is such a sweet singer.—Yours, J. Young." "4, Brickyard Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Roller quite safe, and am quite satisfied with it. He began to whistle soon after arrival. We think it is beautiful, and are delighted. Wishing you every success.—Yours, W. Bradbury." "Thornhill, Dumfriesshire, Nov. 6th. Sir,—I had a Roller from you before; he was a splendid little fellow, and pleased me extra well. Hoping I may receive such another this time.—Yours, R. Davidson." "2, Bretway Road, Dinas Powis, Nov. 9th. Sir,—Roller arrived all right and in splendid condition. Lovely notes; am quite satisfied.—Yours, J. Hooson." "Port Talbot, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Received Roller safely, in grand condition, and singing nicely; I am quite satisfied, and shall deal with you again.—Yours, D. Gibbs." "54, Melbourne Street, Gorton, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Have you any Leipzig Rollers in stock? I got a cock and two hens from you last year and was very pleased indeed with them, and also your straightforward dealings. —Yours, J. Kay." "6, Bartonhall Row, Waterloo, Wishaw. Sir,—I got a Roller from you last year and it wasn't in the house half-hour before it commenced singing; five weeks ago I sent to another dealer for one and after waiting four weeks he sent me a hen full of asthma, which died. I am going to send for one of yours this week.—Yours, J. Halliday." "605, Berridge Road, Nottingham. Sir,—Roller arrived safe; was singing few minutes after arrival; a very good songster. I am quite satisfied; good value for money.—Yours, H. Richardson." "2, Johnson Street, Silverdale. Sir,—Roller to hand; I am highly pleased with him, being a well built bird with steady flow of notes. —Yours, J. Bibby." See back numbers of CAGE BIRDS for hundreds of similar testimonials to above, all of which are entirely unsolicited. Every Roller is guaranteed to be exactly as represented and all are sent out on full week's trial entirely at my own risk, either on receipt cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. Wholesale prices on receipt trade card.—Note address, the largest Roller retailer in United Kingdom.

These have come from birds I have sent hundreds of miles from Preston. Mrs. Downs, Chelmsford Road, Dublin, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"Thanks for the beautiful Roller. He arrived safely about 11 to-day, none the worse for the journey. He is a beautiful colour, and has a lovely voice. I like him well; he is singing over my head this moment. I want a nice cage for him; send on price of one." Mr. Glenny, Bachelors' Walk, Dublin—"Sir, am pleased with Roller, which arrived safe. He is singing continually night and day since he arrived. Scores of testimonials like this. If above not proof enough, send for catalogue and scores more testimonials. Mr. J. Patterson, Cork, Ireland—"Sir, I think it only right you should know that the Roller you sent me won the All Ireland Roller Singing Contest, held here November 8th and 9th." Mr. McConquodall, Greenock, Scotland—"Sir, received Roller and hox cage safe; he was singing half an hour after I got him. He is the best songster I ever had. The cage is most suitable." Mr. H. Brooks, Wakefield, Yorks.—Sir, the Hartz Roller to hand. He is a splendid bird and sang under three minutes after caged. He sings in the gaslight; first thing in the morning. I have given twice as much for German Rollers not half as good as this from you." A few real Hartz Rollers—not Belgians, price 5/- and 6/- each; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. Proper singing Roller box cages, 1/6; enamelled inside and out, inlaid fronts, sand drawers; beauties, 1/10 each; approval with any; established 1879.

CLUB REPORTS.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS & DIST. F.A.

This association much regret being unable to hold their autumn show this year, owing to the deficit on their Dog and Poultry Shows held last year, which, to a very great extent, has been subscribed by the members of the executive. It is hoped to make the association more attractive than ever next year, and the executive solicit the indulgence of the members. A general meeting will be held on the 27th inst. in the Friendly Societies' Hall, Tunbridge Wells, at 8 p.m., when a general public debate on any section of the Fancy for which we cater will take place. A members' show of all sections (except dogs) will be held December 11th—with value and cash prizes.—HARRY G. WHIBLEY, hon. sec.

BATTERSEA AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Monthly meeting held Nov. 6th at Duchess of Devonshire, Lavender-road, when a good attendance of members took part in a judging competition, cards being placed by H. Davis. Close on forty birds were staged. Mr. Potter won 1st, Mr. Luff 2nd, Mr. Barnett 3rd, and two members tied for a prize given by the secretary for those furthest away from judge. After paying prize money, the vice-chairman, Mr. T. Goymer, in the course of a few chosen remarks, said that the late secretary thought it fit to present the chairman, Mr. S. Wade, with a small token of appreciation for the services rendered to this society, and hoped that for years we should have the pleasure of his company. The present consisted of a beautiful silver cigarette case, suitably inscribed. Mr. Wade, in thanking the members, said it had always been a pleasure to him to do anything for the benefit of this society, and deeply regretted that he had had to give up his birds. Votes of thanks to Mr. Davis for judging, and the chairman for presiding, brought a most interesting meeting to a close.—F. EASTERLING, sec.

THE CINNAMON MARKED YORKS C.C.

Committee meeting November 9th at the Grand Arms Hotel, Queensbury. Mr J. Greaves (President) presided, the meeting being well attended. A letter from a member to the secretary complaining of another member showing a rock in hen class, knowing it to be a cock, was considered. It was decided to suspend the member in question from showing at any club show before March 31st, 1908, all points already gained by him to be struck off.—R. GARNETT, hon. sec.

W. MIDDLEDON C.B.S.

Meeting held Nov. 4th, Mr H. Smith presiding. Mr. Carson reported what had taken place at the meeting—which he had attended as one of the delegates—with regard to the proposed federation of London societies. A very interesting bird washing exhibition, given by Mr. H. Davis, Battersea, was greatly appreciated. During the drying process, there was a judging competition for Yorkshire Canaries, Mr. H. Davis acting as final judge, while Messrs. Colman and Smith supplied the birds to be adjudicated on. Result was as follows:—J. Carson, 11 points; P. King and F. Piper, 8 each; F. Found, 6; S. Jordan, G. J. Warley, Mrs. A. M. Collins, and H. Smith, 5 each; A. Lupton, 4; P. Rorke, 3; W. H. Colman, 2. A vote of thanks was accorded by acclamation to Mr. Davis.—W. H. COLMAN, hon. sec.

WELSH CAGE BIRD CLUB.

General meeting held at Swansea on Nov. 6th. The chairman, Mr. T. L. Castree occupied the chair, with the assistance of the vice-chairman, Mr. T. H. Melvish. There was a record attendance. New members elected: Messrs. D. Jones (Dowlais), H. Rodrick (Croudare), R. Treharne (Maesteg), W. Lewis (Haverfordwest), E. R. Roberts (Penygroes), D. L. Eynon (Aberdare). It was decided that birds sold or bought at a show should not come under general rule 13. The secretary read a letter from H. S. Tibbs, hon. sec. Toronto C.B.S., who wished to exchange medals. It was unanimously decided to accept the offer, as it was thought that we should continue to show a brotherly spirit with our cousins across the water. Discussions took place upon various subjects by Messrs. T. H. Melvish, J. H. Jones, F. G. Eynon, D. S. Longden, B. Davies, R. Thomas, and others. A vote of thanks was accorded the Swansea C.B.S. for providing the room free of charge. Members should pay their subscriptions at once, or they will lose all points gained (see rule 2). Any fanciers joining now can compete for specials offered at Llanelly. A vote of thanks was accorded to the Press.—D. H. TIDSTONE, hon. sec.

EDINBURGH WESTERN O.S.

Meeting held in Reigo-street Hall, November 7th the President, Mr. Ballantine, in chair. The President intimated the death of an esteemed member, the late Mr. John Nichol, who, he said, had been a keen fancier and a hard worker. It was agreed to send a letter of sympathy to the widow. The secretary then read the financial statement, which showed the club to be still in a flourishing condition, with a fair balance for prize money. Office bearers for the incoming season: President, Mr Thomas Ballantine; vice-president, Mr. William Morris; secretary, Mr. John Thomson; committee, Messrs. H. Mackay and J. Blackie; auditors, J. Bowman and W. Whitefield. Mr. Gorrie's proposal that members' books be cleared by September instead of October, to enable the secretary to get on better with the show business, was deferred till another meeting. A discussion took place regarding the levying of members 2s. each for the purchase of specials for the show, but the matter was left over till a summoned meeting. It was decided to have a smoking concert as last year. The following were elected as extra committee: Messrs. Denholm and Jas. Thomson.—JOHN THOMSON, sec.

NATIONAL BRITISH BIRD & M.C.

Committee meeting held at headquarters, "The Napier," High Holborn, October 31st. Present: Mr. Trower (in the chair), Messrs. Dewhurst, Silver, Dobson, Maxwell, Cooper, Plumbridge, and Carr. A letter was read from Miss Reeves thanking the committee for the honour conferred upon her by awarding her the gold medal for breeding the Chaffinch-Bramblefinch Hybrid. Notification was given of the postponement of Wellingborough Show. Letters were read from the secretaries of the L.C.B.A. show respecting the wording of the schedule for the British bird classes; it was proposed by Mr. Cooper, and seconded by Mr. Maxwell, that all species be considered British which are classified as such in the N.B.B. and M.C. list. Mr. Trower very kindly promised to guarantee a Continental class at the L.C.B.A. Show, and Mr. Cooper proposed, seconded by Mr. Silver, that the wording in the schedule read: Any species of Continental bird not included in the N.B.B. and M.C. list. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Trower for his generosity. The following kindly offered to look after the interests of the British birds and Hybrids at the L.C.B.A. Show: Messrs. Trower, Silver, Dewhurst, Maxwell, Cooper and Carr. New members elected: Mr. G. Lawrence, 6, Bishops-street, Coventry; Mr. P. Walsh, 59, Hawksley-avenue, Hilsbrow, Sheffield; Mr. A. P. Hurst, Salisbury Pier Head, Liverpool. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the meeting.—PLUMBRIDGE and CARR, joint secs.

NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB.

Annual meeting held at Nottingham show, the president in the chair. The secretary read a letter from the secretary of the Scottish Plainhead Club, to the effect the contest between us was off, owing to the Scotsmen having fixed their date on the same day as our club show at Nottingham. In answer to a question, the secretary replied that one of the conditions was that the contest was to take place in December in each year; this they had evidently overlooked, and as the date could not be altered, it was declared to be void. The secretary then stated the result of the voting by the members on the drawings sent out for the best model:—Mr. Norman's 55 votes, Mr. Paddock's 24, Mr. Lydon's 14. It will be seen that only 93 voted out of 150 members. This is surely to be regretted after the complaints we have had; we are entitled to a better return. Mr. Fox (Long Eaton) said he had not voted as he did not consider any of the three sent out were any better than our old one, and he was under the impression that whichever we selected it would not have any effect on the judges. He regretted to say that some of the new men, who were coming to the front as judges were "going the way of all flesh," and he doubted very much whether several of the birds that were winning to-day were not 7in. in length. The secretary thought the best way was to have them measured, and if found to be over 6½in. to have them disqualified at the shows held under our rules. The discussion was continued by Mr. Clegg and others, and with a vote of thanks to the Chairman the meeting terminated.
J. RAYNES, Hon. Sec.

THE SHOWS.

GLASGOW & WEST OF SCOTLAND.

The first open show of the above society was held in the Drill Hall, Stirling Road, on Friday and Saturday, the 15th and 16th November. It proved a great success, the executive being rewarded by a bumping entry all round. Scotch and Belgian Fancies were not catered for. A Scotch show looks rather vacant without the bird of circle. Yorkshires and Cinnamons were a new venture in the programme (of shows in the West), and were under a specialist judge, and, on the whole, received a fair entry. Still, seeing that the prize money was high, it was naturally expected that these varieties would have turned out stronger than they really did. Some grand specimens were down from England. Mr. Bailey, of Yorkshire fame, judged these varieties, and his awards were well received all round. Norwich Plainheads were a superb collection, some real gems being staged, the quality throughout was of a very high order, and the judge had a very difficult task separating the various exhibits. It was late in the evening ere the judge got through his heavy task, and as he minutely weighed up every specimen, before awards, and as his entry was a climber, it was not expected he would finish till late. That go-ahead body, the Scottish Plainhead Club had allotted to them four classes, and they secured a bumping entry, many gems being staged, honours here were well distributed. This section was a show in itself, and the judge is to be highly complimented upon his splendid awards. We did not hear a single grumble. They were under the jurisdiction of that great Scottish breeder of Norwich, Mr. A. G. Cameron.

Crests and Crest-breds were a grand collection, the best that has been brought together this year. The Crests were grand, rare headed birds, beautifully groomed, and teeming with quality, but the Crest-breds were a superb collection. Mr. C. Campbell judged in his usual well-known style, and left little to be desired.

The Mules and Hybrids came up well. This section, on the whole, was grand, and exceedingly interesting to students of hybridism. Messrs. Parker Robinson, and J. H. Dewar judged, and their awards were considered highly satisfactory all round.

Borders were present in force, and no mistake. This gem of the Canary tribe has come to stay with a vengeance, and they always, as a rule, pay any exeentive who cater for them with good classifications. The coveted B.F.C. medal was secured by that well-known West of Scotland breeder, Mr. W. Haddow, of Hamilton, and right well did he uphold his stable's reputation. A gem all round, fine stamp, and grandly feathered, put down in masterly fashion, a picture of an all-round Border Fancy, upholding his reputation in the best of company that could be gathered together. Mr. Smellie, of Border Fancy fame, judged, and his awards were well received—no complaints, when we left, and not likely to be any.

British and Foreign were the show of the season, grand variety, large entries, and prizes well divided. Foreigners were grand, the Tanagers sent by Mr. Harrison being greatly admired, still, the class in this section was the Goldfinches, which contained some champions, the leader being a gem.

The hall is an ideal one for a show, but on this occasion the clerk of the weather took a turn, by giving a rather sharp, frosty morning, which caused a few of the birds to feel chilly, and they looked a little out of sorts, but later on they picked up all right. The management was all that could be desired, when such names as Messrs. Erskine, of British bird fame (Softbills), Craig (of Hardbills), Crawford of Nor. fame, Chalmers of ditto, and McLay of Crest-breds appear, fanciers have every faith in their birds being well looked after. The staging was splendid, but we thought some baize might have been hung at the back of the Borders, to keep them warm. Mr. Brown makes an ideal secretary, and was ably assisted by his stalwart assistant, Mr. M. Craig, who is a host in himself at any time. Glasgow societies rejoice in having grand presidents, and the West of Scotland have secured a worthy representative in Mr. Eastman, full of joke, combined with business, he did his best by supervising and conducting the show and visitors around their first venture. The committee are composed of genuine fanciers, who vied with one another to bring the show to a success. This being the West's first open show, the entry they received was beyond their expectations, and fully upheld the saying that Glasgow is an ideal place for an exhibition; the show should prove to be a financial success, as it was well patronised the first day by visitors and fanciers.

In conclusion, we should like to record one little grumble. Despite the assistance we had rendered the show beforehand, our representative was not allowed to hang up any bills inside, owing to a monopoly granted to another firm. Societies cannot exist without being given fair play, or without offering fair play to others. So let the committee of the Glasgow and West of Scotland bear this in mind. The office bearers are as follows:—President, Mr. R. Eastman; Vice-President, Mr. W. Abercrombie; Treasurer, Mr. J. Ferguson; Assistant Secretary, Mr. M. Craig; Secretary, Mr. J. Brown; Committee, Messrs. McLay, Henderson, Easton, Erskine, Ward, Chalmers, Brown, Whitelaw, M'Phail, Thaw, M'Callum, Sloan, Scott, Young, Griffiths, Reil, Brown, Crawford, Graham, Gibb, J. Graham, Paterson, Smith, Tannock, Simpson, Thomson, Watson, Heudry, Taylor.

The Norwich Plainhead Classes.

That coveted special, a handsome cup, presented by Mr. M. Craig, assistant secretary, for most points gained in classes 1 to 47 (to be won outright), was secured by Mr. E. Godley, with 56 points, in Canary sections only. The special prize of 10s. for the runner up was won by Mr. H. Bennett, of Kelso, with 47 points, in the Border classes. Open miniature goblet presented by Mr. Ramsden, for be t-fed bird moulted on Ramsden's pine pepper, was won by Mr. Ireland with his unflighted yell. ck. (out of tickets), best coloured The gold enamelled medal, for the best Norwich Plainhead shown by a member, was won by Mr. J. Sandiford, with a yell. hen of grand size, a perfect bouncer, and a blaze of colour. The Association are to be congratulated on this, their first open show for 14 years. Every care and attention was bestowed on the exhibits. CL. OR TICK YELL. CK. CAMBRIDGE.

Cambridge C.B.S. held their Sixth Annual Open Show on November 12th in the Corn Exchange, one of the finest halls in the Kingdom for a show, having a grand top light so that every exhibit could be seen to advantage. It is also kept at a nice temperature being filled with hot water pipes. The Secretary, Mr. T. S. Moore, is an ideal hard working manager, and his committee are thorough fanciers; every attention was paid to the exhibits under their care. The show was held under the patronage of the B.H. and M.C., and the C.C.C.; consequently it brought together birds of exceptional merit, especially in the Crest and Crestbred classes. Norwich were also numerically strong and some grand specimens were to be seen cardless, having met their superiors. The 21/- special for best current year Crest or Crestbred was won by Mr. C. L. Quinton with his grand crested hen; special value, 5/-, Mr. J. Tyson, best Crest. Another special value, 5/-, Mr. A. E. Brookes. Novice: 5/- cash, same conditions, Mr. J. Mason, for best Crest; 5/- cash for best Crestbred, won by Mrs. E. L. A. Crow; silver challenge cup for best young Canary shown by a member, also silver medal, Mr. W. Linsey. Hyde's special was won by Mr. J. Blackie; Ramsden's medal by Messrs. Symonds and Son, and Sandiford's by Mr. G. Cooper. CAGE BIRDS Competition, won by Mr. A. E. Brooks, with his winning Crestbred; 6/- cash won by Mr. J. Hampshire, pair of Lizards; 4/- cash won by Mr. E. S. Lugg, with his young yellow Norwich. 1st, most points in show, Mr. A. E. Brooks; 2nd most points, Mr. W. Linsey; 3rd, Mr. H. Riding. For most points in Open Canary Section, Mr. A. E. Brooks, Cambridge; Brit., Mr. C. Prior; and Local, Mr. W. Linsey; 2nd, local, Mr. E. Smith; 3rd, Mr. A. E. Brooks. For most points in the Local Novice Section, Mr. Skinner. Mr. J. Robson judged the Canary and Mule Section, and Mr. J. F. Hills the British, both having a heavy day's work. It would be well another year if the executive could see their way clear to appoint an extra judge for the Selling and Local classes, it being only a one-day's show. NOR. CL. YELL. MORPETH.

The Morpeth O.S. held their Sixth Annual Show on November 16 in the Town Hall, an ideal place, well lighted, nice and cosy and free from draughts. The morning was cold and frosty, and made a few birds appear a little thick, while about mid-day it rained in earnest, but we were pleased to note this had not kept the visiting public from putting in an appearance, as the gate proved a record, over £2 more than any previous year. This would come in handy to make up for the slight falling off in entries, principally caused by so many shows being held on the same date; also that they have cut down one or two classes this year. The President, Mr. Floyd, was present during the afternoon, looking well and smiling his best, as usual. They are fortunate in having a practical fancier to preside over their meetings, and are also happy in their selection of their vice-presidents, Messrs. Dixon, Grey, Aikinson and Marshal. Their chairman, Mr. Cowling, is also one of the right sort, we found him here, there and everywhere. Mr. Dippie is an ideal secretary, quiet, cool and with everything at his fingers' ends. He carried the work out well, and satisfactorily, everything passing off like clockwork. He was ably assisted by a hard-working committee. The quality of the exhibits was of a very high order all through, some outstanding specimens heading each class. Plainheads led the way, and found Mr. Cowling heading the list with a splendid team, which does great credit to him, as he is quite a young fancier. We were sorry to find our friend Mr. Grey's birds absent, as owing to some misunderstanding we heard he had severed his connection with the society, for this season, at least. Borders all over were of exceptional merit and the contest was very keen. The British section was small in numbers, but the quality was there, and no mistake. CAGE BIRDS Competition result:—1, Dippie, Border; 2, Seely; Cinn. Nor.; 3, Dippie, Border. Mr. Rowell won both cups for open and members' most points, which now become his own property. The judges, were Mr. W. Vardy (Hucknall), Norwich and Yorks., and Mr. Patterson (Chirnside), Borders and Varieties. Their awards seemed to give general satisfaction, no grumbling being heard.

CLUB REPORTS.

LLANELLY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held at headquarters, Nov. 16th. Councillor D. R. Jones, presided. Classification, patronages, etc., were the chief business, making a total of 76 classes, under patronage of Green C.A., Southern Yorkshire C.C., English and Welsh B.F.C.C., Border Fancy C.C., Welsh C.B.C., and British Roller C.C. Three new members were elected, Mr. T. Williams, 78, New Dock Road; Mr. R. Evans, 5, Sandy Gate Terrace; Mr. J. Williams, Dolan, Llanelly. J. SIKON, Sec.

WASHING EXHIBITION AT CLAPHAM.

Good muster of members of the Clapham and District Open C.B.A., assembled at headquarters on November 4th to witness a washing exhibition given by our chairman, that well-known all-round fancier, Mr. W. H. Vale. Four new members were nominated and six elected. Mr. Vale commenced his exhibition by placing the back of his left hand in the first bowl of hot water, remarking that in one could do that it was about the right temperature to commence with. The second bowl of water was rather cooler, while the third was nearly cold. He then made a good lather in the first water, and proceeded to wash the first bird—a Norwich—which had just come from an outdoor aviary. He placed the tail of bird on the edge of the bowl and proceeded to sponge with the lather, afterwards doing the back and neck, explaining at the same time that unless the neck were washed thoroughly clean, when the bird was dry the dirt would be most conspicuous. He turned the bird over and washed its chest, after which he paid attention to its head, first sponging the feathers towards the beak, and afterwards backwards. The bird was then rinsed in the second bowl of water, and sponged finally in the third. Mr. Vale wiped the bird for a minute or two in an old silk handkerchief that he always uses. The bird was then almost dry, hardly requiring to be wrapped up when put into the drying cage, the handkerchief being almost entirely wet. The second bird went through the same routine, and during the process we were told that in the last rinsing water many fanciers put a small quantity of glycerine in the water with a view to putting a gloss on the bird. Several questions were asked and answered, one in particular being the use of the shaving brush. This, the exhibitor said, he never used unless a bird were exceptionally dirty. In seconding a vote of thanks to Mr. Vale proposed by Mr. Maxwell, Mr. Yeoman related some of his experiences, causing much amusement at his own expense. Mr. Vale replied in a few well-chosen words. The remainder of the evening was taken up with a discussion on the proposed Federation. Our delegate, Mr. Yeoman, gave a detailed account of the proceedings of the last meeting. Upon Mr. Adamthwaite's amendment being explained and put to the vote, not a single member was in favour of it, consequently it was quashed. Our delegate was instructed to bring forward at the next Federation meeting this association amended definition of a novice, which is: "A novice is one who has not won three first prizes at one or more shows in novice members' classes"; "an amateur is one who has not won three first prizes at one or more shows in amateur members' classes." The meeting was brought to a late close after a vote of thanks to the chairman.—S. H. W. BARER, hon. sec.

LANCASHIRE CANARY ASSOC.

Meeting November 2nd at Rochdale Good Intent Show, when a large gathering of members took place, Mr. John Nadin (president) presiding. Mr. F. J. Green suggested giving medals for competition at future shows, having brought with him some splendid samples, one in particular, which had the standard model of a Coppy and Pilhead embossed thereon, being considered A1. The matter will come up for further consideration before the L.C.A. give their support another year, members present being unanimously of opinion that the medals will create more energy amongst the younger fanciers. Mr. Green also approached us with regard to the guaranteeing of a class at L.C.B.A. Show, but as we had already given our word to guarantee at Middleton, which is being held on the same date as the L.C.B.A., it was impossible for us so to do. The guarantee due to Rochdale O.S. was passed. It was decided to hold the next meeting at the Middleton Show at 6.30 p.m.—JAS. LAW, hon. sec.

BRIGHTON F. AND F.A.

Annual dinner, prize distribution and concert, held Nov. 7th, at headquarters, the Unicorn Hotel. A considerable number of members and friends sat down, the President, Mr. W. J. Golding occupying the chair. After dinner the concert, the best the Association has ever held, was proceeded with. The Canary Cup was presented to Mr. H. Frost by the President, who congratulated him on making it his own property. The Canary classes at the show were quite a feature, and it was universally declared to be the best show of Cage birds seen at the Queen of Watering Places, for many a long day. The success of the Association was proposed, and the Secretary in responding, mentioned that the year's work had been most successful, that the loss on the annual show had been greatly reduced, and that the Challenge Cup had been increased in value to over £50. He also mentioned that the cash balance had gone up. Hearty votes of thanks to the President, artistes, etc., terminated a very pleasant evening.

WASHING COMPETITION AT BRADFORD EAST O.S.

A good muster of 42 fanciers assembled at Park Chapel Schools on November 5th, to witness a Washing Exhibition by Mr. W. A. Cowgill, the well-known Yorkshire judge. The proceedings were watched with keen interest all through and many questions were asked, to which Mr. Cowgill answered with satisfaction. Mr. Cowgill uses three bowls of water, and three Badger hair brushes. He puts nothing in the water, although, if the water he said, were hard, he would use a little borax in the first tot. One interesting wrinkle was that before proceeding to wash the bird, he dips his finger in the lather and rubs it over the feathers at top of the beak, a place that has always a tendency to show dirt; this softens it while he is washing the body, etc., so that the head does not require so much rubbing. He afterwards wraps the bird in one cloth and puts it before the fire for twenty minutes to dry. Mr. Cowgill put three birds through in a remarkably short space of time Mr. W. Laycock, a novice member of the Society, volunteered to put one through the wash. This being only the third bird he has washed, he made a champion effort, and one that was appreciated by the company. Mr. W. Cruise then put the last bird through, in somewhat the same manner as Mr. Cowgill had done previously, taking the opportunity, while the birds were drying, to propose a vote of thanks to Mr. Cowgill, which Mr. G. White seconded. Mr. A. Holden, secretary of Gt. Horton Good Intent, supported on behalf of the visitors, and the vote on being put to the meeting was carried with loud acclamation. Mr. Cowgill suitably responded to the vote of thanks, and this brought a most instructive meeting to a close.—H. HILL, Secretary.

SINGING CONTESTS.

LEEDS.

Weekly quality Linnet singing contest held at King's Head; 17 of the best birds sung for three good prizes. Owing to the dark weather there was a poor attendance of birds, but very good singing was given before a crowded house. 1st prize, F. Galley; 2nd and 3rd shared between J. Nicholls and T. Stead. Judges, T. Crane and C. Cooper.—T. SUTHERS, hon. sec.

YORK.

Weekly contest at the Brown Inn, North Street, when 71 birds were hung up in pairs to sing for five good prizes, given by Mr. J. Smith. Some very good quality singing was heard before an excellent company. 1st prize, J. Stothard; 2nd, A. Watson; 3rd, W. Wilson; 4th, M. Smith; 5th, T. Lambert. Mr. Perry kindly officiated as judge, and Mr. Mason as timekeeper, both giving every satisfaction. J. SMITH.

Mr. D. Jenkins' winning Buff Border Fancy at Swansea Show, has now, we hear, won fifteen first and special prizes.

Splendid specials at Weyhridge. Fanciers should communicate with the sec., H. E. Parrott, Grove Place.—(Advt.)

I have removed from 22, Manchester Road, Hyde to 73, Mansfield Street, Ashton-under-Lyne, writes Mr. Harry Foden.

Owing to scarcity of entries at Folkestone Show, they will be accepted till 25th inst., writes Mr J. W. Gambrill, the hon. sec.

Leamington Show report credits Loden with 1st, 3rd, and vhc, writes Mr. A. J. Soden; it should read Soden, myself being the winner.

The commission on the sale of exhibits at the London and Counties Show held last week was, we hear, sufficient to pay the judges' fees.

It was I who won 3, 4, vhc, hc in the British at South-West London Show, not Slade as reported, writes Mr. R. McLaughlin, Earlsfield.

Weston-super-Mare Show: Foreign vhc should have been myself, with a Siberian Goldfinch, and not Jones, writes Mr. J. J. Brain, Glastonbury.

We have engaged Mr. E. Hawthorn (Llandrindod Wells), to judge Rollers at Llanelly Show on January 14th, writes Mr. J. Simon the sec.

I have read CAGE BIRDS this last two years, and it is the best in the market, writes Mr. J. T. Carrick, hon. sec. Jarrow and Dist. C.B.F.S.

The new society in Coventry, writes Mr. G. Turrell, hon. sec. of the Coventry C.S., is not composed of, neither does it include any members of the C.C.S.

If the subscriber who sent us 3d. for a plate of Norwich Canaries will also send us his name and address, we shall be pleased to complete his order by return.

My address in future will be Sessay Wood, Pilmore, York, writes Mr. Thomas E. Nicholson, late of Hesk. I hope to show later when I get my aviary into working order.

I won 1st and special in Buff Green Yorkshires at Warrington Show, writes Mr. P. Clayton, Halifax, but owing to a mistake in catalogue it was accredited to Mr. Moss.

Fanciers should not forget Derby's Jubilee Show, writes Mr. W. H. Bamsey, the hon. sec. Entries are very short indeed, and I will accept to next Saturday's post, November 23rd.

I have pleasure in acknowledging receipt of Coupon Prize won by me, writes Mr. C. Osborn (Winston). My only wonder is that far more do not go in for your scheme.

Entries total 424, writes Mr. V. Wynn, hon. sec. of the City and Suburban Show, including nearly 130 British birds, so that we look like having a very representative display.

I am shipping Canaries to Toronto, Canada, this week through my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. J. Taylor, Bradford. This speaks well, he says, for its circulation abroad.

It may be interesting for you to learn that my Goldie, vhc Palace, was sold to a man at the West Coast of Africa from report given in your paper, writes Mr. J. Kershaw, Llanrwst.

We have received an advertisement offering to exchange two pairs of Canaries for fowls, but the sender unfortunately omits to attach his name and address. Will he kindly rectify the omission?

Kindly thank all those who answered my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. H. S. Denny, Burton-on-Trent. They were too numerous for me to answer. I had replies from all over the place.

Exhibitors at our last show and at Bramley, Chesterfield and Hoyland this year, writes Mr. J. C. Hayes, sec. Rotherham Show, will receive schedules this week end. Hope fancy will give us a record entry.

We regret to learn that that old and respected fancier, Mr. J. North, was not well enough to keep his appointment to judge Gravesend Show this week. Mr. J. C. Wilmot (Bedford) was called upon to fill the vacant post. Fanciers will wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Frank Pearson and Mr. George Knowles, of Rotherham, have joined in partnership, and will exhibit in future as Pearson and Knowles, Rotherham.

The handing over of the prize money and specials won at the London and Counties A.C.B. Show on November 23th, is to be made (vide "Club Notices") the occasion of a social evening, to which friends are invited.

Entries will be accepted up to and including November 24th, for the Y.C.C. of Ireland Show, to be held on the 28th and 29th inst., writes Mr. W. C. Shol dice, the hon. sec. Any entries after 24th inst. will be too late for acceptance.

We are holding a two-day show instead of a one-day, writes Mr. T. Clegg, sec. Bradford (West) C.B.A., as we can have the schoolroom for December 20th and 21st, the school breaking up for the Christmas holidays on December 19th.

Mr. R. Moore, of Coxhoe, writes that he has had the pleasure of seeing a pure Albino Yellowhammer, a buff, and clear as any Norwich Canary, which was bred this year and now is in the possession of Mr. R. Kell, of West Cornforth.

Kindly thank all who replied to my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. W. H. West, Barnstaple. They were too numerous to reply to individually, which speaks highly of your paper. I have always had good results from CAGE BIRDS.

My birds arrived from Cambridge Show early the following morning, writes Mr. Geo. Francis, Lowestoft, properly packed (I sent them in brown paper), and looking fit for the next show. The committee, I think, are deserving of high praise for such promptitude.

Fanciers see the splendid classification at Jarrow First Annual Show and rally round and give us a bumper. Schedules ready; specials in every class, and additional specials, nearly all cash. Entries close 25th November. J. T. Carrick, sec., 44, Caledonian Road, Jarrow.—(Advt.)

I am neither a member nor an exhibitor, writes Mr. Cowper, therefore may he allowed to say how pleased I was at the excellent management seen at the Wakefield O.S. Show last week, which I attended. For a first show it was grand, and the officials deserve all praise.

Kindly thank all who answered my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. A. Weedner, Stourbridge, as I had so many replies that it is impossible to communicate with all. I had replies from all parts of the country, which shows that CAGE BIRDS is a very valuable paper to advertise in.

Arrangements have been made, writes Mr. G. T. H. Maggs, sec. Bristol Show, whereby birds entered for both our show on December 4th and 5th and the L.C.B.A. on December 6th and 7th, will be forwarded direct by early train, if exhibitors will send labels for the L.C.B.A. with their exhibits.

At the recent Glasgow Show the yellow Norwich hen shown by that well-known fancier, Mr. Sandiford, of Preston, secured the medal given by the Scottish Norwich Plainhead Club for best Norwich in the show, in addition to first prize. This makes the ninth first prize in succession that the bird has won.

Apropos of our recent reference to English-grown Canary seed, a correspondent, Mr. Wm. Simpson, of Londonderry, writes sending a sample of Canary seed gathered in that locality. It is a very fair seed, and our correspondent assures us that wild birds have been seen feeding on it all through the autumn.

Mr. J. C. Barnes wishes to heartily thank the many friends who have sent congratulations on his winning the challenge cup at Sheffield Show on November 8th and 9th outright (three years in succession). He thinks the latter fact no doubt accounts for so many fanciers sending along friendly expressions.

Messrs. Slade, Simmonds and Tyson have already won one of the 21s. specials of the Crested Canary Club, and therefore are not entitled to compete for any more during the current show season (ending with the Crystal Palace Show next February). There are still seven more in competition.—JOHN TYSON, sec.

There is a slight omission in your excellent and prompt report of the show of the Welsh National Cage Bird Society, writes Mr. Sciranac (London, S.W.). Your able reporter has taken note of my two Borders, 2nd and 4th in Class 29, but he does not give me the credit of ownership, and I am proud of my success in such high-class company. I cannot resist making a grateful allusion to the successful manner in which the Welsh National has evidently been managed, and is thus bound to secure the appreciated support of exhibitors in the future. As a matter of fact, my birds returned before I expected them, and as fresh as they left.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL

Price ONE SHILLING. Post Free 1/2.

Superbly illustrated by the Champion Canary Artist Mr. H. NORMAN. EVERY BIRD DEPICTED IS A VERITABLE MODEL, and shows the breeder what to aim for. Some idea of the popularity of this Practical Manual may be gathered from the fact that under the title of "The British Canary," it has passed its Third Edition, entering upon a Fourth Edition of 5,000 copies under the new title of "HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL." MR. HOUSE has thoroughly revised and brought this work up-to-date and incorporated a chapter on the "Roller or Singing Canary."

F. CARL, 154, Fleet St., London, EC.

The Derby "Jubilee" Show is to be opened on Tuesday, November 26th, at 2.15 p.m., by Mrs. H. H. Raphael, of Allestree Hall, the wife of the member for South Derbyshire.

Kindly thank all applicants for birds advertised last week, writes Mr. D. Pigg, Hemel Hempstead; they were very quickly sold. Have had to return money, and am unable to reply to all.

Our show on November 2nd, writes Mr. S. M. Clayton, secretary of the Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S., was a splendid one. Birds were cleared away by 8.30, and all prize money paid first post Monday.

An Ox-Eye (Great) Tit was exhibited at the recent Morpeth Show by Mr. Dippie, writes our representative, who informed me that he reared two of them under a Border hen. Many noted experts say this cannot be done; how does this fit in? Perhaps Mr. Dippie may favour readers with his method, also an account of how his friend brought up a Skylark under a Canary.

Kindly thank the officials of the Hucknall C.B.S. for the way they returned my exhibits from their show, writes Mr. Thos. Smith, Ilkeston, as I received them the same night and in the pink of condition. I also received my prize money on the Monday. It is a pleasure to show with these chaps, as they get things settled up so quickly.

It will be welcome news to the Novice members of the Cinnamon Canary Club that Mr. O. Handt (a new member) has placed the sum of £2 with the secretary in order to see a better entry of Cinnamons at the forthcoming Palace Show, and he proposes 20s., 12s., 8s., for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd most Novice points in Cinnamon classes, donor not competing.

Mr. John Wilson, of Workington, was for the second time returned at the head of the poll in the recent Town Council election. Mr. Wilson is a well-known exhibitor of British birds, having gained successes at many shows, including the Palace. He is a member of the N.B.B. and M.C., and judges the British and Foreign classes at the Cockermouth Show, on December 6th.

A treat for all lovers of birds will be the City and Suburban Society's Annual Show held to-day and to-morrow (November 22nd and 23rd), at the Church Institute, Paddington Street, off High Street, Marylebone, W. Easily accessible by rail, tube or motor-bus. Grand entry, both for numbers and quality, in Canaries, British and Foreign. Forget it, and you will regret it.—(Advt.)

At the recent Merthyr Show, that well-known local auctioneer, Mr. H. Seymour Berry, for the first time tempted the visitors to "bid up" for the selling and gift class exhibits. We are glad to learn that his efforts resulted in a goodly shower of the "golden eggs" the proverbial goose laid, which, doubtless, was more pleasing to all concerned than showers of the eggs of the barn-door fowl, however "goodly" they might have been.

I received cheque safely and beg to thank you, writes Mr. H. S. Davies (Llandilo). I feel pleased at having won the Foreign Birds Essay Competition. It came to me as a perfect surprise, as I did not think of winning, but simply set down my own experiences, thinking that they might prove a little useful to some novice friends. I can certainly tell you that had I known two such well-known experts as Messrs. Townsend and Finn were going to adjudicate on the essays I would certainly have thought more than once before sending. My sole intentions were to help other young fanciers, as I have been helped by our worthy friend CAGE BIRDS in the past.

A Wonderful Linnet.

I am sorry to report the death of my old favourite Linnet, which took place last Sunday, writes Mr. Geo. P. Pickering. I had him caged 21 years and 11 months.

Hybrid "No-Eggers."

Kindly accept thanks for giving my Canary-Bullie a place on the frontispiece of CAGE BIRDS, writes Mrs. M. H. Askham, Surbiton. I was very pleased to see her picture. It may interest you to hear my birds are samples of what can be done without any kind of egg food, for my birds have never tasted it.

Famous Fieldfare Changes Hands

I have disposed of my Fieldfare to Messrs. A. and W. Sinton, of Jedburgh, writes Mr. G. McWilliam, of Carlisle. It is just like parting with one of the family. I hope he may be as successful in his new home as he has been in the five years during which I have been exhibiting him.

Crests at Nottingham.

Mr. W. E. Greeves (Wrentham) writes: As always was, Crests and Crest-Breds at Nottingham were of the first order, and the best in the country. To win there is a guarantee to win anywhere. Although not so large in numbers as formerly, or rather the last two years, the high standard of Nottingham was the same.

Ormskirk Surprises Us.

Mr. T. H. Tiffen, hon. sec. Ormskirk and Dis. C.B.S., sends us the following cutting from the "Ormskirk Advertiser": A Canary (of the clear Norwich breed), belonging to Mr. Jeremiah Pooles, of the Union Workhouse, Ormskirk, is now about to hatch its twelfth sitting of eggs, within twelve months. The eleven previous sittings have produced forty-five birds, and so far not a single egg has proved unfertile. Such a record must be a remarkable one in the feathered world, at least so far as cage birds are concerned, and naturally the bird in question has been the object of much interest amongst local Canary fanciers.

The Management of the Birdroom.

Lecture before the Pendleton and Salford O.S., Oct. 14th.

By W. A. BLADON.

In these enlightened days, when so many people are writing on all sorts of subjects and on matters relating to birds, continually brought before us by the Fancy papers, I find it very difficult to put together anything which will prove either instructive or interesting; but inasmuch as the subject for our consideration is of the utmost importance to the well-being of our feathered pets, I venture to bring before your notice a few simple things that are necessary to fanciers who have a real desire to keep their stock in good health and condition.

What to Avoid.

I am of opinion that 9 out of every 10 of the ailments our Canaries are subject to, arise from the neglect to abide by, or the ignorance of a few simple rules which I think only want to be more widely known to be universally followed, and the observance of which will often save the lives of birds which have perhaps cost their owners many pounds of hard cash and many years of intelligent breeding.

Some years ago a writer in one of the Fancy papers said: It is curious, but it is true, that it is not always or even most often the novice that offends against the simplest laws of hygiene, but often those breeders of long standing, who have been at the game for many years, and who know how to produce winners. They are exceedingly careless in their management, and don't seem to care two straws whether their gems come from a clean room, well arranged and ventilated and fitted with well-made cages or not. No one need have a badly made cage, nor need his birds come from a dirty, unhealthy place, full of draughts, and fitted with cages which are inches deep in a sort of composition of dirt, husks, and mouldy egg-food. Can birds be expected to be healthy in a room of this description? They would if kept under such conditions be swarming with insects.

I have been in rooms where the birds have been A1, but where everything else have been less than 5th rate. A hasty glance at the birds has been quite sufficient to make one glad to get out of the room, aye, and out of the house, for you can smell some folks' bird-rooms at the front door.

There is nothing more horrible to me than to see the water, that some of the poor birds have to drink. I have been in some rooms where seeds have actually germinated in the water; it has been so long unchanged. The water ought to be frequently changed.

It costs nothing to keep the room right. To my mind birds lose half their charms if kept in a badly ordered room. But on the other hand, if you keep the cages and surroundings clean, they are always charming and a treat to behold. This class of breeders to which I have referred, scoff at modern ideas about health, and well boast that they can clean out their birds in ten minutes, where a careful man takes an hour. But, depend upon it, sooner or later outraged Nature takes the law into her own hands and produces a fever, or some other dire disease, and before anything can be done, the room is cleared out.

What to Do.

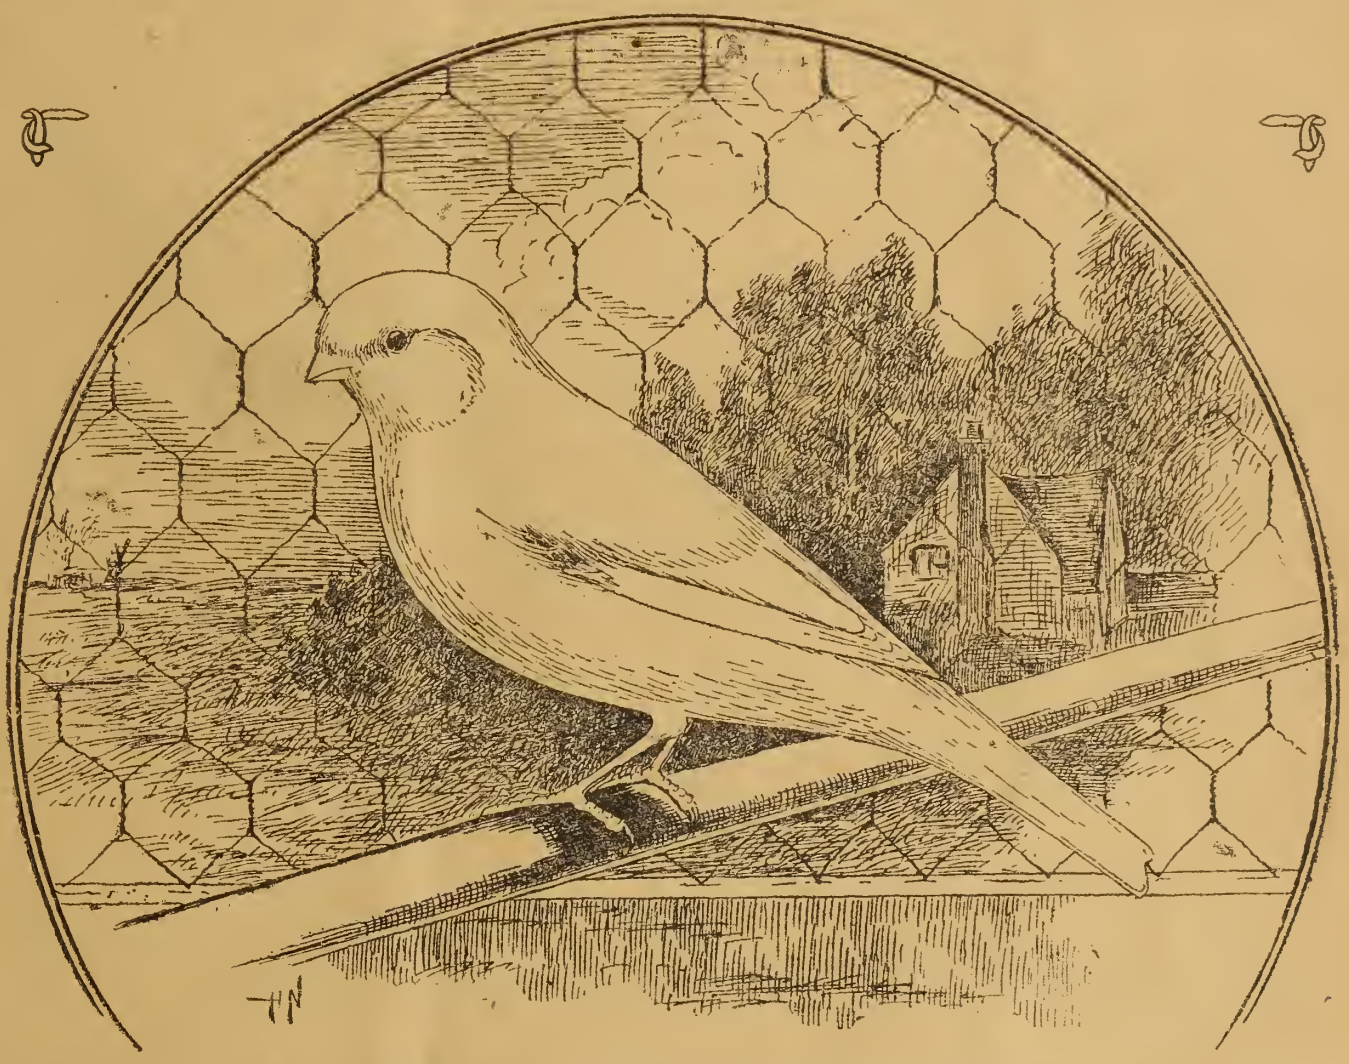
I would like you to particularly remember three things: The first essential in any bird-room, which has the slightest pretence to being well regulated, is absolute cleanness. The second essential is a good supply of pure water and good seed; and the last, but no means least essential, is a good system of ventilation, with an immunity from draughts, the most fatal of all conditions.

I will now endeavour to show how these essentials may be attained. In the first place, dirt most frequently arises from overcrowding, by which I do not necessarily mean too many birds for the room, but too many for the owner to give proper attention to. It is clear that if a man who has only time to attend to, say, five or six pairs of birds, insists on keeping double the number, the birds must suffer, and the direct result will be a smaller average of young birds per pair.

It is not at all uncommon to hear complaints from breeders who, after beginning with perhaps two pairs and getting about eight or ten young from each pair, have gone in for six or eight pairs, and have found they could not manage more than an average of two or three per pair, the reason being that they only expended the same time on the eight or ten pairs that they previously devoted to two pairs. Therefore I strongly advise keeping rather fewer pairs than you have time for than too many.

Every fancier, of course, has his own way of attending to his birds, but everything should be so ordered as to make cleanliness as easy as possible. There should be no complications. Single cages are the easiest to manage, being disinfected if required.

How to Feed.



All seeds supplied to high-class birds must (not should) be of the very best. Canary seed should be of good size, plump, and sweet in taste; the small and red rape should be free from sharpness, and all seed should be carefully sifted before used. The seed hoppers must be emptied and cleaned every two days; it is surprising how soon dust accumulates in the hoppers if at all neglected. And the soft-food dishes should be frequently washed; a mere dry "wipe" is not sufficient.

When the breeding season is on, scrupulous cleanliness is even more essential, especially when young birds are about. Egg food must be given quite fresh as often as possible, and the dishes kept quite sweet and clean. Green food, of whatever kind, must be given dry and in small quantities at a time, and when giving fresh, take care to remove every particle of the last instalment that may be left about the cage, because if you don't, it is like getting a season ticket to diarrhoea, and a host of other troubles.

Water should be supplied in roomy glass vessels, not in closed-up fountains, which soon become foul, especially in warm weather. Fresh water must be given every day. Filling up glasses without emptying them first is a bad form of laziness, which will in time bring its own punishment. The water glasses should be washed in warm water at least twice a week, as they cannot be kept too clean. The water given to birds should not be too hard, and must be very sweet and pure.

One of the points which constitutes an integral part of a good bird-room, but a point which is lacking in the majority of rooms, is a good system of ventilation, without draught. The best way of securing this is undoubtedly by bringing in the fresh air either through the doorway or through a ventilator, low down in one of the walls, on the opposite side of the room to that nearest the cages, and carrying off the foul and heated air through the roof, where a place has been specially made for the purpose. This can always be arranged, but as by far the larger number of fanciers have to manage with a room in the house, and the landlord objects to having holes cut in his doors and walls, the ingenuity of the breeder has to be brought to bear upon this point. If there is a fireplace in the room, the front may be covered with ½in. netting, as this helps materially to keep the air pure. The rest must be managed by the window. A good plan is to replace one of the panes by a ventilator, with a two-sided cone outside to catch the currents of air, and a slide inside, made to open and shut. Or, if a sash-frame, a piece of wood 3in. wide fixed against the bottom rail of the lower sash; this will allow a current of air to pass between the meeting rails.

There must also be plenty of light, but the direct rays of the sun are not necessary or even beneficial; good roomy cages and a temperature that varies as little as possible go to make up a typical bird-room. Mr. Bladon, at the conclusion of his lecture, was asked a good many questions, which he answered with promptitude. A hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer brought the meeting to a close.

My Wryneck, and How I Treat It.

Practical Hints from a Practical Fancier.

By CHAS. BURROWS.

In writing these notes for readers of CAGE BIRDS—more especially for those who are just taking up the hobby of keeping Softbills—I intend to be plain. If I speak of the bird's leg I shall call it the leg, and so on, because I want to be of use to beginners.

My Own Beginning.

When I first started keeping British birds some years back now, I knew next to nothing concerning their requirements. I had to "sneak" my knowledge from one and the other—there was no CAGE BIRDS printed in those days. Neither, I must add, was the competition so keen at the shows, for any ordinary bird in good feather and condition could win, and we well know this is not so to-day.

A Mr. Smith of this town (Stratford-on-Avon) was in those days a most successful exhibitor of British Birds, and I never missed a chance of paying him visits—when he would have me. I well remember his speaking of "migratory fever" and the like, and wondering what it all meant! And often when looking at his aviary of bright-coloured Hardbills I would say to myself, "I will achieve the same as this yet." Well, and so I have.

Easily-kept Beauty.

Now for the Wryneck: it is a most beautiful bird, and quite easy to keep in comparison with some other smaller Softbills. My first Wryneck was hand-reared by myself, and the only one that lived out of a nest of five—because, I believe, I fed on hard-boiled egg and soaked ants' eggs. This food will not do. If anyone cares to rear this species from the nest, egg must not be given oftener than one day in five; it is "poison" to Wrynecks, old or young, given in large quantities.

To safely rear these birds you must visit the fields and gather the live ants' eggs from the ant-hills, which are plentiful at the time the young Wrynecks are ready to be taken. With these, and the help of any small insects you may come across, a few well-cleaned gentles and a little biscuit food, you will not loose a bird.

Childhood's Home and Food.

A wooden lard bucket is a splended thing to rear the nestlings in. Put a string net over the top, and cover the bottom with about two inches of coarse sawdust. As they get older, do away with the sawdust and give them the fine dry soil from the ant-hills, full of live ants and eggs. The birds will then soon be busy with their long tongues. Nothing beats the lard buckets to keep the youngsters in until quite able to find for themselves. Remember this point, however: they must be thinned out as they grow, leaving two only in each bucket.

The Budding Show Bird.

The next thing is to select out the largest and best marked bird, and give him special attention, with a view to making him into a show bird. There can be no question that this is the time to help him to grow—and it is only good food and attention that will do it. The same rule applies to Wrynecks as to all other birds: they must be kept clean. The live ants' eggs and the ants themselves will do wonders now. Give them in a tin, soil and all, just as collected. The bird will soon manage the sorting over, and enjoy it, too.

Mealworms, small beetles, and gentles will all be useful. Mealworms are expensive, so I use as few of them as possible. On the other hand I give gentles without stint; in fact, for 9 months out of the year my softbills have always gentles to go to. But these must be perfectly dry and clean.

Other live-foods my birds always have and enjoy are beetles and crickets. These you can get the year round. I have two beetle traps. One I place by an engine in a flour mill, and can always rely upon a supply from it of crickets and beetles. The other I have at a bakehouse, and with good results, too. Any baker will be glad to let you set your trap to catch his beetles, etc. There are always more small ones than large, and some very small. These I give to the Wrynecks, Redstarts, and the like, the larger ones going to a Shrike. The latter bird takes them in his claw and feeds like a Parrot.

You May Feel Too Chirpy.

Be sure and kill the crickets before you take them into the kitchen, or you will be "chirped" out of it! I know from experience. There are three months in the dead of winter when these beetles and crickets are most valuable. It is nearly everybody's aim to keep their Softbills as cheaply as possible through the winter, and I never use any of the ordinary stock food. I find it just as cheap my way, with the help of gentles, etc., and so much better. The Wryneck I feed on dry ants' eggs, just as purchased; but they are of the very best quality. When sending the bird to shows I always forward a supply with him, and a few gentles or mealworms. He is always in the best of condition on this food. The ants' eggs I get are a splendid sample.

Mr. Burrow's Well-known Winning Wryneck.

Troubles Surmounted and Not Surmounted.

A trouble met with in keeping Wrynecks is that as they get older, the top part of the beak grows over the bottom part, in the absence of the natural means for rubbing it off. A sure way of preventing this is to keep a piece of coarse sandpaper, about one inch wide, round each perch, close to the cage front, and fastened with small tacks underneath. The bird will then soon do the needful. But this means must be provided for it as soon as the overgrowth appears.

Another trouble, and one which up to now I have been unable to surmount, is the soft-moult Wrynecks are thrown into by sending them out to shows. They are at times in very warm show-rooms for two days, or thereabouts, and then have to make a long journey home in the cold. This does the mischief. As a result you find your bird dropping feathers when he has perhaps only a few months before fully moulted out.

The old bird may be easily caught when sitting on her nest, but not after the young are hatched. I know of one being caught off the nest and carried some distance to a farmhouse, where she went through the process of inspection by the whole household before being liberated. She returned to her nest, however, and hatched out the young. This nest was in an old railway sleeper used as a post and gone decayed down the middle. Just before the young birds were able to fly, they ran up and down the hole like so many rats.

Interesting Facts.

The Wryneck, during the spring and summer, is more often heard than seen, being of a shy nature. Anyone who has once heard its call-note will always know it again. Many times during this last summer I have heard the bird, but only on one occasion have I seen it.

The specimen I am showing this season is an extra good one, and as steady as a rock. Up to the present he has been little or no trouble, and always in tip-top condition. His wins are at follows: 1st and spl. Burnley, 1 and spl. Oxford, 1 and spl. Gloucester, 1 and spl. Stratford-on-Avon, 1, Chalfont St. Giles, 2nd Peterboro', 2nd Cannock, and 2nd Woodstock, all within a few weeks.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

THE GOLDEN ORIOLE.

The Golden Oriole belongs to a family of birds having many points of affinity with the Starlings, and with the Crows and Thrushes. The members of the family are mostly brilliantly clad, yellow and black and crimson and black being the prevailing tones. The Golden Oriole, as is conveyed by the name, rejoices in a beautiful suit of gold and black, to which bill and irides lend a touch of red. This pleasing colouration has its sad side, however, so far as the bird's connection with the British Isles is concerned, for it unquestionably constitutes its "death warrant" whenever it lands upon our shores—the unusual brilliance of the bird invariably leads to a charge of shot finding a lodging in its body, a result as deplorable as it is annoying to all true bird lovers. If it were not harassed and slaughtered as soon as seen, the Golden Oriole would, to all appearances, become one of our regular breeding birds. Indeed, that it has nested with us, in spite of persecution, the presence of immature specimens observed at odd times seems to clearly prove. O. Galbula is not unknown in most parts of England and Ireland, but is a very uncommon straggler into Scotland—to the Scilly Isles, and in Cornwall, it is a regular Spring visitor.

CANARY NOTES IN BRIEF.

By CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

We not infrequently hear of birds of the larger breeds becoming "groggy" after the moult. This is doubtless due to a certain extent to the system being overtaxed in producing their massive frames, perhaps on a diet which is more suitable for the production of "light-weight" varieties. These large varieties should invariably be fed more liberally with nourishing food during the period of growth than their small relatives. A larger proportion of rape should be added to the staple seed diet, or scalded rape may be given separately more frequently, and a little very coarse oatmeal, or rolled oats, or even a few short white oats given whole are also useful; and crushed groats and buckwheat is sometimes given as a little "extra," thrown in on the floor of the flights, and is doubtless of some value as a change. Exercise is an important item, and must not be overlooked. In these cases, again, cuttle-fish has a very decided value, as it provides a large amount of material for building up their massive frames. This method of treatment is infinitely better than having recourse to drug treatment. Still, when the weakness becomes apparent it is best to give a course of chemical food to help them temporarily over their trouble. But do not rely solely upon this as a permanent cure, but adapt the diet to the needs of the birds and pin your faith to that.

BIRDS BITING THEIR FLIGHTS.

A poor description this surely! Yet it will be sufficiently clear to those who have trouble with those badly-behaved Goldies, for it is these birds that are the offenders oftener, perhaps, than any other single species—who are constantly drawing the ends of their flights through the beak, until the extreme tip of the feathers become worn down to the shaft and twisted into a curl. Even when the web is not destroyed, it is curled and completely disfigured, so that it cannot always be made temporarily presentable by bathing and manipulation. In some cases it is due to the irritation set up by insects; in others it is the natural result of keeping an active and restless bird in too small a cage; while in practically all cases it soon develops into a habit that it is extremely difficult to eradicate.

As soon as one notices the habit beginning, the bird should be put into a fair-sized cage, a few short pieces of string being tied about the wires for it to unravel, and the tips of the flights smeared with something distasteful, but harmless, to the bird. Dipping the extreme tips in eucalyptus oil and then stroking as much away as will come off with the thumb and finger, is about the best thing I know, because most birds simply detest this oil. Its odour and taste are both very tenacious and lasting, so that it need only be applied about twice a week, and even if the bird consumed a trifling quantity it could do nothing but good. Neglect the habit at the beginning, and the best show bird may be utterly ruined

IMPERFECT FEATHERING.

Most fanciers have met with imperfect feathers at one time or another, which are popularly believed to be injured by red mite. They appear most prominently in the wings and tail and show very plainly when the new feathers are beginning to grow, having the appearance of being barred across the web with narrow dark streaks. If one of these feathers is held up to the light it will be seen that the web is imperfect, where these streaks occur, so that the light shows clearly through them. This probably first gave rise to the belief that they had been "nibbled" by mite. But it is doubtful whether this pest has anything to do with the feathers. The mite may indirectly help to produce them at times, but the chief cause is probably a chill, causing a check in the growth during the quill stage, or when the sheath is just peeling off the feathers. The bird's being weak and temporarily out of condition may also be a predisposing cause, and it is in this connection that red mite may play an indirect part in the matter, as these troublesome insects very soon drag a bird down in condition whilst the moult is in progress. Taking this chief cause in view, such feather should be fairly scarce this year, owing to the equable temperature that has mostly prevailed, and my experience is that they are not so common as usual. Of course, a bird that is badly affected is ruined for competition whilst they last, which under natural conditions would be until the succeeding moult. But either in the case of chills or weakness the remedy is obvious. The cause must be removed—chemical food is the best remedy for the weakly subjects—and then at the end of the moult the long feathers in the wings and tail may be carefully removed, when they will grow again in a perfect state. It goes without saying that this must be done, and the new feathers allowed to grow to maturity before the colour-food is discontinued.

Familiar Foreign Cage Birds for Beginners.

By FRANK FINN, B.A., F.Z.S., M.B.O.U.

I find I have been forgetting two delightful little birds, excellent both indoors and out—the Zebra Finch and the Bronze Mannikin. They are both very small—about Wren size—and the latter at first looks almost all black, except for some white below the breast. Closer inspection, however, will show the back to be dark brown, and reveal a green gloss in parts of the plumage. The sexes are alike, but the young are all light brown. Unlike other Mannikins, this species will breed well.

The Zebra Finch is, I believe, called in France the "Mandarin Sparrow," and somehow the name suits him, although he is Australian, and not Chinese. The gay patchwork style of his plumage and his lively self-assertiveness, suggest it at once. The general plumage is grey, with the bill and feet red, and some black and white bars at the root of the tail; but the cock's cheeks are bright orange, and he has a finely-pencilled breast and a chocolate band mottled with white along the sides. This bird breeds as freely in an outdoor aviary as the wild Sparrows do outside.

What's in a Name?

Another free breeder is a rather larger bird—the Cutthroat, sometimes called by the absurd name of Ribbon Finch by squeamish people. As the cock has a blood-red band from ear to ear, the sanguinary title commonly given is appropriate, however ghastly. The general plumage is of a light fawn, pencilled with black. The Cutthroat is rather a quarrelsome bird, and should not be kept along with small delicate Waxbills and so forth. In habits, like the Zebra Finch, it is rather Sparrow-like.

Curiously enough, few of the many Finches imported have any very close relationship with our British Finches or the Canary; but two of them come very near the latter bird—the Grey and Green Singing Finches. Both are very small, especially the latter, which is a little drab streaky creature with a wizened anemic look; but if you can pick out a cock, you get a very excellent songster. The Green Singing Finch is variegated with green and yellow, the hen being somewhat duller than the cock. It does not sing so well as the last, but is much more presentable.

The Solitary Softbill.

The Pekin Robin being, as I remarked some time back, the only really abundant softbill in the trade, this section does not call for much comment, and I have incidentally dealt with the treatment of this bird in the previous articles in this series. Two points, however, may be adverted in connection with this charming bird. The first is, that the idea that you cannot get any cock nowadays is incorrect; there are some to be picked up, but only about one in every four birds you buy, and the best way to sort them is to cage them all separately, when, if there are any cocks, they will soon sing in answer to the calls of their comrades.

The second point about the Pekin is that he is almost a certain homer, if he has a mate in captivity. You can let him out even in a London backgarden if you have a call-bird to lure him back, and you need not wait to let him learn the locality, as you have to do with pigeons. He knows his way about better than any bird of his size I know, and if this were more generally known the poor despised hens might find a sale as homers. In both sexes, however, this is a very pretty bird, with his coral bill, orange-streaked wings, and large mild black eyes. But when you decide to buy them, be early and avoid the crush. Most of our dealers let Pekins deteriorate sadly.

Parrots as Aviary Birds.

One does not often see the large Parrots treated as aviary birds, and it needs extra strong netting to keep them in. But as anyone may see who goes to the Zoo nowadays, they do remarkably well in aviaries. The species I should recommend to the beginner are the common Blue-fronted Amazon—the usual "Green Parrot"—and the even commoner grey and pink Rose-breasted Cockatoo or "Galah." Public park managers might well stock their aviaries with these, rather than with a lot of puffy, bad-bred domestic pigeons. Blue and yellow Macaws, by the way, have bred well in France in an aviary.

The Blithe Budgerigar.

Parrakeets, however, are the best of aviary birds, with their brilliant colours and active movements; besides which, so many breed well. The lively little Budgerigars are so well known as the fortune-telling birds that I am sure I need not describe them here. I may, however, mention that a yellow variety is now regularly bred and sold. Budgerigars are as hardy and prolific as sparrows. They need no nesting material, and the ordinary cocoa-nut husks are good nests for them. They are particularly jolly, lively birds, and the best of all aviary inmates.

The very common grey-headed Love Birds—of which the hen is all green, without the grey head, although similar in size—are not such nice birds, being wilder, more spiteful, and not nearly so ready to breed. Blue-winged Love Birds are nice little things, only the cock has blue on the wing, the hen being all green.

Some Common Parrakeets.

The Cockatiel—that pretty soft-grey Parrakeet with orange-red patches on the cheeks—comes next to the Budgerigar as a breeding bird. It has been known to lay even in a cage in a shop window. It is also an excellent bird for the aviary, as it is not spiteful like most Parrots. The hen is distinguished from the cock by her barred tail and duller head.

The Red Rump is a Parrakeet of rather smaller size, and with very different colouring; the male, green with a red patch on the back; the female, drab. This also breeds well, as does the gorgeous Rosella, as big as a Dove, and coloured red, green, blue, yellow, black, and white, both sexes being thus attired. Here is a bird well worth breeding and taking into the Fancy. It is not only handsome, but may with patience learn to talk.

Doves and Pheasants:

So far, our old friend the common collared Dove holds the field in this department, and, personally, I like him the best of all. The species is delicately coloured and graceful in form, with a pretty note. As for breeding, the great difficulty is to stop it. The only other dove really common is the barred Zebra Dove, much smaller, and a bird with very few recommendations, in my opinion. Doves are, of course, seed-eaters, and need soft food.

Pheasants are taking us dangerously near poultry; but I cannot forbear winding up this short series without a recommendation of the golden bird, the most gorgeous creature in the world, and a nice aviary tenant. He will live mostly on the floor, and pick up spilled seed, though, of course, he should have corn as well. If you want to get such a bird cheap, buy a few eggs and set them under a tame bantam, and you will have the satisfaction of rearing your own stock.

A RARE EXHIBIT.

The King Bird of Paradise.

Exhibited by Mrs. De Von at Luton, Watford, and Cambridge Shows, winning three firsts and many Specials. It is said to be the first time a Bird of Paradise has been seen on the show bench.

A SUCCESSFUL YORKSHIRE SOCIETY.

BRADFORD (EAST) O.S.

The idea of holding an open show for this year was dropped altogether so as to give the members, many of whom had never been in a cage bird society before, a chance of learning a few of the wrinkles it is necessary to know before launching out into keen competition. In this respect the officials are to be congratulated on their efforts, for it was quite evident at the last show that some of the members had benefited by the lectures, etc., given by prominent breeders and exhibitors. A series of five shows was arranged, and the president kindly consented to give two gold medals, one each for Champion and Novice Sections, and also a nice donation towards the money specials. This, with the generosity of Mr. A. Farrar, who made a present of a gold medal, another medal from the Society, and £4 in money specials, gave the members a splendid send-off. The competition has been decidedly keen so far, especially among the novices, and some rare sport has been witnessed.

The entries for the three shows that have been held so far, average just over 77 birds per show, not a bad start for a new society, and in all probability the next two shows will see more still, as both will very likely top the century. A remarkable feature about the last show was that in two of the classes the novices carried off premier honours. These shows have been very instructive to the members, and many of them have shown good progress in the exhibition of their birds.

For the social welfare of the members a few rambles to country places were arranged during the summer time, which proved very interesting to all those who took part in them, and this idea is one that will not have to drop, as the ladies had some very enjoyable outings, and are loud in their praises of the catering. Special mention must be made of the first ramble, as Mr. H. J. Chittenden accompanied us, and the information he gave us about wild birds made the outing all the more interesting. The members were so well suited with him, that we got a promise from him to open our winter syllabus of lectures on October 1st, with his experience with Hybrids and British Birds, a most fascinating lecture. Then again the number of members and friends (110) who went on the rambles was very encouraging. We look forward to increased interest in this respect; and another fact we must not lose sight of is they have done much towards paving the way for friendly intercourse. They have, indeed been a decided success, and I, for one am satisfied that they achieved results which might have otherwise have taken years to accomplish.

As for the more serious business that we have to face during the winter months, a suggestion was made that we should try and run a winter syllabus of lectures and social evenings during the winter session, and a sub-committee was formed, comprising the two vice-presidents and secretaries, to draw this up. The result has been splendid, and it only remains for the members to give the same support as they have done at all previous meetings, and they will have the satisfaction of writing success behind this feature as well.

The syllabus is a varied one and will take a lot of beating, as some of the most successful breeders and exhibitors are giving us the benefit of their experience in the cultivation of Canaries. Then there is a washing exhibition by one of our well-known Yorkshire judges; a smoking concert that will take a rather novel form; a judging competition; a washing competition; and last, but not least, a supper and concert in connection with which we are having the distribution of prizes, won at our members' show. The latter event we want to make a really successful affair, as it will mark the first milestone in the history of our society, a year's work which we have a right to be proud of. There will be a capital concert, and during the interval the prizes will be presented.

In concluding this article I should like, on behalf of the society, to thank all who have so willingly helped us in our efforts. Their ready help and interest have made it all so much easier for us. Perhaps at some time fortune will favour us with the opportunity of showing our approval of their efforts.

A large number of our members are new beginners in the Fancy, and that is one reason why we are making such a bold bid to interest them with arranging lectures, etc. They are coming forward splendidly, as each lecturer will admit who has been amongst us. The many questions and the deep interest taken in the lecturer's remarks, all augur well for the next upward move we shall make, namely: Affiliation to the Yorkshire Union of Cage Bird Societies. This will mean increased responsibilities in the general welfare of our society, but we look forward hopefully to that event, and although there are societies in it which have been together for years, we hope to rank alongside them and make one more strong link in the chain of unity that binds the great Union of Societies together.

I would also like to thank Cage Birds for the manner in which it has dealt with us, for its courtesy in dealing with our correspondence, and interest it has always shown in our proceedings. It demands the highest praise we can bestow. In return for this kindness, I hope members will patronise Cage Birds whenever they can do so, for I feel sure its staff take the deepest interest in all that appertains to the welfare of our feathered pets. May it live long and enjoy increasing prosperity is my sincere wish.—H. Hill.

AN AVIARY OF BIRDS OF PARADISE.

In the Zoo new bird-house they recently had no less than five species of Birds of Paradise, including hens as well as cocks of the little "King" bird. They all look like doing well; two, indeed, those kept in the insect house, have been there for years, and the others have been brought over under the care of that excellent avieulturist, Mr. Goodfellow. I saw the food which had been given to these in the cages they came in, and it consisted of biscuit or bread, egg, ants' eggs, dried flies, and fruit. They are really quite easy birds to keep.—

The Management of Some Rare Insectivorous British Birds.

By S. W. BIRCHLEY.

Having received a number of queries lately from one part of the British Isles and another, and feeling I cannot do too much to encourage this most fascinating hobby, I have come to the conclusion that to write a few lines in our paper, CAGE BIRDS, will be my wisest plan, as the matter can then be kept and referred to from time to time if required.

Their Superiority Upheld.

For the life of me I cannot think how it is so many ardent fanciers ignore the beautiful insectivorous birds, and go in for "Hardbills" in preference, for where "Hardbills" have only one thing in their favour (viz: they are more hardy generally), the "Softbills" are far more fascinating, more docile, and more beautiful to look upon. Out of the 537 applications I had for my birds (when I was compelled to relinquish the Fancy through removal), not a quarter of them were applications or enquiries for the beautiful species I am dealing with.

Why this is, I cannot say, as there is no getting away from the fact that the "softbilled birds" at any show are the whole and sole attraction. And mind you, they are in those cases attractive to the rank outsider, who in all probability cannot tell the difference between a Stonechat and a Robin. In my poor opinion the reason for the popularity of the Softbill birds is their delightful movements from perch to perch, their great silkiness of feather, and last, but not in any way least, their magnificent colours. As far as I am concerned, I would lay myself out to do anything in my power to further the exhibiting of these delightful pets, and if anything can be suggested which I am in a position to do, I shall be only too delighted.

I have made a life-long study of these birds in their wild state, and have never regretted—or shall regret—the hours spent in quest of the haunts and foods of these species. Can any reader tell me that the song of the Hardbill is to be compared with the delightful little chorus that comes from the Lark, the Meadow Pipit, and the Nightingale, and others?

No end of fanciers have said to me, Your birds are beautiful; how do you keep them in such a condition? Well, the whole fact is this, it is astounding what you can do if you only try, and when once you have "got your hand in," if you do not forsake your Hardbills you certainly will not forsake your Softbills.

I run round my birds (I have nearly 70 all told) in a remarkably short space of time. How is this? you ask. Because I have got quite used to the job; it works like clockwork! Exactly, the same thing applies to others, and I find them very little, if any, more trouble than Hardbills. I openly admit that their menu is, perhaps, more varied, and costs a little more. But what of that, if you are winning sufficient to pay for their keep?—which you should have no difficulty in doing if you have a few at first, and keep them in perfect condition.

Advice to the Uninitiated.

I advise a beginner to start with such birds as the Redstart, Meadow Pipit, Tree Pipit, Wheatear, Lesser Whitethroat, Redbacked Shrike, Blackcap, etc. I mention these because they are cheapest to obtain and fairly easy to keep, and, withal, if they are good specimens of their respective species they will invariably be in the money; that is, of course, providing they are nicely staged and in good condition. I shall most earnestly watch the reports of the shows, and every fancier who tries his luck with these attractive little mites will have my hearty wishes for his success. Below I endeavour to give a few lines of instructions as to the feeding of almost every small Softbilled Britisher, from the Gold Crest to the Wryneck.

In the first place, the greater portion of these birds are migratory, they come here in the Spring of the year and leave in the fall. But what I particularly want to point out is the right time for obtaining your birds, viz., the Autumn—at any rate when the breeding season is over, as you will invariably find that birds caught in the Spring and Summer pine and die, they being at that time either in the midst of their matrimonial affairs, or at nest.

With regard to their mating off, place your bird in a gauze-fronted cage as long as possible, and with plenty of perches. Serve, say, a dozen live mealworms in a shallow vessel, and put water by the side of the food. If you find he does not eat the mealworms an hour after you have placed them in the cage, I should advise you to adopt this plan, viz.: Cut three or four mealworms in half, and by means of a pointed match stick, very carefully open the mandibles and place the pieces of mealworm (one at a time) as far back in the throat as possible, and allow the bird to swallow them. He will soon become reconciled to captivity. When once he is well on mealworms, make up a little soft food consisting of dried flies, ants' eggs, and biscuit, all of the best possible kind; add a little hard-boiled egg and grated raw carrot, and place in the cage with the mealworms on the top. You will find that by gradually reducing the number of mealworms he will slowly but surely take to this diet and keep a picture of health if properly attended to.

In watering your bird, you will find that by dipping the finger of the right hand in the water and just touching the side of the bill with it, the moisture of the mouth will draw the water in. This is the kindest way possible to administer it, as it does not make the bird pant as other methods do. I have caught and reared nearly sixty birds this summer, and have only lost three.

The Interesting Hoopoe.

Taking the Hoopoe as a cage bird, I really know no more interesting and beautiful bird among our larger species than this, although it is only very rarely seen in this country. Some countries are well favoured by its occasional visits, for one was shot at Cranham, a few miles from here, quite recently, and it has also been seen in the Forest of Dean, where it is reported to have bred. But how far this statement is true I cannot say. It is a thousand pities these rarer birds are destroyed by powder and shot. It seems to me that immediately they cross from the Continent to our shores, they are practically shadowed to their death.

I have kept one for several months, in perfect health, and was very loath to part with it at the time I disposed of my stock, for it was a very fine specimen, and one that had a great future before it on the "bench." It is very necessary that the tray of this cage should be deeper than that of the ordinary cage, so as to provide good depth of material for the bird to thrust its bills into; otherwise it will be likely to injure its bill when continuously hammering the bottom of the cage.

Some say that it is wise to give it its food under this material, but I cannot altogether hold with the argument, as the bulk, if not the whole, of the food is of a live nature; hence, if its owner is not a man of unlimited means, it becomes a most expensive bird to keep. I have experimented a good deal on my late charge, and after carefully watching the bird as regards health, I found nothing that would keep it so robust as "live food," viz., small earthworms, gentles, mealworms, etc. If given in a round tin, some 1½in. to 2in. deep, in the bottom of the cage, free from any covering, he would pick them up as he wanted them, give them a crack with his beak, and toss them up in the air and catch them far back in the throat . It is really wonderful that he never misses one; although I have watched him for half-an-hour at a time I have never known him to miss. I cannot record that I have ever seen this bird drink, but at the same time I don't think it is at all advisable to leave the bird without water, as it may be necessary at times for it to have some. One peculiar thing about the Hoopoe is the wonderful silkiness of its feathers, and although this bird will not bathe, he keeps himself in superb condition by continually wallowing in the sawdust or sand which lies at the bottom of his cage.

The stock cage should not be less than 30in. long by 18in. wide, and 27in. high, with perches half-way between top and bottom. Have no perches but the two centre ones, as he is a bird that loves to roam about a lot, and if other perches are in his way, he may damage his delicate plumage.

Another Rare Visitor.

Leaving the Hoopoe, I will next endeavour to give you a few lines on the Golden Oriole, which is also a rare bird in this country, although I have heard that one has been seen for two summers in succession at Minsterworth, about 5 miles from Gloucester. As to the correctness of this report, I cannot definitely speak, but this was made known to me by a gentleman who can be relied upon for accuracy. I have heard it said that it loses its beauty in confinement, but if properly catered for and kept clean, I really cannot hold that this argument will apply, as my specimen was probably 10 shades lighter when it left me than on the day when I purchased it (I openly admit I colour-fed it) and was then a beautiful colour

One thing I find the Oriole is subject to, if not carefully watched, and that is, swollen feet. Unless plenty of vegetable matter is placed at its disposal, it is sure to suffer more or less from this disease. With the exception that it is rather a dirty bird in the cage, I know nothing against it as a pet. I should strongly advise its keeper to clean its tray at least every two days, as it is apt to drag its tail when walking, and hence soil it if the cage is at all dirty.

One very peculiar thing I have noticed about this beautiful bird is that it is not an advocate of the bath, for although I have given it baths frequently, it did not seem to enjoy the thought of a tubbing, and had I kept him, I should have resorted to hand-washing, as I had to do with my Shrike, till I taught him the way to attend to his own toilet

As regards food, I found this bird very fond of all insect life, particularly mealworms, and he can be got very steady by offering them as a "tit-bit." As a staple food, you can hardly beat the ordinary Softbill mixture, but on no account forget the supply of fruits, such as ripe pears, bananas, strawberries, cherries, etc., in season.

The Great Grey Shrike.

Lastly, but not least, I will speak of the Great Grey Shrike, a bird I am particularly fond of, and the two I have had in my possession have been excellent specimens.

It will be noticed that the beautiful clear white and dense black are not perfect on the younger birds, but as they get older, so the colours get more pure. As a rule, a three-year-old bird is as pure as one can desire. I have heard and read that this bird is most difficult to steady, but for my own part I have found him just the reverse. The specimens I had proved to be most docile and quite fearless until it came to the "tubbing." This they did not like; but I persevered, and as a result they ultimately bathed themselves rather than be so treated by me.

The diet of this species should consist of practically all fresh meat, viz., small birds, mice, and a small portion of beef; too much of the last-named is apt to cause fits by the over-heating of the blood. When you are compelled to resort to such "big game" as Blackbirds, Thrushes, etc., I advise you to peg them on a nail (projecting out of the perch), as he cannot lift up such large bodies. I have read that the Shrike never holds his food in his claws. This I can flatly contradict, as not only the Great Grey Shrike, but also the Redbacked Shrike, are apt to do so, if they get something that is small enough to hold with comfort; for instance, a small mouse, or a bird's head, either of which they will hold in this way, as apparently to their mind it is too hard work to pull at the nail when they have such dainty morsels to deal with.

Truly marvellous is the quickness of the eye of this species. Try him with a live mouse, and before it is barely inside the cage, "Jack" has him by the scruff of the neck and he is dead in a "tick." You will need to keep the Shrike very clean, as, like the Oriole, he is apt to be dirty in his cage. Otherwise, I consider him as perfect a pet as one could desire to keep.

In concluding this article, I hope that anyone who endeavour to try their luck with these birds, will meet with ultimate success. I am hoping to commence again in the Fancy at an early date, when it will be my endeavour to succeed in placing on the show-bench such species as the Rose-coloured Pastor, Kingfisher, Dipper, etc.

HONOUR TO A GLASGOW BIRD LOVER.

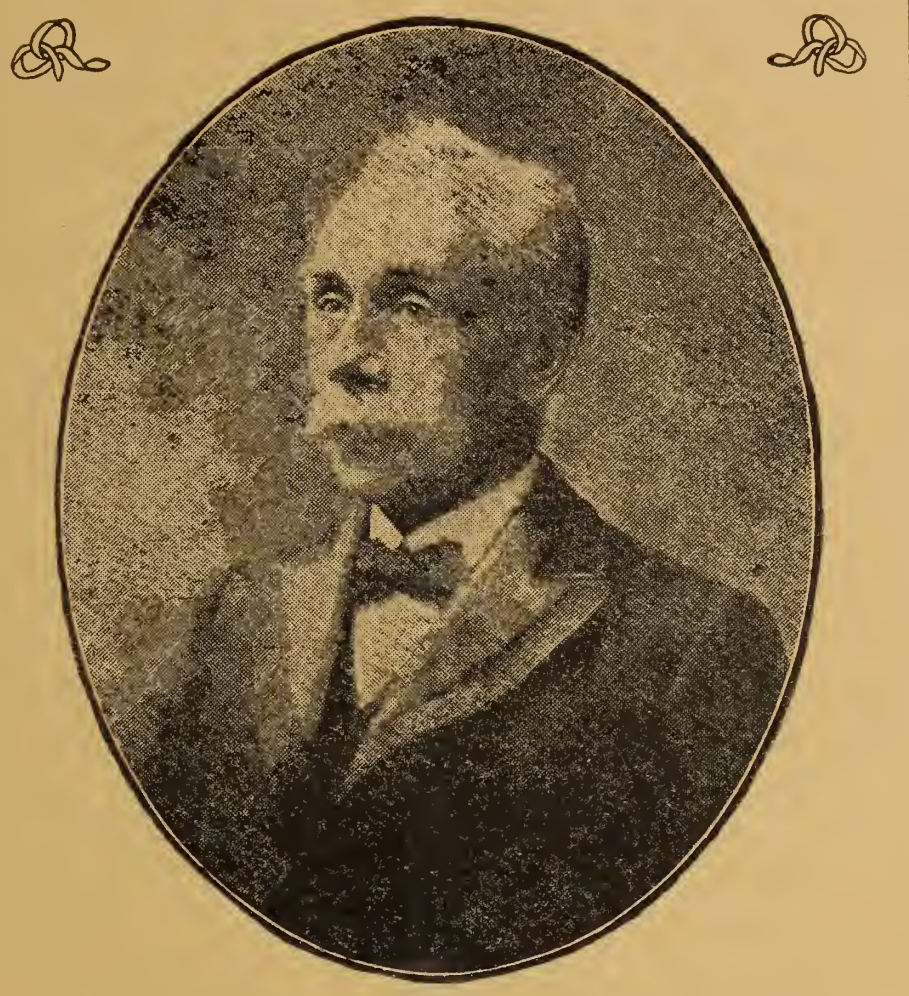
Presentation to Mr. T. Smith, Secretary of the Scotch Fancy National Derby O.A.

On November 15, the members and friends of the Scotch Fancy Canary National Derby O.A., met in the Bank Restaurant, Queen Street, Glasgow, and honoured their Secretary, Mr. T. Smith, by presenting him with an excellent likeness of himself, and a gold watch for his daughter (who acts as his housekeeper). Mr. R. Wright, the esteemed President, occupied the chair, and was supported by Mr. Hart, the Honorary President, Councillor Hogg and Mr. Renwick, Vice-Presidents, and Mr. Fleming, Secretary Southern Albert O.A. Mr. Maxwell (Falkirk), Mr. Strathcarn (Alloa), Mr. McClure (the noted breeder and prizewinner), Mr. Baxter, the well-known judge, and the guest of the evening.

The chairman apologised for not being up to the mark, having had an attack of influenza, and having sustained a shock in the passing away of his dear friend, Mr. H. Chalmers, of Greenock. He stated he could not, however, keep from appearing to honour his colleague, the Secretary, with whom he had stood side by side since the inception of the Open Derby.

Councillor Hogg, of Oakley, was called upon to make the presentation, which he did in admirable style, his speech being very neat and racy, and interspersed with lively anecdotes. He paid very high compliment to the manner in which Mr. Smith had discharged the duties of Secretary, having borne almost the whole weight and burden of the carrying on of the Association. Tracing the rise of the Society, he told of the "hue-and-cry" which years ago was heard all over the country about the decay of the Scotch fancy canary, and of the different state of things which now existed. He had greater opportunities than most men of gauging the failing of the fancy, and this year he had not heard a single remark as to decay; on the other hand it was "where can I buy a good Scotch fancy?" The demand greatly exceeded the supply, which he regarded as a most pleasing turn in the career of the Scotch fancy canary. He ascribed this pleasing state to the energy of their guest that evening, who not only conducted the affairs of the Derby, but was very ready with his pen to help the fancy at large. Mr. Hogg closed by paying a high tribute to Mr. Smith, who had done the work without pay or fee, and therefore it was right and proper that he (Mr. Smith) should be recognised. He felt sure that Mr. Smith would be pleased with the portrait, and that his family would prize it as a heirloom. He then gracefully handed over the picture with his best wishes of the donors, and the hope that Mr. Smith would be long spared to look upon it.

Mr. Smith in reply said:



Mr. Chairman, Councillor Hogg, and gentlemen, I am overwhelmed with all the kind things that have been said. To be honoured by any association is a great thing, but to be honoured a second time within the space of four short years is in my opinion far too great a kindness to shower upon any one individual. Had my feelings willed it we should not have been here, but I had to bow to the stronger will of your committee—they would not listen to any words of mine—and I am here a pressed victim of your boundless generosity. I have not distinguished myself sufficiently to justify such a handsome portrait; the only reason is that I have endeavoured in my humble way to carry out the duties of Secretary and Treasurer. Ten years ago several gentlemen realising the danger in which the Scotch fancy Canary stood, came to the conclusion that an aid to the preserving and developing of that noble bird, which has been brought to its present perfect state by much care and thought, would be to bring about a show of young Scotch fancy canaries at the opening of the show season. Accordingly, to our worthy friends you owe far more than to me; I refer to our Honorary President, Mr. Hart; the President, Mr. Wright; and the Vice-president, Councillor Hogg; and others. This work was entered upon earnestly, and as the outcome we had on the 21st September last, the largest and finest collection of young Scotch fancy Canaries ever brought together. The success of that day was in itself ample reward for services rendered.

Judges sometimes make a mistake, but I do not recollect this at the National Derby Show. I think that is the chief cause why we have had an agreeable and contented membership. Our membership in Scotland covers a wide area. The Executive have always done their utmost to run the Show on sound lines. The Scotch fancy canary has passed through a crisis, particularly in the exhibition world, but there are the fullest signs of its survival.

It is not the production of good birds and the adding of members that will keep our favourite cage bird alive, but bringing to the annual show the product of our labours—each member doing his utmost to further the best interests of the Association.

Since December, 1903, as I have taken the time recorded on this beautiful gold watch, I have been reminded of your kindness, and as I shall daily come into contact with this speaking likeness, I shall be doubly reminded of the generosity of a wide circle of friends; and so long as I am spared I shall highly prize these treasures. The handsome gifts are endeared most of all by the kindly feeling behind them. I sincerely thank the donors and friends who have contributed to this red-letter day in my life, and I recognise in it a call to labour on—my experience is that work is not weariness, if work is loved.

Not content with what has been done, in your goodness you enhance the pleasure of this event by recognising my daughter. This beautiful watch will encourage her and help to reduce the little disputes we sometimes have as to the number of inmates of our home.

MR. THOMAS SMITH, Secretary Scotch Fancy National Derby O.A.

It is well-known that fanciers delight in being surrounded with company. I would have preferred Miss Smith to have come forward herself, but by your arrangement you have excluded the fair sex from the gathering.

On Miss Smith's behalf I have to thank the donors most sincerely for the very handsome present; it will be prized and treasured as her richest possession.

Mr. Fleming ably and eloquently proposed the toast of the visiting friends, coupled with the name of Mr. Fulton. Mr. Fulton said he was taken at a disadvantage. He had no knowledge of birds but having known Mr. Smith for thirty years, he had pleasure in testifying to the high esteem in which he was held by a large circle of friends. He gracefully returned thanks on behalf of visiting friends, whom he was pleased to say were enjoying themselves.

Mr. Porteous proposed the toast of the artists, Messrs. A. and G. Taylor, Sauchichall Street, and voiced the opinion of those present in saying it was a perfect likeness.

A most enjoyable evening was spent with song and sentiment, by Messrs. Cough, Baird, Donaldson, Einslie, Lantry, Muir and Joliffe, the meeting closing by the hearty singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and a cordial vote of thanks to the Chairman for the able manner in which he had presided. The success of the event was due to the indefatigable efforts of the joint secretaries, Councillor Hogg and Mr. Porteous, and was held to reflect every credit upon them.

Hints to Novice Exhibitors.

By J. C. BARNES.

Now that the show season is with us again, a few hints may be useful to novices with reference to various items which one must attend to minutely if success is to be attained on the show bench. Having had the privilege of visiting many shows during the winter months, observing at the same time the many errors made by new beginners, I wish to draw their attention to a few of the latter. Competition nowadays is so very keen that no stone should be left unturned towards achieving success—your motto should be: "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well."

Curled Neck Feathers.

First, I think most important of all is the washing of the birds for exhibition. I have often seen grand birds standing cardless because their toilet had been ill-done. In the majority of cases, I have noticed that the neck feathers have been either curled or very rough in appearance. This is brought about by the fancier holding his fingers too tightly round the neck of the bird when washing, and when neck feathers are once disarranged in this manner, it takes a deal of rectifying.

When tubbing your birds, therefore, take heed. Hold the bird firmly by the body, but not so tightly as to injure it. Keep the neck as free from pressure as possible. A bird that has its neck feathers curled is a kind of eye-sore, and stands a very remote chance in decent competition. Birds should be washed at least 5 days before being shown.

Soap and Bathing.

Another mistake often made by the beginner is to leave a certain amount of soap in the bird's plumage, and by so doing to cause the feather to appear some what elogged and wavy, spoiling the finish of the bird. After you have washed your birds, do not be afraid to rinse them well with fresh clean water; it will not hurt them, providing you allow them breathing space.

It is always advisable to spray the birds every morning previous to the show day, as this assists in clearing away any soap that might possibly have been left in the feather; it also acts as a conditioner.

Many birds appear slack and rough about the thighs. In most cases this can be made right by the bath, the pan being hung to the cage front. Bathing is a conditioner and a tightener, and the amount of good resulting will repay you for your trouble.

On Acquiring Condition.

It is the usual thing to assist Nature somewhat with exhibition birds, in order to secure that high condition necessary for the show bench.

Some fanciers favour solids, others liquids. A little maw seed mixed with the ordinary egg and bread, or egg and biscuit, at the rate of half a teaspoonful per bird every day, is most useful. Another recipe, which I can strongly recommend, is as follows: 1 gill best port wine, ½lb. honey, and ½oz. citrate of iron and ammonia. Place the wine in a saucepan, heat it, and put in the honey; stir well until dissolved, and then add the citrate of iron and ammonia. Mix well together, and see that all the citrate has dissolved. When cool you can bottle up, corking well; it is then ready for use at any time.

I give this mixture in the following manner: To the ordinary egg-food add just enough to make some fairly moist, but not over-wet. To each bird give half a teaspoonful every other day. The wine is strengthening, and the citrate stimulating, the honey acting nicely on the bowels. You can give this with every faith, and you will find that, when the birds have been treated to this tit-bit for a short time, they will appear in the best possible trim. It can be given to all varieties of birds with equal advantage. It is not fattening, so that such birds as Yorkshires, which are required to be kept slim, will take no harm from it whatever. I have used this mixture for a long period now, and find it most efficacious.

Concerning Dirty Cages.

Dirty cages tell very much against a show bird. I fancy I can hear someone say: "Oh, it's not the cage they judge; it's the bird." That is all well and good. At the same time, if you were to have two birds of equal merit before you, one in a nice clean cage, with clean perches, etc., and the other in a dirty, neglected cage, with soiled perches and the like, which, think you, would have the preference? Most certainly the one that appeared clean; hence my warning against dirty cages.

Good birds deserve good cages, and even inferior birds look better when staged well. A man who has quality specimens and stages then in a lackadaisical style, reaps a poor reward (for which he is not to be pitied). Stage your birds well, it will pay you.

The fixing of cage labels is an item over which there should be more uniformity. I have seen labels fastened to cages in all manner of ways; some tied on the top, others on the right side, others on the left, etc. The best way is (say you are showing Yorkshires), on the top wire of the cage over the waterhole. If you are exhibiting birds in a box-cage, such as Norwich, Crests, Cinnamons, and so on, tie the label on the left, on the wire cross-bar, about three wires from the side of the cage.

On no consideration colour your perch ends; let them be free from any such markings. Suspicion is often aroused in cases of this kind. Steer as clear from such objectionable matters as possible. In very few cases nowadays, I think, are perch-ends coloured for a certain vile purpose, and when showing honestly one is touched on a very tender spot when attention is drawn to your "embellishment" by someone who perhaps "thinks things."

Use for the bottom of your show cages Canary seed only. Do not use husks, sawdust, sand, or chaff.

Be above board in all you do; act straight, and keep a clear conscience. Try to win by all means, but win fair.

With Some Answers by Expert Breeders and Exhibitors.

PURCHASING AND PAIRING.

(1) If you were asked to advise a beginner as to the purchase and pairing of birds to breed exhibition Yorkshires, what advice would you give?

INTRODUCING FRESH BLOOD.

(2) In matching the following year would you recommend the introduction of fresh blood? Give reasons for and against.

DOUBLE-YELLOWING AND DOUBLE-BUFFING.

(3) Are you of opinion that any advantage is to be gained by double-yellowing and double-buffing?

EFFECT OF DOUBLE-YELLOWING.

(4) There is a general impression that double-yellowing results in a reduction of size. Is this your opinion? Do you think that the difference is in feather only, or does it affect bone or substance?

CHOICE OF COLOUR.

(5) Do you prefer breeding with a yellow cock to buff hen, or vice versa?

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM?

(6) Do you recommend that the cock be taken from the hen while sitting? If so, when would you put him back, and what are the advantages or disadvantages of such a course?

TWO WIVES OR ONE?

(7) Are you opposed to the use of two hens to one cock? If so, please state why.

FEEDING THE YOUNG.

(8) How do you feed from hatching up to six weeks old?

EARLY BIRDS OR LATE BIRDS.

(9) In your opinion are the best results obtained in the latter part of the breeding season or in the early part?

TOO OLD AT ——?

(10) At what age do you consider Yorkshires breed their best specimens?

THE CHICK IN THE SHELL.

(11) What is the longest period that fertilised eggs may with safety be kept from under the hen?

INFLAMMATION IN YOUNG BIRDS.

(12) How do you account for the so-called inflammation of the bowels from which so many young birds die? How may it be avoided, and what remedy do you recommend when it does occur?

TEACHING THE YOUNG IDEA.

(13) What, in your opinion, is the best method of training young Yorkshires to get them steady and used to the show cage?

WHO IS TO BLAME?

(14) Is it your experience that the hen is responsible for type and quality, and the cock for colour and size?

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

(15) Do you consider that classes should be provided at all large shows for even-marked birds?

TICKLISH!

(16) What is your opinion of the present standard as laid down by the Y.C.C.?

THE VALUE OF PEPPER.

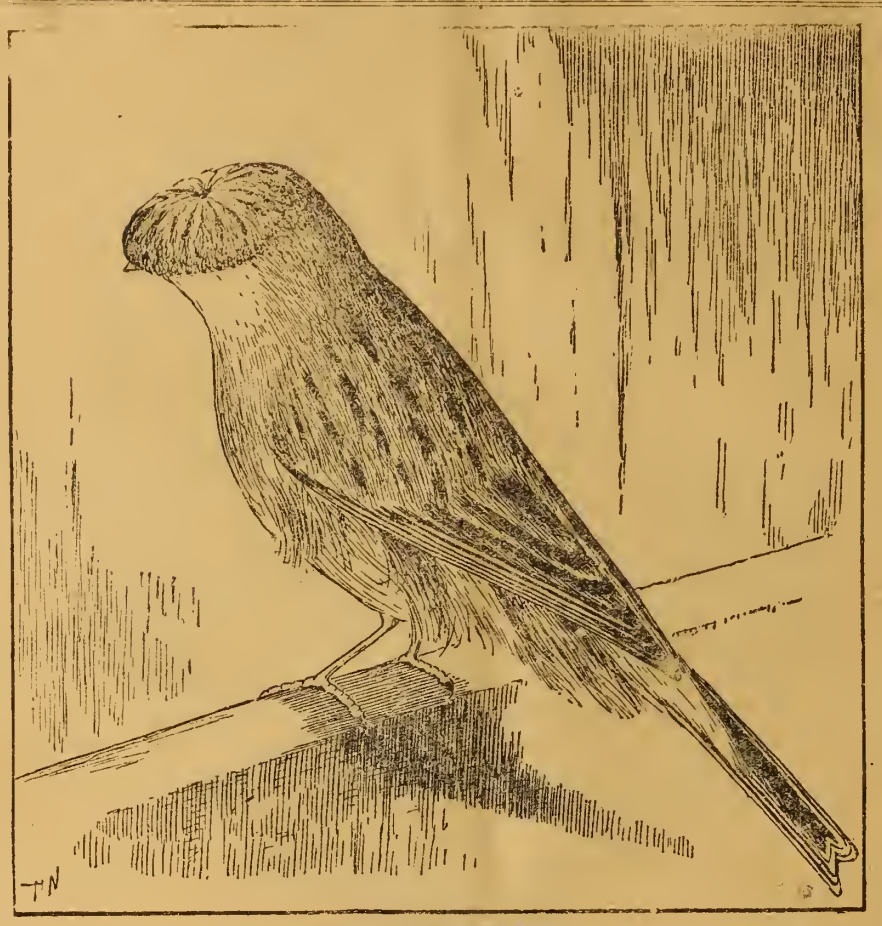
(17) Do you not think that a well-fed even-coloured bird should take more than a five-point precedence of an unfed bird equal in other respects?

WE WONDER!

(18) How many years would it take, commencing with the Belgian, Norwich and Lanshire birds, to breed birds similar to the winning Yorkshire of to day?

Mr. H. W. Battye replies:

(1) Select a man in whom confidence can be reposed, and he will tell honestly what is necessary to be known of the ancestry of the birds required. He should be known to breed a fair average of typical birds. Tell him what you can afford to spend on, say, two to six pairs, which I should select as follows:—Buff hens, in which you might sacrifice a bit of size if extra good in style, figure, or position, and cocks big enough to make up for what the hens lacked in size, even if they were not so fine in feather. One of each pair should be ticked or marked, as nothing ruins colour of birds more than running clears together. Make a special point of having birds well upon legs, as this is of vital importance. Best type, the closest of silky feather, and all else needful to make up a good Yorkshire will not atone for lowness on leg.



(2) If your pairs are, for the most part, unrelated, as they should be, it is not necessary to introduce fresh blood for some time. Carefully note good and bad points each pair produce the first year, and cross them in such a way as to remedy weaknesses. For instance, should a youngster from one pair be a bit thin in neck and a little stilty on leg, and one from another pair a bit bulky all through for length, they would very probably, if crossed, produce young with the good points of both parents, but some might combine the bad, and these should be got rid of at any price. If one of the pairs' youngsters should show any of the above or other faults to an abnormal degree, I should discard from that pair the one I thought responsible for them, and next season introduce a different mate from the young of another pair.

(3) No; the disadvantages outweigh any possible advantages.

(4) I do not think double yellowing exactly reduces size, but it certainly produces a thinness of web-feathering on quill, and has also a tendency to produce harsh or coarse feather, which gives an appearance of thinness in neck and body.

(5) I have a sneaking fancy for a yellow cock and buff hen, but difference in results is probably more imaginary than real.

(6) I recommend taking cock away while the hen is sitting, putting him back if necessary when the young are from 5 to 8 days' old. I never allow my breeding cocks to feed young, as I believe it is harmful in regard to breeding robust stock.

(7) No; that is the way I run mine, and I am perfectly satisfied with results. No statements of theorists will alter my way of working, which I have proved to be the best.

(8) I give the hen egg food and crushed hemp from the day the first egg is hatched, or even the night before it is due. The egg food is composed of the whole of egg, and the hemp I crush through a mill set so as just to crack the medium sized seeds. This, along with white Canary seed, is the food I give during the first 4 or 5 days, when I start giving a little green stuff (young washed dandelion or lettuce) 4 or 5 times a day. When the young are from 5 to 6 weeks' old, I sprinkle a little summer rape on top of the white seed in the hopper, as they will crack this a day or two sooner than white Canary seed, and in this way I continue to feed, increasing the amount as the birds grow older. I make my egg food thus:—To one egg, one slice, an inch thick, of plain home-made white bread, with the crust off; put through a mill separately, and then rub well together in the hands. After passing through the mill a second time, sprinkle a little fine dry castor or table sugar over it.

(9) In the first round, though occasionally it can be improved upon as regards [illegible] by changing the cock when the two birds do not seem to hit it off. The third round is, in many instances, not worth rearing.

(10) Age is immaterial if birds are good, sound, and healthy.

(11) Cannot say, as I have not thoroughly tested the matter.

(12) It is often brought on by eating tainted food left on cage bottom and elsewhere. Prevent by thoroughly clearing away all food at least once a day, or if this is not practicable, never let soft food vessels remain empty, when the birds will not be tempted to pick from the bottom. Again, some youngsters gorge themselves with egg food and so upset their bowels. A draught may cause similar symptoms. Often a little boiled milk sop in place of egg will greatly benefit. If the bird can eat seed, give freely of main seed, which is the best thing to give a bird just being weaned from egg food, and might with advantage be used oftener than it is in moderate quantities.

(13) Run them daily in and out of show cages, which should be constantly handled gently with the birds therein. Talk to them and get them accustomed to seeing people by leaving them in a living room. There is no royal road to this point, but patience and perseverance are sure ways. Some are much harder to get steady than others.

(14) Yes; I have known instances that suggest the contrary; but I have no reason to dispute the general correctness of the theory.

(15) Yes; personally I should like to see them at all shows, but I fear that financially they would prove a failure.

(16) It is not for me to express my opinion on this question, yet I think a re-adjustment of some points might be an advantage.

(17) Not if the unfit is as even in its colour as the well fed birds.

(18) I cannot say; much would depend on kind of birds used, and at the present day there is no necessity to wade through the details of process.

Messrs. Holroyd and Broadley reply:

(1) Begin with 4 pairs obtained from two reliable dealers, two pairs from each, being guided by them as to pairing.

(2) No; beginner with 4 pairs will not require fresh blood for 3 or 4 seasons, provided, of course, he is successful in rearing a decent number of young, for if suitable birds for pairing are produced, changes can be rung on them without any addition of fresh stock. My objections to fresh blood at this stage of a beginner's career are that I do not approve of him having too many mixtures to work with so early; also I fail to see that any real good can accrue.

(3) In some instances; but it depends on what the birds have been bred from, and a knowledge of this can only be gained from experience. Double yellowing is preferable.

(4) The difference, in my opinion, is in feather only.

(5) Have had good results both ways, and find one to work as well as the other.

(6) It is a matter for individual judgment. I leave with the hens all cocks not mischievous, as I find they are less noisy than when taken away, and also a great help to the hen whilst feeding. In some instances they induce hens to feed, who otherwise would do nothing but sit on young. Without doubt, when both feed the youngsters come out better and stronger.

(7) Yes; since one cock cannot well help to bring up two lots of young at same time, and it often happens that both hens want to nest at the same time.

(8) With ordinary egg food, along with dandelion, lettuce, or, for choice, watercress, boiled rape seed (very little of the latter if the weather be hot) and, three times a week, a little mixed seed. On leaving the nest I give boiled milk sop, and egg food, until they get on seed, when I gradually reduce the soft food.

(9) The early part.

(10) During first three years, though fine specimens are sometimes bred when the cock has reached 6, or even 7 years, and is paired with a young hen.

(11) Have kept them six days, carefully standing them on end and turning them night and morning, and they have hatched all right. They may be kept much longer, I think, if turned regularly.

(12) It may arise from colds caused by draughts, but I think the most common cause is overeating, especially of soft food and lack of exercise. Guard against these carefully, and adopt following treatment: put into the drinking water as much alum as will cover a threepenny piece; allow birds to become hungry before feeding, and feed sparingly. In order that they may have exercise, place in a flight cage for a fortnight after they have left the parents a week, keeping them meantime in an ordinary cage. I find paraffin or turpentine very good, applied lightly (to the parts affected) with a feather. These means will go far to prevent inflammation.

(13) Hang a show cage in front of the ordinary cage and allow the young birds to go in and out as they please for a few days. While they are doing this go quietly to the cage, talk to them, scratch the bottom of it, and thus accustom them to your being about. But on no account make any attempt to take the cage off the hook until they have become quite used to it and to yourself. After that it is merely a matter of persevering practice.

(14) Good points are required in both, but I prefer plenty of quality in the hen.

(15) No; as in my opinion there is not one even-marked bird in a thousand bred (sometimes there is one made), and should there happen to be one, it ought to go into the uneven-marked class, the best bird to win irrespective of markings. Type and quality should predominate on show bench.

(16) So far as I am concerned the standard is all right, but one is often apt to wish that the judge would adjudicate in accordance with it.

(17) No.

(18) Kindly ask me something easier.

The Breeding of Hybrid Parrakeets.

By C. P. ARTHUR.

There is probably no more fascinating branch of aviculture than the breeding of Hybrids. Although this has been in vogue now for many years, as between British Finches, the breeding of foreign Hybrids is almost in its infancy. I believe I was one of the first to breed Parrakeet Hybrids in this country.

Having successfully bred the Mealy Rosella for the first time in England, I was tempted to try a cross with the Mealy and Red-headed Rosella, and was very proud of being successful at the first attempt. One of these young Hybrids I exhibited at the Foreign Bird Show held Oct., 1891, at Preston, under the auspices of the United Kingdom Foreign Bird Society (now defunct). My exhibit won 1st in its class, bronze medal for best bird bred by exhibitor, and a silver medal, value 21s., given by the late Mr. Joseph Abrahams, for the best bird in a certain number of classes—surely something to be proud of. I believe I wrote an account of the breeding of these Hybrids, but am not quite sure.

The Adelaide-Rosella Cross.

Being then so much taken up with Budgerigar breeding, which was at that time a very profitable hobby, I dropped breeding the larger Parrakeets, except Cockatiels, until last year, when I noticed in one of my largest aviaries (30ft. long) a cock Adelaide Parrakeet feeding two hen Rosellas. I then determined to have another try at Hybrid breeding. I put up two boxes (as described in my article on Cockatiels in CAGE BIRDS), with about an inch of fine sawdust on the bottom, and hollowed out at the back. One hen at once commenced to lay, laying in all six eggs, each of which was hatched, and the birds successfully reared.

The other hen worked hard clearing out all the sawdust and laying, but then threw out all her eggs at the same time. So I got a piece of plank 1½in. thick and cut it to fit in the bottom of the box, first hollowing out the back part with a carpenter's gouge to keep the eggs from rolling about. I also softened some pipe-clay by the use of water, bringing it to about the consistency of butter. With this I made up some false eggs and dried them, putting one in the nest and taking out the real ones as soon as laid. The first egg she managed to throw out, but I replaced it. I substituted another false one for the second egg.

She had then, I supposed, laid her batch—for she began to sit on the two false eggs (she had laid altogether ten eggs). As I found she was sitting closely on the false ones, I took them away and put back her own. These two she hatched, rearing her young with true parental instinct. So I got two young Hybrids extra by my stratagem.

I think this was very good luck—to get eight young from the two hens. I should say the hens in my case lay on alternate days, and sat for three weeks, as near as I could judge. The cock fed both hens assiduously for a week or ten days, but did not enter the nests; but after that time he went into both nests and fed the young himself.

Noisy Youngsters.

The young are rather noisy when being fed. When first hatched they are covered with grey down, have yellow bills, and large ungainly-looking heads. They left "home" when about five weeks old, but the parent birds continued to feed them for quite another month. They have quite a curious way of squeaking if anything disturbs them when in the nest. A person entering the aviary, or merely knocking against the outside, is quite sufficient to start the whole lot squeaking one against the other.

I should think in their native country anyone could easily tell if there were any young Parrakeets in a tree by hammering the trunk, for if the tree contained any young Rosellas, Pennants, or Cockatiels, they would at once make themselves heard.

Soon after the young left the nests, the hen that hatched the six on sawdust, went to nest again, laying four more eggs in the same box, hatching them, and rearing three young.

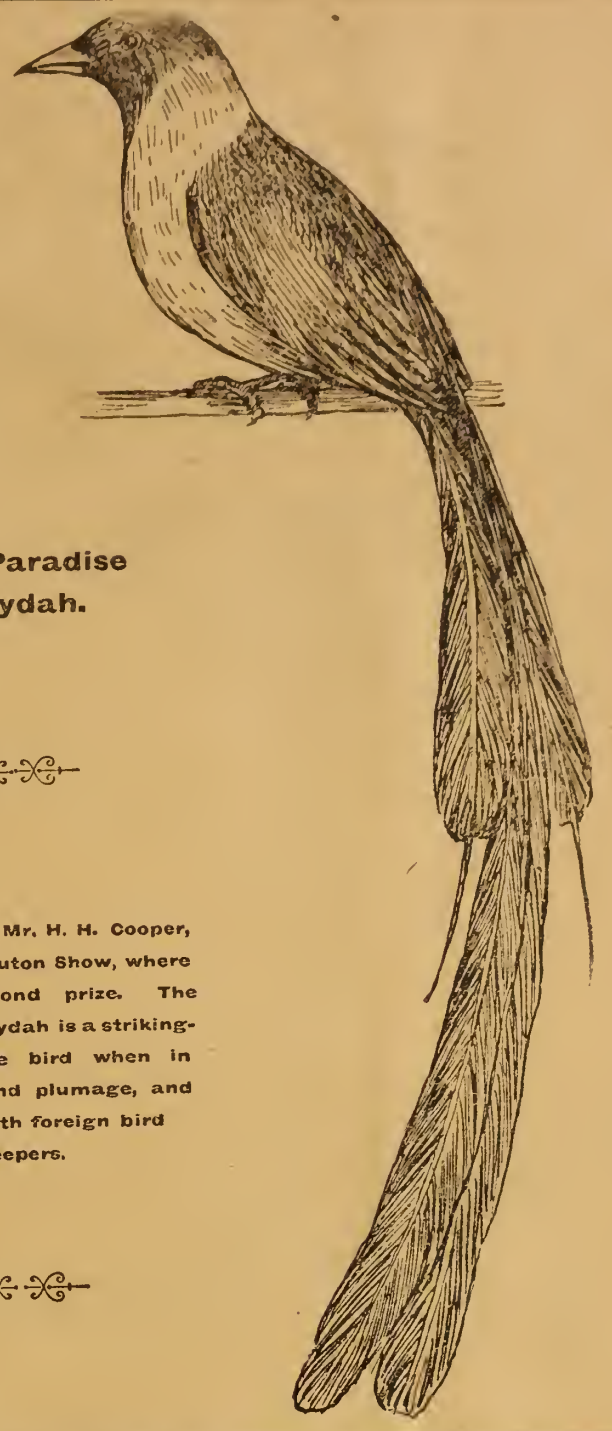
A Pleasant Surprise.

All these eleven Hybrids were purchased by Mr. Hamlyn, the well-known naturalist, to whom an explanation is here due. I sold him these birds as crosses between a Pennant Parrakeet and Rosella. These are the facts of the case. A few years ago I bought a consignment of so-called young Pennant Parrakeets from a dealer in France. They were thin in nest feather, and all alike in colour. But when they came into full colour I noticed that two were different to the rest—one I took to be a Pennant, but paler in colour, and the other I felt sure must be a Yellow-rumped Parrakeet, which it has since proved to be, having bred Hybrids with a Rosella this year. I had a visit a few months ago from Mr. D. Seth-Smith, the well-known authority on Parrakeets, and he then assured me that what I thought was a pale-coloured Pennant was really a good specimen of the Adelaide Parrakeet. Now, as this bird is the father of the eleven Hybrids which I sold to Mr. Hamlyn as Pennant-Rosella Hybrids, I trust he will accept my explanation, and correct any error of description to his customers who purchased them.

As the Adelaide is very much rarer than the Pennant, I should think it ought to increase the value of the Hybrids, rather than lessen it. I have tried the same parents this year, though unfortunately with no result, both hens persistently laying in the same box and breaking the eggs. One young one was hatched, but lived only a fortnight.

An Unfortunate Incident.

This Spring I put the cock Yellow-rumped Parrakeet into an aviary with two hen Rosellas, and he soon paired up with each of them, but they both took to the same box. When Mr. Seth-Smith was here he advised me to try deeper boxes, so that the hen would have to go down into the nest, and the eggs would then not be so likely to get dragged out. So I had some made, and took one into the aviary, when one of the hens rushed into the box I was trying to take down to replace with the new one.



I took the old nest down and put it on the ground with the hen still in it, and was on the ladder hanging up the new one, when my daughter came to the outside of the aviary and said, "Father, someone is waiting in the shop to see you." "Let them wait," I replied, thinking I would finish my job so as not to have to disturb the birds again. It was some minutes before I had finished, then, snatching up the box I had taken down, I came out, put the box down outside, and ran into the shop.

It was not until about two hours afterwards that, passing the aviary, I noticed only one of the hens. Thinking the other must have gone into one of the boxes, I went in to see if she were trying the new one; but, alas! she was probably miles away by then. When I found out that I had, in my hurry, been fool enough to put the nest-box out of doors with the hen in it, I felt I badly wanted someone to come and kick me! Thirty shillings would not have bought that bird when in the aviary, as I was expecting her to lay daily.

Some Valuable Observations.

The other hen laid her first egg two days later in the old-shaped box that I had left hanging up. She laid five eggs, four of which she hatched, and reared three fine young ones, which are now over three months old. Strange to say, these three are all alike, but in the case of the Adelaide-Rosella Hybrids, there were no two alike.

The food the young were reared on was chiefly white millet for the first fortnight, with plenty of flowering groundsel. After that, the old ones partook freely of the other seeds supplied, namely, canary, hemp, and sunflower; but although I kept a constant supply of crumbled sponge-cake in the aviary, I do not think they touched it from first to last. Neither do I think these birds would have been at all likely to have reared their young without the fresh green-food daily while they were in the nest.

The Paradise Whydah.

Exhibited by Mr. H. H. Cooper, (Luton), at Luton Show, where it won second prize. The Paradise Whydah is a strikingly handsome bird when in full color and plumage, and popular with foreign bird keepers.

The young of all the large Parrakeets, when hatched in an aviary, seem terribly wild, or perhaps I should say, timid, when they leave the nest, and will dash wildly about when anyone enters the aviary. So it is best to keep the seed vessels near the door so that these can be replenished without entering. Even then one must move gently: for the slightest sudden movement may mean a broken neck to one of the birds you have been so long and anxiously waiting to see, as they will fly against boards with just as much force as against wire netting until they get used to their surroundings.

Next Season's Attempt.

I hope this article will induce fanciers to try other crosses, as I intend doing myself. I have put up for next season, Yellow-rump and Rosella, Adelaide and Rosella (two pairs), Mealy Rosella and Rosella, Rosella and Mealy, Many Colour and Red-rump, and hope to acquire more couples before the Spring. I find that it is advisible to let each pair have an aviary to themselves: for although most of them will agree fairly well together at other times, some of them are perfect demons when nesting, if there are any other large Parrakeets in the same enclosure.

I should have said that the young Yellow-rump-Rosella Hybrids closely resemble young Pennant Parrakeets, and are not at all like young Rosellas, so that no doubt when they come into adult plumage they will be more like the Yellow-rump than the Rosella. I believe the Yellow-rump to be at present very scarce in this country.

PRESENTATION TO MR. D. H. TEDSTONE, (Hon. Sec. Welsh C.B.C.)

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent by members of the Welsh C.B.C., at the late Swansea Cage Bird Show in a room kindly provided by the members of the Society. A good number of members from far and near came together. The Chairman, Mr. T. L. Castree, in drawing our attention to the most important matter of the meeting, viz., the presentation to our able secretary, spoke of the rapid progress made by the club. He called upon Mr. Melhuish, the first president of the club, to make the presentation to Mr. Tedstone, which he did in a very able manner, giving us a very humourous speech, and again dealing with the club's rapid progress. This, he said, was the result of the very hard work on the part of the secretary. He then handed over the marble timepiece to Mr. Tedstone, stating that he wished him health and strength, and hoping he would long remain secretary of the Welsh C.B.C. Mr. Tedstone, responding, thanked the members very much for the grand present, which, he said, spoke volumes. He was more than pleased to think that the members thought so much of the very hard work he had done, and which was all done for love of the fancy. Although the club was not so strong in numbers as he would like, he was determined to do his best to get every fancier in Wales to join, so that the Welsh C.B.C. might turn out to be one of the strongest combinations of really true fanciers. He then presented Mr. B. Davies with a fountain pen, which he thought was well earned, Mr. Davies having carried through the work in connection with the presentation, assisted by a good working committee. Mr. Davies then thanked Mr. Tedstone, and stated that Mr. Tedstone's services to the club were of a most progressive character. Not only had the members patronised the movement, but there were a few of the most prominent gentlemen in Wales who had also given their hearty patronage, such as Messrs. D. A. Thomas, M.P., Sidney Robinson, M.P., and others. Mr. G. T. Jones Brecon, a well-known Welsh bard, then gave a song which he had composed for the occasion, the song being a most humourous one. It was sung very effectively, the members joining in the chorus. This closed an enjoyable evening.—"ONE WHO WAS THERE."

5. Eye-Ticked Goldfinch Mule. 1st Nottingham (Mr. W. Andrews, Olney).
6. Varied Lorikeet. 1st Dulwich (Mr. C. Cooper, Brixton).
7. Lightly Variegated Crest-bred. 1st Dulwich (Mr. J. Tyson, London, S.W.)

Kindly thank all who answered my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, November 2nd, writes Mr. W. Moore, Sevenoaks, as replies were too many to answer through the post.

The reason I did not send my birds to Chester Moor and to Morecambe, writes Mr. J. Walsh, Blackburn, was because I had sold several of those entered.

The Committee of Wolverhampton Show wish to thank all the gentlemen who have written congratulating us over the splendid arrangements and the good condition in which they received their birds back. All birds were packed and at the station by 10.30 p.m.—F. HOWES, Secretary.

Kindly accept best thanks for placing my Yorkshire on front cover of CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. C. Edwards, Bromley. The bird has since won cup for best Yorkshire at Greenwich and Deptford. I have been a regular reader of your paper since the first year, and like many others would not like to be without it, as what you can't see in its pages it is useless looking for elsewhere. The last double number was worth many times its price.

As an old subscriber let me say that I still consider CAGE BIRDS to be the ideal bird paper, and what is most surprising, it keeps improving in birdy matter and coloured plates. It certainly ought to be in the hands of every lover of birds. I wish good old CAGE BIRDS every success.—C. E. MILLER (Uttoxeter).

We have received the balance sheet of the fourth annual show in connection with the Haylo F.A., which shows a balance in hand of £8 11s. 10d. The secretary, Mr. W. J. Paull, writes: I regret the very stormy weather on the show days, which greatly interfered with the attendance, the show being a record for exhibits.

Mr. A. T. Johnson, secretary of the Vale of Conway and District F.A., writes: It has been arranged to hold a members' show at Conway, on Easter Saturday, April 18th.

Kindly thank all those fanciers who sent along entries for the Cambridge and Cambridgeshire Show, and so enabled us to have such a splendid show, writes Mr. T. S. Moore, sec. 400 of the 624 came in after my appeal for entries.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Hume Chalmers.

Mr. Smith writes: "By the death of Mr. Hume Chalmers, of the White Sheaf Inn, Greenock, the Scotch Fancy Canary ranks have lost a warm friend. Now that he has gone, those who appreciated him recall his genial smile and kindly sayings. He was for many years a keen breeder and exhibitor, and at the date of his passing away was the president of the Greenock Derby and secretary of the Robbie Burn's Club. He was ever ready to help, and he will be missed by a very large circle of friends, fanciers, and most of all by his family, for whom there is wide-spread sympathy."

Thanks for courteous reference to the absence of my Tanagers from the Manchester Show, writes Mr. J. H. Harrison, Lytham. It was a great disappointment, but could not be avoided. Am glad to say, however, that all my birds are well.

We hear from the Secretary, Mr. G. A. Charles, that a special feature in connection with the Reading and District C.B.S. Show, to be held on December 11th, will be the large number of specials offered, which will doubtless incite record entries.

We hear that at the Tredegar Show, on December 27th, cage birds will be staged in the judges' room of the Town Hall, a very suitable building. An excellent classification is provided. The show will be held under C.B.U. Rules, Mr. Gladwin acting as judge.

Allow me to congratulae you on the production of the coloured plate of the Spanglebacks, writes Mr. William Beard Hollingwood. I think it is the best plate you have ever published.

Your recent splendid special number should meet with the appreciation such a fine effort deserves. Your supplement is especially interesting to Dulwich and Peckham members owing to the most interesting and clever depiction of the Borders shown at our late show, which I feel sure will popularise the "wee gems" down south.—E. F. WOOLHOUSE (Dulwich).

We had a splendid show of Foreign birds, writes Mr. E. Cherry, sec. of the Luton and Dis. C.B.S. At least a quarter of them would have taken 1st at any other show. Amongst the most notable was Miss D. De Von's Bird of Paradise, in excellent show condition, and splendid feather; also a pair of Sibias, belonging to Mrs. Warren Vernon. That lady also showed a Night-Jar, but it had to take a back seat through having no tail; nevertheless, a very interesting exhibit.

I read with very great interest the account of "The Aviaries at Elsenham," in your well got up supplement issued last week, writes Mr. W. Young (Barnstaple). It is very rarely I sell a bird, but in September last I advertised in your valuable paper a pair of Parrakeets. I received many applications, but they went to Sir Walter Gilbey, at Elsenham. Therefore you can understand why I was so pleased to read about his aviaries. I consider the supplement splendidly got up. It will take a lot of beating; the paper, blocks, and type I consider grand. Being a foreign bird fancier I can fully appreciate the lovely coloured plate, "A Dainty Trio," given to us with CAGE BIRDS on the 26th ult. I compliment you on this grand production; also on the coloured plate received with last week's issue.

How gratifying to the Border Fanciers to receive such an exquisite supplement in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. F. Wardleworth, Altrincham. Your artist, Mr. H. Norman, deserves the highest commendation on the Border plate. The bird of mine depicted in the sketch is as perfect in every point and detail as if formed by nature.

Since the circulation of schedules, writes Mr. W. Sampson, sec. Cardiff C.B.S., I have received from Messrs. Fellows and Flyn, £1 to be awarded to the exhibitor scoring most points throughout the show, excluding classes with less than 8 entries, and also selling classes. This is in addition to the 10s. 6d. special for six highest birds, and 10s. specials for most points in each section. I have extended the date of entries closing, to first post November 25th, and trust fanciers will rally round.

The Skylark in China.

It is said that the Chinese so thoroughly tame the Skylark that they can take the bird into the fields and allow him to soar. While chatting with friends they will often let their pets out for a run, calling them back again when they are ready.

The "Model" Norwich Plainhead

At the annual meeting of the Norwich Plainhead Club, at Nottingham Show, last Saturday, the sketch of a model, submitted by Mr. H. Norman, was adopted by 55 votes, Mr. Paddock's drawing getting 24, and Mr. Lydon's 14 votes. One member was of the opinion that models had no effect on the judges, and that many of the winning birds to-day were right over the standard length (6½ inches). The secretary suggested having them measured at all shows held under N.P.C. Rules, and disqualified if it was found correct.

Specials at Gloucester Show.

Mr. Wilcox won the British bird challenge bowl for the most points, with four very nice exhibits. The challenge bowl for A.O.V. Canary was won by Messrs. Amblers, securing four 1sts in Yorkshires. The special for best Canary in show went to Mr. Houghton's marked buff Norwich, a grand one, which also won the special for best member's Canary in show, Hyde's special, and CAGE BIRDS' competition 1st prize. Sandiford's cup for hottest-fed bird was also won by Mr. Houghton with a red-hot clear yellow. CAGE BIRDS' 2nd prize was won by Mr. Wasley, and their 3rd prize by Mr. A. Williams.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given after next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*A Tame Goldfinch.

I have a cock Goldfinch whose blaze is a bright red. He has a jet black mark round his head. His back and breast are brown. On his wings he has a massive golden-coloured patch, and his large wing and tail feathers are spotted with white. He sings very prettily, nearly all day, and will come and take hemp seeds out of our fingers.—Sent by D. BLOWERS, 8, Albert Square, S.W.

A Skylark Friend.

My father has a hand-reared Skylark, which is very tame, and which will come into the bow of the cage chirping when he hears what you have to say. When father comes out in the morning to throw some corn, he will jump to the front of the cage and flap his wings with delight, as he takes chewed corn from his mouth. Sometimes we put him a sand-bath in the cage, which he takes quite freely to, and when he is in the bath we lift the cage about. He sits in the bath quite contentedly and chirps as if to say, "Why don't you go away?" We have got him so very tame and he looks very smart. I think it would be very hard if we had to part from our little friend.—WILLIE BROOKSBANK, Lower Bridge Street, Goole, Yorkshire.

The Thrush.

The Thrush is my favourite bird. I have one which I reared last year on sifted barley meal, mixed with crushed hemp seed and a boiled egg. He is now in full song.—BERNARD HALL (aged 14), 60, Fairoak-avenue, Newport, Mon.

*Lark Catching.

No bird is so easily netted as the Lark. He generally starts from the ground just before the lower edge of the net touches him, and invariably mounts perpendicularly. This characteristic propensity to ascend at once may be observed by any person who "treads up" a lark in a field, and is satisfactorily illustrated by releasing, at the same moment, a newly captured Lark and a Sparrow from a cage or hat within the precincts of a room. While the Sparrow flies off horizontally, dashes himself against the window, and lies almost stunned from the shock, the Lark will almost always mount upwards to the ceiling, and flutter there for a time, in vain efforts to reach the sky, before he attempts any other mode of exit. But this habit is fatal to him in the netting season. He would generally be able to escape as, indeed, the Bunting or Clod Bird, the Sparrow, and the Linnet constantly do, by flying straight forward; but ascending, as he does, directly from the ground, the moment his wings have touched the upper part of the net, it is suffered to drop suddenly and his capture is rendered inevitable.—FRED COLLARD (no age given), 22, Claremount-street, Stapleton-road, Bristol.

OUR GREAT COUPON SCHEME.

We are offering at certain Shows this season Extra Prizes to the value of 10/-, 6/-, 4/-.

A list of these Shows is given below. Intending Competitors must apply to us for a Coupon to fasten on their Entry Forms. Every Coupon bought from us will entitle one bird to compete for our prizes. The price of the Coupon is 6d., and only birds entered for our prizes will be eligible. Prizes are offered for the Best First Prize Bird, Best Second Prize and Best Third Prize.

The Exhibitor who buys the most Coupons from us will have half the cost of them returned to him.

The Secretary who secures the most Entries for our Competition will be given £1 for his Society's funds.

Exhibitors must note that coupons will not by themselves entitle them to exhibit.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence to pay postage expenses, &c., otherwise their letters will not receive attention.

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

NOTE. Readers are requested to carefully study past numbers and current issue before submitting questions. By doing so they may save trouble and unnecessary repetition.

CANARIES.

How Many in a Cage?

R. Lawrence.—You may keep your birds as you have them now, two in a cage, or in the flight. They will do during the winter months kept either way; but I think that, as you are a novice, and can only tell the sex by song, your best way is to put them in twos in cages. About the end of January you will have to part the cocks from the hens. By then you will have sexed each bird.

A Broken Leg.

H. R. L.—If the bird is going on as well as you say it is, you should be able to remove the bandage in three or four days, when the leg should be set. In removing the sticking paper you will have to exercise great care, or you will be likely to break the leg again. I should advise you to bathe the leg in tepid water until the paper is thoroughly saturated. It will then easily come off, and you will run no risks.

YORKSHIRES.

Answered by H. W. BATTYE.

Dear at any Price.

Novice 999.—You might try, in place of the paragoric, six drops of glycerine along with the water; but, evidently, your two birds are in a bad way, and I don't think they will run through the winter. You can only make it a little easier for them by keeping them in a warm place. Keep the temperature as even as possible, covering up at night. There are some things dear at a gift, and from what you write I should say these birds were. Wheezy birds are seldom of any good to anyone, especially as breeders and feeders.

All of a Lump.

G. Dear.—Stop giving castor-oil. This is far too searching a thing to give Canaries, and has killed more birds than ever it cured. Am not surprised at your losing birds if you have been using castor-oil as you say. Perhaps you have been using unsound seed. Try a change, and don't be put off with any kind of rubbish; cheap seed is an abomination. See that it is clean and free from dust; give this in seed hopper, and three times a week give a little egg food, well mixing with it a few drops of chemical food. Sprinkle a little maw seed over, and on the days you do not give the egg food give half-teaspoonful of the following mixture: Two parts good summer rape and one part maw. Boil the drinking water at night, and give fresh every morning, and to each tablespoonful of water add five drops of good Scotch whiskey. Try this treatment for two weeks, and if not better write again.

Breeding Cages.

A. A. East.—There are various patterns as well as different sizes of nest pans. The square or box pattern should be fully five inches across and two and a quarter deep; the round pattern anywhere from four to five inches across and two inches deep. There is no standard size or shape, but personally I prefer the latter and would recommend them for use, putting in a lining of soft material, as Canaries, speaking generally, are not good nest builders, and when they have built a nice nest will often pull out the whole lot and lay their eggs in the empty nest box. Small Canaries, such as Border Fancies, do not require as large a nest, as, say, Lancashires, still I prefer a good sized nest if properly shaped, to a small one.

Diet for Singers.

A.B.—The best diet for your Yorkshire Canaries, in order to keep them in good song, is plain, clean, sound, white canary seed as a staple food in the seed hopper. Give half-teaspoonful of the following every other day: two parts good summer rape seed and one part good maw seed; or you might, once a week give a little egg-food in place of the mixed seed. Let the bird have a good supply of sharp, gritty sand, fresh, at least once a week, and clean water daily.

Feeding of Show Birds.

Fountain.—Your feeding, from description, is quite correct, and I do not see how you can improve on it; but if your birds are long and coarse in feather naturally, their feeding will not make them tight and smooth; it may improve, but they must be bred with a good quality to begin with. You might in addition to the mixed seed diet, give a little boiled carrot between wires two or three times a week, and let them have a bath any morning when the weather is bright and dry. You do not say whether you are giving the seeds you name mixed or separate. I should advise giving the white by itself in the seed hopper, mixing the other together, two parts summer rape, two parts Gold of Pleasure, and one part maw.

BORDERS

Illness of Cock.

Jas. Henderson.—Your excessive feeding on hemp seed has disarranged the stomach and bowels. I am afraid the liver is affected also. See if bowels are enlarged; if so, mix six drops each pure turpentine and best olive oil, bathe with tepid water, dry, then dip your finger in the mixture and gently rub from stomach to vent. Feed on plain seed only for one week, and let him have a little milk sop daily. Give in water 10 drops tincture of aconite fresh daily. After the week feed on plain seed as a staple diet, and add a third German summer rape one day. Next day half a teaspoonful egg food, with a pinch of maw seed added; mix well through it five drops chemical food, and give in water 10 drops tincture of quinine until well. Only give pinch of hemp seed now and again as a special treat.

Price of Birds.

Novice.—It will depend on the class of bird you intend to go in for. You will see by our advertisement columns how the price varies. Good stock pairs should cost from 15s. to 30s.; show birds dearer. (2) Those cheap pairs are only cross-bred mongrels, and dear at any price. (3) The Border Fancy is a distinctive breed of its own, and not a cross between a York and small Norwich. Many birds that win are far too thick with no freedom in neck, which is going away from the true and only type. I may give a short article on this point with a few drawings shortly, which may help you.

Housing Accommodation.

Drumossie.—Am afraid the shed will be too cold as it stands. You could help it by nailing two uprights, one at top and bottom, three inches thick. Then cover this with match-boarding ¾in. thick, fill in between with sawdust, and line with felt inside, paper or whitewash. You had better raise it on four corner posts, two feet from the ground, to keep out damp and the vermin pest, which would be sure to trouble you. (2) Birds, as a rule, never thrive in kitchens; the temperature varies so much, and I think I would try and make your wooden house as comfortable as possible, and they will do better. See reply to novice re price.

Advice on Pairing.

Bolton.—You state "h marked"; do you mean head marked birds? If so, you are quite right, as this is very difficult to breed out. You must not use any when pairing up, and run your mind back over their predecessors and discard any breed from such birds. I should advise you to keep trying for a good evenly marked bird. For clear breeding, select the most typical hens you have got, and pair them up to a cock—birds that have plenty of colour and condition. Let one of them be a ticked bird, and never mind a head marked bird in this variety, they look nice—yellow cock to buff hen, or vice versa; don't try and double cross unless you are quite sure of your stock birds. For green breeding discard all with light throats, breasts, and underflue, and see they are well pencilled down back and breast, even down to the vent. The safest way is to use only birds green or cinnamon bred, and only use a heavy variegated bird to tone down the bronze-coloured wings when you see it is required. The self cinnamon hen has the same tendency, and also improves the colour and texture of feather. But do not go too deeply into this cross, or you will spoil your distinct pencilling and grass green shade of colour.

LIZARDS.

Is it a Broken Cap?

T. Smith.—No; the very slight tick in the small feathers at the entrance, not running into the falling feathers of the cap, would not constitute a broken cap. The same rule would apply to the bird having an eye-lash over one eye and none over the other. They would be eligible for clear cap classes. Certainly, if competition were very close, these would be considered against them. Yes. Better left in; you would disfigure the bird by removing them, and probably lose your chance of success altogether.

GREENS.

Answered by S. HADWIN.

Wheeziness.

P. Yaldwin.—You do not say how long your bird has been bad. The symptoms point to asthma, but if it is of long standing I am afraid nothing will do it any permanent good. Try six drops each paregoric and glycerine in wineglassful drinking water for one day, and 12 drops chemical food the next day. Continue these alternately for a few weeks, or until the bird is all right. If you do not find any improvement in a fortnight, you may give it up as a bad job. A small pinch of cayenne in water about twice a week will also be found beneficial in this cold foggy weather; also half-teaspoonful maw seed every other day.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "SCHOOLMASTER."

For Songsters.

Magpie.—Well, I shall certainly vote for the Roller as the best singing Canary—that is, when you get a good one. For some people, however, they are not sufficiently loud-voiced, the shriller, fuller-toned Norwich being preferred. Loud, shrill notes, of course, are a very serious fault in a Roller with any pretensions to "class." The best cross I could recommend you would be a Yellow Norwich cock to two Buff Roller hens, and a Buff Roller cock to two Yellow Norwich hens, the progeny to be trained as far as possible under a good singing Roller. You could pair up the young from these matings, and would get a team or a capacity, good coloured songsters, with nice voices and notes. The Norwich should be chubby birds, but not too large.

A Mixed Lot.

John Cornwall.—Some of your questions are a little out of my line. You certainly are not feeding your Roller correctly—canary two parts, summer rape one part, should be the daily fare. As a change, give once a week a feed of packet mixed seed; also now and then a half-teaspoonful of some good egg-bread, a little ripe fruit (apple, pear, or orange) and a sprig of green food—not all at once, but varied. Stop the niger and hemp. These birds are best kept in a cage to themselves. No one could tell you what seeds to give your aviary birds without knowing what those birds are. You do not say—"mixed birds" is too vague. The hen Canary and Linnet that are moulting should have about half a teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food (obtainable from the chemist) stirred into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water fresh daily, for a fortnight or three weeks. Give them plenty of good grit, and cuttlefish to peck at.

"Chopping" and Buying.

Young Roller.—I don't see any reason why CAGE BIRDS deposit system should not be adopted when buying from Germany, providing the seller be agreeable. There is no difficulty in getting birds over safely, providing they are packed properly and consigned by the most direct route (the latter depends on where you live, though a fast mail-steamer route is generally best). Yes, you would necessarily have to depend largely on the seller's word being correct, as a bird could hardly be expected to reproduce its best song for a day or so after arriving; it would rest on the length of the approval term (if any). There is no reason why a bird five months old should not be on full song, though that period is on the short side. "Chopping," the sound so detested by Roller fanciers (no really good Roller utters it) is the shrill string of notes sounding like "yap, yap, yap," uttered by the ordinary Canary, with the bill wide open, in ear-splitting fashion. It is called "chopping," because the song is cut (or chopped) up into single notes, instead of being produced in tours made up of perfectly modulated and connected notes, as with all Rollers worthy of the name.

Sample of Canary Seed.

Greenhorn.—The sample does not represent real Spanish by any means—it is far too small for that—nor does the price call for Spanish. I should say it is Turkish. Though very small, it looks fairly plump, and is apparently well harvested I can see nothing about it to cause me to think your Canaries would not thrive on it.

Diet for Roller,

A.B.—I have often advised on the feeding of Roller Canaries, and if you had looked up recent issues you would have found the information easily. As to staple food, give Spanish canary seed (two pints), genuine German summer rape seed (one pint), well mixed. Once a week give a feed of song mixture (any good maker's packet mixed seed will do) for a change, and every few days a half-teaspoonful of maw seed, the latter in a finger-drawer. Twice a week give a small teaspoonful of prepared egg-bread, or one of the good advertised Canary foods, or Canary breads. A sprig of tender young green-food frequently is good; also a slice of ripe apple or other fruit. A small piece of sweet orange is a very good thing indeed, in my belief, to help keep the voice

MISCELLANEOUS CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by "OLD JUDGE."

Sea Sand.

F. W. Thornley.—I have used sea sand myself and never discovered any ill effects therefrom. I have also seen it used by some of our most successful exhibitors, and never have I heard of any such effects as you mention. You say the water at Weston-super Mare is muddy. It occurs to me that the foreign matter in the mud may be responsible for the symptoms exhibited by your birds. Still it may be that the salt has been the cause of the irritation, birds, like human beings, are differently constituted, and some people are much effected by the use of salt. If it is so with human beings, why not with birds? Anyway, the experiment, either from some peculiarity about the sand used, or the constitution of your birds, has failed, and I should advise you not to repeat except you can obtain your sand from a shore where mud is unknown, because sea mud as a rule contains the sediment of sewage which is sent into the sea from our towns and villages round the coast.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Sex of Woodlarks.

Cabinet.—It is difficult to sex Woodlarks, the cock and hen being so very much alike in plumage, unless one has had considerable experience with the species. Dealers (and catchers of the species) do not often err, however. The hen is the better-looking of the two, contrary to the general rule with British birds. She is the richest in colour, and the best pencilled (marked), the pencilling being quite appreciably denser and heavier (thickly streaked), on the breast of the hen than on the cock. The latter is said to have the longest spur (hind-claw), but I never can see any difference here; also the longest wing, this being quite true, just as it is in the Skylark, though not to the same pronounced extent. You want to pick an alert, bold, "cheeky" bird, looking with suspicion on those with the richest colour and blackest pencilling.

Feeding a Goldfinch.

H. Eveleigh.—Your method is fairly correct, and calculated to ensure the Goldie's good health. You want, however, to gradually leave off the niger in the stock mixture, and give a small teaspoonful daily in a finger-drawer, or separate vessel of some kind. Then give once every two days, with maw-seed in between. I never give old-caged Goldfinches niger seed, as a regular thing. It is a rattling good "pick-me-up," of which a little now and then serves to keep them in a good humour. You always want to have some appreciated dainty to fall back on when a bird shows signs of "going off colour" a little. If you give birds every known seed and delicacy as a regular thing, then you deprive yourself of this useful aid. I suggest a stock mixture of hemp, two pints, teazle two pints, canary and linseed one pint each. The wild seed you describe is plantain (or rat's-tails). This is very useful, but not one of the most liked so far as Goldies are concerned, they prefer thistle and hardheads. The most appreciated green-food now is flowering heads of groundsel, if you can get it. Goldie's will nibble at most other kinds, however, and often at a piece of ripe fruit. For description and illustration of hardheads (knapweed), consult the article on "Wild Seeds" which appeared some few weeks ago in our columns.

Inga Seed and Other Things.

Yum Yum.—There are several reasons why inga (or niger) seed is unsuitable for regular use with caged British birds. It is very oily and heating (forcing), and is passionately liked by most seed-eaters. They will gorge themselves on it to the exclusion of other seeds, and this in time is likely to lead to an upset of the liver, with probably serious consequences. It also leads to much waste of other seed, as the birds throw the stock mixture all over the cage-floor, etc., looking for the grains of niger. It is valuable with fresh-caught Finches, because they get on to it readily, and it has excellent nourishing properties; and it is excellent to give freely towards the end of the moult, because of its stimulating (conditioning) properties. I think this answers your questions. Inga seed is like fire—a good servant, but a bad master. You ought (to have no difficulty in getting teazle and charlock; any seedsman can easily get them, even if not stocked. Soft water, providing it is clean and pure, is the best possible thing to give birds to

Concerning the Robin.

Robin.—It is mainly a sentimental reason, I fancy, that keeps the Robin from becoming a widely-kept cage pet. The average person does not like to see Bobbie behind the bars of a cage—a sentiment with which I have a more than sneaking sympathy. Still, the Robin is usually capable of being made into a delightful pet, singing his very beautiful song freely to his owner. The best way is to hand-rear a nest, or get a cock very young, and let him hear the song of the wild Robin. I know a friend who amuses herself every year by doing one or the other of these two things, letting her red-breasted friend have his liberty every spring, so that he may mate and add to the store of his kind. She could tell some interesting stories if she only would. Adult-caught Robins are often very intractable. The species is not difficult to cater for. The cage required is one of the usual type used for the smaller Softbills. The stock food must be a good insectivorous food (many are advertised in our columns), prepared in the usual way, with a little of some vegetable ingredient. Live food must also be frequently supplied, mealworms being the mainstay of this side of the menu. There is no "legal reason" why the Robin should not be kept in captivity.

Show Chaffinch; Singing Linnet.

Scutcher, Oldham. — Some house-moulted Chaffinches are singing now, especially "forced" birds, for contest singing; but the majority are not. I was listening to some out-of-doors yesterday, and they could hardly call "pink, pink." The spring is the beginning of the song season of the Chaffie, when in a state of nature. The show Chaffinch needs to be as big and bold a bird as possible, with a broad, well-rounded chest, and wide skull. In colour they differ remarkably. Some are a sort of chocolate colour; these look very rich and usually carry plenty of bloom (sheen) on plumage. They are not my own ideal, however, being too much of a sameness all over—no colour contrasts—and too suggestive of "pure sweet pepper." I prefer the bird with a fairly deep cinnamon brown breast colour, deepening to reddish-brown on the back, and blue cap, with well defined black streak across the base of the upper mandible. Such a bird will show the wing and tail markings to perfection. I like to see good, well-defined whites (the patches on the wing butts), but don't place too much stress on them, as they are so easily produced by judicious faking, viz., the removal of surrounding feathers, a practice much too common. I always leave birds unnoticed that I entertain suspicion of in this respect. Sprightly carriage, closely-fitting wings and tail are essentials. No; contest Linnets are not called on to sing for so long without a stop—that only applies to Larks. Linnets have to sing certain turns of song only, and the bird which produces the highest number of these "good songs" in a certain period (say 10 or 15 minutes) is the winner. The best bird is thus the one which turns out "good songs" the fastest over the given period. The procedure is too long to describe here. I advise you to attend a contest; also read articles on the subject which appeared last year in CAGE BIRDS.

An Exhibition Hawfinch.

Constant Reader.—Exhibition Hawfinches are not by any means all alike; there is a certain necessary latitude in fact, in all species exhibited. The winning Hawfinch at the last Crystal Palace Show, for instance, was quite a medium-sized one, yet in the opinion of the judge this was more than counterbalanced by his wonderful colour and polish, combined with excellence of markings. As a general rule, however, it is safe to say a show Hawfinch needs to be as big as possible, consistent with quality of feather. The ideal colour is as near a rich reddish chestnut as possible, deepening on the back and to brownish on the head. The chest and shoulders must be very broad, and the head bold and wide, set on a short, thick neck. A narrow-headed bird, on one "hammer-headed," as it is termed (narrow either at front or back) is to be avoided. The wing markings must be rich and well defined, especially the bar, and those peculiar looking blue-black wing feathers with the metallic sheen. The bib is a most important marking. It should be a perfect V shape, clean cut to a point, and dense, solid black in colour—the wider and bigger the better. A common failing with otherwise good Hawfinches is to run pale in colour on the forehead—such birds are generally, however, on the pale side in colour all over. A Hawfinch will certainly thrive in a large cage in an outdoor bird-room. It should have plenty of good sunflower seed. The haw is the fruit of the Hawthorn (the shrub which bears the "May-blossom").

Feeding a Bullfinch.

P. Blackshaw. Your Bullfinch should do well on the following stock mixture: Canary and teazle, two pints each, sunflower one pint, linseed, summer rape, and charlock, half a pint each. As variety offer daily a pinch of one or the other of these things (in a separate vessel): Maw, niger, hemp, wild seed mixture, thistle and dandelion; also give thistleheads, hardheads, milk thistle, shepherd's purse, groundsel, chickweed, blackberries, privet berries, buds from hawthorn hedge, fruit bushes, etc., as may be in season, some suitable ripe fruit (banana, pear, apple, cherry, orange, etc.), and a small mealworm or two, now and again. This will give you a pretty varied menu to ring the changes upon, and so afford that variety which will keep the bird in good health and condition. Always remember that Bullies are great fruit, bud and berry eaters by nature.

Brevities.

Wintering Birds (Fen).—Providing the half of the greenhouse is as free from damp as you tell me it is from draught, then I have no hesitation in saying that the British birds you name will winter in it all right without recourse being had to artificial heat. They ought to be in big flights, however, where they can get plenty of whig exercise, and have oily heating seeds (hemp, lin seed, sunflower, maw, niger, rape) literally. If you see any of the Canaries looking mopy and miserable, presumably under stress of the weather conditions, then you must at once remove them indoors.

Bare Patches on Mule (F. J. S.).—Catch the Linnet Mule once daily, and anoint the bare spots on its body with a tiny smear of paraffin oil, using the finger-tip to do it with. Be gentle, and rub the way the feathers lie (or should lie, rather) only. Discontinue immediately you perceive, or feel, any new feathers coming through.

Unseemly Conduct (Benjy).—The unseemly and unreasonable behaviour of your cock Goldfinch in trying to feed the hen Canary he was paired to last season, may only be his way of assuring her of a continuance of his favour—or, as likely as not, she, the jade, tempts him to doing it. Anyway, it is pretty plain that while she is about, no other charmer will be likely to suit him. Of course, there is plenty of time to separate them ere the next breeding season is with us; occasionally, however, hen Canaries, especially if kept in living rooms and too well fed, will go to nest with the Christmas pudding—that is to say, of course, while we are eating it.

In an Aviary (W. Baker)—I think your cock Goldie and hen Greenie would be quite all right left in the large aviary (14 by 6 by 4 feet). The only question is whether he would not be likely to mate with one or other of the hen Canaries in preference to the hen Greenfinch (or even with both, Goldies being notorious polygamists in captivity). Of the other ways, No. 2 is better than No. 3, a warm living room being particularly unsuitable in the summer. Goldies in large aviaries are not so prone to smash the eggs as when confined in cages.

A Greenfinch and a Bullfinch (Anxious).—Treat your Greenfinch with paraffin oil, exactly as advised "F.J.S." in this week's issue. Your Bullfinch you should keep in a box-cage, in a cosy corner of a heated living-room, covering the cage-front at night. For two days stir half-a-teaspoonful of dandelion juice (taraxacum), from the chemist, into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, and repeat once or twice, after a day or so's interval on plain water, if it seems necessary. Both birds should be fed well—let both have sunflower seed in plenty. You must make absolutely certain they are not being pestered by red-mite.

About Woodlarks (Woodlarks).—I don't suppose there would be any difference between the song of an English-caught and a Continental-caught Woodlark, though as a matter of patriotism I should plump for the former. The difference in the sexes is explained in the reply to "Cabinet" this week. I don't know where you heard or read the "information" to choose the best coloured and looking specimen, but whoever imparted the same either misunderstood you, or did not know what he was talking about.

Eating Their Excreta (Anxious Enquirer).—If I am not mistaken, I answered this query in last week's issue. Have not a copy by me at moment of writing, but if you turn to my column, I feel sure there appears a reply concerning Thrushes and Blackbirds eating their excreta.

Pairing in an Aviary (Old King Cole).—You, too, seem to be a "jolly old soul," despite your misfortunes. It is certainly extraordinary that the hen Canary should have had four nests and 15 eggs, all infertile, in an aviary containing so many male British birds—they must hold rigid views concerning married fidelity, judging by the way they stuck to their own wives! I think your idea of putting the two Bullies and the cock Goldie and two hen Canaries together in the small aviary next spring, is the right one, and it should lead to success.

Feeding an Owl (J. B. Foster).—You do not say what species the Owl you have trapped is, but I can safely say that it must have flesh food if it is going to live and thrive in captivity—for instance, mice, Sparrows, and other small birds, beetles, pieces of rabbit, the "innards" of fowls, etc., raw beef or mutton, etc. If you cannot undertake to provide these things, you should certainly let this useful creature have its liberty at once.

Bullfinch with "Asthma" (C. M.L.B.).—I answered this (or a very similar) query last week—turn up the answers there. I don't think it is "asthma" at all; hence the inefficiency of the bronchial mixture. If you feel certain it really is bronchial troubles, then keep the bird warm and cosy (covered up at night), and try the lately-boomed cure "B.P. Solution of Coal Tar," obtainable from the chemist—5 or 6 drops in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, fresh daily.

Chaffinch Not Singing (J. H., Cwm).—Look up another answer this week, which deals with the song of the Chaffinch. You are correct in assuming that wild Chaffinches are not now in song. Your feeding seems to be excellent, and your young cock Chaffie is certain to break into song later on. It would be better if you could manage to let him hear the family melody, as produced from the throat of a free-singing old bird.

Foods of Goldfinch (Frenchman).—The food of the Goldfinch is dealt with in another reply this week. The essentials to "show condition" are an early and quick (favourable) moult, and a free-bathing bird. A Goldie which is late breaking into moult is badly handicapped; and a bird which does not tub himself freely comes out deficient in bloom—unless the owner helps by spraying him daily, though this is by no means a perfect substitute. I should not give hemp very plentifully until the moult is drawing to a close; it is held to have a darkening effect on the plumage. Plenty of thistle and hardheads should be provided.

More About the Goldfinch (A. G. H.).—Two other replies this week will afford the information you seek. In addition, I gave the other query a lengthy reply dealing with slow moulting of the blaze, and how to treat it. It is certainly hard lines the bird persistently declines to bathe. Have you tried him in a large cage, containing a bath and another bird, which uses the tub freely? This method often succeeds in inducing the one to emulate the splashing exploits of the other. When you want advice, put explicitly the points you desire it upon—a vague general question is difficult to deal with.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Cockatoo Pulling its Feathers.

F. M.—I fear your bird has been improperly fed, and till I know how you have been feeding I can only advise at a venture. At any rate, the bird must have a bath, and to be quite secure against parasites, spray it every other day with quassia solution, taking the precaution to keep it out of draughts till dry. Give it an aperient, one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in two tablespoonsful of water, letting it have only this to drink for one day; after an interval of three days repeat the dose. When not giving the magnesia, for the next month make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food. Keep a piece of clean cuttlefish in its cage. Diet: a seed mixture of oats, wheat, hemp, dari, maize, canary and sunflower seeds in equal parts. Also give, not altogether, but so as to keep a varied diet, such ripe fruit as it will eat, green food, boiled potato (dry), plain biscuit, and raw carrot. Do not give table scraps, slops, or any kind of animal food. However you have been feeding, change to above diet as soon as possible, but do not let the change be too sudden. However, if you have been giving slops, these must be stopped at once—recovery of plumage in such case is not rapid, and the treatment must be persevered with.

Grey Parrot Ill.

No Name.—It is very difficult to advise you in such a case; while you cannot let the bird starve, milk sop is a most unwholesome diet for a Grey Parrot, and as soon as you can get it on to boiled maize do so, again weaning it from this on to the seed mixture as early as possible. Note: the boiled milk should be made fresh twice daily, and the boiled maize only keeps fresh one day. The food vessels should be thoroughly cleansed for each occasion. Give the bird three doses of Dinneford's Magnesia, one teaspoonful in the milk sop or over the boiled maize at intervals of three days. Keep the bird in a warm room and out of draught. You had better write again on seeing this, sending me full particulars as to how you have been feeding the bird. Let her get quite hungry before feeding her, so as to induce her to take more wholesome food. If it is troubled with intervals of weakness, let it have a few sips of water containing a few drops of brandy.

What Bird?

W. M. S.—Your bird is the Grey-headed, Lavender-headed, or Madagascar Lovebird; the plumage of the hen is similar, but she lacks the grey head of the male. Diet: Canary, millet, spray millet, oats, green food, cuttlefish, and water, ad. lib. Personally, I should hardly call this an exhibition bird, but if it is in finest condition it might possibly catch the judge's eye. It should be entered in the class for "Budgerigars and all Lovebirds," or if exhibited at a show when the classification was limited to Seedeaters and Insectivorous, it should be entered as Seedeater. If the classes were for Hardbills and Softbills, it should be entered as a Hardbill.

Parrot with Swollen Tongue.

T. F. Huddersfield.—From the details you supply, I cannot even guess at a possible cause, unless it has been chewing up splintery wood, and has got a splinter fixed in its tongue, in which case, of course, it must be removed. You had better let a vet. see it, if it still lives when you see this reply. If there had been an address on your query, I should have dropped you a postcard, as it came to hand just too late to appear in last issue. If it still lives, and you require further advice, write at once with fullest details, including how you have been dieting the bird.

Another Feather Puller.

Binks.—Spray the parts it is in the habit of picking with quassia solution every other day. Keep the bird carefully out of draught till dry. Make its drinking quite saline for one day only, with Epsom Salts, repeating the dose as may be necessary to keep its bowels moving freely, but not watery loose. On the days you are not giving the salts, make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food. Diet: Canary, oats, wheat, dari, hemp and small Indian maize; get a quart of each, well mix, and it will last some time. Also give ripe fruit, plain biscuit, nuts (monkey nuts will not harm the bird, but shelled walnuts are better), green food (lettuce is best at this season), cuttlefish, and water, ad. lib. You must persevere with this treatment, as feather-picking is a vice not readily given up, once a bird becomes confirmed in it.

Parrot Passing Worm.

Beginner.—I do not remember the details of my previous reply; but you cannot do better than continue the treatment already advised, with the addition of, say, three doses of areca nut powder, as much as will lie on a sixpence, with a day's interval between each dose. The best way to administer it will be on a piece of biscuit, madeira cake, or something similar that the bird will eat, slightly damp it with water and sprinkle the powder on same. Possibly the bird will be left a little weak after the trouble has passed; if I have not already advised a course of Parrish's Chemical Food, you must put it on same for a month at least; you will see directions in several replies to other querists in this issue.

What Parrakeet?

Ignoramus.—Yes, your supposition is quite correct; it is a Quaker Parrakeet. We are always glad to help our readers, and you are quite right in not desiring to keep a bird if you don't know how to keep it. However, the treatment of the Quaker is about as easy as any of the Parrakeets. Let it have a staple mixture of canary, hemp, oats, dari, and sunflower seeds in about equal parts, green food (I find this species prefers lettuce to anything else), cuttlefish, grit, a little plain biscuit, and water ad. lib. It should be able to take a bath in warm weather daily, every other day will do at this season, but you must keep it out of draught till dry. It is a hardy species, and will thrive on above treatment if it is kept free from draught, and its cage gets a daily clean.

A Talking Mynah.

F. Edwards.—These birds are most interesting, and their articulation is clearer than that of a Parrot. Certainly, carefully remove the tail feathers, say, two every other day till the whole are removed. If the bird is healthy it will not harm it at all, and they will soon be reproduced. Yes, it should have a good chance of catching the judge's eye when it is in full feather, providing, of course, it is perfect in every way—that is, no claws missing, etc. If the bird was mine, and as loquacious as you state yours is, I certainly should not accept less than £5 for it. As regards diet, give ripe fruit, table scraps, and some good soft food mixture; a good mixture consists of two parts crushed puppy biscuit, and one part each dried flies, ants' eggs, and mashed potato. A few mealworms daily, and also such beetles, spiders, earwigs, etc., as you can capture should be given.

Parrot Not Growing its Feathers

Tail.—I presume you are feeding this bird as advised in this column regularly. Keep a piece of clean cuttlefish bone in its cage and put it on a course of Parrish's Chemical Food; for directions see other replies in this issue. I cannot advise the keeping of two Parrots in one cage, unless as youngsters they had been together from the beginning, and even then, when fully adult, I have known them have to be separated, to save them from tearing one another to pieces. Read carefully other replies re Grey Parrots, and you should be in no difficulty as to dieting your bird.

Illness of Grey Parrot.

T. B.—Pass a small feather that has been dipped in olive oil, gently and carefully up the nostrils when they become blocked, also spray same with diluted glyco-thymoline at intervals till relief is given. It will do no harm if a little of the solution be swallowed. If the bird will let you handle it, give it four drops of tincture of opium in the morning, and repeat the dose again in the evening. Two doses should be sufficient to give relief. Till the bird has recovered, do not leave the water in the cage, but let it have a few sips two or three times a day. If the bird will not let you handle it, take away its drinking water overnight, and then in the morning put five drops of tincture of opium in a tablespoonful of water, and let it have only this to drink for two days; of course, it would require a fresh lot for the second day. After the cold has yielded, put it on a course of Parrish's Chemical Food. For directions see other replies in this issue.

Parrot not well.

M. Wright.—Give the bird one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its drinking water for one day only, repeating the operation after an interval of three days. Spray its nostrils twice a day with diluted glyco-thymoline. Get from your chemist the following mixture: oxymel of squills, Ipecacuanha wine and glycerine, in equal parts, and put one teaspoonful of this mixture in two tablespoonsful of water, and let it have only this to drink for a few days. Keep it warm and out of draught, and feed as advised to other querists in this and past issues. The bird is in a very bad condition, and you had better report progress in a week's time.

Linnet—Singing Finch.

Dunster.—I see no reason why you should not succeed with this cross; of course, as with many others, success may not attend the first effort, but I certainly think you should ultimately succeed with it. As regards diet, supply food in two hoppers, one containing your usual Linnet mixture and the other a mixture of canary and millet. Neither bird will take harm from eating any portion of the other's mixture. Of course, you will supply green food, cuttlefish, grit and water for drinking and bathing. The Green Singing Finch has crossed with the Canary, and also with the Grey Singing Finch. Shall be interested to hear the result of your experiment.

Causes of Feather Eating.

P. W. M.—I have never suggested that there were not other causes than "injudicious feeding" for the annoying habit of feather eating or plucking; but I do maintain that seven-eighths, if not more, of the cases that have come to my knowledge over a long period have arisen from that cause; ennui is responsible in some cases, and in others it is shear vice. I do not anticipate your bird will persist in it; a valuable Hawkhead I have, which is now in perfect feather, when the moult started about this time last year, pulled all the feathers off the underparts, till only down was left; and I should say that yours will duly come right; at the same time I should continue the use of the quassia solution so as to make sure about the parasites, every other day for a fortnight; this will also make its plumage bitter and distasteful to the bird. If it appears in a heated condition, give it two or three doses of Dinneford's Magnesia at intervals of three days; see other replies for directions. Your diet is perfectly satisfactory, and I should say its temporary vice would soon be checked.

Grey Parrot's Indigestion.

G. H.—It is a bad case of indigestion. Keep the bird warm and out of draught; for one day only put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia over its boiled maize. Do not leave its drinking water in the cage; let it become thirsty, and then let it have a few sips of water, into which you have put two drops of laudanum to, say, a tablespoonful of water. The next day dissolve five grains bicarbonate of potash in one ounce of water, and the bird have only this to drink till relief is given; of course, a fresh quantity must be dissolved daily. You must continue the boiled maize till you can get it to eat a dry seed mixture. Canary seed is very wholesome for it, if it will eat it in quantity, add to it a little hemp, wheat and sunflower seeds; I shall be very much surprised if it does not soon take to this. I am certainly of the opinion that the diarrhœa has been caused by a little of the maize getting into some corner, has gone sour, and been eaten by the bird. The vessel containing such foods as boiled maize should be scalded out daily. Have you tried it with ripe apple and grapes?

Parrot with Ragged Feathers.

R. Ellis.—Of course, the bird continuously spreading out its feathers against the wires of cage, has contributed in a measure to the ruggedness, but I am of the opinion the bird is troubled with parasites, and I should advise spraying it every other day for a fortnight to make sure of this; it will do no harm, at any rate, so long as you keep out of draught till dry. Simply leave out the dari and oats from the mixture, as this particular individual does not care for them. From the appearance of the feather sent, I do not think the bird has moulted yet, and after a year's use the tail and flight feathers are more or less ragged, especially with such individuals as are fond of fluttering against sides of cage. There is no disease as far as I can see, only probable signs of parasites and "wear and tear." After the moult the feathers would, I should say, be fine and nominal. If it is the bird's first year in this country, it may not moult till next year. Read other replies on this topic and compare with your own case.

What Birds?

Zebra.—Your query came too late for last issue, and I cannot now give you a definite reply. You have some small and uncommon species of the Tanagridæ, but just what particular species I cannot say at the moment, but shall hope to do so next week. It is the size of the birds that constitutes the chief difficulty of the query. I presume you have not underestimated this in the case of the smallest bird? The diet advised is satisfactory, but I should also give a mixture of crumbled sponge cake, dried flies, and ants' eggs, made just crumbly moist, about equal portions of each. I should also give sand on cage bottom, but if they have been deprived of this for awhile it must be only given a very little at a time till they get accustomed to it.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (C. Griffiths).—Chronic softening of liver, feverishness and acute pneumonia, ending with apoplexy.

Grey Parrot (C. W. Armstrong).—Well established disease of liver, malnutrition, feverishness, pneumonia, a great many Grey Parrots go off in this way.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Photograph (J. Pearce Sampson).—If the photograph proves suitable for reproduction in our columns, we shall be delighted to print it.

Show Report (S. H. W. Baker).—Your report was "crowded out," the very severe pressure of space being responsible for this. You have our best thanks for the courtesy extended to our representative, and best wishes for your society's success.

Eulogy of Show (Claud).—We are always glad to give praise where praise is due, and the show you now enquire had full justice done to it in our report. Consequently, as it mainly repeats what we have already said, we do not feel justified in publishing your letter, seeing how much matter we have waiting patiently to get into our pages.

Back Numbers (F. Burgess).—The back numbers you want containing the articles on weeds and seeds are Aug. 17 and Sept. 7, post free, three pence.

Caged Birds and Consumption (F. C. Parker).—This old scare of Dr. Tucker Wise's was exploded long ago, but the medico-scientific rag of the "siftings" order periodically dish it up to "shock" their readers. It has yet to be proved that Canaries and similar small birds ever suffer from consumption. Authorities quite good enough for us say they do not.

Partnerships (Pearson and Knowles).—We have a distinct recollection of your letter reaching us, and can only assume our printers mislaid the copy. It shall certainly appear this week, and we very much regret the delay.

On Friday (Grocer).—You should have no difficulty in getting CAGE BIRDS on the Friday, and the fault must lie with the newsagent. Will you let us know his address if the delay continues?

Paper, etc. (T. Pope).—Your paper and report reached us too late to deal with this week, but shall have our attention in next issue.

Distributing Specimens. (A. E. Pudney).—Many thanks for your kindness in giving away specimen copies to likely subscribers. As we have said before, this is just the kind of practical help we like.

Paper (J. T. C.).—Paper safely to hand, for which accept our thanks. Shall hope to publish it in the near future.

Trumpet Blowing (Preston).—We cannot see that any good purpose would be served by the publication of your letter. Readers can always refer to the report of the show.

OUR COLOURED PLATE.

A Blend of Canary Blood.

Mr. Norman's coloured plate of some Hybrids with Canary blood in them, which accompanies this week's Double Number, will, I think, command the admiration of all lovers of birds, and especially those devoted to the fascinating pursuit of Mule-breeding. Nothing of its kind has, I venture to say, ever been placed before the Fancy that can approach it for correctness of colouring and delineation, combined with artistic effect. All the birds have evidently been studied and painted from winning specimens of the various varieties depicted.

The Jonque (yellow) dark Siskin-Canary shows the blend of parental characteristics and colouring to perfection; and this may be said with equal truth of the four other Mules seen on the plate. The rich colour and white edging to the wing-flights of the Linnet, the striking characteristics which the Goldie never fails to impart to any cross in which it enters, and the influence of the Greenfinch on the shape of its progeny, will be revealed to even the least discerning eye. What would not the enthusiastic Mule breeder give to produce two such grand birds as the lightly-marked Greenie and the four-pointed Goldie? I think he would be tempted to "give his ears," as the old saying has it. If it were not for the risk of sacrificing my chances in the matrimonial market, I know I should feel tempted to offer mine.—G. E. WESTON.

Sparrow Hawk's Interesting Encounter.

For some time I have kept a male Sparrow-Hawk, writes Mr. W. Greenhalgh, sometimes on leash and stoop and sometimes in a compartment of an outhouse. The other night my boy brought home a bustling little Pekin Bantam cock and an old English game spangled Bantam hen. They were put into a compartment next to the Hawk for the night. Next morning when the doors were opened the Bantam cock went for the Sparrow-Hawk with great ferocity. He knocked the Hawk "all over the shop" at every charge, and celebrated his victory by vociferous crowing. The Hawk never once became the assailant, but he stood his ground and met each impetuous charge with "a right and left" from his sharp talons, delivered with the celerity and agility of an accomplished pugilist, and never once tried to use his powerful hooked beak. At each stroke the Hawk merely grasped a "handful" of the Bantam's feathers. Had he been able to "hind on" to a limb with his talons, the combat might have ended otherwise, but the Bantam cock was too alert to give his opponent that advantage.

Another grand Annual Show.

Once again this great carnival of birds, the "Palace Show" of the Midlands, held November 14 and 15, leaves its mark in the history of the Cage Bird World. Every year we are treated to an assembly of the feathered tribes that for quality and value, cannot be excelled at any show. Being practically the greatest "nursery" in the Kingdom for the Crested Canary, it is no wonder that every year (as a rule) we see superb arrays of Crests and crestbreds, far away eclipsing in quantity and quality even the great Palace Show itself. Our report last year spoke of the super-excellence of the Crest classes and the praise then given was justly merited. This year what is our duty? Well! although the total in entries is less than last year, on the whole the high class of the Crest section is well maintained, with nearly all the exhibits of first-class merit. True, one or two of the cracks failed to respond to a most liberal classification, still, merit was in abundance. Messrs. Norwood Bros. came out with a strong team, and the rest of the spoil was shared by G. Colledge, T. J. King, W. Bowyer, Goode, Peace, Eley, Onion, Radley, Piper, Mills, White, Edwards, Hayes, Bemrose, Bowers etc.—evidence of an extending field of crest breeders here.

British Birds created very strong competition, and some of the highest class specimens seen this season fought battles for supremacy. Messrs. Hurst, Axe, R. Howe, Chick, Andrews, Hunt, Goode, Ride, Hakes, Lewis and Dymond, Pawlett, Barnes and Hedworth accounted for most of the prizes. Goldfinches were very good. Bullfinches few, but good, and Linnets for the nonce a small class, but good also. The North Country shows this week had big entries in Linnets, which no doubt accounted for the small entry here. The A.O.V. class saw a wonderful Hawfinch win somewhat easily. Mr. Hurst's crack Bramble for some reason or other was marked absent. The insectivorous classes were a real study, and many and varied both large and small—were the charming species on view, all in magnificent plumage. The winning Wryneck and Chough were in the pink of condition, as also the winning Thrush. Mr. Hakes put down a superb Albino Blackbird in its class, really grand. The Canary hybrid classes were only fairly representative, probably owing to the classification, as some crosses had no class wherein to be shown. The "Pairs for Hybrid Breeding" class was very interesting and instructive. The Foreign Section was a real treat in many respects. The Pair of Silver-eared Mesias, shown by Mr. Harrison—the best pair ever exhibited, we were told—are magnificent in colour and condition. The Violet Eared Waxbill of Mr. F. Howes is simply perfection, while the large foreign were very fine, and were led by a very good Scarlet Macaw. The Novice Norwich and Crests were far above the usual run of novices' birds. There was the usual Talking Parrot Competition, the prize to be awarded by the committee.

The Special Prize List was so stupendous that it actually covered 7 pages of the schedule. The value was extraordinary and fanciers who don't send here do miss a treat in specials, and no mistake. Titled personages grace the list of Patrons, and the officials comprised Messrs. R. Rhodes (chairman), G. C. Ley (vice-chairman), committee, Messrs. T. Barker, H. J. Chick, J. H. Northage, J. Bertie, J. Goode, J. Onion, A. Onion, L. Burrows, T. Haywood, F. Cooke, F. Walters, F. Holbrook, hon. treasurer, Mr. Rhodes; hon. auctioneer, G. H. Scotton. The hon. sec., Mr. G. E. Wilkinson, we have often eulogised in the past. Truly he is a wonderful fellow at his work, meeting every requirement in quite an ideal way. His committee work like machinery, one and all tackling their work manfully. Messrs. R. Rhodes, G. C. Ley, and J. Northage are an invaluable trio and have the success of the Notts. Society and its Shows at heart, and spare neither time, trouble or expense to this end. Great credit is due to the rest of the Committee for their active services, which led to so fine a success. The Mechanics' Hall is a beautifully lighted room, and most suitable, one we have often described. The staging arrangements this year were on the rack principle, a great improvement on the ordinary tables, besides allowing the visitors much extra space. The top of these tiers was decorated with very choice plants, and the whole nicely draped, so that the room presented a very charming and cosy appearance. A large case containing the very valuable cups, silver plate, and suchlike articles (being some of the special prizes offered) was a great attraction, and many envious eyes gazed that way. A great concourse of fanciers came from all parts for miles around, many from very long distances. Lancashire men were much in evidence—the Norwich Plainhead Club Show and meeting, and the Lancashire and Lizard Show bringing them up in force. The show on the whole made a pretty picture, crowds of admirers of the foreign birds, ladies particularly, came and went, and took great interest in the Talking Parrots. The gate was very little less than last year on the first day, and it is hoped the 2nd day will create another record. The Judges were:—Norwich, Mr. J. H. Payne; Crests, Mr. W. E. Greeves; Lancs. and Lizards, Mr. R. Clegg; Clns. and Sell., Mr. J. H. Roe; Hyb. Brit. and For., Mr. Chas. Houlton.

The Norwich Plainhead Club Show.

Entries came up well in the ten classes, having a total of 171. The quality was first-class, many gems of the first water being staged. The competition in most of the classes was very keen, and very little divided the placed birds. The special for best in this section went to that well-known winner of Mr. Evans', the ticked buff "Sign of the Cross." The special for best opposite colour to winner of gold medal fell to Mr. Vardy's buffighted yellow, a real good youngster which, with luck, should make a name for itself. This exhibitor also staged another gem in the winner in the unevenly marked yellow class, a bird full of quality, and rich in colour. Another grand youngster was Messrs. Beardall and Walker's winner in unflighted buffs, a true Norwich in shape, and combining with plenty of size, all the good qualities of the variety. The winners in the hen classes were simply grand, and it would be a tough job to find their equal. We hardly knew which to admire the most, and had we to choose one, it would indeed be a case of "How happy could I be with either were t'other dear charmer away." The five Amateur Classes averaged just under 25 per class, and we doubt if ever a better lot has been staged by amateurs—what struck us most forcibly was the excellent quality of the birds in the unflighted classes, a good sign this, as it clearly shows the young breeders are advancing. There is one thing certain, the amateurs—or, perhaps, to be correct, we should say the majority of those that exhibited on this occasion—do not require much teaching in the art of colour feeding, as many of the exhibits were almost, if not quite, equal to those in the open classes. Altogether we should say the Norwich F.C. Show of 1907 must be set down a great success.

NOR. CL. YELL (16): 1, Booth, rich, deep, solid colour, well extended down flights and tail, good shape, gets well over perch, flights well packed, and tail closely folded; 2, Bishop, grand size and shape, good head and full neck, wings and tail well braced, not quite so high in quality; 3, Trengove, good-shaped body, nice head and neck, full quality, short in wings and tail; 4, Morris, grand shape, nice quality, full, clean head, short wings and tail, a bit patchy, which let it down; vhc, Shore, good colour, good in feather; hc, Nutt, nice shape and quality, a bit groggy on its "pins"; c, Vardy. GIFT (8): 1, Onion; 2, Goode; 3, Cottingham; 4, Cooke; vhc, Rowson; hc, Kirkham; c, Hill.

The Lancashires and Lizards.

The Lancashire numbered only 40 in 8 classes. Surely there is something not working correctly in the Lancashire Fancy. Here there was an extended classification, good special prizes, and a specialist judge, and the fancy responded in such a poor manner. We are afraid our Nottingham friends will be very reluctant to again offer such a classification. We noticed the absence of several good birds, which might easily have been expected to compete here—that is, if they wanted to face good competition. Anyhow, if the numbers were small, the quality was fairly good all round. CL. YELL. COPPY: 1, King, nice formation of Coppy, plenty of substance, not the best of position, otherwise a very good bird; 2,3, Lee, better position, but short of substance, nice condition, good head; 3, split in coppy, otherwise of nice quality and type, very fair size; 4, Garner, plenty of substance, shade weak in coppy, only a young bird, and later will show to better advantage. CL. BUFF: 1, 3, Garner, grand head, with beautiful flowing coppy, plenty of substance, nice position and carriage, 3rd nice frontal, slight break, very nice substance and stand; 2, King, very fair all-round bird, fails a little to winner in head properties, nice substance, good carriage; 4, Oldham, well up in size, very fair length and position; vhc, Rushton. CL. YELL. PLAINHEAD: 1, 2, Rushton, winner grand bird, bold head, thick neck, well carried wings and tail, good back, plenty of substance, nice position, 2nd nice head and neck, very fair substance, stands well; 3, Garner, good head and neck, a bit short of substance, but a right one for position; 4, Nelson, grand head, nice substance and length. CL. BUFF: 1, King, grand head and neck, plenty of substance, clings a little to the perch; 2, Garner, good, upstanding bird, only just beaten in head and neck, very close up; 3, Rushton, typical bird, nice substance and stand; 4, Vickers, another bird of good character, nice head and neck, hardly length enough; vhc, Oldham; hc, Nelson. TICKED COPPY, grand class: 1, 2, hc, Rushton, 1st yellow, abundance of fine frontal coppy, lovely head and neck, nice feather, good position, 2nd buff, grand coppy, head and neck, plenty of substance, close run; 3, Lee, yellow, nice frontal coppy, very typical, excellent style and position; 4, Vickers, close run with a buff, of good quality, beautiful frontal coppy, good head and neck; vhc, Whipp; c, Nelson. TICK PLAINHEAD: 1, 2, Oldham, 1st yellow, grand head and neck, nice substance, good position, 2nd very fine bird, beaten in position a trifle; 3, Garner, yell., good head and neck, nice position and carriage, close up; 4, Vickers, plenty of substance, good head, but stands too close to perch. COPPY HEN: 2, 4, Garner, 2nd fair frontal coppy, nice style, fair substance; 3, Vickers, nice carriage, but not big enough for a buff. PLAINHEAD HENS: 1, Lee; 2, Whipp; 3, Nelson; three grand hens, all yellows, winner excels in all properties, there was not much to choose between 2nd and 3rd; 4, Vickers, very nice buff; vhc, Garner; hc, Rushton.

The Lizards numbered 68 in 6 classes, and the competition was keen throughout. The visitors were much impressed with the high standard of quality exhibited by these birds, it being the finest show of Lizards seen for some time. Mr. Clegg, who made the awards, on this occasion, gave every bird his careful consideration, and his awards seemed generally satisfactory. GOLD, CL. CAP (11): 1, Lawton, nice cap on a good, bold head, rich, level ground-colour, clear and distinct spangle, good breast markings; 2, Rukin, nice cap, clear, bold spangle, very distinct, fails a little on one side in ground colour, otherwise a grand bird; 3, 4, Whipp, 3rd nice quality of mark, rich in ground colour, 4th a smart bird beaten only in quality of work; vhc, Hampshire; hc, c, J. Dewsnap. SILVER (13): 1, 2, Whipp, 1st, a grand bird, clear and distinct spangle, rich ground-colour, breast work in profusion, 2nd not quite so good in ground-colour, but bold in spangle, very neat, a good one; 3, hc, J. Dewsnap, 3rd plenty of work, good shape, very fair in colour; 4, Hampshire, another good bird, nice moons, standing well out, breast marks good; vhc, hc, Lawton. GOLD BROKEN CAP (9): 1, hc, Lawton, 1st, grand bird, tip-top in spangle, sound ground colour, with plenty of breast work; 2, vhc, Whipp, 2nd warm in colour, nice and bold in spangle, a close run; 3, J. Dewsnap, patch cap, well up in colour, plenty of work, trifle short of volume in the rowing; 4, Rukin, good colour, good amount of work throughout, but rather too fine; c, Hampshire. SILVER (13): 1, Hampshire, sound in ground colour, bold in spangle, and plenty of it, distinct breast marks, and an old bird at that, an instance of remarkable preservation of show properties; 2, vhc, J. Dewsnap, 2nd clear and distinct spangling, very good in ground colour, a fine bird; 3, W. Dewsnap, plenty of work, but not uniform in distribution, nice shape and ground colour; 4, Fisher, nice moons, but inclined too much to centre, very fair bird in every other respect; hc, Lawton; c, Ollerenshaw and Son. GOLD HENS: 1, 2, Rukin, 1st, clear cap, good spangling, rich ground colour, very good black, 2nd broken cap, close on winner, excels at all points; 3, Whipp, clear cap, with some good spangling, but not quite extended enough, rich ground colour, fine shape; 4, hc, J. Dewsnap, 4th nice, sound colour, very fair work; vhc, Fisher. SILVER HEN (14): 1, 4, Hampshire, 1st grand hen, good, sound colour, plenty of work, one of the right sort, 4th very fine work, but rather irregular; 2, Fisher, another real good hen, may fail to winner in spangle a little, but a grand one; 3, Whipp, nice bird, very bold work, rather lighter in ground colour than leaders; vhc, Lawton; hc, J. Dewsnap; c, Ollerushaw and Son.

Crests and Crestbreds.

NOR. CRESTED A.V. YELL. (6): 1, Bowers, grand variegated Crest of fair size, good formation and nice quality; 2, Colledge, dark tail and marked one wing, large body of nice quality, and well shown, crest a little thin; 3, Alex. Onion, heavily variegated, neat crest, but slight break at side; 4, Cooper, crest a little thin, good body, very nice type; vhc, J. T. King, not yet ready; hc, J. Gilbert. BUFF DARK CREST (11): 1, Bowyer, massive, heavily variegated bird, with a large crest, nice droop, and quality of feather, not quite so dense as some, but a good bird and well shown; 2, J. Bowers, variegated, crest large, but fails a little in density of feather, large good-bodied bird; 3, Norward Bros., close up with 2nd, may be a shade smaller, but has a well-made crest; 4, Evans, equally good in shape and quality, but not quite so large; vhc, Colledge, Norwood Bros.; hc, J. T. King, W. H. Bale; c, W. Brown, F. G. Ball. BUFF, CLEAR OR GREY CREST (7): 1, Colledge, a grizzle, with a perfect formed crest, nice droop, dense in feather, of nice quality, on a grand, massive body; 2, Norwood Bros., an immense crest with a heavy frontal, centre a trifle too far back, and not quite so circular as winner, but still a grand specimen; 3, Ball, very similar, but not so large, has a grand body; 4, J. T. King, dense feathered grizzle crest, slightly broken at sides, not quite finished, will still improve; vhc, J. Onion; hc, c, Evins Bros. HENS, A.V. (9): 1, 4, Norwood Bros., 1st clear body, dark crest, a big hen with a grand body and large crest, nice veiny feather, but a trifle thin, which causes it to wave about, but quite the lady and a show bird all over; 4th clear body, dark crest of nice formation, but loses in size; 2, Piper, heavily variegated, with a large dense feathered crest, immense frontal, but weak at back, which slightly tilts, this slight fault shows to a great disadvantage on such a grand frontal; 3, Colledge, nearly green, dense, well-made crest, but not quite the quality of 2nd; vhc, J. T. King; Evins Bros.; hc, Davis. PAIRS, MATCHED (5): 1, Norwood Bros., green, with light tail, large bird, heavily feathered, with a nice circular crest of good size, with a lightly-marked crestbred, well-clothed head, and heavily browed, grand stock pair; 2, Wolfe, another monster crested bird, marked wings, crest hardly equal in size to winner but well made, with a heavily variegated crestbred, fair head, useful pair; 3, Wood John, crest good in shape and feather, good body, nearly green, with an equally good crestbred; 4, Cowportwaite, a very taking crest, lovely veiny feather, but not so dense as winners, with a big crestbred with fair head feather. NOR. A.V. YELL., YOUNG BIRDS 1907 (8): 1, Bemrose, heavily variegated with a very neat crest, wins 21/- special for the best young yellow crest; 2, Cooper, a bird with a larger body, marked wings, crest not ready, will make a useful bird later on; 3, Colledge, clear yellow dark crest, weak at sides, nice body; 4, Goode, nice, heavily-variegated crest; vhc, Mills; hc, J. T. King; c, Bemrose. BUFF, YOUNG BIRDS 1907 (16): 1, Peace, wing marked, thick-set youngster, with a large, densely-feathered crest, very fine centre drooping well all round back, well filled in, takes the C.C.C. 21/- special, also special for best Crest in the show; 2, Brown William, green or nearly so, large crest of nice formation, lacks droop of winner; 3, Davis, clear body, dark crest, a very promising youngster, with a good moult another year will make a grand bird, but must be shown in better condition; 4, Goode, heavily variegated behind winners in size; vhc, J. T. King, Mills; hc, Jacklin, Colledge; c, (2) Alex. Onion. SELL. £2 (11): 1, Hayes, wing marked with a good body, crest large, well filled in at back; 2, Goode, a green, hardly so good in body, but not much to choose in crest; 3, Wayte, a bird with nice quality of feather, well radiated crest and fairly thick, quickly claimed; 4, Wood, heavily variegated, runs 3rd very closely, hardly so big; vhc, c, Onion; hc, Northage. DITTO £1 (5): 1, Goode, big body, very full neck, crest a bit narrow at sides; 2, Edwards, a fair-sized crest with nice frontal and good quality, fails in body, which is thin; 3, White, a good quality crest, with a nice amount of feather, but loses in radiation; 4, Cooper, neat crest, good body, nearly green; vhc, Onion; hc, Kirkham; c, Wolfe. CRESTED BRED YELL. COCK (10): 1, J. T. King, a large, nice cushioned head, with plenty of feather of nice quality, and well shown; 2, 3, Bowyer, heavily variegated, head if anything larger than winner, but not so shapely, but a good bird; 3rd better made head than 2nd, but scarcely the density of head feather; 4, Cooper, heavily variegated; vhc, Wayte; hc, Eley; c, Forman. YELLOW HEN (4): 1, Eley, grand big hen, with a good head and plenty of feather; 2, Wolfe, not such a big bird, but a nice stout-made one, behind winner in head properties; 3, Cowportwaite, useful bird, lightly variegated, well made head but not in condition; 4, J. T. King, head has narrow entrance, fair amount of feather of nice quality. BUFF COCK (11): 1, Radley, heavily variegated, a monster in size, very large head, wide and nicely arched with a wealth of head feather, far ahead of any other Crestbred in the show; 2, Bowyer, big bold bird, very heavily feathered head; 3, J. Onion, clear, another big one, heavily built throughout, dense head feather, well browed; 4, Cowportwaite, lightly marked, very fine quality of feather, plenty on head; vhc, Colledge, Norwood Bros.; hc, Eley; c, Davis. BUFF HEN (13): 1, Piper, lightly marked saddle, a big head with plenty of feather; 2, Evans, a bird of nice quality feather, heavily variegated behind the winner in head qualification; 3, Norwood Bros., lightly marked, rather small head, but shapely and well feathered; 4, Goode, heavily variegated, loses in condition only; vhc, Davis; hc, Evans; c, Evins Bros. YELL. UNFLIG. (18): 1, Goode, heavily variegated, big, bold bird for a youngster, nice cushion head, plenty of feather; 2, Colledge, heavily variegated, smaller, but fairly well up; 3, Jacklin, heavily variegated, not much to choose between this and third; 4, Wayte; vl, big bird, stout body, fails only in head; vhc, Cooper. BUFF (17): 1, Mills, heavily variegated, grand youngster, nice and big, full of quality, has a grand head, with an abundance of feather, nicely browed; 2, Evins Bros., marked left wing, another smart youngster, not quite the head feather of winner; 3, Moore, heavily variegated, well clothed head, good formation, slightly horned, has a good, stout body; 4, J. T. King, variegated, nice made head and short beak; vhc, Roberts, Mills; hc, Wolfe, Crow; c, Goode, Wayte; Alex. Onion. CREST-BRED SELL. (£2) (17): 1, White, clear, splendid head, good length of feather, well browed, nice quality; 2, Radley, heavily variegated, lot of body feather, bit flat in head, but nicely browed and well shown; 3, Norwood Bros., clear equally good, headfeather; 4, Holmes, heavily variegated, similar stamp of bird to others; vhc, Jacklin, Good; hc, J. Onion, Hayes; c, Wayte, Hayes. NOVICE CREST (15): 1, Mason, big green bird, with light tail, well made throughout, large crest, nice formation, could win in good company; 2, 4, Lazarus, marked right wing, has very large, dense crest, with good frontal.

4 variegs., has a nice, heavily feathered crest, good frontal; 3, Crow, nice drooping crest, well filled in front, a fine centre, well shown; vhc, Mason, Johnson; hc, c, Hodgkinson, Johnson; c, Mason. CREST-BRED (16): 1, 2, Johnson, green, nice typical head, plenty of feather, slightly horned, has a grand body, 2, clear, good head, fair amount of feather on it; 3, Barker, yellow green, and in its class would stand well, good bird all round; 4, Cottingham, lightly marked, big bird, nice made head, feather dence; vhc, Mason (2); hc, Crow, Lazarus; c, Benrose, Hodgkinson.

Mr. Houlton's Classes.

GOLDFINCH (8): 1, Hurst, looks like last year's champion coming into form again, deep in colour all over, just a little more gloss and will finish into a gem; 2, Axe, fine face, nice moons and bars, good shape, beaten in body, brown, nice feather and condition; 3, Pawlett, big blaze, nice breast and general finish, well mooned, good size body; 4, Andrews, fine colour all through, nice moons and bars; vhc, Riley; hc, Turney; c, Gration. GALASHIELS.

47th annual exhibition held Nov. 16th, and it proved a great success. The entries were well up to former years, and in advance on last year. This being one of the great breeding centres of the bird o' circle, Scotch Fancies held a prominent position, and came up in good numbers. The quality throughout was well maintained. Mr. McLennan still led with four wins, but Messrs. King, Hope, McMillan, Dobson, Pringle, and Allan had forward some grand exhibits, and had their share of the spoil. Many noted cracks were on view, the high standard of past shows being well maintained to-day. Messrs. Fulton and McDougal judged, and after careful consultation spotted the winners, to the general satisfaction. Borders followed, and were here in force, all the leading studs being represented by grand specimens. The section fulfilled every expectation of the committee. Here, again, a veteran, Mr. H. Bennett, led, capturing four firsts, while Messrs. Allan, Linton, Gilchrist, Watson, McKenzie, Duncan, and others were among the "shareholders." The quality throughout in this section was of the highest order, some real gems being on view. They were judged by Mr. William Haddow, and he took great pains, and found the winners in the majority of cases to the fanciers' satisfaction. Mr. Haddow, being a West country judge, does not handle his birds in the same fashion as his Eastern brethren, but believes more in judging on the table. Both ways have their good points, but it created a great discussion at the show as to what style a Border should be judged in. The Norwich were good, totalling 33 in two classes. British and Foreign were on the whole a nice collection, the Goldfinch and Foreign classes being the best, some gems being staged in grand trim. Crests made up a nice collection, the three leading birds being good ones. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged those varieties, and his awards appeared to meet with approval. Very little grumbling, in fact, was to be heard throughout the show. The hall is one of the best, grandly lighted and free from draught, while the management is extra good, not a detail overlooked, and everyone at his post working with the greatest energy! The stewards were:—Scotch Fancies: the veteran, Mr. A. Melrose (no other place need be allowed him, except the Fancies); Borders, Mr. Tait, and Varieties, another old and esteemed member, Mr. Henderson, three gentlemen who know their work thoroughly. The secretarial duties were again in the hands of the genial Mr. Alexander Smith, who knows how a show should be run to the best advantage. He was ably assisted by Mr. Denby, who had charge of the financial department. Catalogues were on sale early, and the show was well patronized by visitors, and should prove to be a financial success.

ROLLER CANARIES AT WAKEFIELD

This class did not turn up quite as well as was expected. The birds had plenty of time, Mr. F. Oldroyd, who judged, spending four hours with them. There were 14 birds in the class; 1, silver medal, L. Wilsdon, Hollow Roll 8, Hollow bell 5, Schockel 4, deep flute notes 4, bass roll 2, excellence 4—total 27 points; nice deep singer, free from faults and a bird that was admired by all who heard him; 2, special, Hesling, Hollow Roll 8, Hollow Bell 5, Schockel 5, deep flute notes 4, excellence 4—total 26 points. A 1907 bird with a nice soft song, held his rolls a nice length; 3, Netherwood 3, Hollow Roll 8, Hollow bell 5, Schockel 5, bell 2, deep flute notes 4, delivery 2, 1 off for slight airfyng—25 points, This bird is the 1906 B.A.C.C. Cup winner and a lot freer, delivered his song nice and full; 4th, vhc, 4, Whitaker, Hollow Roll 8, Hollow bell 5, Schockel 5, flute notes 2, bell Roll 2, 2 off—total 20 points. This bird is a nice singer, but loses points in high flutes; hc, Collins. No. 4, F. Wilsdon, did not open.

HEYWOOD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual back end show, held on November 16th, when nineteen classes were provided. The following classes had to be cancelled, owing to shortage of entries: Lancashire A.V., Lizard A.V., Crested Nor. A.V., Nor. P.H., tick or unevenly marked buff, and Brit. Softbills. The show was held in the large room at the Central Dining Rooms, and was very well patronised throughout the day by the public. 19 birds were staged, including some choice specimens, which can and have held their own in open competition. Mr. R, Schofield took special for most points gained throughout the show, but seeing that he was the donor, it was left to the committee to do what they chose with it. It was decided to award it to class 8. Mr. J. W. Howarth won special for best bird in the show, with his clear yellow Nor. unflighted cock. Mr. R. Barrass judged, giving every satisfaction.

BRISTOL.

Owing to the clashing of so many shows and other attendant circumstances which it is probable may be brought to the notice of the Cage Bird Union, the first open show of the Bristol Cage Bird Society, which was held in the Imperial Drill Hall on November 20th and 21st, was not quite the success which it deserved to be. A most ambitious schedule had been put out, and, although the response was 700 exhibits, it was not what the executive expected. They had anticipated there would be no cancellation or amalgamation, and they kept their word, classes with only one entry appearing in the catalogue, and the exhibits receiving whatever prizes the judges chose to award them. Crests, which opened the show, were very few, but several notable winners were staged. Norwich were just average classes in numbers, but the average of merit was very good indeed. Yorkshires, considering the good classification they had, and their popularity in the South, did not come up well, but some grand birds were on view. The show was under the patronage of the English and Welsh Border Fancy Club, it was somewhat a select entry. Mules and British were both most excellent sections, looked at from any point. Entries came up well, the quality was splendid, and the manner in which the majority of the specimens shown were staged was worthy of the highest commendation. The section was a show in itself, and gave Mr. Norman full opportunity for the display of his powers, powers which were well taxed. The Foreigners were not a large collection, but they were very choice, and attracted much attention from visitors. A good classification had been devoted to the members, and, taking it right through, we have never seen a better display of members' birds at any show in the provinces. For this result the goodly array of cups and specials is to be thanked. The members at Bristol had some thing to go for, and they went for it. The judges will remember those specials, it took them over two and a-half hours to sort out the special winners. Although there is bound to be a big loss on the entry, the committee will pay out all prize money, they having formed a guarantee fund for the purpose. Although the society is young, it includes a number of experienced fanciers in its ranks, and they, with the newcomers to the fancy, are all most enthusiastic in their endeavours to make the venture a success. From the chair downwards they all worked like Trojans, and a better-managed show it would be difficult to name. The officials responsible for the working of the show were Messrs. W. G. Bull, chairman; C. E. Brown, vice-chairman; W. H. H. Manley, treasurer; J. A. Davis, H. Fowler, F. Burgess, C. K. Eaton, J. Tristem, and T. Taylor, committee. Messrs. Munro and Quarman, the secretaries, were most excellent, and in them our Bristol friends have discovered two splendid officials. All that thought could devise was done to make things work smoothly and happily. Nothing was too difficult, nothing too arduous, nothing too exacting, every wish and desire of visitors and exhibitors was responded to with courtesy and alacrity. The Bristol C.B.S. deserves well of the Fancy, and we hope success may attend their future efforts. Mr. C. A. Horse judged Canaries, Mr. H. Norman, Mules, British and Selling.

SOUTHEND.

Amidst all the clashing that took place in the South this week, Southend suffered most severely. All its open Canary classes had to be cancelled, all the British, except Goldfinches, and of the Foreign, all the novices except two, out of thirty-one classes scheduled, only five stood. In these circumstances the committee wisely decided to ask Mr. Heath to cancel his engagement, which he kindly consented to do, and the classes left were taken by Mr. House, who was adjudicating in another section. November 19th and 20th were the dates, and the show was held in the Kursaal, a most excellent building for the purpose. The committee looked well after the few exhibits entrusted to their care, and everything passed off well. Mr. Jones made a most efficient secretary, and his untiring efforts and genial manner made it a pleasure to do business with him. MULES, LIGHT (8): 1, Parsons, large var. yell. of rich colour, grand shape and beautiful quality; 2, Wheat, fine big var. buff, rare shape and feather, nice colour; 3, res., Barnard, another good var. buff, large and nice shape, hardly so rich in colour; vhc, Blackwood; hc, Blackman; c, Clarke. DARK (17): 1, spl., Parsons, very high coloured silky feathered Redpoll-Goldfinch, nice shape and size, and served up in good form; 2, Wheat, lovely yellow Linnet, nicely marked, lovely quality, put down very fit; 3, Burgess, nice shape, well feathered buff Goldfinch, if fed would look well; res., Hampshire, very prettily marked, nice shaped buff Linnet, capital quality; vhc, Smith; hc, Finnings, Reynolds; c and members' spl., Heathcote. GOLDFINCH (12): 1, spl. LONDON AND COUNTIES.

This society, which is doing excellent work, held its second annual autumn show at headquarters, the Bay Malton, Great Portland Street, on Friday and Saturday last. Mr R. J. Pretty, the hon. secretary, is an old and experienced hand at show arrangement, and his experience is not lost to him on each succeeding occasion when he is at the helm. There is also great advantage in having the assistance of a band of practical stewards. This was Mr. Pretty's good fortune, for amongst those who lent a helping hand were Messrs. Ransley (assistant secretary), Hawes, Morrison, Williams, and those old and expert fanciers, Messrs. W. Shakespeare and Sam Smith. It would be interesting to hear from the lips of Mr. Shakespeare, the narrative of his experiences, in the old days with the veteran Mr. G. E. Russell, amongst the Crests; and Mr "Sunshine" Sam Smith, could fill a book with tales of London bird life. Mr. F. W. Thorpe, the excellent president, showed his interest in the proceedings, although we were sorry to see him in such indifferent health, and hope he may speedily recover. Amongst the veterans we saw at the show were Mr. H. Davis (Yorkshires), Mr. E. Pretty ("P.P.P" fame), and others. There was a nice muster of fanciers, the preponderance being of those the society caters for—the amateur and novice; and as a result, there were many new faces to us. The quality of the exhibits all round was very good, and the entries came up well. British seemed very strong, an experience not at all new in these times; and the society which neglects to cater well for British bird fanciers is reminded of its own interests. The British bird fancy is certainly a force to be reckoned with. The items of interest included a new pattern drying cage, shown by Mr. W. Shakespeare. This cage so pleased Mr. Jacob Mackley (the judge), as to elicit a substantial order to the maker on the spot, and it is evidence of the worth of the cage to secure the patronage of such an adept at preparing birds for show as Mr. Jacob Mackley. Yet another novel and useful cage was Mr E. Pretty's Yorkshire trainer. It was fitted with an apparatus which allows the seed and water hole to be raised at will, thus causing the bird to "go up" to get its head through for the seed the hopper, and drinker, rise with the hole. It is an ingenious contrivance which needs to be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Hawes' travelling show cage is well designed, but we fear, too fragile for a railway journey, and some railway porters to handle. We ought to say that several new members were enrolled as result of the show. Silver cup for most points in the show was won by Mr. Morrison—a most popular result. Other points specials were awarded by Messrs. Stacey (2), Wright (2), Cox, Morrison (2), R. J. Pretty, Hawes, E. Pretty, and J. Goodall. The remainder will be found given in the classes. Mr. Jacob Mackley judged Canaries, and Mr. J. Frostick, British, etc. CHAMPION SECTION.—NOR. YELL.: 1, 2, 3, H. Bell. NOR BUFF: 1, Goodall; 2, 3, Wright; 4, Bell. BROMSGROVE.

The Bromsgrove and District Society held their annual show November 19th in the Drill Hall, Bromsgrove. Entries came up very well, a compliment to Mr. Russell who judged. The staging was carried out in a workmanlike fashion, and Mr. Jeffrey the Hon. Secretary, and a large committee, had everything in excellent trim soon after dinner time, the award cards being up soon after judging was completed.

CRESWELL AND DISTRICT C.B.F.S.

Mr. A. Burrows gave a grand concert at the Rose and Crown on November 9th. The talent was of the best, and a very substantial sum will be realised. Credit and thanks are due to Mr. Burrows for providing such an excellent concert free of all charge to the society in aid of their funds. We had a general meeting November 16th to draw up schedule. We made 32 classes, deciding to again keep it a members' show, with a radius of 10 miles. —C. PRESLEY, Secretary.

LEEDS.

The eighteenth annual exhibition in connection with the Leeds C.B.S. took place November 15th and 16th at the Saltaire Eclectic Hall. The hall is a very spacious one, grandly lighted (electricity being used), lofty, and quite free from draughts, in short, the most fastidious could not desire better accommodation for their pets. A grand entry of birds was obtained, being over 200 more than last year. The lighting was of the best. Every bird could be seen at a glance, they being at a nice height from the floor. Taken altogether the arrangement are to be highly complimented. The schedule issued provided many attractions. Prize money was 25s per class, with a host of valuable specials, including cash, plate, medals (gold and silver), etc. No wonder the response was so large. The catalogue opened with the birds of "grace and beauty," and a most enchanting collection did the Yorkshires make. What a gem the winning clear yellows is, and great credit is due to Mr F Radley for the manner in which he staged it. Many envious eyes fell upon the clear Buff owned by Messrs. Barley and Swanzer. Messrs. Amblers' Buff hen found many admirers, too, and well she might. Other very stylish birds were those of Messrs. Barnwell, Rennie, Gill and Pickup, Edmondson, Hind, Towse, Wilcock, Brown, Farrar, and Y Hand. Norwich came next, and colour, quality, and shape ran hang through the section. Mr. Wasley's clear Yellow is a magnificent bird, also the buffs. Yellows, owned by Mr. G. Harland. The Yellow and Buff hens owned respectively by Messrs. Harland and Haigh and Son, were also voted "lovely damsels." Messrs. Wilkinson, Moore, Woof, Mennard, Hall, Sutcliffe, Hope, Wright, and Bole also had some exceptionally fine specimens present. Yorkshire and Norwich Greens were up in full force, and were the finest array ever seen in Leeds; truly, a grand lot, showing, when compared with a few years ago, wonderful improvement, both in type, quality, and depth of colour. The quality of merit in these classes was very marked, and the "cull" was fairly well split up. Crest and Crestbreds were few but of a high order, while the Scotch Fancies were spoken of as being the best lot ever seen at this fixture. Borders, the "Bantams" of Canarydom, gave great pleasure; though not present in great numbers they certainly were of great merit. Mules were a "good mixture," and the British provided a treat both in numbers and quality, in most instances appearing in magnificent bloom. Many grand Foreign birds were also staged. The novice classes, as usual, filled well, and a few rare birds one saw amongst them, some quite able to compete amongst the "upper ten."

The Leeds Roller Canary Club supplied 113 choristers in the four classes set apart for the "king of songsters." These were staged in a nice-sized room all to themselves, so were not in the least molested by "Pretty Polly" or any other member of the birdy family, therefore giving of their best to those who enjoy hearing these wonderful creatures.

The committee of management consists of well-known and practical fanciers in Messrs. W. B. Cobb (chairman), W. Ireland (vice-chair), J. W. Nichols, F. Woof, J. Chambers, C. Wrighton, N. S. Love, G. Stead, J. Owen, F. King, F. Farrar, and R. S. Banks. With a list such as this, one could not wonder at the function going off so smoothly and so well. Auditors are Messrs. R. E. Simpson and W. Tose, a couple of very useful officials, while the auctioneer, Mr. H. S. Denton, is also a helper of the society. The hon. secs. are Messrs. A. Wilkins and C. Towes, both capital fanciers, always in the thick of the fight, courteous in the extreme, and a couple of very enthusiastic and willing workers. Much of the success of the show is certainly due to their untiring exertions, and both are to be highly complimented. Judging was over in good time, prize slips displayed quickly, and the management throughout of the best. Some of the special winners were: Hyde's, Mr. W. B. Cobb's gold medal for best Foreigner, Messrs. Hollins and Sons' spl. for best Scots, Mr. R. Wilkison. The stewards were Messrs. Thompson, Hallet, Wilkinson (Bramley) and Medley, all of whom know the exact thing required of them. Judges, Messrs. H. W. Battye and Robson, while Messrs. C. Roehl and J. Netherwood put the Rollers in order of merit.

The Roller Classes.

The Leeds Roller Club are pleased to be able to say they had more entries this year than last. The club are indebted to those gentlemen who so kindly responded to the appeal for specials. Through the arrangement of Leeds C.B.S. and the Roller Club to run the show conjointly, we were able to have a larger and more suitable room for the birds. Every Roller fancier remarked about the room, which was kept at a nice steady heat by the caretaker, who, along with his better half, seemed delighted with the show. We had an influx of visitors from Bolton, Blackburn, Bury, Batley, Wakefield, Manchester, Worksop, etc. When the visitors arrived, knots of fanciers could be seen, and heard discussing and debating the Roller of the past and the present, and what sort of a songster the Roller must be in the future. Encouraging words were given by Mr. J. Lyons, of Blackburn, and others, who are working hard to build up the Fancy. Mr. Lyons does not doubt in the least but what clubs, such as British Roller Club (London), Bolton, Wakefield, and Leeds, can make good judges out of some of their members. The novices are the lads who want encouragement, and two of the classes were exceedingly well filled, the young bird and novice classes having most entries. The class to suffer most was the amateur. The future seems bright when we can see the young bird and novice class well filled.

YOUNG BIRDS: Silver cup and 1st prize, Jas. Lyons, this young bird obtained 21 points; 2nd prize and silver medal, F. E. Fisher; 3rd and bronze medal also went to the same gentleman, whose birds scored 16 and 15 points respectively; F. Wilson secured 4th and special, this bird receiving 14 points; T. Walton came next, vhc, with 13 points; A. Foulds, hc, 12 points; and J. A. Steigart, c, 12 points. OPEN: 1st prize and silver medal went to A. P. Percival, he also coming in for next honour, 2nd and bronze medal; F. Oldroyd secured 3rd and special; W. Whitaker 4th and special, and hc; F. Wilsdon, Oxford, vhc, W. Whittaker, hc; F. Wilsdon, c. AMATEURS: J. Bramhall claimed 1st prize and silver medal, this bird obtaining 17 points; J. A. Steigart secured 1st prize last year, but missed it this time by 1 point, coming in for 2nd and bronze medal, 16 points; J. Lyons, 3rd and 4th prizes and specials, 15 and 14 points respectively; F. E. Fisher, South Woodford, vhc, 13 points; J. Bramhall, hc, 12 points; E. Lord, c, 11 points. NOVICE: 1st prize and silver medal was gained by C. Towes, so at least one honour fell to Leeds (may there be many more in the near future); D. Foster, 2nd and bronze medal; W. Whittlestone securing 3rd and special prize; J. Wetherill, vhc; C. Escreet, hc; and C. Taylor, commended. Diplomas were given with all awards.

DENHOLME AND THORNTON.

Denholme and Thornton held annual open show, November 16th, in the large hall of the Mechanics' Institute, Thornton. The room is a splendid one for this purpose, being very lofty, well lighted, and perfectly free from draught. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged. The officers of the society are a hard-working set of fanciers, and every detail received their utmost attention. The secretary, Mr. Tomsett, is an ideal fancier, and was well backed up by Mr. H. Dobson (president), Messrs. J. Twaites, and J. Clayton (vice-presidents), Mr. F. Hey (treasurer), and a good committee. A total entry of 349 from 109 exhibitors is not a bad entry, though not quite up to the standard of the last few shows; a very good list of extra special prizes was up for competition. As usual, novice classes received a good entry, and many previous winners stood cardless. During the afternoon a good number of visitors turned up, but it will take the promoters all their time to make it a financial success, as their expenses are pretty heavy. Prize money was paid out to the successful exhibitors present during the afternoon. YKS. CL. YELL. BLACKPOOL.

Annual show of the Blackpool and Fylde O.S. (under C.B.U. Rules), was held at the Alexandra Cafe, Bank Hey Street, Nov. 15th and 16th. The room is a grand one for a show, being very well lighted and absolutely free from draughts; it had the special advantage of being only one minute's walk from the station. Entries came up well, totalling nearly 400, and included some of the best specimens in the North of England. Special for best bird in show, as well as Hyde's Special went to Mr. C. Roberts with his first-prize Grissle Crest. Sandiford's Medal was won by Mr. J. Coulson with his Clear Yell. Nor. Mr. C. Roberts also gained spl for most points in show, Mr. John Trengove that for 2nd most points, and Mr. Thos. Seed that for 3rd. The Norwich and Yorkshire sections were excellent and contained many notable and praiseworthy specimens. In the Norwich section the most notable specimen that met our eye was the Yellow hen exhibited by Mr. F. H. Dent, which was voted a regular swell, and found a host of admirers, as also did Mr. F. Seed's Little King II., and Fullighted Buff, Mr. A. Hirst's Clear Yellow and Fullighted Yellow, Mr. L. Todd's marked Yellow and Buff, and Mr. J. Trengove's Buff hens, Messrs. Burton, Wilcock, Gibbons and Binns staged some magnificent Yorkshires, and headed some very hot classes. The two Novice classes contained birds well able to hold their own in the open, whilst it is some time since we saw a better collection of British and Mules. The attendance seemed to be very good, and amongst those present from a distance we observed Messrs. Councillor Joseph Hill, president of the Derby C.B.S., F. H. Dent, J. Haylurst, Senior, T. Seed, A. Hirst, J. W. Cleminson, S. Hindley, Laithwaite and others. The management of the show was all that could be desired, and reflects credit on everybody concerned in making the show the success is was. Mr. A. J. Winterbottom makes an excellent secretary; he was assisted by the worthy chairman, Mr. W. Binns, the vice-chairman, Wm. McNeill, the treasurer, Mr. S. Morrison, the excellent assistant secretary, Mr. G. Young, and the committee, Messrs. Lightbown, Lingard, Croucher, Pattison, Smithson, Boardman, Greenwood, T. J. Crossley, and Cowell, all of whom helped in getting everything in firstrate order. All birds were despatched in good time, and the prize money was paid to successful exhibitors, who attended the show. Mr. J. H. Roe judged.

PENZANCE.

The Penzance and District F.A. held their second annual show in the Central Hall on November 15th in ideal weather. The hall is a grand place for an exhibition, good light by day and well lighted by night; a more convenient and adaptable place could not be found. The show was held under C.B.U. rules, and the entries were in excess of last year. Some well known winners put in their appearance. There was a good attendance of visitors all the day, and the show seemed a great success. The Norwich Yell. winner was a gem for type and quality, while the hen class was excellent both in quality and number. The Yorks were a grand lot, and the Non-flight winner a gem for type, also the hen, she being of exceptional quality, with lovely length and wing carriage. The Crest class was not over large, but it contained some good specimens. The Mules were good. Mr. F. Collins staged a fine team, and captured the special for best bird in the show with a grand young Greenie-Bullie. The foreign class was attractive, the winner being a grand King Parrot in lovely condition. The local classes contained some good specimens, some fit to win in the open. The able and worthy hon. sec., Mr. J. Pearce Sampson, was assisted by a good committee, and both the secretary and the officials were most courteous and obliging, and the great success achieved was certainly due to the great exertions they put forth. Judging was over and the prize cards up in good time. Mr. W. G. Poole (Stratford-on-Avon) judged, this being the first engagement in the West, and his awards gave every satisfaction. He stopped behind until the last train to explain to the losers where their birds failed. The gold medal for most points was won by Mr. F. Collins, and the watch for second points by Mr. P. Oatey. The Cage Bird Committee consisted of the following:—Messrs. W. H. Batten, J. H. Bonddin, J. Caine, R. Gendall, W. A Taylor, F. Richards, and G. Semmens

WATFORD.

The Watford and District C.B.S. held their third annual open show on November 8th and 9th, in the Corn Exchange—a venue well suited for a show, being in the centre of the Market-place, also lofty, well lighted, and free from draughts. Entries did not come quite up to expectations, although they numbered 490. As a consequence, in many classes only half prize money was paid. But the quality made up for the deficiency in numbers, especially was this the case in the British and Foreign sections. Mr. John Goodall was show manager, with Messrs. R. Watts and Quantrell as joint secretaries, who were untiring in carrying out their various duties. They were backed up by a hard-working committee—Messrs. R. J. Pretty (chairman), Buckingham, Darvil, Scott, Sears, Perkins, Tucker, Shirley, and other members, all of whom worked with a will. Norwich were not quite the quality of exhibits of former years, but some good birds were staged by Messrs. Mullis, Midgeley, Battison, etc. Yorkshires were fairly strong and contained some well-known London winners. Hybrids were fair, but of excellent quality, and contained some very fine specimens. The British section, in view of the splendid classification of 16 classes and a special for each class, deserved better support. It is to be hoped the classes will not be curtailed in future, as very few shows give such facilities as this society does; in fact, it may safely be said that it is quite a "Palace" one. The Nightingale and Blackcap class, for instance, at the time of closing only numbered three entries, and but for the zeal of Messrs. Goodall, Withers and Pretty, who made up the class, it would have been cancelled. If fanciers clamour for this class they should support it. Foreigners were of exceptional merit, many of those birds with cards only could get in the money at most shows. The unique exhibit of Messrs. De Von and Co.—"The King Bird of Paradise"—(the first to be exhibited in this country) proved a great attraction. The attendance on both days was in every way satisfactory, many prominent London fanciers being in evidence on the Saturday. One particular feature not to be overlooked was CAGE BIRD stall, in charge of the Misses Watts and Goodall. Great credit is due to them for the attractive and most tasteful way in which the various wares were laid out and decorated with flowers; it was this which, in a great measure, brought so many purchasers. Mr. J. H. Roe judged the Canaries, and Mr. J. Frostick the British and Foreign.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM.

The second annual exhibition was held in the excellent Masonic Hall, when over 400 exhibits were staged. The hall is suitably adapted for a show of the kind, being well lighted and free from draughts. Mr. William Arnott made a most obliging secretary, and made all arrangements in good time for judging. The whole affair passed off without a hitch. The management consisted of the following well-known fanciers, who did everything for the convenience of fanciers and exhibits. Patroness, Mrs. Dewar, Lassodie House; President, Mr. Jas. Wilkie; Vice-President, Mr. A. Fotheringham; Treasurer, Mr. Jas. Fotheringham; Committee: Messrs. Jas. Brannan, Tom Barclay, D. Barclay, Jas. Dunn, A. Anderson, John Ford, D. McConville, Leo Cowan, John Wilson, T. Caldwell, Jas. Stenhouse, A. Buchan, Robt. Simpson, Cowan, John Hunter, Alex. Murphy, G. Fotheringham, and W. Summershill. The cup for most points was given by Messrs. T. and D. Barclay, and won by Mr. A. McFarlane, Glasgow, with a grand team of Nor. The challenge cup given by Mr. Jas. Young was also won by Mr. A. McFarlane, as was also Hyde's teapot, with a lovely bird of grand quality, which really deserved the honour. The judges were: For Scotch Fancy, Messrs. D. Black and T. Merrilees, and all other Canaries, D. A. Craig; while Mr. A. Cochrane, Edinburgh, took Mules, Brit. and Foreign, their awards giving every satisfaction.

SCOTS YELL. CK. (3): 1, Laing, grand reach, nicely posted on legs, but barely ready; 2, 3, 2 spls, Caldwell, two really nice ones, 2nd, plenty of nerve; presses hard. QUEEN'S PARK.

The third annual show of the Queen's Park and Dis. C.B.A. was held November 14th at the Emmanuel Hall Harrow-road, W. The show was a great success, the exhibits being a very fine lot. 159 Cages were staged, and there were a large number present, the visitors finding plenty of space in which to promenade. The fair sex were very much in evidence; proving that the Society made a good move in going back to unlicensed premises. We expect the show will prove a financial success. The Yorkshire and Norwich Challenge Cups were not up for competition, owing to there being an insufficient nomination. The arrangements of the show were admirably carried out by the able Secretary, Mr. J. C. Birch, to whom much of the credit for the success is due. Mr. J. Robson judged.

WHITEHAVEN.

Show held November 15th and 16th in the Market Hall—a spacious and well lighted place, having large windows down one side and a huge bay window at the entrance. Entries came up in advance of last year, and the Borders and British brought out some very strong classes. Yorkshires were a very nice lot and came up in fair good force. The Norwich came out very few in numbers, but grand in quality. Most of the winners in the Borders were superb in type and condition, some of them showing a great strength of colour, and some keen sighted persons thought there must be some special natural seed or food given for promoting same. All the same, the birds were a grand lot and reflected the greatest credit on their owners. Some of the classes gave Mr. Hopper a stiff task to divide them, so tight was the competition. Hybrids were few in numbers but excellent in quality. The Clear Gold Can., Siskin-Greenie, Greenie-Bullie, and the extra fine Canary-Bullie of Jackson and Bonds, make a quartet extremely hard to beat. Mr. Dixon's six point yellow Gold-Canary and his dark Linnet Canary are wonderful birds of merit, exceptionally large and in grand condition. Britishers were strongly represented in Goldfinches, and some of these birds are most typical specimens, and in a few instances only require the finishing touches in blaze and breast condition to make them perfect. The Linnets, were really excellent, and the Cleator Moor battles were fought again with changed results in several instances. Condition and loss of feathers here and there, crippled the chances of otherwise grand birds. Greenfinches have so far this year fallen away in numbers, and there is plenty of room to win with good birds. Bullfinches were few but very good, while Siskins, etc. saw some pretty birds staged. The A.O.V. Seedeater, etc., was led by Mr. Stewart's perfectly marked Yellowbunting, in fine condition. Soft Bills were for once conspicuous by their absence, and there is here plenty of room to win prizes with Soft Billed Brit. by those who possess them. Foreign Goldfinches, etc., were few in number, but good in most points. The large Foreigners were a treat, and the noted "Macaw," late Osbaldeston's and Burrow's respectively, were in fresh hands, followed very closely by a superb red-sided Ecclectus. A good subscription list by many well-known local gentlemen, did much to swell the funds, and nearly 70 money and article special prizes were offered, and a new feature saw them allotted to their various classes by ballot. All had to be voted to their positions in this manner; no fixing up for any special class so as to be easy to win by "knowing ones" here. A fine committee is composed of the following: Messrs. I. J. Ellwood (chairman), Ferguson, Brown, Bishop, Kelly, Douglas, Levason, Lewthwaite, J. Pattinson, D. Ellwood, Irwin and F. Pattinson. Mr. W. J. Douglas is the Hon. Sec. and Treasurer, and is the right man in the right place. His committee have in him a fine example of how to do the work well. Mr. J. B. Moore also rendered good service in the arrangements and the carrying out of various duties. There was a splendid light, and judging was got through in good time. Mr. S. Hadwin judged Norwich, Yorkshires, Gift and Pairs, Mr. J. Hopper, Borders, and Mr. Chas. Houlton, Hybrids, British and Foreign, and we did not hear any adverse remarks.

Mr. S. Hadwin's Classes.

Yorkshires turned up in good numbers, and some capital birds were staged. The Norwich, though small in numbers were all there for type and quality. The Scotch Fancy was conspicuous by its absence, all the three classes being cancelled. As things are going, the Scotch, we are afraid, will be an extinct variety, so far as England is concerned before long.

NOR. CL. YELL. MERTHYR TYDVIL.

Second annual show of the Merthyr Tydvil and Dowlais Society, held in the Drill Hall, on Nov. 14th and 15th, and proved a success in every way, as the entries were good and the quality up to high water mark. The Norwich and Yorkshires made excellent classes, many good birds putting in an appearance. British birds were grand in quality, several of the leading cracks being put down. The Local Special for best Canary and Special for best Canary in the show were captured by Mr. J. H. Jones, with a grand buff Scots, which made a tight fight with the King Parrot for best bird in the show. The latter is one of the very best we ever saw, was put down in magnificent condition, and was greatly admired. The exhibits were nicely staged in a separate room, and received the best of attention from an enthusiastic committee, who all worked with a will to ensure everything passing off as smoothly as possible. Mr. J. Thomas, made a most capable hon. sec. and by his courtesy and tact won the approval of all with whom he came in contact. All concerned are to be congratulated on a very fine, well-conducted show. Mr. J. H. Payne, made the awards.

assists nature.
It is used mixed with fresh new milk and forms a delicate and nutritive cream which can be enjoyed and assimilated when other foods disagree. It is entirely free from rough and indigestible particles which produce irritation in delicate stomachs.
Mothers and interested persons are requested to write for Booklet, "Benger's Food and How to Use it." This contains a "Concise Guide to the Rearing of Infants," and practical information on the care of Invalids, Convalescents, and the Aged. BATH.

The Bath Gardeners' Debating Society included a Cage-bird section for the first time at their Chrysanthemum Show, held Nov. 13 and 14. Judging from the great interest taken in the birds by the visitors, who thronged the show, we think the innovation has caught on, and we heard that another year the classification will be extended. We should not be surprised if from this small beginning one of the best shows in the West will ultimately be held by this enterprising Society. We cannot think of a nicer combination than flowers and birds. The quality of the exhibits was first class, and they were nicely staged and well attended to by a few keen and enthusiastic fanciers, who volunteered to see to the management of this section. Mr. Follwell accomplished the secretarial work in a capable manner, and was most obliging to all. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards. NOR. YELL. BELFAST.

The Crest, Norwich Plainhead, and Yorkshire Canary Breeders' Club held their annual exhibition on Nov. 16th in the Avenue Hall, Garfield-street. The room, though not so well adapted for the purpose as the one the Society have previously held their shows in, was a fairly good one, there being ample room, good light and freedom from draught—conditions not always obtained at Exhibitions. The birds were nicely staged in tiers round three sides and made an attractive display; and considering that, with the exception of two classes for pairs, two Mules and one each for Goldfinches and Linnets, [illegible] were bred in 1907, the birds staged were a great credit to the members. Crests and Crest-[illegible] come up to former displays we have seen in Belfast, either in number or merit. Norwich Plainheads, which were the feature of the show, came up extra well, especially when we take into consideration the bad breeding season which the majority of breeders have had. The quality in this section all through was excellent, birds of magnificent colour and type being staged. Many of the birds were quite capable of holding their own on this side of the Channel. Yorkshires were moderate; still, a few very promising youngsters were among them. There is room for improvement in this section. The management was all that could be desired, and everything went off smoothly under the capable direction of the tactful and courteous secretary, Mr. Bamforth. He was well supported by Mr. Adams and Mr. Connell, while none could have worked harder than did Messrs. Carson, South, Fleming, and Leacock as stewards. Mr. H. W. Battye judged.

SPRINGBURN O.A.

The 34th Annual Show and Competition was held November 9th in the Reid Hall, Queenshill Street,—a fine room for the purpose. Entries were fairly good in numbers, the quality being very good. Mr. Councillor F. L. Cohen presented the prizes, being the donor of a handsome cup. Mr. Black won the cup for the best bird in the show, Mr. Mellwain securing cup for the second best. The Secretary and Treasurer is Mr. J. Waugh, who worked with a will, deserving congratulation for the capital arrangements. Messrs. Park and Paterson judged, their awards giving satisfaction.

CLAPHAM.

The Clapham and Dis. C.B.A. held their first annual members' show, Nov. 8th in the Avondale Hall, Landor Road, Clapham, one of the best in London for a Cage bird show, having a fine light, and free from draughts. Entries numbered 258, a splendid entry for so young a society. Mr. Stephen Buser is an excellent secretary, most courteous to all, and he carried out his duties as if he had been managing shows all his life. He was ably supported by the jovial chairman, Mr. W. H. Vale, vice-chairman, Mr. E. Hathaway, Treasurer, Mr. C. T. Maxwell; and a willing committee consisting of Messrs. Askew, Berkshire, Wills-Browne, E. Clark, W. Francis, C. Cutting and some of the members, who left nothing undone to make the show a success. No fewer than 69 specials were got together for competition. Mr. J. Dobson judged Canaries, and Mr. Silver, Brit., Mules and For.

FALKIRK O.S.

Falkirk O.S. held annual show in the Oddfellows' Hall on Nov. 2nd, and were well supported by the fanciers of the district. The entries were 275, an increase of 30 over last year's total, and the quality was good with some well-known winners amongst them. The cup for best Scotch was won by Mr. W. Niven, with Buff Pied ck., the runner-up being Mr. Smith with Yell. Foul hen. The Nor. cup was won by Mr. Paterson, with Crested cock, and was runner-up with Yell. P.H. cock. The judges were Messrs. W. Rutchieson and J. Park (Scotch Fancy), and G. Smart (Nor.), their awards giving every satisfaction.

BONNYBRIDGE.

Bonnybridge O.S. held their annual exhibition and competition in the Public Hall, November 9th President, Mr. Wm. Esplin; treas., Mr. D. Liddell; joint secretaries, Messrs. Anderson and Esplin; committee, Messrs. G. Paterson, A. McWatt, J. Esplin, A. Hamilton, T. Turnbull, J. Muirhead, A. Rae, J. Fleming, and J. Ure. Judges: Scotch Fancy, Mr. J. Higgins (Hamilton); remainder, Mr. A. Miller (Glasgow), their awards giving every satisfaction. There were 40 confined classes and five open classes for Brit. and For. Hyde's spl. for best in hall was won by G. Paterson's Crest hen, in the pink of condition, gaining the same honours at Falkirk. The runner-up here was Mr. J. Muirhead's clean Buff Scotch Fancy hen, also in grand condition, shown for the first time. The judges were unable to agree here, the referee giving his decision in favour of the Crest hen. For the best Bord. Fancy, the winner was a cl. Yell. ck, belonging to Mr. James McWatt. Best in Scotch Fancy class was Mr. John Muirhead's clean Buff hen. Best Plainhead was won with a typical model belonging to Mr. D. Liddell. Old pairs, best 3rd and spl. were won by Mr. A. McWatt. The hall is splendidly adopted for such an exhibition, being well lighted all through, and almost entirely free from draughts, allowing abundance of room both for the exhibits and the visitors. Borders and Nor. were grand sections, both as regards quality and quantity. Scotch Fancies were few, but there were one or two nice birds among them. The Crest classes were a very fair entry, and of capital quality. Brit. were good, and the quality excellent; the same can be said for the Foreigners. The management deserve the highest praise. The joint secretaries, Messrs. Anderson and Esplin, performed their duties with the utmost ability, and we hope their efforts proved a financial success.

EXETER C.B.S.

First annual exhibition in connection with the Exeter and Dist. C.B.S. was held at the Market Hall, November 2nd. The Deputy Mayor, Mr. E. C. Perry, declared the show open, and hoped that the working classes would encourage this newly-formed society. The judge, Mr. R. B. Tope, Plymouth, said that the birds exhibited were some of the finest he had judged in the kingdom, and he trusted that the society would speedily become equal to Plymouth. Catalogues were in the hands of the Deputy Mayor and members within half an hour of the judging being finished. The committee and other officials worked hard to make the show the success it was, much credit being reflected upon Mr. R. H. Folley, the hon. sec. The committee consisted of Messrs. Burrough, Chudley, Churchward, Cumming, Glanfield, Johnson, Moist, Pomroy, Sercombe, Sloman, Still, and Stone. NOR. YELL., CL., ETC.: 1, Martin; 2, Moles; 3, Pomroy; 4, Denham. EDINBURGH EASTERN O.S.

The Eastern Dist. O.S., Edinburgh, held their sixteenth annual show November 9th, at the Free Gardener's Hall, Abbeymount. The entry was the same as last year, Scotch Fancies having some good birds. Crest and Crest-bred classes were a rare lot, and took a good bit of judging. Mr. John McMillan had the best Scotch Fancy in hall, and Mr. J. Dalling the second best. Mr. R. J. Spence had the best Crested cock, Crested hen, Crest-bred cock, and Mr. Johu Gourlay the best Crest-bred hen. Mr. G. R. Smith won the Novice Special for best bird shown by a novice. Mr. W. Sneth had the best Border Fancy. Mr. John McMillan the best Mule, and Mr. W. Finnie the best Brit. Special for best non-fed Norwich was won by Mr. Dalling, the principal winners in the fed classes being Messrs. Dalling and R. Thomson. Councillor A. M. Hunter presented the prizes, and the committee did their share of the work well. There was a good attendance of the public. Mr. John McLennan, Peirshill, judged the Scotch Fancies and Borders, and Mr. G. Scaife, Fauldhouse, the Nor., Brit., and Mules.

BURY C.B.S.

Annual Show of Bury and Dis. C.B.S., held Nov. 8 and 9, in the Textile Hall. Entries numbered 140, about the same number as last year. Norwich and Yorkshires were pretty strong, and there was a good entry in other classes. The prize for best bird in show was won by Mr. W. P. Turton with a Crest. Mr. A. G. Davies, Manchester, judged. There was also an exhibition of drawings for boys and girls, entries numbering 327, against only 250 last year. Prizes won in the competition were distributed by Mr. Ald. T. S. Collinge, Mayor Elect. The officials, to whom much of the credit for the successful show is due are President, Rev. R. P. Hudson, M.A.; chairman, Mr. J. R. Greenwood, vice-chairman, Mr. J. E. Wolstenholme. Mr. W. P. ST. COLUMB.

The third Annual Show of Cage Birds and Chrysanthemums was held Nov. 13th in the Drill hall, an ideal place for an exhibition. There was a splendid committee of real Cornish fanciers, who did their utmost to look well after the exhibits. The birds were staged in the centre of the hall, at a nice height for everyone to see without disturbing the exhibits—a great credit to the committee. The flowers were arranged on both sides, with a nice fire just enough to make the room quite cosy and comfortable. The entry was not quite so large as it might have been, on account of so many other shows being held in the county at about the same time. But some of the noted winners put in their appearance. The winning clear yell. Nor. was a grand bird for type and quality as was also the yell. Tick, which caused the judge a little trouble to find, on account of its being a slight grizzle. The Yorks were a splendid class, the winners in the yellow and buff classes being of good style and length with capital legs and wing carriage. The Mule or Hybrid class contained some typical specimens, the winner being a six-point Goldy mule of nice size, colour and shape, which also took the spl for best bird in the show. Special for the best Nor., confined to the St. Columb Union, went to W. and J. Rabey, the bird having a good crest. Mr. Dan Browning (Exeter) judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

NOR. YELL. (10): 1, spl, Spillman, excellent quality, full of colour, lovely wing carriage, clean cut; 2, White, nice head wings and tail very close up; 3, W. CORRESPONDENCE.

SHE DESERVES A MEDAL!

SIR, I have a friend who has a pair of Canaries, and the hen has laid 43 eggs this year, and has fetched 30 young ones up. She is now feeding four young ones, a week old to day. I think that is something out of the ordinary. ELIZABETH G. THOMPSON.

LATE NESTING EXPLOITS.

SIR,—I was very interested recently in watching two Starlings who were busy building their nest, and thinking it was unusual at this time of the year, I watched them for some time. The sun was shining. After a time, I walked to the end of the old building, and on examination found that they had almost finished their nest. I think this very late for Starlings, but I suppose it is due to the spell of mild weather. I pointed it out to a friend and he told me that he had noticed the other day, two Sparrows who were busy building, and also some Rooks pairing in the fields. My friend, Mr. Watts, of Old Fletton, has a Norwich Canary that laid seven eggs at the beginning of November, and she has started another clutch. Has anyone else had the same experience? ALF. ROWLES.

LATE YOUNG BIRDS ON CLAPHAM COMMON.

SIR,—It may be of interest to the numerous readers of CAGE BIRDS to know that, while watching some boys playing at football on Nov. 16th at Clapham Common, I saw two young Thrushes flutter from a hole in a tree. They were frightened out of their home by the ball being kicked into the tree close by where the hole was (about 10 yards high). I once found three young Thrushes and another young bird, near the church on the Common, but not so late in the year as this. I may also tell you that there is in my garden a tall tree in which a pair of Wood Pigeons have built their nest and reared their young for some years. Last year I was the proud possessor of one, which I reared by feeding from my mouth; but, sad to relate, as I was compelled to keep it in with them, my fowls killed it. J. F. SIVETER.

SOME INTERESTING HYBRID BREEDING EXPERIENCES.

SIR,—To continue with the story of my experiences, as told in a former issue: I also went in for a little Hybrid breeding; I paired up a good-coloured cock Chaffinch to a Yellow Plainhead. He was in splendid condition, and used to dance her round the cage a great deal. When she tried to build he used to throw the materials out of the box, and finally nearly killed her, pecking the top of her head nearly off. He was therefore put in "bachelor apartments." I also paired a cock Linnet to a large saddle-marked Yellow Crest-bred, and a cock Goldfinch to a Clear Yellow Plainhead. From both pairs on the first two rounds I had all clear eggs, and on the third round four Linnet Mules hatched out and were brought up, together with three Goldfinch Mules. The hen fed them for a few days, letting them die. On the fourth round I had four more Linnet Mules. One has both wings clear buff and light under breast, and another has about an equal quantity of light and dark feathers in each wing, with a light breast and a clear tail. These are both cock birds, and both the hens were variegated. The hen with the Goldfinch hatched out two, and the one with the Linnet Mules brought them up. They were a pair, both dark. I also paired up two large Yellow Crest-bred cocks to two hen Bullfinches; they used to pair and feed each other and play at building, but I never got any eggs from them, and my last two pairs were a large yellow cock Greenfinch with a house-moulted Bullfinch, and a cock Linnet with a Bullfinch. The Greenfinch I had great hopes of, he being in full song and feeding the hen nearly all day. By the beginning of May she was carrying twigs about, so I gave her an old Bullfinch nest and some hair, and she built in the nest box quite a grand nest for a Bullfinch. One morning before going out I found she was sitting on the nest. Excitement ran high, but when I got home I found her in the bottom of the cage egg-bound. So I caught her, steamed the vent, put in a drop of oil; I then placed her on the nest, but she would not stop, and in the morning there was a broken egg in the bottom of the cage. The next night she was bad again, so I repeated the operation, but in the morning I found her dead and all my hopes dashed to the ground. The Linnet and Bullfinch were always on splendid terms, and used to feed, and built several nests after a fashion, but no eggs were forthcoming, and by the beginning of August I turned them out with the young Canaries. They moulted out grandly, and I hope to have a good try again next year. Now I must finish; wishing CAGE BIRDS continued prosperity, which it deserves; also BIRD WORLD.

A FANCIER'S MISFORTUNE.

SIR,—Will you kindly mention that I had the misfortune to lose the majority of my best show birds during my removal from Bolton to Sale. I had got together a very good team of Norwich and Yorkshires, and was looking forward to a successful show season with them after I had removed. But, alas, when unpacking the birds upon arrival at my new address, several were found quite dead, and others showing signs of having had a rough journey. However, better luck next time, I hope. (And so say we.—EDITOR.)

A DEVICE FOR CATCHING SMALL BIRDS.

SIR,—The illustration enclosed shows a device which is largely used about here for catching Linnets and other small birds by bird-lime. Small pieces of stone, or earth, about half-an-inch in height are placed alongside a stream, where the birds go to bathe or drink. On these stones are lodged thin green rushes, which grow by the sides of streams and damp places. These rushes are smeared with bird-lime. As the bird runs into the water, its wings get a twig attached to them, and it is then easily caught, being unable to fly. J. HOLLINGSHED.

A Catching Device.

ALLEGED DISCOURTEOUS TREATMENT AT A SHOW.

SIR,—Being one of the many novice fanciers who have taken to the keeping and exhibition of cage birds, I might say, through getting into touch with your valuable paper, I should like to relate how I came off at a certain show. I entered two birds in separate classes. Some days after I received one ticket. I wrote and informed the secretary that only one ticket had been sent, but I received no answer. On the day previous to the show I sent both birds, notifying the class for the entry for which I had received no ticket. On the day after the show I received birds back, very puffed up, with a tiny slip of paper stuck on the top of cage inside: "class cancelled," it said. I also enclosed 7d. for catalogue, which I received the morning after getting my birds back, and which I returned by the very next post unopened. Do you call this fair treatment and any encouragement to anybody to support shows? My total cost was 6s. 7d., and up to now have not received any communications from anybody concerned. I should advise young fanciers, from what I can read and have seen in shows, to keep their birds at home, and let secretaries, etc., do the showing and winning. "ONE OF THE MUGS."

(We trust our correspondent will not be disheartened by his first seemingly unfortunate experience. What the secretary concerned has to say on the matter we do not, of course, know. But "One of the Mugs" will find that secretaries as a body are courteous and obliging, and usually in spite of very heavy work.—EDITOR.)

COCKERMOUTH SHOW AND THE C.B.U.

SIR,—Whilst thanking you for your kind reference to our show in "Twitterings" of November 16th, I must point out a rather serious error into which you have fallen. You state that we have been declined a licence by the C.B.U., which is not correct, for the simple reason that we have never applied for a licence. We are, and always have been, members of the C.B.U., and our show is under their rules and patronage. Might I be allowed this opportunity of pointing out an error which crept into our schedule, and was discovered too late? In the Border classes, of which there are eight, we state that the B.F.C.C. medal is given for most points. This should read "best bird belonging to a member of the B.F.C.C."

GEORGE OGLETHORPE,
Chairman C.F.S.

(We gladly print this correction, and have to express regret that we inadvertently fell into the error.—EDITOR.)

SIR,—I have noted with some interest, being a fancier, but not an exhibitor, the letters of Mr. Oglethorpe on the action of the C.B.U. in sanctioning two shows in the same area, on the same date. I gather from the tone of the correspondence that the grievance of the Cockermouth Society is that being the oldest affiliated society, their dates should have had prior claim, and that such important questions should not be settled by correspondence, but by more direct means. Both, to my mind, and I fancy most unprejudiced persons will agree, are perfectly legitimate contentions, and apart altogether from the Cockermouth point of view, should receive attention from show officials and others connected with the C.B.U. Other things being equal, the older members should have priority. Such a simple proposition needs no repetition, and it would be well if in future the executive of the C.B.U. bore this in mind. Surely some sub-committee should be arranged with periodical meetings to settle such important matter as dates. It may appear a small matter to some one, but to show officials clashing dates are most serious, from a financial point of view. The argument that the funds of the Union cannot stand the strain of committee expenses need not be entertained, for it would be found that if the Union does good work in a business-like manner, fanciers and committees will not begrudge increased levies or subscriptions to meet expenses. As a consistent advocate of the Union, I regret their action in this particular instance, and tender my sympathies and good wishes to the Cockermouth people, and I hope that exhibitors will see and give the C.F.C. a record entry next month. WILLIAM LONG.

THE RAILWAYS AND EXHIBITS.

SIR,—Kindly allow me a small space in CAGE BIRDS to call attention to the neglect on the part of Railway Company officials in not bothering themselves to get one's birds home quickly after shows. I sent some birds to Bramley, which is only about 20 miles from Harrogate, and did not get them home till the day following. Last week I sent to Preston, and I know for a fact that my case was at Preston station ready to come home at six o'clock on the Saturday night, but I did not receive them till 6.40 p.m. on the Sunday. Nearly 25 hours on the railway; is it not disgraceful? I think it is time one of the Unions approached the Railway Companies on the subject as we Canary men pay 50 per cent. more for our birds travelling. Why this is, I don't know, as they take little or no more care of our cases than of ordinary luggage.

W. E. FERGUSSON.

A SUGGESTION TO SHOW SECRETARIES.

SIR,—As a novice exhibitor and a reader of CAGE BIRDS, allow me to make a suggestion or two. In the first place, this being the show season, fanciers will be testing the value of their birds by sending them to one or the other of the shows advertised in CAGE BIRDS. A fancier first decides on the show; then he sends for a schedule simply to find that there are no novice classes. It would, therefore, be better if societies, when advertising, would state explicitly whether or not there are novice classes. Then, with regard to the payment of prize money. As a rule entries close either on a Saturday or the first post Monday. Often on the Friday following you may see the poor secretary pleading for entries. What is the cause of this? A fancier, for instance, sends five or six birds to a show; he wins several prizes (I will not say he clears the boards), and he has, therefore, a certain amount of money to come to him. Before he can send to another show he must have a settling up with the others. So that, by delaying the payment of prize money, secretaries inflict a hardship not only on exhibitors, but also on secretaries of other shows, who would receive more, or at any rate, earlier entries. It should, I think, be possible for all show secretaries to pay the money on the same day as the show.

J. H. NEAL.

LATE BREEDING AND HOW TO PREVENT IT.

SIR,—Judging from the number of instances recorded during the past few weeks of clutches of eggs being produced during the month when one naturally expects the moult to be in full swing, the late season appears to have been unusually favourable for reproduction, or, rather, for the initial stages of it. Of course, no practical good can come of this wasted energy, which, in the vast majority of cases ends with the egg-laying; but, on the other hand, much harm may be done by exhausting the birds' vitality, causing a long protracted moult, and, worse still, it frequently happens that these same hens are singularly unproductive the next season following their excessive egg-production, so that from every point of view these phenomenal hens are far better restricted to a reasonable output. The charm and novelty of possessing such a unique specimen now is not sufficient to compensate for the chagrin and disappointment which will almost invariably follow in its train next spring. To prevent it will, in some cases, thus be found by no means an easy matter. A spare plain diet is the most general remedy, and if combined with a regular supply of green food or ripe fruit, and plenty of space for exercise, is very often successful. Needless to say, everything in the way of material and facilities for nesting should be kept out of the way. For the most stubborn cases a room of normal temperature is most advisable, and, as a last resource, the hens should be removed from out of sight—and earshot, too, if feasible—of the male birds. J. WRIGHT.

AN ENQUIRY ABOUT A NORTH-COUNTRY SPECIALIST CLUB.

SIR,—Looking over my back numbers of CAGE BIRDS, I find the later issues of June contain letters regarding a Norwich Plainhead Club for Newcastle; also a meeting being held and club formed, with membership fees, etc., duly reported. Now, at the height of the show season, one wonders what has become of this club—what is it doing; is its patronage being given and business being carried out strictly private and secret when catering for the Norwich Plainhead? Perhaps some of the office bearers will be able to say in your next issue how the club stands.

PLAINHEAD.

AN EXPERIENCE WITH RED MITE.

SIR,—I have read your articles on the red mite, and quite agree with Mr. Claud St. John, that they are often found in packet seeds. For some three or four years I had not seen a red mite in my bird-room, but this year I had from a certain quarter, a Norwich hen, which was badly infested with red mite. I only kept it a few days before I returned it; but I had kept it too long: for it had smothered my cages with red mite, and to make things worse, I had to leave my house, because my neighbours complained of my birds, as they said they were a nuisance, because they sang so loud and woke the babies. After I removed, my landlady would not allow me to keep the birds in the house. I had, therefore, to put them in a good barn, which turned out to be swarmed with mice. All my cages have now got the red mite. No doubt, as Mr. Claud St. John thinks, they have been distributed by the mice; but I set to work at once and placed all kinds of traps for them, and baited with all kinds of dainties. I have been rewarded by catching 15 old mice. I now think I have cleared them all out. I have blocked up all the holes with broken glass, poured paraffin in, and cemented them over. I have had all the cages out of doors and have given them two good coats of crude carbolic. I then white-washed and varnished them. I have now got clear again, and I shall give the cages another doing later on. The best mouse-trap I find is one with four holes in it, and set with thread. It is a very old-fashioned one, but the best I have used. The mice have to gnaw at the thread before they can get to the seed, and the spring flies up and kills them. I have caught three at a time in a four-holed trap.

SHOW VISITORS.

An Appeal to Show Secretaries.

Sir,—I have visited several Bird Shows during the present season and would much like to call the various Committees' attention It may be ignorance, incompetence, or want to what appears to be a lack of forethought, of perception, but whatever the reason, there is great need of amendment. Sheffield advertizes in Cage Birds, but omits the location of the show. I arrive in Sheffield: making enquiries, at a bird shop I am told it was at the Corn Exchange. There I found two fanciers preambulating the pavement, seeking the bill-stickers illuminations unsuccessfully. I followed the lead and enquired of the attendants and was informed it was at the Cutler's Hall. Here all enquiries were in vain, so I led off to Montgomery Hall and meeting a tram-driver I was informed that he had seen some bills of birds at the Temperance Hall. We were landed at last. Wakefield is a defaulter in this respect, but has a splendid, polished Committee. York locate their show, but like many other shows, issue slips with their catalogues, which is very objectionable; visitors cannot satisfy themselves; it being impossible to check off the winners and criticize under such circumstances. In the British and Foreign Bird Sections visitors are placed at a very great disadvantage, for want of the names of the different varieties. People come now-a-days to gain knowledge and make themselves acquainted with the kinds. Visitors are more aesthetic, colouring and form are more sought after to-day than ever, and the study of Ornithology is cultivated for intellectual conversation, equally as much as for science. The staging in some places was a most objectionable feature, as far as the light was concerned, after the twilight first commenced to mask the day, the birds were nearly invisible, but alas, when they did consent to illuminate the place many of the box cages had their backs towards the light, and where some were alright for the day, they might just as well have been sent home so far as the visitors were concerned. Secretaries, do please look after the comfort of your visitors and render them all possible help, and thus make your place attractive. People will not travel miles to find shows so ill-accommodating. It is for the success of the show and to assist your patrons that I write. Everyone who visits these places will agree that there is room for improvements. Please note and do the needful. GEO. STOCKS.

ALLEGED LACK OF MANAGEMENT AT DULWICH & PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—I think it a great pity that the manager or some other of the officials did not write to CAGE BIRDS before explaining the cause of this bad management, instead of abusing Mr. Reeves in the way that Mr. Woolhouse did. I should like to know if he is going to pay the £1 to the Lord Mayor's Crippled Children's Fund, which he promised to do, if Mr. Reeves could prove that there were 20 birds absent from judging (which he has already done). I should also like to know about the Silver medal, given by Mr. Green for most points in Lancashire classes, as there were only eight birds in the Plumhead class, three of which were mine and were marked absent. Of course, Mr. Green might well take the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and vhc like this.

J. BUNDELL.

SIR,—It was not my intention to enter into any controversy regarding the above show, but Mr. Waterman's letter certainly calls for some contradiction. He writes "I notice that allegations have been made that the exhibits at the show were not properly fed and watered, but this statement is absolutely incorrect, for I imposed the duty upon myself of going over every bird, and seeing that it was well provided with food and drink." He probably did look to see that the birds were fed and watered—but when did he look? Not on the first day up till 6 p.m.—of that I am certain—for I fed and watered dozens about that time, and know for a fact that there were hundreds of birds without food and water when I left. I also saw a gentleman (who was not a member of the Dulwich Society, but just an ordinary visitor like myself) feed and water at least 50 birds during the afternoon of the first day. There were many birds that must have been despatched on the Wednesday morning (to arrive at the show the same night) which did not have a drop of water before 6 o'clock on the Thursday evening—quite 30 hours afterwards; and there were some birds that were not watered even then. The Great Grey Shrike hadn't any food or water until 4 p.m., and it might have been hours afterwards before it would have been fed or watered, had it not been for a kindly disposed visitor, who worked hard, feeding and watering such birds as he could get at. This was not a simple job, as most of the British birds were packed tightly under the staging (without water). The cages were close together, and it was absolutely impossible for the birds, even had they been fed or watered, to see to eat or drink. To mention a few—the Linnets, most of the insectivorous birds, and the A.O.V. Finch class were packed away like this, and were turned to the light and watered (late in the afternoon) by visitors. Mr. Waterman also states that "this trouble" (the insufficiency of staging) "was speedily overcome, and by dint of hard work and very much self-sacrifice everything was got into order by the afternoon of the first day." This is absolutely contrary to fact. There were hundreds of cages on the floor when I left. Mr. Waterman (if he was at the show at this time) knows that this is correct, and so does every person who was there. I could mention dozens of people—well-known exhibitors—who can support what I say.

A. MORRIS.

SIR,—There appears to be a certain class of exhibitor who takes intense delight when visiting a show to try and find any flaw in the arrangements. Woe betide the unfortunate officials should they succeed in their object! They endeavour to make their presence felt by excitedly rushing about calling attention to this and that, loudly expressing their own opinions—trying to find sympathisers—making themselves as objectionable as they can. When they find they have failed to impress you with their importance, they rush home as quickly as possible, take out their writing materials, and let steam off to the fancy Press. These are the persons who ruin shows. There is another class of exhibitors (who, I am pleased to say, from my short experience, are in the majority), who are always trying to make things run as smoothly as possible, who, when they find you in a fix, will do anything to do you a good turn. What matters if their birds have not won the coveted prize? They prove they are men, fanciers, and sportsmen. These are the persons who keep the fancy going. Would to heaven we had more of them. It would be far more pleasant and encouraging for show officials, who in nine cases out of every ten cases are honorary workers, not paid servants. Dulwich is one where they give their time and services, and use all their energies for the advancement of the fancy, with plenty to lose and nothing to gain but the honour of their Society, which they are always striving for, in spite of adverse circumstances. Yet there are those who would throw mud. Replying to J. E. Reeves (Mr.) Number 2, if there is one thing I admire in the man it is after he has got his wife, J.E.R. No. 1, to do the dirty work, he does his best to help her. What a confession for a man to make—visiting a show together with his wife, things (he states) are not exactly as they should be, so he suggests she should write to the papers. How heroic and courageous. Was it the same spirit, may I ask, that prompted his invitation to some other fanciers to take this matter up? No, J.E.R., I am not in the habit of addressing all married women as "sweet"; it is only a term I use when speaking to my birds. An apology is not necessary, for owing to a printer's error "sweet Madam" appeared instead of "Surely, Madam," etc. (my copy proves it). Please reserve your sympathy. Anyone with a spark of humour would know I did not intend to hold my wife up to ridicule. You admit the champion and Border classes were staged before you left: well, then, as we have only a few novice classes, it wasn't so bad after all. Now, about this £1 you are chuckling over winning, you will presently find it is all a dream, and awake to the fact that more than half the number you quote in your formidable list are either through mistakes in the numbering (which was unavoidable owing to the influx of late entries at a time the matter for the catalogue should have been in the printers' hands), or slipped numbers I intended filling in on genuine absentees. Those that were overlooked, as I have said before, will be compensated—how, will be our business. One exhibitor has already stated he requires no recompense, evidently thinking we had quite enough trouble over the hall. I shall prove how many were really absent, etc., in the next issue, as I am writing to each exhibitor to verify my statement before sending it for publication. How can I answer the statement that "water was knocked over some birds" when I neither saw this occurrence nor heard of it till I read J.E.R. No. 1's statement in the Press. Why did you not report this at the time to either myself or my committee? You appear to be the only persons who saw it. Now, about the schoolboys, I know one youth, a relative of one of our oldest and best fanciers, who was placing the cages in rotation according to their numbers, and who was quite qualified to handle them. In conclusion, sir, I would like to thank, through your columns, Mr. Dobson and the many good fanciers who have written to me in the same strain. On behalf of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., I beg to state we shall not be found wanting, and there will be no disappointments in our show of 1908.

G. F. WOOLHOUSE.

(Owing to the severe pressure on our space, we have had to condense the above letter. Correspondents must be brief and to the point.—EDITOR.)

SIR,—According to promise I now send the numbers of exhibits mentioned in the list forwarded by J. E. Reeves, that are either genuine absentees, printer's errors, or numbers against birds' names (such as Lord of the Isles, etc.) They are as follows: 373, 473, 476, 483, 488, 492, 499, 504, 529, 527, 597a, 606, 609, 615, 616, 622, 643, 656, 657, 673, 684, 723, 878, 879, 954, 963, 988. As this 27 reduces 41 to 14, I prove my statement (and have the proofs) that there were not 20 birds absent from judging that were in the show. It seems a great pity that the Lord Mayor's Crippled Children's Fund should suffer through this, and I invite your correspondent, J.E.R. to look bigger than me, and forward them the £1 for the trouble he has caused.

G. F. WOOLHOUSE.

SIR,—Surely Mr. J. B. Waterman's idea of order in a bird show must be vague when he states everything was in order on the afternoon of the first day of the show, for unless you were an accomplished hurdle jumper it was impossible to get about the hall, apart from piles of exhibits being stowed away under tables, staging, etc., and as judging did not conclude until the second day of the show. He admits that several birds could not be found in time for judging, surely this suggests more muddle than order. Mr. W. refutes the statement that the birds were not properly fed and watered; here I differ with Mr. W., as I have letters and evidence to prove that several birds were not attended to, the self-imposed task of feeding over a thousand birds single-handed was surely a heavy one, more especially to a short man, who would find it necessary in this case to carry a pair of steps round with him, many of the birds being out of reach. I agree with friend W. that it is absurd to permit boys to help to stage birds, but that does not alter the fact that they were doing so. As to all exhibits being on rail a little over three hours from time of closing, 8 o'clock, this is not correct, Mr. W., as I saw a van load arrive at the station at 12.30. This would be 4½ hours, and mean birds lying at Peckham all night.

SINGING LINNETS.

SIR,—I notice in your valuable paper from week to week reports of singing contests in Yorkshire and Lancashire, and though we have no contests in Glasgow, still there are plenty of Linnet fanciers who would like very much to have their birds in song at this dreary season of the year, and if any of the owners of prize winners would favour us with a little information as to the feeding and training, they will earn the gratitude of many, and more especially

L.C.B.A. SHOW AND THE C.B.U.

SIR,—I am somewhat surprised that the above show in your show dates fixed column is still without the distinction indicating that the Association is affiliated to the C.B.U. I should have thought it was the duty of the secretary of the C.B.U. to officially acquaint you of the fact. I hold the receipt for affiliation fee, and have stated in show advertisements that our show will be held under C.B.U. rules, and earnestly thank you in anticipation for publishing this note, to avoid any misunderstanding which appears to be gaining hold.

JOHN TYSON.

SPECIALS AT THE DULWICH AND PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—In looking over the last issue of CAGE BIRDS, I was much surprised to see a letter from Mr. Morris, appealing to fanciers for their opinion re the awarding of the specials at the late show of the Dulwich and Peckham Society. Mr. Morris, I believe, is a member of that Society, and was present at the show. He must have known of the difficulties under which the judging took place, and one would have thought that had there been any cause to doubt the awards, he would have gone to the secretary, who, I am sure, would have given him any information he wanted. It was after six o'clock before Mr. Vardy could possibly get the judging done, as the other judges had not been able to get their judging done. Mr. Vardy very carefully went over his classes and made his awards for most of his specials, as others had to compete for Mr. Sandiford's cup and the shield, Mr. Vardy selected Mr. Hodder's yellow Norwich to compete with those selected by the other judges for the shield. Not being able to remain longer, he asked me to take his place in awarding those two specials, the others competing being Mr. Crisp's Yorkshire and Mr. Maxwell's Wall Creeper. These awards were not made until the next morning, so that every chance should be given the competing trio. The award was given to the Yorkshire, because it was in better condition than the Norwich, the Yorkshire being thoroughly through the moult and beautifully fined down. The Norwich showed a bit of pin feathers in the head and neck, and had not got that tone and finish that one finds on a thoroughly moulted bird. The Wall Creeper was a most lovely specimen, and a very rare bird, but the award was given to the bird which was bred, reared, and moulted by its owner. Mr. Maxwell, in a most gentlemanly and courteous manner, accepted the award as made. I believe that Mr. Hodder was also thoroughly satisfied that the award was justly given, and could plainly see that the Yorkshire was the more perfect specimen as they then stood.

Although I am a most ardent fancier and most jealous for the reputation of the Norwich Canary, I trust that I shall always have the honesty to give honour where the same is due.

With regard to Mr. Morris losing his buff. I saw the bird was ill on the first day of the show, and drew several fanciers' attention to it, but as Mr. Morris was present I naturally concluded that he would take every care of his own exhibit.

I deeply sympathise with Mr. Woodhouse in the difficult position in which he is placed, a position that was forced on him and one over which he had no control, when one considers that over four hundred late entries were made, and through an error the hall was let after Mr. Woodhouse had been promised it for the afternoon previous to the show. Surely some excuse should be made for those who give their services and devote their time to the interests and well-being of the Fancy.

E. BAKER.

Cowes.

SIR,—In answer to W. Morris, re the challenge shield at Dulwich Show, I left a competent person in Mr. E. Baker, of Cowes, to represent the Norwich Plainhead for the shield, and selected the bird myself—Class 1, No. 11, clear yellow cock. I believe, according to report in "C.B.," Mr. Hodder exhibited the bird, and I have no doubt Mr. E. Baker would try his best to get the Norwich to the front for the shield; as I have every confidence in Mr. E. Baker. I was compelled to get away from Dulwich to judge at Hoyland the following day. Trusting this will be satisfactory to Norwich exhibitors.

W. VARDY.

A DASTARDLY ACT AT PENHRYN

SIR,—I am very sorry to inform the true fanciers at Penhryn that I had my bird-room broken into late on the 14th inst, and a valuable pair of Yorkshire Canaries were brutally killed. They were doubly valuable to me, being in the first place a present from my son, and in the second place purchased from the prize Canary strain of Mr .J. Reeve. The strange part of it is that they were the only ones killed out of about 25 birds, and these two were in a large cage with another Yorkshire, which is left unhurt. The only cause I can see for this dastardly act is pure jealousy. As no doubt mine were the best pair of Yorkshires about here, and the approaching Falmouth Show is our great event, some jealous "fancier" just wanted to place his birds in front. I should be pelased to give a suitable reward for the conviction of this parson, but up to the present the police have no clues.

JOSEPH OPIE.

A LOOK ROUND SOME BLAYDON ROOMS.

SIR,—Knowing you are always interested in bits of local news, I thought I would describe my visit to four Blaydon fanciers' rooms recently. The morning was fine, with just sufficient crispness to make the walk a pleasant one. Arrived at Blaydon, I met Jimmy Carr, one of our Northern Yorkshire Club members, just outside the station; he had got wind of my coming and awaited my arrival; very pleased I was to see him, and we were soon at his house and straight through the kitchen to the rooms where the birds reign supreme. There on the table, set out for my inspection, were four splendid Yorkies, two Buffs and two Yellows. The buffs were splendid birds, one rather stout in body, but would suit some judges, who do not mind them a bit thick, the other a grand, slim Yorkie, nice head, good back, close packed pipe tail, just wants to show a wee bit more thigh to make him perfect. The Yellows were also two nice birds, but not quite through the moult, yt when they are finished they should be heard of; in addition to these Jimmy has some other good ones, but they are still heavy in the moult, from one pair he has got eleven birds living, and not one bad one amongst them; he reared fourteen, but unfortunately lost three. For several years he has bred into the teens from one pair, but this next season he is going to have two or three pairs of Yorkshires; he not only breeds Yorkshires, there were several good Crests, and Crestbreds, and some nice Norwich. Then one of his sons breeds Borders. From Mr .Carr's I went to Mr. Davison's; he was just putting his birds right for the day, so we were in amongst them at once. If Mr. Carr has some good ones, Mr. Davison has too; his Yellow hen, which he bred last year, has come through splendidly this year. Unfortunately he was not able to breed with her, as she went into soft moult early in the season, but the summer's rest has done her good, she is now in splendid health, and should do him some good this coming show season. He has also some good Buffs through the moult, and several others moulting. The Buff, which he won the special with at the Northern Yorkshire First Feather Show is coming on well, and should make a clinker. His birds excel in leg and length and have good quality, and if the frill on one or two disappears as they tighten up they will render a good account of themselves later on. Mr. Ellwood was at Mr. Davison's when I got there, so we went up to his place afterwards. Mr. Ellwood has a splendid room at the top of his house, and he has some good birds, his Borders are a treat, full of quality and colour, and a very good shape; he also has some very good Yorkshires, but with one exception they were in the moult, his Yellow bird, which was second at our Nest Feather Show is coming out a good colour. Mr. Ellwood has also an excellent, almost six-pointed Goldfinch-Canary Mule, he is having a good moult and will do some good for his owner this next season. After dinner, Mr. Ellwood drove us out to Stargate to see Mr. Dobson's famous Crests. You have more than once had notes about these birds, so I will not attempt to detail them, but one bird which I have not mentioned in previous notes, must not be overlooked, it is a yellow Crestbred, it is just commencing to break into moult, being only nine weeks' old, at this age it is larger than many of the old birds, and for head feather it cannot be beaten, tremendous length combined with very high quality. Altogether Mr. Dobson will have upwards of twenty Crests and Crest-breds which are fit to bench, this is not bad for one who lost thirteen out of his fifteen breeding hens last season. But we had to hurry away to catch the train back to Newcastle, so with a last lingering, aye, longing look, we reluctantly shook hands and hastened away.

T. C. CRAWHALL, Hon. Sec. N.Y.C.C.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

GREAT Horton O.S. held their monthly show on Saturday, November 9, the birds being staged at 8 p.m. Mr. James Hartley officiated as judge, and the 55 entries provided him with a good hour's work. The next show on December 14th, is the last of the season, and great interest is now being taken in the run for the specials.

A GOOD gathering of fanciers turned up on Tuesday, November 5th, at the headquarters of the Bradford East O.S., to witness a washing exhibition by Mr. W. A. Cowgill, of Girlington. Mr. Cowgill washed three birds, and his notes on the subject were very interesting. Mr. Crnise then put one through in fine style, as also did one of the novice members of the Society, Mr. Wilson. Altogether a very pleasant and instructive evening was spent, and no doubt ere this some of the novices present will have put into practical use the ideas gained.

IN my notes last week I dealt somewhat fully with the case of Messrs. Cook and Son, showing a cock in hen classes. Now I hear a whisper that further revelations are pending. This time the alleged offenders are said to have been guilty of borrowing and trimming. These accusations will probably come forward at no distant date, when the matter will be thoroughly gone into by the Societies interested.

WIBSEY O.S. held a members' show on Saturday last at 8 p.m., when more than 93 birds were staged, and provided the judges, Messrs. Dean and Blakey, with a good hour's work. This is a good entry for a Society of forty members, who one and all work hard to make their society successful and interesting.

LEEDS O.S. open show on Friday and Saturday last was quite an interesting exhibition, the British classes being very attractive, and many fanciers from Bradford and district made a special journey to see the great variety of birds on view. This is one of the points where Bradford shows fail, more particularly to the outsider, who, when only the Yorkshire variety is on view, has practically no interest beyond a single glance round, whereas, if other varieties are to be seen, such as British, Foreign, Mues, etc., the show retains its interest for a longer period, and when he gets amongst his friends, he tells them of the birds he has seen, and so causes many more to visit the shows and take notice of our feathered friends.

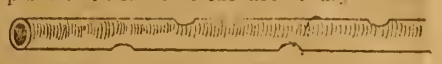
OF course, now that the Bradford and County British Bird and Mule Club is an established society, things are looking up in this department, and several of the shows during the next few weeks will have several classes for British, and should they prove the attraction the promoters think they will, no doubt, next season will see most shows providing them. The predominant thought in a lot of members' minds when classes are being arranged is: "Will this class pay"?—if not they will not entertain it. This is not as it should be. Make the shows attractive, then you will get the gate, and also far more help from non-fanciers, who, being interested, will not begrudge a small trifle when the time for another show comes round.

GT. HORTON O.S. at their last meeting opened a subscription list for one of their oldest and best known members, Mr Arthur Jowett, who, through continual sickness during the last twelve months, is in urgent need of a little assistance from his fancier friends, to enable him to battle against his illness. The Secretary or any of the members of Gt. Horton O.S., will only be too pleased to accept any small donation on his behalf. "STRAIGHT 'UN."

The Power of Gold.

Undoubtedly, the plodding fancier of an open mind, who is not afraid to be advised by his more successful competitor, often will and does get on in the long run. The same with money. A man can have any amount at his command, yet without he has good powers of discrimination and selection, his money power is heavily discounted. We often hear grumbling because a man pays a long price for a bird. I say if a man has the pluck to run into double figures for a bird, good luck to him. Endless things may happen. The bird may die, be a poor breeder, etc. Where a good bird is bought for the object of selling wasters, the action cannot be too strongly condemned, but such is not the motive in every case. Very often a fancier buys a good bird, and the younger novices gain indirectly by being able to purchase birds bred directly off it, and so partake in the good thing at a much reduced price, yet with the same advantage as the fancier who purchased the parent bird at a long price. Very often, however, credit is not given where credit is due.—R. P. BROOME (Wimbledon).

ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

COMBINED PERCH AND RED MITE TRAP.

Sent by C. Hancock, 5, Avondale Buildings, Larkhall, Bath.

I hope this idea will be found useful by the many fanciers reading your valuable CAGE BIRDS. It is of a simple red mite trap, used as a perch. Cut an elderberry stick to the length required, and of the usual thickness of a perch. Scrape the skin off, and place it in front of the fire to dry. Remove all pith from the inside, and with a red-hot iron bore about 6 or 8 holes (about the size of the head of a tintack) along the stick, as shown in the sketch. Fix in cage and use as a perch. Take out once or twice a day, morning or at evening, and with a pair of pinchers hold it upright in a basin. Pour some boiling water through it, and any red mite will then be seen in the water; dead, of course. I have used this with great success for some time past. C. HANCOCK

SIMPLE MOUSE-TRAP FOR BIRD-ROOMS.

Sent by J. F. Derry, Cannock Wood, near Rugeley, Staffs.

I enclose a rough sketch of a mouse-trap which I have used in my bird-room and proved very valuable for clearing these pests off, as I have caught as many as three at a time under same. It is very simple to make out of three sticks about a quarter-inch thick, cut in the way seen in the sketch. The two short ones should be 3inches in length, and the long one about 5inches. Lastly, place an ordinary quarry, or tile, on the corner marked D, also bait with a piece of cheese on end marked E. J. Robins Fight to the Death.

Words fail me to express what I saw in my garden on Friday afternoon, September 27. I was sitting out in a chair on the lawn when my attention was drawn to two Robins fighting hard; suddenly two more and then a third Robin came and joined in the onslaught. At first they seemed to be fighting each other, then quite suddenly they formed a sort of ring, and the Robin in the centre seemed to be greatly concerned, and did all the talking as it were, and finally he puffed himself up and sang a most melancholy air. Then there was a silence and immediately the four Robins again attacked him. This fight for life must have lasted over half-an-hour, as I dispersed them several times, but they always returned, although further away from me. Fiually the poor little Robin sank exhausted in the melee, and he lay dead. The most astounding part was that having killed their victim, one of the Robins stood on its body and sang a most triumphant song, whilst the others looked on. I was quite overcome with what I saw, and had I not had a witness I could scarcely believe my own eyes. My gardener tells me that the young Robins kill off their parents every autumn, and once they commence the fight they never leave their victim till he is dead:—EDITH GREY BURNAND (Horsham), in the Daily Mail.

The most delightful and appropriate Postcards for Bird Lovers on the Market are those published by "Cage Birds."

All communications for this column should be written on one side of the paper only, duly authenticated with the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, and sent to H. Norman, Editor, "Wild Bird Life," "The Eyrie," Salisbury-road, Carshalton, Surrey, by Monday in each week. Original observations and records invited.

A Plea for the Blackbird.

The "Catholic Times" says harsh things about our British birds. "Blackbirds are a public pest. They devour fruit like a town lad on a visit to his country cousin. Worms and slugs they daintily ignore. There is no reason why these feathered thieves should be spared by anyone." Fortunately such a sweeping assertion is only applicable to a few—the fruit gardeners and the writer of the article. The majority of us have a very soft place in our hearts for the sable bird with the golden bill. He may take a few of our strawberries if we are too careless to cover them with cheap netting, but he destroys more than his weight in slugs over and over again, during the year when berries are out of season. And what about that rich mellow music? Surely he deserves some consideration for the pleasure he gives us by his fluty song on an early spring day. I love the Blackbird, and years ago when with gun in hand, I traversed the country side, neither the Blackbird nor the Thrush ever had a feather disarranged by a discharge of the weapon. The gardener has a perfect right to protect his fruit, but protection need not mean destruction.

Concerning the Wagtails.

There is a certain fascination about the Wagtail family that always attracts one. Although just now they are fairly common in the district, and we can see them almost daily upon the meadowland, yet they lose nothing by familiarity; we are just as keen in watching their pretty, fluttering ways, as when only an odd bird or two crosses our path.

In the south the pied bird is the most common, and is with us practically all the year round, although subject to considerable variation in numbers, by spring and autumn migrations. The merest novice can easily identify this bird by his black and white plumage. He is fond of the water, and is commonly known as the Water Wagtail. He has a rapid flapping manner of flying, and even the graceful Swallow does not make more beautiful curves in the air than this bird just before settling. The rarest of the Wagtails are the Blue-headed and the White One is inclined to think that both these species are occasionally overlooked, for although easily distinguished when in captivity, it is not such an easy matter when they are at liberty. In the Booth Museum, at Brighton, is a case containing specimens of the Blue-headed Wagtail, obtained between Brighton and Portslade, and this well-known naturalist expressed the opinion that these birds were bred in the district, as a pair or two could be seen at almost any time of the year. Since that date the correctness of this theory has been proved. In 1901, a nest containing eggs was found, and others have been located subsequently, which proves that the species can ever now be numbered among our breeding birds, at least in Sussex. Doubtless neighbouring counties are similarly favoured, but finds have not yet been recorded. In a season many Cuckoos nests and eggs are found, and probably destroyed by nest hunters, who are neither naturalists nor gifted with sufficient knowledge to know the value of the finds.

The Rare White Wagtail.

The White Wagtail is another species we see little of in this country, although being the Continental representative of our Pied bird, it is a wonder more do not find their way to our shores. At such times birds get indiscriminatively mixed in the flocks that are on the move, and upon the Norfolk coasts and the South Downs it is no unusual sight to see birds of the most opposite species consorting together. The lighter plumage and the slaty grey of the upper parts distinguishes the White from the Pied Wagtail, which, in its habits, song, call-note, nesting and colour of eggs, it closely resembles. As far as one is able to judge, the Wagtails appear to be slightly on the increase, the Pied birds being more frequently met with in flocks of various sizes. The spring migrations of the beautiful yellow birds, when at times a district seems to be full of them, certainly shows no diminishing in numbers. One may hope that this prosperity may continue, for the graceful manners and bright, cheery call-notes of these birds are delightful to all lovers of the country side.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Cuckoo Transformation.

At one time country folk firmly believed that the Cuckoo of the summer changed into a Hawk in the winter. This error arose no doubt through the similarity of the birds when in flight.

The Acorn Harvest.

The acorn harvest is fairly good, and numbers of birds cannot resist the tempting fruit. Jays, Magpies, Rooks, Pigeons and Pheasants are passionately fond of the acorn. The last-named will travel a long distance to obtain some. This fact is well known to poachers and small holders having land adjoining big preserves, and occasionally a cock Pheasant wanders away, never to return.

Swallows Following the Plough.

It is said that the common Swallows follow the plough in South Africa, picking up the grubs and small insects in much the same manner as the Wagtails do in this country. We have little opportunity of noticing if they would do so in England, as very little ploughing is done while the birds are with us. The little done in the autumn is when the winged insects are most numerous.

The Tuneful Throstle.

Once again the cheerful song of the Song Thrush can be heard. He was singing lustily the other afternoon, although the weather was foggy and cheerless, but then there was more than a touch of moisture in the atmosphere, and our spotted beauty dearly loves to talk about "more wet." The weather is so open and mild that one wonders that more of the feathered choir are not in song. The Skylarks are chasing each other about as though it was Spring, and they had nought to do but think of nesting and fighting rivals. If this continues it will not be much of a surprise if some one reports nesting operations from a pair of precocious youngsters

Starlings and Sheep.

Nearly everyone has noticed at some time or other Starlings perched upon the backs of sheep in the meadows and fields. Generally they will be seen busily hunting for insects, but occasionally one of them simply uses the sheep as a perch, preening himself as though he were on the housetop. In clearing the animal of insects he is doing a great service, which is quite appreciated by the animal; this we can see by his manner, standing perfectly still, as he does evidently enjoying the attentions of the bird.

Habit of Ducks.

Ducks and other web-footed birds were evidently not intended by Nature to perch, and yet one occasionally sees one attempting to alight upon a branch of a tree. A Mallard will fly round and miss his foothold time after time. When successful he looks very much out of place. The other day one had perched itself upon the top of a sign, about an inch and a half wide; he was preening himself quite comfortably. One would like to have seen how he got there, for it was placed upon a post some eight or ten feet above the water. Although for the most part living in the water, they dearly like to settle upon a stone or protruding root, to rest and sleep.

Concerning Owls.

Owls are useful birds, and should always be spared if possible. The Barn Owl is, perhaps, the best known. He is commonly called the White Owl, but the plumage of the upper part is of a beautiful soft tawny colour, and when one is obtained this colouring frequently leads to confusion with the Tawny Owl, which would be more appropriately named the Wood Owl. He is larger than the Barn Owl, and resorts in hollow trees in the woods. The Barn Owl is, no doubt, the most useful, and farmers should everywhere protect it. He has a peculiar screeching note, by which he is sometimes known as the Screeching Owl. Perhaps some day we shall drop all these local names, and simply call him the Barn Owl Largest & Cheapest Manufacturer. Illustrated List Free.

HENRY TAMS, Warren St., Longton, Staff.

to catch birds unless you get proper appliances to work with. All goods sold by me are made by men who are not only practical men, but experienced bird catchers as well, so that they thoroughly understand what is required for the purpose, and neither trouble nor expense is spared to obtain best possible results. I am supplying all the leading professional catchers throughout the kingdom, and many of the Colonies, who, before giving me a trial thought it impossible to get workable articles from an advertisement. I don't ask anyone to purchase from me unless they first try and are satisfied with the goods I send them, and I always refund money in full if purchaser is dissatisfied. For some months last season I publicly asked anyone to have any of my appliances on approval, and a similar article from any other advertiser, and if mine was not far better value at a lower price, they were at liberty to break my articles up, and I would return every penny of their purchase money. Not one article was ever smashed up, nor was I asked to refund money in any single case, thus proving the truth of my statements. I believe in making a genuine article at a price within the reach of every working man, and do not ask for exorbitant profits, hence the low prices and high quality of my goods. Clap nets, made from genuine tbread, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair; 4 yards, 5/-; 5 yards, 6/-; 6 yards, 7/-; 7 yards, 8/-; 8 yards, 9/-; 9 yards, 10/-; 10 yards, 11/-; per pair; all bave two nets to the pair, and are 5 feet 6 inches deep, with 4 feet fly, and fitted complete with pegs, lines, stave poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Bat folding Sparrow nets for stacks, ivy bedges, etc., fitted on 19 feet bamboo poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches long, 1/- each; 18 inches long, 9d. each. These net traps are by far the largest and most simply worked on the market, and are guaranteed to catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook, without injury. Loose netting, as used in all my nets, made from ¾ inch mesh, genuine thread, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; 12 feet deep, 5d. yard, post free. This netting is very fine, and made specially for bird nets, and must not be confused with tbe thick, American cotton netting now being sold as bird netting. Send for sample, and compare it with others. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 10d. and 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; all have separate compartment for call bird, in addition to traps. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, work automatically, and guaranteed to reset immediately a bird is caught, without any attention whatever, 1/6 each. Real Japanese birdlime, absolutely strongest made guaranteed to hold a Hawk, will catch birds clean, and hold, even in rain, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6, sample box 3d., all post free. Every up-to-date appliance required by catchers kept in stock. Send stamp for full list and sample netting. Cages! Cages!! Cages!!! Goldfinch or Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Lark runner cages, 6d., 8d., 10d., and 1/- each; 3/6, 4/6, 6/- and 7/6 dozen. Round or square-topped calling cages, 3d. each; 2/6 dozen. Blackbird or Thrush cages, 2/6, 3/- each. Bow-fronted Lark cages, 2/- and 2/6 each. Singing box cages, 10d., 1/- and 1/3 each; 8/6, 10/6, and 12/- dozen. All brass drawing-room Canary cages, from 3/6 to 25/- each. Parrot cages, 4/- to £10 each. Dealers please send stamp for sizes and trade price of all cages, it will pay you. Penny tin drinkers, 6d. dozen; 6 dozen 2/3, or gross 4/-. Zinc drinking same size, 9d. dozen, 6 dozen 3/6, or a gross 6/-. Black enamelled drinkers for show cages, 1/- dozen, post free. Halfpenny tin drinkers, three dozen 10d., or 3/- gross. Few more testimonials given below of recent dates. "3, Box Gardens, Wellingborough. November 13th. Sir,—Please send ½ lime. The netting I bought from you last year is as good as ever. Yours F. Marriott." "7, Cripplegate Cottages, Uckfield. November 18th. Sir,—Received netting, and am very pleased with it. Please send 6 yards more. Yours, F. Wren." "33, The Terrace, East Haddow. November 18th. Sir,—Received cages quite safe, and am well satisfied. Please send pair clap nets. Yours, R. Pudner." "7, Wimbolt-st., Great Moor, Stockport. Sir,—Please send another 24 yards netting. I am sure there could not be better, as it is both the finest thread and the strongest netting I ever used, and I have had a lot of different kinds. Yours, A. Pennor." "158, Kew-rd., Birkdale. Sir,—Received birdlime all right, and was very pleased with it. Please send following netting. Yours, S. Whitehead." "Llandrindod Wells. Sir,—Please send following netting. That I had from you last year is as good as ever, and well worth the price. Yours, J. Bufton." "Myrtle Cottage, Harboro' Park, Rushden. Sir,—Please send following. In August I had some netting and birdlime from you, and am more than pleased with it, and the lime is best I ever used. Yours, J. Robinson." "41 Church-st., Seaham Harbour. Sir,—Nets you sent me fortnight ago gave every satisfaction, so please send on the following. Yours, J. Coyle." "7, Birkland-st., Mansfield. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime. I had some from you last year and found it very good. Yours, Mr. Barson." "Limebrook, November 4th. Sir,—Received netting, and am well satisfied with it, not having to wait as I had last year from another firm in your city. I shall send again ere long. Yours, W. R." "Waltham Cross, November 7th. Sir,—Nets to hand, and very pleased with them. Yours, W. Watts." "34, Smithfield-st., Llanidloes. November 10th. Sir,—Please send following. I had some cages from you last year, and they are very good, strong cages, and best I ever had, and very good fountains, also. Yours, W. Evans." Not merely one or two, but hundreds upon hundreds of similar unsolicited testimonials are open for inspection any time, the majority of which have never been published. Please note everything is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval, at my sole risk, either cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money refunded in full if every satisfaction not given. See Roller Canary column for further advertisement.

MEDICINES.

ESSENCE OF COAL TAR.

for colds and wheezing in cage birds. To obtain the genuine essence, send 4d. in stamps for sample bottle, sent post free.—Address, Errington's, XL Red Feed Stores, Bradford.

"ASMAKURA" CURES asthma, wheezing, hoarseness, and all lung troubles in birds. "The best tonic." post free 7d.—"Sedburn," Peel-rd., Woodford, Essex.

BRONCHORINE, REG. 287,755.

IDEAL lung tonic, for cage birds, especially during the coming season of fogs and winter. Bronchorine at Palace Show. "A lady director was at my stall and spoke well of Bronchorine. She says the advertisement you print of her was correct, and endorsed it by buying a bottle, of which there was a great sale." R. A. Newley, Stockwell Green. 9d., 1/6, 3/-.—Original testimonials, etc., apply Crawley, 112, Radford Boulevard, Nottingham.

PANNASSINA.

Prevents and cures asthma, wheezing, loss of song, etc., takes the birds easily through their moult, and is an excellent winter stimulant. This speciality has built up a lasting reputation entirely on its own merits, invariably effecting a cure after every other remedy has failed. In tins, 7d. and 1/2, free. No bird room complete without it.—W. J. Hammond, 19, Anstey-rd., Coldharbour-lane, Camberwell, London, S.E.

BURROW'S LUNG TONIC.

Every man to his trade. Having worked with chemicals all my life, and being a well-known breeder and exhibitor myself, I have found this tonic successful in saving the life of many of our feather pets. It has had public test, and is used and recommended by all our leading fanciers for curing cold, wheezing, loss of voice, and asthma. It has been successful where others have failed. No bird room is complete without this wonderful tonic. Sent post free to any address, 7½d. and 1/- bottle; awarded two gold medals and five diplomas Crystal Palace.—Note address, Geo. Burrows, 105, Judd-st., Euston-rd., London, W.C.

AVISINE.

An absolutely unique remedy for all pulmonary diseases of birds. Avisine is a cure. There are no simples, nor cheap or nasty drugs in it, which, while pretending to cure one disease, bring on others even more fatal. Its most active ingredient is spoken of by the medical profession as the finest discovery extant, as a remedy for pulmonary diseases. Avisine allays all inflammation of the lungs and air passages, and acts not only locally, but also on the respiratory centre, removing all distressing symptoms almost immediately. As a tonic it has no equals. Avisine is now being used by most of the leading judges, and any eminent bird men may have a sample free on application. We will abide by the results of any fair trial. Sold in bottles, 6d., 1/-, 2/6, and 5/-; postage extra. Agents wanted.

HARRY ALLEN,

THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING.

Champion of all Champions. Gentlemen, I have the finest British in England, bar none. Beware of spurious imitations; as you will see, there are a few copying, but it takes no effect on the original firm, cock Linnets, as usual, 1/6, 2/-, 2/6 and 3/- each. I am supplying winners all over, cock Linnets, singing beautifully, in singing cage, a packet of my special mixture, and instructions how to feed, 3/6 the lot, none genuine but mine; house-moulted Linnets, with cage ready for contests, 10/6 each; cock Bullfinches, 3/6 each; hens, 1/6 each; cock Goldfinches, the largest ever seen, 2/6 and 3/6 each; extra picked birds, real gems, 4/6 and 5/- each; see last week's advertisement; all my birds are on seven days' approval; cash or deposit. I thank all my numerous customers for their patronage in my ever increasing business. I have taken one of the largest shops in Leeds, and hope to receive your orders and testimonials as I did at my old address. All my birds are sent out safely packed and exactly as described. Your orders will receive my prompt attention. All will be in readiness when this advertisement appears. Kindly note change of address, Harry Allen, Bird Specialist, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds.

BIRD CATCHERS.

Buy from Maker, and get best value obtainable; it would never pay me to send out cheap and blown together goods. MATTHEWS, LINNET KING.

Gentlemen, if you want a first-class winner or a winning team give my special birds a trial. I guarantee them the best strain in England, and have been selected by a practical man that understands exactly what you want. I am supplying winners every week from my valuable large stock, and my special birds are called by my customers real deck-sweepers. You can win when you wish with them. If you want to win at your show, send to me at once. Don't keep middle-raters, which is only expense without results, when you can get winners from me at once at working men's prices. Let me fit you up with the finest winning team ever advertised at such prices as I supply all the leading exhibitors in England, and my birds are winning every week. They all send to me when they want a winner, as they know my special birds are selected from hundreds of dozens which I sell every week, not merely picked from a bought dozen which has been picked at before most dealers get them. All my selected birds have been caged months, and are in perfect show condition. I keep every variety of British. Inspection invited to the largest aviaries in England. I keep nothing but the best. Big, fine, healthy Linnets, with nutbrown backs, beautifully pencilled, Norwich type, 1/6 and 2/-. A few giant massive Linnets, beautifully pencilled, ready to win in the keenest competition, 3/- each; also the finest lot of fierce singing Linnets in England, specially trained under my old noted Cheshire Champions, in full song; sacrifice, 2/-; with beautiful singing cage, packet of special seed, instructions, 3/- lot; best value ever offered; worth double; over 500 in stock. Goldfinches. Real Peartree Goldfinches, the largest and best you can possibly get, with good deep square scarlet blazes, extra well huttoned and moonced, beautifully tanned, 2/6 and 3/-. Also a few giants, massive in size, with enormous deep square scarlet blaze, extra special birds, sure winners, 4/6 and 5/- each; hargains. These special birds are the best you can possibly get. Bullfinches. Bullfinches with blood-red breast, broad black cap, good wing bars, win anywhere, as they are in perfect show condition, 3/- each. Large massive hen Bullfinches for muling, 1/- each. Large Yellow Giant Greenfinches, as large as Thrushes, ready for showing, steady; cocks, 1/6; hen, 6d. Large mealy Redpolls, good deep bibs, well laced, 1/6 each; splendid full-coloured Chaffinches, 1/-; large Cheshire Larks in song, 1/- each. All birds sent out exactly as described on seven full days' approval. Others are following me, so beware of worthless imitations, as you get the first preference from me.

"37, Swain-street, Hyde.—Sir,—The team of birds you sent me a fortnight ago has proved extra good. I am pleased to tell you I took 2 firsts, 2 specials, 3 seconds, vhe, with six birds at Hyde Show on Saturday. I don't know how to thank you, but use my name as often as you like. Shall advise everyone that wants a first-class team to send to Matthews, the old-established Linnet King. From Mr. Clark to Matthews, Bird Catcher." "40, Stanley-street, Tonpentre, Glamorganshire.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe. I must thank you for such extra good birds. I never had such birds before I knew you. Shall recommend you as a honest working man's friend. Use this as often as you wish, as you deserve your old-established title Linnet King. From Mr. Dumford to Matthews, Bird Catcher." "From Pentremalwed-road, Morriston, Swansea, Glam.—Sir,—I received the two Peartree Goldfinches safe in splendid condition. I am highly pleased with them; they are beauties. Thanking you for your honest dealing. I have written to Editor to forward you deposit. From John Jenkins to Matthews, Bird Catcher." Gentlemen, I am receiving dozens of testimonials like these every post, so send direct to the catcher, as I have the best living. Ignore useless imitators, as I send all birds out on seven days' approval; cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit.—Matthews, Bird Catcher, 44, George-street, Hyde, Cheshire.

DESPITE THE MANY

assertions to the contrary, I am the originator of approval system in connection with wild birds, and during the whole 16 years of trading have never dealt on any other terms. I send everything, I sell on approval at my risk, on CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and guarantee every satisfaction or money returned in full. If you want sound, healthy stock at a fair price, give me a trial; but if you want fresh-caught weeds, don't apply to me, as I will not supply them. Genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, big bold birds, in pink of health and condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/6, or 16/- dozen. Specially selected larger cocks, for show or muling, and in splendid song, 3/- each, three 7/6. Few superb specimens, fit for keenest competition, 4/- and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6. Two-year-old white-legged cock, guaranteed bred Mules last season, 7/6. Grand large cock Brown Linnets, with nut-brown backs and red breasts, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Specially selected cocks, in song, 1/- each, three 2/6. These Linnets are guaranteed exactly same as supplied by me to contest singers, fanciers, and dealers throughout Yorkshire, etc., and which are often re-sold by them at big prices. Absolutely incomparable for size and song. Splendid clean-moulted cock Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Few very large, steady, right-coloured hens, for show or breeding, 1/6 each; cock Greenfinches, three 1/-, six 1/6. Specially selected Yellow Greenfinches, for show, 1/- each, three 2/-; cock Chaffinches, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Grand lot Snow Buntings, in perfect health and feather, cocks 1/6 each; hens, 1/- each, three 2/-. Few extra large light-coloured and well-marked cocks, for show, 2/6 each. These show specimens are picked from several hundreds, are almost white, and are kept in special steadying cages so as to be ready for immediate shows. Grand cock Skylarks, all big, plump cocks, not half hens, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Few singing nicely, 1/6 each. Two-year-old cock Goldfinch Mule, used to catching, pure Fiuch notes, and in full song. This is a regular "bell slammer," and just the bird for tricky Finches, price 10/-. Real Siberian Goldfinches, I have already secured a grand lot; price for ordinary specimens, 4/6 each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. These are the genuine Siberian Finches, imported in single wicker cages, not merely picked Russian birds, and my exhibition specimens are real dock-sweepers, with full complement of show points, and as I have supplied hundreds of winners, I know exactly what to send out. Cock Siskins, 2/- and 2/6 each. Few well-marked Yellow cocks, with full bib, etc., 3/- and 4/- each; hens, 1/- and 1/6 each. See following few letters recently received and unsolicited. "14, Marine-terrace, Skinningrove, Yorks.—Sir,—Last lot Linnets I got from you were beauties, and as large as Larks. Please send another six, as your birds sell well here; they are far better than those that come from Lancashire. Yours, C. Hart." "65, Faraday-road, Northwich, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Bird arrived safely. I am greatly pleased with it, and shall be pleased to have further dealings with you in the future. Yours, J. Murphy." "Morgan-row, Cwmbash, Aberdare.—Sir,—Cock Linnet arrived safe; he pleased me in every way. I have had Linnets from dozens of dealers before, but this is the boldest, sweetest, and prettiest I have ever had. Yours, D. Thomas." "Church-road, Mitcham, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am well satisfied with them. Yours, F. Tutty." "22, Kay-street, West Stanley.—Sir,—Thanks for birds received all right, and very satisfactory. I am quite pleased with them. Yours, J. Hutchinson." "Middlesbrough, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied. Yours, J. Moody." "Colcorton, Nov. 2nd.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in grand condition. I have never before had such value for the money. Yours, W. Richards." "Chapel House, Witton-le-Wear, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied with them. H. Hill." "75, Sellar-street, Abbeydale, Sheffield, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Please send three more Goldfinches. I was delighted with the last you sent. Yours, A. Macefield." "Hilldrop, Oxted, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinch you sent me few weeks ago has turned out a beauty. Please send another, also a Linnet. Yours, A. Wright." "West Newton, Aspatria, Nov. 5th.—Sir,—Goldie arrived safe and well, and I am greatly satisfied with him. Yours, J. Clarke." "Canniepairt, Tayport, Scotland, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in good condition, and I am highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Robertson." "21, Belgrave, Wilnecote, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Linnets arrived in splendid condition. I did not expect such birds at the price. Please send following. Yours, D. Hare." "2, Tenterfield-terrace, Lobmill, Todmorten.—Sir,—Please send following birds. The last Linnet I got from you has won several first prizes. Yours, Moore and Son." "4, Odell-street, Old Kent-road, London.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and I am highly delighted with them. I would not part with them, for they are a marvel at the price. Yours, E. Alderman." "21, Market-street, Tredegar. — Sir, — Received selected Linnets, and am very pleased with them. Two of them are singing now. Wishing you every success. Yours, A. Selvey." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in county of Worcester, and are well caged, steady, and properly on hard seed before being sent out, and are sent on approval at my sole risk. Inspection cordially invited any time. See "Roller Canary" and "Appliance" columns for further advertisements.

See Reports.
Won 4 Firsts, 2 Thirds, beautiful Gold Medal presented by Scotch N.P.C. for best Norwich shown by a member at Glasgow, also 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Crystal Palace, 1907, including 1st Unflighted Yellows, class of 30 champions, all bred by me; also won just on 40 firsts last season Blood will tell. This strain has cost me hundreds of pounds in cash, and I claim to have the best blood in the world. See wins already this season at Peterboro', Dulwich, Stoke, Chesterfield, Coventry, Leeds, Morecambe, Preston, etc. Won more prizes in Norwich this season than anyone in England. Have some marvellous prize-bred pairs from above winners at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-; pair odd cocks and hens, Yellows or Buffs, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; any on approval with pleasure. Send ½d. stamp for list of testimonials from winners I have supplied. They will surprise you. Mr. H. Ward, Charing, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"The cock Canary I had from you bred me three grand birds, which won 1st and special, 2nd and reserve at Ashford, Kent. See last week's CAGE BIRDS." Mr. Jarvie, Glasgow, Oct. 28th, 1907—Sir, Send six Norwich cages and a good Goldfinch for enclosed. Mr. Young won medal for best hen at City show; the Yellow hen he got from you is its mother." Mr. Cook, Wellingboro'—"Sir, very pleased with the Yellow Norwich cock, and also the way you despatched him. The Yellow hen you sold me has won me 1st and special Wellingboro', 3rd Burton. I bred from her a Buff hen, which was 1st in a class of 13 at Wellingboro', also 3rd at Crystal Palace in class 32." Mr. J. D. Hird, Macduff—"Sir, send me four cage fronts, 20 by 12. The variegated cock you sold me won 1st at all our shows round here." Mr. J. D. Jones, Pentordawe—"Sir, Norwich cock arrived safe; well pleased; he won 1st and two specials here." April, 1907. Mr. H. McIver, Livingstone Buildings, Port Glasgow, writes—"Sir, the Norwich I had from you won 1st and special in class of eleven against all colours at Greenock." Mr. Fisher Cardendon, Fife, March, 1907—"Sir, I took 1st, special, and 2nd at Cowdenbeath with birds I had from you." Breeders 27 years.—J. Sandiford, Canary Breeder, Preston, Lancs.

WHAT WINS

your confidence, the confidence of your friends, and the good faith of every bird lover at home and abroad is the genuine, straightforward and honest dealings we give, so why not favour us with your order? We send all Rollers on approval for seven clear days entirely at our risk; either cash to us or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. We have just arrived the finest consignment of pure Seifert Rollers ever imported into England, all with good, long, deep, sweet, soft rolls, hollow rolls, water-bubble runs, etc., bell, harp and gong notes, etc., etc., in fact, perfect little music boxes, at 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/-; hens, the same strain, 2/-, 2/6 each. We have also grand lot of Hartz Mountain, usually sold by some dealers as St. Andreasberg Rollers, all are good, loud, clear day and gaslight songsters, 5/6, 6/6 each; Hartz hens, 1/6 each; Roller singing cages, 1/3, 1/6 each. Readers kindly read few testimonials selected from hundreds. 154, Ray-st., Heanor, November 18/07. Dear Sir, the bird you sent came safe to hand. I thank you for sending such a nice bird, be commenced to sing immediately I let him in cage, he is singing from early morning till late at night; in fact he is never still. I have advised CAGE BIRDS to forward deposit on to you, as there is no need to keep it back the full week, as the bird speaks for himself. Yours truly, J. T. Brown. Dear Sir,—Bird safely to hand, and in good condition; it is a good one, and recommends itself. Yours truly W. Reed. Every Roller is sent out exactly as represented, and on seven days' approval.—Parker and Wilden, Bird Merchants, 257 and 258, Farm-st., Birmingham.

CONTEST ROLLERS.

The celebrated Preston contest St. Andreasberg Rollers have arrived, and are better than ever before, and, seeing the great number of winners we supplied last year, this is saying a great deal, and although we are paying more for them to the breeders we shall not advance the price, but we expect to sell more than ever. The price of these birds is only 15/-, and we send them on 14 days' trial at our risk, and we don't want your money until you are fully satisfied with the bird. Deposit the 15/- now with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS and don't you buy a Roller or any other article on any other terms, no matter if the advertiser is a large advertiser or a small one. Always deposit your cash, and then you can't be imposed upon. Every one of these Rollers is sent out in prime condition, and a receipt is given, with full instructions how to keep them in condition and contest form, this alone is worth pounds to every fancier, and every bird we sell gets us a testimonial. We could publish hundreds, only we prefer to give value in the birds themselves rather than spend the money in advertisements, and out of the hundreds we sold last year, the Editor of CAGE BIRDS can prove that we had only one deposit to return. Send for one of these masterpieces, and send also to some other advertiser for a 20/- or £2 Roller and compare the two, and I guarantee you will prefer the one we send. A word to the wise is sufficient. German Hartz Mountain Canaries in full song, same as sold by others as Rollers, price, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, and 8/6 each. Singing cage cabinets, with closing shutters, complete, 2/6 each. Anything, alive, bought, sold, and exchanged. We have won thousands of prizes.—Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk-rd., Preston.

Hummel Rollers.

Finest Rollers imported. To speak well of the Hummel is to gild refined gold. Testimonials from customers who say the Hummel is still singing as sweetly as when purchased four, five, six, and seven years ago. All Hummels have delightful deep, delicate bow roll, hollow roll, hollow bow roll, do pipe, hollow bell roll, grand round bass roll vibrating hollow roll, and charming water bubble roll; one price only, 12s. 6d.; no fancy prices; Hummel hens, 3s. each; a beautiful pair of Hummels for 15s. St. Andreasberg Rollers, 5s. and 7s. 6d. each. Hummel Schoolmasters, 20s. each, better than can be obtained elsewhere at treble the price. Thousands of testimonials have been published by me in CAGE BIRDS from satisfied customers. I guarantee strictly honourable trading and satisfaction to all.—Varney, sole proprietor and importer of this remarkable Roller Canary. Twenty years advertiser.—Varney, Stratford, London.—Export a specialty. Nov. 1st, Hummel arrived yesterday, has sang sweetly ever since, I shall be very pleased to recommend you.—A Richardson. "November 1st, 1907. 39, Belvedere Road, Taunton. — Seven years ago I bought of you a Hummel Roller. It was a lovely bird; it died to-day. Kindly send another.—W. Carver." "October 29th, 1907. The First Avenue Hotel, High Holborn. Hummel arrived; am well pleased with him. I shall have pleasure in recommending you. J. Waller, Esq." "November 2nd. St. Mary Abbey, Mill Hill, N.W. I am delighted with the Hummel; I would not part with him. He is also so beautifully tame.—F. Blackett." November 1st, 1907. I am pleased, indeed, with the Hummel Roller. Please find P.O. for another as good.—W. H. Stebbs, Esq." "7, Bank Street, Dundee. Received Hummel; it is a wonderful singer. Am highly pleased.—J. Ross." "3, High Street, Galashiels. I have a Hummel I bought from you two years ago; the bird is still wonderfully good.—A. Ramsey, Esq." "1, Avondale Terrace, Dartmouth. Received Hummel safe. I would not take three times the amount I paid you for him.—J. Stone." Varney, Sole Proprietor and Importer of Hummel Roller, Stratford, London.

PERHAPS YOU THINK

that because my prices are so astonishingly low that the quality of my birds is low also, but to convince you that this is not so I ask you to peruse the unsolicited letters printed below. I import all Rollers direct and save all middlemen's profits, therefore can sell better quality at lower prices than most dealers. I have a grand stock of pure St. Andreasberg hollow Rollers, all direct from Leipzig, in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft ronlades, piccolo trills, deep bass rolls, Nightingale jug-jug, bell, harp and du du pipes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from Titlark or any other harsh notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/6 each. Special Schoolmasters 10/- each. I also have a limited number of real contest masters, pure Seifert strain, price 15/- each. These contest birds are gems of the very first water and perfect masters of their art. Roller hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. Ordinary loud free Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, 5/- each. Hartz hens 2/6 couple, 12/6 dozen. These Hartz cocks are often described and sold by unscrupulous dealers as Hartz Mountain Rollers at fancy prices. All Rollers sold by me are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and if you would have a genuine Leipzig Roller you must purchase from me, as I am the sole importer, and no other dealer can get so much as one feather of this strain, unless purchased from me. Following few letters give an idea of quality of the Leipzig Rollers, but to obtain better proof please have one on a week's trial from me. "33, Dorset-st., Burnley, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller safe. I have written CAGE BIRDS to send you the money, as I am well satisfied with him, as he sings beautiful.—Yours, T. Bailey." "Dean-st., Oakham, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller this morning and am well satisfied with it. Thanking you very much.—Yours, T. Carter." "37, Windbourne-rd., Liverpool, Nov. 2nd. Sir,—Birds arrived safely on Friday. I am more than pleased with the light variegated cock; it started singing immediately on arrival.—Yours, F. Edwards." "29, Astor-st., Bramley, Leeds, Nov. 4th. Sir,—The Leipzig Roller arrived in splendid condition, and no worse for the long journey, and he is singing well. I shall not forget to tell my friends where he came from.—Yours, J. Pratt." "Paris House, Portmadoc, Nov. 4th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller cock. I bought one from you six years ago, and he is still singing as merrily as ever.—Yours, R. Owen." "9, Croft Terrace, Jarrow-on-Tyne, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller alright, and have no hesitation in keeping him as he is such a sweet singer.—Yours, J. Young." "4, Brickyard Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Roller quite safe, and am quite satisfied with it. He began to whistle soon after arrival. We think it is beautiful, and are delighted. Wishing you every success.—Yours, W. Bradbury." "Thornbill, Dumfriesshire, Nov. 6th. Sir,—I had a Roller from you before; he was a splendid little fellow, and pleased me extra well. Hoping I may receive such another this time.—Yours, R. Davidson." "2, Bretway Road, Dinas Powis, Nov. 9th. Sir,—Roller arrived all right and in splendid condition. Lovely notes; am quite satisfied.—Yours, J. Hooson." "Port Talbot, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Received Roller safely, in grand condition, and singing nicely; I am quite satisfied, and shall deal with you again.—Yours, D. Gibbs." "54, Melbourne Street, Gorton, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Have you any Leipzig Rollers in stock? I got a cock and two hens from you last year and was very pleased indeed with them, and also your straightforward dealings. —Yours, J. Kay." "6, Bartonhall Row, Waterloo. Wishaw. Sir,—I got a Roller from you last year and it wasn't in the house half-hour before it commenced singing; five weeks ago I sent to another dealer for one and after waiting four weeks he sent me a hen full of asthma, which died. I am going to send for one of yours this week.—Yours, J. Halliday." "605, Berridge Road, Nottingham. Sir,—Roller arrived safe; was singing few minutes after arrival; a very good songster. I am quite satisfied; good value for money.—Yours, H. Richardson." "2, Johnson Street, Silverdale. Sir,—Roller to hand; I am highly pleased with him, being a well built bird with steady flow of notes. — Yours, J. Bibby." See back numbers of CAGE BIRDS for hundreds of similar testimonials to above, all of which are entirely unsolicited. Every Roller is guaranteed to be exactly as represented and all are sent out on full week's trial entirely at my own risk, either on receipt cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. Wholesale prices on receipt trade card.—Note address, the largest Roller retailer in United Kingdom.

Do You Want to Possess a Good One?

If so, send for one of my Extra Specials,

20/-, 30/- and 40/- each.

These are quite out of the common run imported, being a very special importation and all pure Seiferts please remember this—and not the happy expression used without meaning, but merely to "draw." Also a

as follows: SEIFERT and other noted strains not fictitious absurdities, in stock, to be seen and heard; a really fine and superior collection, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/- and up; Hens, same strain, 3/6 and 5/-.

HARTZ COCKS, singing, 5/-, 5/9, 6/6 each; Hens, 1/6, 2/-.

Don't be gulled with fictitious names, they are simply absurd and I defy contradiction; but send for best strains procurable in Germany. Home-bred, guaranteed Seiferts, best cocks, untrained, 7/6 each, worth any money for breeding; best procurable hens, 3/6, 5/-. worth double. All on week's approval. Money back in full if not approved, or deposit with Editor if preferred.

CASCADE ROLLERS.

do not get on your nerves. They are the sweetest—purest rollers procurable. Not intended for public house bars, where quantity of sound is required, but for the home, where its cascade of melody, is a never failing source of delight. See this from Mr. Francis Shand, Blacksmith, Fochabers, Scotland, 23/11/1907.—Sir,—The Cascade Rollerr arrived all right; it was not half an hour arrived till it was singing lovely. It is a little gem; I am very pleased with it. This is the sort of Roller you are looking for; try one and be surprised and delighted. My price is 10/-; Schoolmasters, 15/-; this includes a splendidly fitted British Roller singing cage; terms, cash or deposit.

PEARSON, CASCADE ROLLER IMPORTER, GREENWICH.

Real St. Andreasberg Rollers

Pure Hartz Rollers.

Direct importer. The finest Seiferts strain from Germany, with pure Nightingale, Woodlark, Titlarks, Waterbubble, and bell notes; marvellous songsters; 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/- each; on approval. Now, hurry your orders up for first choice. Hens, same strain, 2/- and 2/6. Wholesalers, write for terms. Just a few testimonials picked from hundreds. These have come from birds I have sent hundreds of miles from Preston. Mrs. Downs, Chelmsford Road, Dublin, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"Thanks for the beautiful Roller. He arrived safely about 11 today, none the worse for the journey. He is a beautiful colour, and has a lovely voice. I like him well; he is singing over my head this moment. I want a nice cage for him; send on price of one." Mr. Glenny, Bachelors' Walk, Dublin—"Sir, am pleased with Roller, which arrived safe. He is singing continually night and day since he arrived. Scores of testimonials like this. If above not proof enough, send for catalogue and scores more testimonials. Mr. J. Patterson, Cork, Ireland—"Sir, I think it only right you should know that the Roller you sent me won the All Ireland Roller Singing Contest, held here November 8th and 9th." Mr. McConquodall, Greenock, Scotland—"Sir, received Roller and box cage safe; he was singing half an hour after I got him. He is the best songster I ever had. The cage is most suitable." Mr. H. Brooks, Wakefield, Yorks.—Sir, the Hartz Roller to hand. He is a splendid bird and sang under three minutes after caged. He sings in the gaslight; first thing in the morning. I have given twice as much for German Rollers not half as good as this from you." A few real Hartz Rollers—not Belgians, price 5/- and 6/- each; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. Proper singing Roller box cages, 1/6; enamelled inside and out, inlaid fronts, sand drawers; beauties, 1/10 each; approval with any; established 1879.

PHENOMINAL RESULTS FROM SMALL BEGINNINGS.

My business has grown by leaps and bounds since it was established in 1858, but it would not have done so if its success had not been merited and deserved. The strict business principles upon which it has been conducted, no doubt, account for this. I now buy sometimes as many as

1,000 BIRDS AT ONE TRANSACTION.

This will enable you to form some idea as to the business I am doing and my capacity for meeting your every requirement.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

THE SHOWS.

DERBY.

The Derby Cage Bird Club celebrated its "Jubilee" Show on November 26 and 27, under C.B.U. Rules. The exhibition took place in the Athenæum Rooms, which are nicely lighted, spacious, absolutely free from draughts, and centrally situated; entries totalled 600, in the 50 classes open and 17 Members' provided. The schedule issued was a rattling good one, with prize money guaranteed, and no amalgamation. Norwich Plainheads made a magnificent display, and left in one's mind something to be remembered for many a day to come. What gems, to be sure, are the clear yellow staged by Mr. A. Hirst, the clear buff, owned by Mr. J. F. Bishop, the unflighted yellow shown in such grand trim by Mr. J. E. Davies, and the yellow hen, the property of Mr. W. R. Nutt; other exhibits were shown by Messrs. Stubbs, Drakeley, Beardall and Walker, Eckersley, Fox, Wootton, Hall and Waters. Crest and Crestbreds provided a capital assortment the most impressive perhaps being the Green Crest shown by Mr. Geo. Colledge, and a grand unflighted buff heavy-marked Dark Crest, staged by the Rev. Lawton Platt (of Derby). The latter, with another year on its back, should make its presence felt wherever shown. The Yorkshires pleased one greatly. Outstanding birds were the clear buff, the property of Mr. W. H. Shackleton, the tkd. buff, shown by Messrs. Bailey and Swanger, and the buff hen owned by Mr. J. Wilcock, a trio of "clinkers." Yorkshire and Norwich Greens were fairly well represented. In the Cinnamons Messrs. Dornier and Godley, fought their battles over once again, and auswered for most of the spoil. Mules supplied several crosses of a very meritorious order. There is no disputing the character of the Redpoll Bullie, owned by Mr. R. Colton. British captivated many fanciers present, and were without doubt a superb collection. Special for best Brit. went to Mr. H. W. Axe, with his noted Thrush. Sandiford's special went the way of Mr. J. Pegg; gold medal for best 1907 grizzle crest and silver challenge cup for best 1907 yell. crest were captured by Mr. G. Colledge (his third successive win, this latter now becomes his own property).

The Mayoress of Derby (wife of Coun. A. Simpson, J.P.), officiated at the opening ceremony, her speech being pretty and very appropriate. She was supported by Lady Roe, wife of Sir Thos. Roe, M.P., Councillor Jos. Hill (President) proved most courteous, and with the Chairman, Mr. W. H. Eley, and Mr. J. H. Drakeley, as "understudy," help things along in an admirable manner; hon. treas., Mr. T. B. Evans and hon. auditors, Messrs. J. C. Barnes and W. Stevens, with the Committee of Management consisting of a band of well-known practical fanciers in Messrs. W. Astle, A. Dolman, W. C. Harrison, W. Featherstone, E. Holmes, T. W. Evans, T. Martin, F. Price, J. Shaw, W. Stevens and J. Watts, officiated in the most capable fashion, and each is worthy of the highest praise. The hon. sec. is Mr. W. H. Bamsey, who was assisted by Mr. T. Ratcliff. Both are well up in the work an open show entails, capital managers, and courteous and obliging, nothing being too much for them to do. The success of the venture certainly reflects the highest credit on friend Bamsey, and his adjutant. The able stewards were Messrs. B. Skermer, J. Pegg, W. Harrison, J. Drakeley, J. Shaw, B. Handford, G. Bousfield, and Rev. Lawton Platt. The judges were Messrs. Bexson, Roe and Robson. The staging of the exhibits was neatness itself, with plenty of room between each row of birds, and the show was nicely decorated with ferns, palms, etc. The management throughout was excellent, and catalogues were on sale in good time.

The Canary Section.

NOR. CL. YELL. (5): 1, Hirst, bouncer, lovely colour, capital quality, rare head, neck, and chest, in the pink; 2, Bishop, shade better colour, well up in substance, rattling quality, a clinker, close up; 3, Davies, ablaze with colour, soft silky texture of feather, not one of the biggest, but one of the best; vhc, Nutt, nice shape; hc, Hill, rare quality. BUFF (11): 1, Bishop, very massive in build, slashing quality and colour, lovely shape, delightfully mealed, clean cut, a stormer; 2, Drakeley, full of colour, with feather shining like silk, grand head and neck, not so deep in chest quite; 3, Stubbs, smooth as glass, model for type, excels in colour and frosting, if a little larger, would be a hard nut to crack; vhc, Beardall and Walker; hc, Wragg; c, Davies. TK. YELL (6): 1, 3, Beardall and Walker, couple of gems, former tick neck, very thick-set, rare substance and colour, feathered to perfection; 3, marked right wing and head, teeming with colour and quality, not a giant certainly, but a good 3rd; 2, Davies, var., massive in frame, magnificent shape, full of colour, splendid feather, one of the best we have seen this season; vhc, Stubbs, thigh tick, all type; hc, Pegg; c, Rathbone, bit open in feather. TK. BUFF (15):1, hc, Beardall and Walker, former saddle marked, fine substance, rare bold fronted bird, perfect back and wings; 2, Wootton, marked head, better in colour than winner, capital feather and type, not so large, yet a grand one all over; 3, Fox, marked left wing and head, smooth as glass, model for type, not one of the biggest, but one of the very best; vhc, Eckersley, capital feather and shape; c, Hall. YELL. HEN (15): 1, hc, Nutt, cl., wonderful size for a hen, rattling colour and quality, thick-set, rare wing carriage, clean cut; 2, Wootton, cl., very similar to 1st, little between them, well staged; 3, Beardall and Walker, cl., very cobby, beautiful colour and quality, capital head, neck and chest; vhc, Davies, marked left wing and head, jaunty and of excellent shape, good one; c, Eckersley, grand shape, short of feather in neck, tells against it. BUFF HEN (14): 1, Beardall and Walker, cl., delightful shape, full of quality, nice colour and frosting, fine substance; 2, Nutt, cl., lovely feather, grand shaped body, not quite so good in head character; 3, Fox, best colour in class, very shapely, feathered like a Java, not so massive as above, yet all there; vhc, Stubbs, marked neck, unfli., A1 quality, rare type; hc, Paling; c, Hall. UNFLI. YELL (13): 1, Davies, marked wing, red hot, teems with quality, round as a ball, perfect wings and tail, a stunner; 2, Hirst, cl., fine substance and colour, capital head, neck and chest, beaten a shade in closeness of feather, yet a most promising youngster; 3, vhc, Hall, thigh tick, slashing colour, grand feather, model for type, not quite so large, yet sweet all over; vhc, very shapely, nice size, perhaps bit long in legs; hc, Hemmings; c, Eckersley. UNFLI. BUFF (15): 1, Beardall and Walker, marked head and grizzled root of tail, well known and often described, looking in fine fettle, a topper; 2, 3, Davies, couple of beauties, former, cl., cobby, A1 feather and colour, all front, well across perch; 3, ticked neck, ablaze with colour, model for type, tips of flights broken somewhat, which no doubt held it back; vhc, Bishop, cl., A1 quality, good shape; hc, Waters, cl., wonderful shape, delightfully frosted, many thought might have gone up a shade; c, Eckersley. CREST YELL. (7): 1, 2, Colledge, couple of clinkers, winner green, good substance, rich feather, crest round as a rim, leafy, delightful droop and centre; 2, marked wings and tail, D.C., rare size and shape, with beautiful radiated crest, fine droop, centre rightly placed, close up; 3, King, marked wings, and tail, D.C., shapely, good size, capital quality, crest nice shape, not so dense as above, neat droop and centre; vhc, Stevens, marked wing, D.C., lovely quality, crest very neatly made; hc, Thomas; c, Smith. CITY OF BRADFORD.

The 27th Grand Annual Exhibition of the above society took place on Saturday, November 23rd, in the Feversham Street Council School, Leeds Road, Bradford. A splendid schedule had been issued, comprising 34 classes, every possible variation of the Yorkshire fancy (except evenly marked) being provided for, along with three open Norwich classes, two British Bird, and one for Mules and Hybrids, and the usual eight novice classes. A grand total of 616 entries, from 198 exhibitors, giving an average of 18 per class, can be considered by the committee of management as a very gratifying response. The room is a good one for a show, nicely lighted, an dfree from draught, and very lofty, but with such an entry, and a rare influx of visitors, it was taxed to its utmost capacity. The able secretary, Mr. P. Stansfield, seems to revel in hard work—without doubt he had plenty of it—and got through it in fine style. He was backed up in a first-rate manner by Messrs. Fortman, the popular president, Clarkson, Hartley and Wharton, vice-presidents, Ludbrook, treasurer, Rhodes, the enthusiastic assistant secretary, and Horsfield, Simonette, Hammond, Byard, Gill, Pollitt, and Denison, as committee. Mr. J. Greaves was the official judge, as arranged by the Yorkshire Union, and in view of the large classification for a one day show, Mr. J. S. Clarkson was engaged to assist, by judging the British, Selling, Norwich, etc. The awards of both gentlemen met with general approval. In the open classes some keen competition was witnessed, and the principal winners of points specials were Messrs. Shackleton, Bailey and Swanger, Wilcock, Cooper, Denton, Hartley, Gill and Pickup, Mitchell and Cowgill. In the British, etc., section, Messrs. Duncan and Cowgill ran a tight race for premier honours, Mr. Duncan only just getting home by one point. In the Novice Classes, as usual, the entry was stupendous, and some splendid specimens were on view, those put down by Messrs. Lodge, Frankland, Chippendale, Shaw Bros., and Holmes being grand, and did great credit to their owners.

HOUSE'S

CANARY MANUAL

Price ONE SHILLING. Post Free 1/2.

Superbly illustrated by the Champion Canary Artist Mr. H. NORMAN EVERY BIRD DEPICTED IS A VERITABLE MODEL, and shows the breeder what to aim for. Some idea of the popularity of this Practical Manual may be gathered from the fact that under the title of "The British Canary" it has passed its Third Edition, entering upon a Fourth Edition of 5,000 copies under the new title of "House's Canary Manual."

MR. HOUSE has thoroughly revised and brought this work up-to-date and incorporated a chapter on the "Roller or Singing Canary."

PERTH

The City of Perth held their annual show, Nov. 23rd. It proved a record for entries. Scotch Fancies opened the programme and brought together such a collection as has seldom been seen north of the Forth. All the various classes were well represented by outstanding specimens, in fact, all the birds in the money were good ones; grand substance, rare length and splendid showy birds, full of graceful action, and the majority staged to perfection. Scotch fanciers are now forging ahead in regard to staging, many of the birds being as clean as if hand-washed. In this section, the judges went for typical Scotch throughout, not lengthy feathered birds, but, birds well drawn and showing all the depth visible to the eye of the model Scotch, combined with length of side, shoulder and action. These classes were judged by Messrs. Strachan, Arbroath, and McLauchlan, Govan, and so carefully did they study the respective merits of each exhibit, that darkness had set in ere their task was over. Their awards, as could only be expected, were well received by a large gathering of fanciers. Nor. Crest and Crestbreds followed, and were fully represented by meritorious specimens. At this show, the working-man fancier was equal to his more fortunate moneyed brother. Limit classes were alloted to this section and the venture proved a great success. No doubt this will find favour in the programmes of large shows in the near future. These classes throughout were grand, individual specimens being difficult to select, competition being so keen. Many well-known firms were represented, doing battle again for premier honours. Mr. Adamson, Kilmarnock, gave his verdict on the above varieties, and his awards were universally received as correct. Norwich Plainheads were a little down in numbers, the reason being the absence of the patronage of the Scottish F.C., However, this did not affect the quality, which was extra good, such a collection of topping Plainheads seldom having been brought together at any show. Mr. Craig judged these varieties, and never was in better form; no complaints being heard. Borders, a new venture in this show, brought together a sweet collection of the pigmy of the Canary tribe, some real good ones being forward; the best in section was a Foul buff, a marvel for feather and type. This variety was judged by the veteran, Mr. Patterson. Brit. For. and Mules, were to be judged by Mr. Stark, of Dundee, but, unfortunately, from illness, he had to cancel his engagement at the last moment, but the Society were fortunate in securing the services of that old and well-tried judge, Mr. Langlands, of Montrose, and the task allotted to him, proved to be a heavy one. Mules were also forward in great numbers, and of every conceivable variety, the winner being a hotfed Jonque, four-pointed, lightly marked, grand face and bars. Darks were headed by a buff, fine size and large, deep expansive blaze, in very good order. Foreigners were a grand collection of tropical birds, the winning Whydah, being greatly admired, especially by the ladies. Foreign Goldfinches were headed by a bouncer for size, great blazed bird, deep and expansive, and grandly marked body. Mr. Langlands got through them in good time, and his awards were well received. The hall is an ideal one for a show, but unfortunately to-day, Perth did not uphold her reputation of the fair city, as a rather heavy fog overhung the town, and the light on some occasions was not exactly ideal for judging. The hall is very comfortable and clean Fanciers, in the future need have no fear of sending their most precious exhibits, as they will be under the care of a committee, composed of real material. Mr. Kerr makes an ideal secretary, conducting the show in a masterly fashion. He was ably assisted by his colleague, Mr. Duncan, along with a very enthusiastic committee, who did everything possible for the welfare of the exhibitors, and the success of the show, which it well deserved.

Mr. Adamson's Classes.

CARDIFF.

The Eleventh Annual Show was held Nov. 27 and 28, at the Cory Hall. The hall is a capital place for the purpose, and is well lighted. The show was laid out very prettily, and to the public coming straight into the hall made a lovely spectacle. The sections were all tastefully arranged and credit is due to the management for the comfortable manner in which the exhibits were staged. In Mr. Sampson they truly have a capable and courteous hon. sec., who has stood the test of time in show work, and it goes without saying that nothing was wanting so far as he was concerned. He is fortunate in being assisted by a clever little lady in the person of Mrs. Sampson, who, by this time, knows quite as much as her husband on the general management of a cage bird show. May Cardiff long retain the services of this happy couple. Mr. R. H. Waters is the chairman of committee, and he is well supported by a body of seasoned confrers in Messrs. A. Harrington, W. C. Flynn, E. J. Banks, J. W. Dunnett, F. P. Dymond, A. Fryer, H. Ford, W. Harrington, F. D. Jones, T. H. Melhuish, H. C. Smith, A. Shellam and E. Thorne, all with good reputations in the exhibiting world. Now to the exhibits; the Norwich were a clinking lot, as is the usual order of things at this show—as many as 33 in the hen class and 25 in the unflighted. In each class many birds out of the tickets were fit to win at a number of shows we have attended this season. In Yorkshires again the quality and numbers were exceptional, and it must have given the judges a difficult task to select their winners, so level were the exhibits. As many as 38, 32, and 37 birds appeared in a class, and such classes have never been seen before in the Principality. Crests and Crested reds were far in advance in numbers and quality to what we generally see in South Wales, and the winners in the classes were worth going a long way to see. Scots Fancies are now warmer dogs here than they have ever been and it was a rare struggle for places in both classes. Borders were good. We are quite accustomed to seeing the very cream of these "wee cons" in most big Welsh shows, and some toppers were staged to-day. The British Mules and Foreign were well in keeping with the traditions of Cardiff Show and Wales generally, some remarkable specimens being seen—in the Mule Section notably. The Goldfinch classes were "red hot," and some of the sensational winners put in an appearance. Linnets Greenfinches, Siskins, Chaffinches, etc., were all represented by the best known exhibits. The entry far exceeded expectations, the number being no less than 830, a record for Wales. In fact, the services of an extra judge were urgently needed and ably filled in the person of Mr. J. B. Evans, who took the British, Foreign and Mule classes. The judges throughout had a very hard day's work, and performed their duties to the satisfaction of all classes. J. Robson and J. Payne did the Canaries between them, taking alternate classes.

SINGING CONTESTS.

LEEDS.

Usual singing contest held at King's Head, Shannon-street, when 27 of the best birds in Leeds and suburbs sung for four good prizes given by Mr. W. Tillottson. Some very spirited singing was heard before a packed house of friends from all parts of Yorkshire, including Hull. 1st prize, Whelan; 2, Stead; 3, Johnson; 4, Galley. Judges, Messrs. T. Crane and C. Cooper.—T. SUMMERS, Hon. Sec.

SHEFFIELD.

At Don Inn, Carbrook, on Nov. 17th, Mr. J. Kay started his usual weekly Linnet contest. There was a moderate attendance, and nine birds were entered. The singing was of a very fair character. Result: 1, Watson, 35; 2, Watson, 21; 3, Soldier Jack 10. Judges: Messrs. E. Wilson and J. Lank. A. WHITTLE.

LEWISHAM.

Weekly contest held at the Coach and Horses, High-street, Lewisham. The quality of song is greatly improving. The principal scores were:—Cartwright, 2—14; Earn Robinson, 2—13; C. Austin, 2—4; Nipet, 2—3; Robinson, 1—16; Larney, 1 score. Six pairs were put on the nail.

YORK.

Weekly contest for quality singing held at the Crown Inn, North Street. 22 birds were hung up in pairs to compete for five good prizes. Some good quality singing was heard before a good company with the following result: 1, J. Firth; 2, and 5, A. Watson; 3, J. Stothard; 4, T. Lambert. Judges: Mr. W. Perry and Mr. J. Mason.—J. SMITH, Hon. Secretary.

I take CAGE BIRDS in regularly, and find it by far the best paper both for advice and for trading in.—J. PILOT (Welshpool).

I won the special prize at Bristol for the best Mule or Hybrid, writes Mr. F. Collins (Camborne), with my young Greenie Bullie.

The entries at the recent Bucksburn and Woodside Show achieved a record this year, we learn, and the quality was very fine.

Entries close December 2nd for Cupar. Hurry up fanciers and give us a record entry. Sec., W. Ruddiman, Hillbank, Cupar, Fife.

Southend Show Goldfinch class credits Mr. Millar with first and special, writes Mr. J. Quilter, Leigh-on-Sea; it should read J. Quilter.

I have removed from 3, Larch Road, Bedford Hill, Balham, S.W., writes Mr. W. R. Berkshire, to 40a, Cumberland Road, Boston Road, Hanwell, W.

Will secretaries and fanciers please note that I have changed my address to Overstone Road Bird Stores, writes Mr. C. Barwell, of Northampton.

Splendid classification and whole host of specials at Hartlepool, December 6th and 7th. Sec., E. Woodhead, 38, St. Paul's Road, West Hartlepool.—(ADVT.)

A consignment of live birds, Mr. E. Varney, of Stratford, E., informs us has just been sent by him to Montreal, Canada, through his advertisement in CAGE BIRDS.

We hear from the secretary, Mr. Sholedice, that the Y.C.C of Ireland Show, on the 28th and 29th last, looked like being one of the best ever held in the "Green Isle."

The date of the great National (Crystal Palace) Show has been put back one week we are informed, and will be held from February 7th to the 11th, 1908, inclusive.

We have 2s. 6d. special most points with who birds at Shipley Open Show, November 30th, writes Mr. H. Dobson, the sec. Winners of money prizes not to compete.

Entries for Carmarthen Show close December 12th, writes Mr. Francis, the sec., and we hope members of the Welsh C.B.C. will support us as largely as they have in the past.

I have received three entries to-night (Border Fancies) with no name, postmark Blaydon-on-Tyne, writes Mr. Jos. Miles, sec. If fanciers will send on birds we will classify.

A piebald Blackbird which has mated with a Thrush is reported from Lauder. As a contemporary remarks, it sounds like another of Harry's jokes, but it may be one of nature's.

Entries do not average one per class at the coming Falmouth Show, writes Mr. W. J. Medlin, the sec., and will be extended to Monday, December 2nd. Fanciers kindly help us.

Mr. T. Raine won the members' cup at Crook Show, writes the sec., Mr. A. Bowes, and CAGE BIRDS' Coupon Prizes went to Messrs. Forster 1st, J. Siddle 2nd, and F. Brown 3rd.

Cambridge Show report says in Yorkshire Buffs, second "no name." This was my bird, sent in reply to appeal card, and too late for catalogue, I suppose. W. R. MURRELL (Spalding).

I regret very much to say that I am still confined to my room, writes Mr. J. North, the well-known Reading bird specialist, and have had to cancel my judging engagement at Dover.

We hope Southern breeders of Lancashires will come up in force at Bristol Show, writes Mr. T. R. Ind, where we provide two Coppy and two Plainhead classes and one for 1907-bred birds.

Cardiff Show have closed with over 800 entries, writes Mr. W. Sampson, the sec., Yorks. and Norwich being exceptionally strong both in quality and numbers—100 more than any previous record.

Kindly notify all who made application for schedules, writes Mr. D. Adcock, Tamworth, that if they have not received one it is because they are outside the 14-mile radius, to which the show is confined.

The Chester Show will be held in the Corn Exchange; it is warm and well lighted. Chester has excellent railway facilities. We are hoping that fanciers will hurry up and give us a bumper entry—(ADVT.)

I have received the following entries without names, writes Mr. Burnie, sec. Castle Douglas Show. If parties will send on, exhibits will be put in proper classes.:—Class 43, Whitburn postmark; Classes 42, 62, 43, Newton Stewart postmark.

Mr. W. H. Baker, who won first and special best foreign bird at the recent Langwith Show, with a blue-fronted Amazon, writes thanking the Langwith fanciers for the way in which they staged the bird in a warm and well-lighted room.

At our last meeting, writes Mr. W. T. Winter, sec. of the Willington Quay and Dis. F.S., a report was read giving the number of tickets sold. It was stated that £7 2s. 2d. had been added to the funds.

I have a song Thrush, writes Mr. F. A. Edmead (Guildford), which I have had for 15 years. He has been singing beautifully this summer and he is nicely over the moult, and is looking healthy and strong.

Mr. J. Dobson, of East Road, London, the well-known judge, asks us to state, to avoid misunderstanding, that he is not the J. Dobson who has written to the Press concerning the late Dulwich and Peckham Show.

We are very short of entries for our Tideswell and Dist. C.B. Show. Those not having schedules please enter from advertisement in CAGE BIRDS' columns. Entries extended to December 3rd.—W. F. SWARBRICK, hon. sec.

The Wandsworth and Dist. F.A. have been unable to secure a hall in which to hold an open show, but have arranged a members' show in the "Plough" Assembly Rooms, St. John's Hill, Clapham Junction, on Dec. 10th.

Mr. J. Pilot, jeweller, Welshpool, writes that he will be pleased if the gentleman who about a month ago bought a Pea-throat Goldfinch would send his address again, as unfortunately it is mislaid, and bird is ready to forward.

At the recent Bristol C.B.S. Show the first prize in CAGE BIRDS' Competition was won by Mr. W. H. Tottle with his yellow Norwich hen; second by Mr. A. Simmonds with his winning Crest; and third by Messrs. Bond with their noted Chough.

We had a very successful show, writes Mr. D. Jeremy, sec. of the Morriston and Dis. C.B.S., and every attention possible was paid to exhibits. Mr. D. A. S. Longden, Swansea, represented the Cage Birds Union Prize money will be paid in a few days.

I am sorry to say, writes Mr. Fred. Mitchell (Silkstone Common), that I have been so unfortunate as to lose my clear Yellow Norwich cock, winner of first and special at Wakefield, November 12th, first time out. He died suddenly on Tuesday, November 19th.

In addition to the special prizes advertised in our schedule, writes Mr. Ernest Woodhead, sec. of the Hartlepool Show, Messrs. Callingwood are giving an electro-plated butter-dish for the best bird in the show; and in Class 47 Mr. E. Barker has presented a box of cigars.

Kindly note, writes Mr. Willison, the sec., that our Barrow-in-Furness Show, December 13th and 14th, was omitted from the list of C.B. Union Shows sent out by Mr. Lythgoe, the secretary. We have our schedules ready, and trust fanciers will give us a bumping entry.

It has been decided to move the headquarters of the Lewisham District C.B.S. to the Roebuck Hotel, High Street, Lewisham, writes the sec., Mr. Lucas, where we have obtained a nice comfortable room having an entrance entirely distinct from the public entrances of the Hotel.

At the recent Burton-on-Trent Show, a very curious exhibit was staged (not for competition), a Greenfinch Canary Mule, absolutely without eyes. Naturally this uncommon freak (said to be a good example of the cross, otherwise) attracted considerable attention among the visitors.

In our reference to the illness of one of the partner in that well-known Leicester firm of Norwich Plainhead exhibitors, Messrs. Walton and Noakes, we should have written that Mr. C. H. Walton was the gentleman concerned, and not, as appeared by some slip of the pen, Mr. Noakes.

Entries for the Sidmouth Show are very hard to get, writes Mr. F. Farrant, hon. sec., owing to the clashing with Tavistock, Torquay, Cardiff and Bristol. We are compelled to extend entries to Sunday's post, December 1st. We pay prize money within a week, which ought to secure us a good entry.

At Hull Show we hear that the colour of several of the Linnets shown was of so unusual a nature as to cause some of the fanciers present to express doubts as to its genuineness. Certain of the birds, our informant tells us, were tested, but came through the ordeal without leaving a trace of anything behind to justify the suspicion.

The following are the three highest for the Lancashire and Lizard Fanciers Association Cup Competition, including the Club Show, Nottingham, writes Mr. H. Oliver, the sec.: Lancashire's: Mr. John Garner 55, Mr. J. Oldham 47, and Mr. J. Vickers 40 points. Lizards: Mr. J. Dewsnap 63, Mr. W. Lawton 58, and Mr. J. Hampshire 53 points.

All birds exhibited in Classes 18, 19, 20 and 21 at Kilmarnock Show, must be bred by the exhibitor, writes Mr. W. Watson, the sec.. A general meeting will be held in the Ossington Hall, John Finnie Street, on November 30th, when the secretary will be in attendance at 7 p.m., for the uplifting of local entries.

In connection with Gateshead Show, writes Mr. Taylor, the sec., I have made special arrangements with the several railway companies, including the London and North Western, Great Northern, Midland, Caledonian, North British, Glasgow and South Western, and North Eastern Railway Companies, and they have very considerately undertaken to use every endeavour to facilitate the arrival and despatch of all birds, and special notice has been sent to all points of interchange, so that no delay may take place. Special men will be put on by them at both Gateshead and Newcastle to look after the arrival, and especially the despatch by through trains. A list of such trains will be published in schedule. The train service to Gateshead is of the best.

Just as we go to press we hear that Weybridge Show has closed with a record entry—over 200 birds.

At the recent Jedburgh Show, writes "Border Lover," Mr. Bennet's leading Foul would have been awarded the B.F.C. Medal but for the fact that its owner has already won the three medals allowed for one member during one year. He is thus ineligible for this competition, but others should be encouraged to send out their birds with a view to sharing the remaining medals.

Entries for the West Herts Show will be received up to Monday, the 2nd December, writes Mr. C. A. Edwards, the sec., and our show is a good opportunity for London fanciers as our 20 miles radius takes in the greater number of London exhibitors. The Clarendon Hall is a large fine place, only five minutes' from the station, while the cage birds will be under the care of special cage bird fanciers.

The cage bird section of Carmathen forthcoming show is under the patronage of the Welsh Cage Bird Club, writes Mr. J. Francis, the hon. sec., and the Club's Cups and Teapot are for competition. Members of the Club are asked to mark their entry forms "W.C.B.C." Class 94 should read "Border Fancy, Yellow," and we have, since schedule was printed, put on an additional class—94a for Border Fancy Buff.

"Bird Notes" for November should enhance the high reputation of the monthly journal of the Foreign Bird Club, being an exceedingly interesting number both pictorially and from the point of view of instructive letterpress. Messrs. T. N. Wilson, M.A., E. W. Harper, F.Z.S., W. E. Teschemaker, B.A., Wesley, T. Page, F.Z.S., the Hon. M. C. Hawke, and Mrs. Warren Vernon have penned contributions, and there is the usual budget of correspondence and editorial notes.

As there are so many shows clashing just now, my committee have decided to hold Spalding Annual Show on January 23rd instead of this month (November) as previously, writes Mr. W. R. Murrell, the hon. sec. I shall be glad if exhibitors will make a note of this. We are arranging a splendid classification for cage birds, several more classes than previous years, and Mr. C. A. House has been engaged to judge. No amalgamation and full prize money in all standing classes.

The cage bird section of the recent Burton-on-Trent Fanciers' Show, writes Mr F. Cameron, sec., was very much better than for some years past. We think our being affiliated to the C.B.U. has increased entries considerably. We obliged exhibitors by sending birds home by an early train, so that most of them would be home by Sunday. We hope to have a larger entry next year.

For promptitude, courtesy, honesty, good packing, and above all for the best spring traps I recommend, after trying several others, Mr. Butler, 58, Salmon Street, Highfield, Sheffield. Strong, well-finished, very portable, easily set, real catchers; worth double the money, opinion backed by my giving him this advertisement to the value sent him. Quickly caught birds within a yard of other traps set in vain for weeks. —Captain Perreau, 4th Gurkhas, Batnloh, Punjab, India.—(ADVT.)

Allow me to thank your numerous readers who have patronised me in my bird business. Also your valuable paper CAGE BIRDS. My advertisements in CAGE BIRDS have brought such a large number of orders in weekly from different towns and counties, that I have had to remove from my old address, 42, Brown Hill Crescent, Harehills, Leeds. I have now opened one of the largest shops in Leeds, and all letters should henceforth be addressed, Harry Allen, bird specialist, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett Street, Leeds.

I was delighted with the entries at our show, writes Mr. V. WYNN, hon. sec. City and Suburban A.C.B., all being sent spontaneously without even one appeal. The staging held the birds comfortably. All prize money was paid out last night (Monday), and the specials that were in my possession; and the members were perfectly satisfied with everything. I find, as time goes on, that it becomes extremely difficult to reconcile the hundred and one different ideas of the members, but up to now all is well. What a secretary requires is the tact and affability of a Balfour!

The Queen's Park and District C.B.A. Annual Show was a great success, exhibits being fifty-two in excess of the previous year, writes Mr. J. C. Birch, the hon. sec. This very pleasing result has, in a great measure, decided the Society to return to the Emmanuel Hall, Harrow Road, in the New Year; and should this meet the eye of any member who resigned through removal, or fancier who is holding aloof in consequence of meetings being held on licensed premises, if they will kindly communicate with me I will give all information, and can promise them a cordial reception at the meetings, which will be interesting during the coming months.

The following are the winners of the club's specials at the late Nottingham Show, writes Mr. J. Raynes, secretary of the Norwich P.C., Champion section, gold medal for best, J. Evans; Toronto medal for best (opposite colour), W. Vardy; money prizes, 5s., Messrs. Evans, Bishop, Trengove, Box, and Shore. Amateur section, gold medal for best bird, J. E. Davies. Money prizes, Messrs. J. E. Davies (4) and Massey.

I beg to thank Mr. Ramsden for medal so promptly sent for best Norwich Canary in Birkenhead Show, writes Mr. W. Lewis (Ellesmere Port), won with a yellow hen, which I have shown three times under three judges, first and special, first and second best in show 1906, first and two specials and best Norwich in show, November 1907. I am trying to start a show for cage birds, etc., in Ellesmere Port, which is a coming place.

At the last meeting of the Stockport B.F.A. a pleasant surprise awaited the members, writes the sec., Mr. W. Stafford, when Mr. J. E Davies, of Stockport, handed to us a splendid silver-plated tea urn and a gold-centre silver medal, to be competed for in the champion section of our members' show on December 5th and 6th, and to be won outright. Mr. Davies is a new addition to the Canary fancy, and it is not often that such grand specials are given to members' shows. This, along with four cups given by Mr. Gaskarth, Mr. Dickenson, and Mr. Hill, makes a nice display of plate. I was pleased to read of Mr. Davies success at Nottingham; also of the other Stockport members.

A new remedy for all pulmonary diseases (colds, asthma, etc.) in cage birds is being put before fanciers this week through our advertisement columns. Its credentials are of the highest, and we advise all bird keepers in need of such a remedy to give "Avisine," as it is called a trial. The proprietors tell us that "Avisine" is in the hands of Messrs. Cowgill, Mundell, Battye, Hirst, Houlton, Dr Herd (Morecambe), Fergusson, and many of our leading judges, and is being used by them. They claim that it is a scientific method and not a haphazard one, and that the ingredient mentioned in advertisement is without doubt the finest remedy for pulmonary diseases known to the medical profession, and is new and very expensive, while the tonic ingredients are also the best that are known.

At the last meeting of the W.C.O.S. the balance sheet of the recent Plymouth Show was presented, writes Mr. T. Pope, the sec., showing a balance on the right side after all expenses had been met. The secretary pointed out the (to them) remarkable fact that the entry fees showed a profit over prize money, and that the total entry was nearly 200 over any previous effort of the Society; while it was somewhat singular under the circumstances that the total members' entries in open classes (206) should be over 40 less than last year. He also said that the success of the show was largely due to the Yorkshire section, which was far and away better this year than it had ever been before, and he attributed this to the patronage of the Southern Yorkshire Canary Club, whose members were responsible for nearly half the number of entries received in the section.

Strong Words from Scotland.

There was some traitor at work at the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show, writes "A Scotch Chiel," and whoever he was, he was no fancier. All the Scottish National C.B. Society show bills, put up by the secretary, Mr. Winter, just on closing hour on Friday night were pulled down first thing on Saturday morning. Had he been caught red-handed, the ambulance would have been in requisition.

Wild Birds at South Shields.

Exercising their option, the South Shields Corporation have extended the close season under the Wild Birds Protection Act to the whole of the year. As a result proceeding were taken recently against a man for catching Linnets on the Bents. The accused explained that he had caught birds on that particular place for the last 44 years, and he did not know he was breaking the law. Taking into consideration the fact that it was the first case, the Bench only imposed a fine of 5s. and costs.

Novel Woodcock Shooting.

I see an account of a Woodcock being killed by a stone in Upper Street, Islington, writes the Rev. Henry B. Biron (Lympne), to the "Standard." I think a more curious weapon of destruction was used at the King's School, Canterbury, about 65 years ago. While the fourth form were at a Greek Testament lesson, a Woodcock came through an open window into the schoolroom, and was knocked down by a Greek Testament thrown at it by a boy of the name of Smithett. I fancy this is a unique case.

A Fawn-Coloured Robin.

Readers of CAGE BIRDS will be interested to hear, writes Miss M. E. Palmer, Herne Bay, that we have in our garden a Robin who is of a lovely fawn colour (not cinnamon). The flight and tail feathers are nearly white, but he has only a small patch of red on his breast. The top of head and back are darker than the rest of body. At first I could hardly believe he was a Robin, but his form and song are quite unmistakable. He is still very shy but we hope to tame him. He comes to feed with the chickens already. Last spring I saw a Robin with half of back and the whole of tail of pure white, and also a Blackbird splashed with white.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given after next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

*An Unequal Combat.

It being a fine sunshiny day I made up my mind I would go for a walk. It was one of the best I have ever had. As I was walking through a field I heard a loud noise above me, and I saw that it was a big struggle between two birds. But at first I could not tell what sort of birds they were. I kept on looking, till I could see that it was a fight between a Sparow Hawk and a Sparrow. Poor Sparrow! It tried its best to get away, but it was of no use. The Sparrow butcher flew away with the little Sparrow into a tall tree,, and made a good meal of it.—Sent by JACK HARVEY (aged 14), Fairlawn, Comberton, Kidderminster, Worcestershire.

*Domesticated Pets.

My father has some Goldfinches and Linnets. The former he feeds on Canary, hemp, teazle, and a few cracked sunflower seeds, and the Linnets on Canary, teazle, rape and a little linseed. Every week he lets them out of their cages while he cleans them out. Our bird room is a large one, and we have a long perch on one side. Don't they just enjoy their fly! As soon as they are tired they settle on their perch and sing away until their cages are ready. Then we have some more fun. Some will hop into their cages, while the others we catch in a net. Then father gives them their bunch of dandelion leaves and a few more hemp seeds.—Sent by ADA TOMLINSON (aged 10 years), 126, Pontefract Road, Normanton, Yorkshire.

Our Young Thrush.

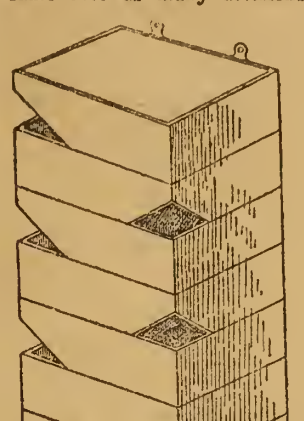
One day early last summer my brothers and I were going through a field, when suddenly a large bird flew from the hedge. We went to find its nest, and we heard a chirp, and soon found the nest, in which were four young Thrushes. We visited the nest the next day, and took with us some breadcrumbs for the birds, but we were afraid to give them the crumbs, so we left them in the nest. But the next time we visited the nest we found them stretching their necks and opening their mouths, as if they were very hungry, and after looking into the nest we found one of the birds dead. Thinking their mother had forsaken them, or had been killed, we took the birds home, fed them, and kept them warm. But two died, and I am glad to say that the other one is still living.—Sent by KATIE MEADES, aged 12, Stone Cross, Sandwich, Kent.

A Pretty Story.

A pretty story is told concerning the Countess of Dudley, in which the dramatis personæ included two well-known Japanese jugglers, who were giving a performance at a London music-hall, and a Canary which constituted a part of their stock-in-trade. The Countess occupied a seat in the stalls, and during the performance one of the little birds, after hovering round the auditorium for some time, gently flew down and perched on her lap. When an attendant came forward to claim the bird the Countess begged to be permitted to keep it, and the manager having given his consent, Lord Dudley promptly constructed a tiny cage out of his programme, and in this the little songster was safely conveyed to his house in Carlton House Terrace.

ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

No. 157.

A NOVEL AVIARY SLEEPING BOX.

Sent by Mr. P. Vincent, 68, Copeland Road, Peckham, S.E.

Enclosed I send you description and rough sketch of a cosy sleeping box suitable for outdoor aviaries. Procure any box about 2ft. by 8ins. by 5ins. Remove the lid, and divide same into as many divisions as desired. Saw V-shaped pieces off the corners of the box as shown in sketch, and you have then a cosy sleeping box. Screw two screw-eyes in the end of box to hang same to the back of aviary. This box can easily be cleaned by simply lifting it down, and a saw and a hammer is all that is necessary to make it. Cost about 1d.—P. VINCENT.

AN ECONOMICAL SEED CONTAINER.

Sent by H. Newman, 121, Jamaica Street, Stepney, E.

Enclosed is an illustration of a cheap, economical and efficient seed container, which can easily be affixed to any cage, and is quite simple to construct. Obtain a small mustard or cocoa tin, and cut out as shown by the dotted lines in Fig. 1, and bend over the strips left to form hooks, as shown in Fig. 2. A quarter-pound tin will be found most suitable for ordinary requirements. I have now used this seed container for some time, and find that absolutely no seed is wasted.—H. NEWMAN.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

For Rules see last issue.

CANARIES.

NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Answered by J. H. Payne.

Bad for Eight Weeks.

Constant Reader.—Give your bird in drinking water fresh daily for a fortnight or three weeks fifteen drops of Syrup of Tolu, and ten drops of ipecacuhana wine, after which you may give it on alternate days for another fortnight. Put a piece of mutton, suet between the bars of the cage for it to peek at. Keep out of all draught, do not hang above the level of the gas burner, and cover over at night with a warm cloth.

Clear or Ticked?

Classification.—A bird with a perfectly clear body, but stained on beak would have to be entered in the clear class. The stain would count against the bird, however, where the competition was close. Before entering it for a show, I would advise you to thoroughly examine it, and see that there is no tick. Blow feathers up round thighs.

Pairing of Variegated Hen.

Ruhtra.—You should pair your variegated hen to a clear cock. If it is a yellow, then you should use a clear buff cock, if a buff, a clear yellow. 2. All breeders get variegated birds during their breeding operations. 3. The bird with a few feathers at the root of tail would be termed either a ticked or marked bird. I quite see you do not know the difference between a buff and a yellow. Your question suggests that, so that I should advise you to ask some fancier in your district to tell you the difference. A yellow bird is what is termed solid in colour, a buff has the tips of the feathers a lighter colour, which gives it what is termed the meal, or frosting.

An "Asthma" Cold.

Anxious.—As you say your bird can now sing and strongly at times, he is evidently well on the way to recovery, and I should strongly advise you to continue with same treatment until he is quite well, which I should say will not now be very long. I see no reason why he should not be fit to breed with next season. Your feeding is quite correct. Keep him covered over at night time with a warm cloth.

YORKSHIRES.

Answered by H. W. Battye.

Choice of Seeds.

A.B.—I don't consider the sample of Spanish canary seed a good one. It seems to be what is known as kiln dried, and this has not the same flavour of the same amount of nutriment in it as the sun-dried. Try a change, and get some clean, sound, bright seed. Give the bird ten drops of good brandy in its drinking water fresh daily for a week or ten days.

A Plant-eating Bird.

Nuttie.—Your bird not having taken any harm, evidently the plant he has been eating must have agreed with him, and so long as this is so you need not trouble, as he will not eat it if he does not like it. If you don't want the plant destroyed and yet want the bird to have his liberty, why not remove the plant?

Loss of Feathers, etc.

Streatham.—Your treatment seems from what you write, to be all that could be desired. The bird is, no doubt, in what is known as the soft or false moult, probably it caught a chill by being in a draught; or perhaps, you keep them in a place subject to sudden variations of temperature. Either of these conditions would be sufficient to send the bird into moult. The pecking at the breast is only the natural result of the casting of its feathers. Put the bird in a box cage by itself. In addition to its present food, give half-a-teaspoonful of maw seed, three times a week, and give in its drinking water five drops of some tonic, such as tincture of steel, Quinine, or Parrish's Chemical Food. Keep free from draughts and sudden changes; cover cage at nights, and probably your bird will get all right again in six or eight weeks.

CRESTS AND CRESTBREDS.

Answered by W. E. Greeves.

The Purchasing of Pairs.

H.S.—Am I to understand that you want to know what to purchase for the purpose of crossing the produce from such a pair with the produce from the pair that you have? If so, I should advise you to procure a Grey Crested cock and a Green Plainhead crested bred hen, or one heavily variegated. If you intend going in for pedigree breeding, I should advise you to purchase anyone of the books advertised, dealing with the subject. A good sound, plain diet is best at this time of the year: Canary, rape, and hemp seed, the latter a small quantity twice a week; I also like a little egg-food once a week, say every Wednesday. Give plenty of cage room for exercise, also cage bird grit.

CINNAMONS.

Answered by J. North

Suspected "Canker."

Smethers.—You say your bird has scratched raw both sides of its beak, and rubs it on the perch, with loss of feather; also that you have observed little lumps like pin-heads, flesh or white in colour, which you believe to be "canker." It is extremely difficult to advise in such cases, where the patient cannot be seen, and you do not mention the bird's age. If it is an old bird, I should kill it at once. But, if it is a young one, dust it well with equal parts of precipitated sulphur and insect powder, my impression being that it is the work of insects. Give salad, fruit or vegetable food, daily.

LIZARDS.

Answered by Barker Clegg.

Breeding in the Kitchen.

Spangle Back.—Unless a kitchen is large, lofty, and well ventilated, there is little chance of success in breeding any variety of birds, with a view to being able to exhibit. The conditions described are quite sufficient to account for your failure. If the attic is dry you need not fear the cold; it will be all right for your birds. See that there is sufficient ventilation, as this is most important. Allow your Silver hen a more roomy cage, with a free use of the bath pot. Supply egg-food twice a week, with the addition of a sprinkling of maw seed. Place a small square piece of mutton suet between the cage wires, for her to peck at, and don't omit to supply plenty of grit and a little dried old mortar. Feed your other birds, as follows: all white canary in seed boxes three times a week; give a teaspoonful of mixed seeds in th egg-drawers or other vessels, and occasionally a little sweet apple, or boiled carrot. When the weather is very cold, you may cover the cages up at nights. Write again, if you experience any further difficulty, and I will endeavour to assist you.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "Schoolmaster."

Hen Not Moulting.

S.A.—Keep the hen in the cold room for a week or ten days, then suddenly take her into the warm room. This is practically certain to send her into moult, when she will come alright again in feather. Keep her in the warm room permanently afterwards, of course. Let her have a little egg bread now and again, with a spot or two of Parrish's chemical food mixed amongst it.

About Two Birds.

J. R. D.—I have often known a bird to miss a moult and come to no harm. There is some danger, however, of the bird moulting in the spring, and so becoming unfit for breeding. This, though, does not always happen. The other bird is evidently still very weak. If you can't get Shepherd's purse now, you can give rape seedlings, which make a splendid winter greenfood. Sow a tablespoonful or two of summer rape in wet sand (keeping it damp), and crop off the seedlings soon after they sprout. By a little arranging, a constant supply can be had. Give this bird egg food oftener, every day, if you like, until stronger, and mix a few spots (4 to 6) of cod-liver oil, and hypophosphates (from a chemist) amongst it. Let him have mawseed in plenty to eat, and hemp a little more frequently. This generous diet ought soon to pull him round into song again.

Out of Sorts.

R. M. Young.—I agree with you that the bird is low in condition. It is not a cold, therefore "cough syrups" are not needed. What he wants is good, generous feeding, for which see other replies this week. You should follow the treatment advised "J. R. D.," in particular, especially as regards the cod-liver oil, etc. You would soon see an improvement, I am sure. Keep the bird sing and cosy, of course. Get up his health and condition generally, and the other symptoms will soon vanish. The present weather is very trying for ailing birds.

Not Right Since Moult.

Ignorant.—Weakness left by the moult and its strain on the system is at the root of your bird's trouble. Feed generously, as advised in other queries this week (follow the egg-food and cod-liver oil treatment carefully) and keep the bird warm and comfortable, covering the cage at night, when in a week or two's time there should be a marked improvement in the health of your little pet.

Curious Feather Condition.

F. Yardley.—Your hen has evidently stopped short in the moult—got "stuck in the moult," as fanciers say. Keep her in a cold room for a week or ten days, then remove her to a warmed one (see another reply given this week on the point). If kept warm and cosy, she should go through a quick moult, when the plumage would come out as it ought to be; feed generously during that time, giving good grit and cuttlefish in plenty.

SCOTCH FANCIES.

Answered by R. Wright.

Some General Advice.

Young Hand.—Taking the bird home in a bag might affect its wings for a day or two only. You say the bird is in a healthy condition, if so, it would moult its flights—they would not need pulling. I have seen good birds with great nerve, often cross their wings when handled hard, and also when sitting quiet in proper condition. I have had many birds making the sound you refer to. It is a very annoying habit, but the bird will breed well enough.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Feeding a Magpie.

G.H.—The question about "tongue slitting" is a very old friend, and once again I say that it is an unnecessary cruelty; and that anyone who cuts a bird's tongue to "help" it to talk, ought to be compelled to have his own tongue cut. Birds do not use their tongues when articulating. The best and cheapest way to feed is to utilise table scraps largely. As a stock food, you could use broken-up dog biscuits or puppy cakes (or game meal), with coarse crissel—say two parts of either of the former to one part of the latter (by measure). Any good seller of bird-foods will supply them. Moisten with hot water, giving it crumbly moist, and mixing with it table scraps, cooked meat and potatoes, greens, gravy, etc. Give a few trapped mice, young sparrows, and the like (even young frogs, if you can capture them), but not over much raw meat. You will find them very accommodating in the matter of food. Eggs (raw and cooked), nuts (cracked) of various kinds, peas, berries, fruit, worms, beetles, and grubs are other things they will eat with great relish.

Siberian Goldfinches Again.

Novice.—Your question is one that crops up every year (often more than once), as sure as Siberian Goldfinches begin to arrive, and I can only answer it much the same as before. I consider the Siberian Finches, being so very much the larger of the two, are the best for Mule or Hybrid breeding—there can be no question of that. The only trouble lies in the fact that they are not quite such free breeders as British Goldies (though, of course, some of the latter are bad enough). I like a good big Bullie hen, too. Siberian Goldfinches appreciate the same seeds and delicacies as our British Finch, but need indulging less freely with fattening, stimulating foods—especially so during hot weather. A good stock mixture now would be hemp and teazle, three parts each, canary two parts, and linseed one part. Give a little maw and niger frequently, also a good feed of white sunflower seeds (cracked if necessary)—not all at one time, of course, but one or other daily. Thistles, hardheads, dandelion, flowering groundsel and chickweed, wild seeds, etc., are all good for them, and appreciated. Many Siberians are lost through wrong treatment when first bought, owing to the unfortunate inexperience of the buyer. They are immediately put in a cage with food and water hung outside, consequently they starve or die of thirst, never before having seen a water-hole, much more put their heads through one. Food and water should always be put inside to them, and it should be seen they get at the same. Inga (niger) seed is their staple food during importation, and they must have an unlimited supply of this, and maw seed, at first. When they have got the taste for sunflower seed (it comes quickly, for they are very fond of it, and it is a grand food for them) gradually wean them off the niger. Should a bird seem to droop at any time, give it at once a dose of sulphate of soda for one day; as much as will lie on a shilling, dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water. Repeat the day after, if necessary. Follow this with a course of citrate of iron and quinine crystals, as a tonic, a tiny pinch (just a few granules) dissolved in the same quantity of water. Watch its effects on the bowels; it is constipating when given too strongly. Also, don't give grit freely at first. They will simply "gorge" it; and then comes trouble.

Linnets Dying.

Funny.—The fact of your birds not having charlock seed certainly would not lead to their death. Get some wild-seed mixture (advertised in our columns) in which you will find plenty of wild mustard (charlock) seeds. Fresh-caught Linnets want plenty of maw seed, with linseed, teazle, canary and summer rape, and some hemp and niger; also rape seed soaked in cold water until just bursting, dabbed dry in a cloth just before being offered. You can also easily grow rape seedlings by sowing rape in wet sand. Possibly you interfere with your birds too much. Newly-caught birds should not be fussed over—they only knock themselves about when one goes near. When fed and watered, they should be left alone the rest of the day, until they have become more settled to their altered circumstances, and first "terrors" have been overcome. If the one "queer" is still in the land of the living, try the effect of two or three daily doses of sulphate of soda—as much as just lies on a shilling dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water.

Recipe for Making Bird-lime.

Canadian.—The following recipe for making bird-lime was given some time back by one of our correspondents—still, like him, I prefer netting birds to liming them. Take one pint of best raw linseed oil, put into an old quart saucepan, put on the fire and simmer gently for three or four hours. On no account let it boil; stir every few minutes. No change will be noticed until after the second hour, then it will show froth on top, this being a sign of thickening. It must be given every attention or it will boil over. When it gets about as thick as treacle take it off the fire and pour into a pan of cold water; stand till cool, then work it up with the hands till it shows no signs of having water in it. This will be found to work on twigs quite easily. It can be taken off when not in use, and used over and over again. If too stiff, mix with it a little of the so-called "treacle." Boiling will thicken it if needed. Made properly this will hold anything from a Wren to a Blackbird. A outhouse is more suitable for the boiling purpose than the kitchen, as the preparation has a very sickly odour.

Linnets and Greenfinches.

Joey.—I have never heard the Greenfinch (or Green Linnet, as you wrongly term it) called "Joey," this being a name usually applied to the Redpoll. You can easily distinguish the two, however, the Greenfinch being a biggish, stoutly-built, green-coloured bird, with bold head and beak, whereas the Redpoll is a small brownish bird, not unlike a tiny edition of the Linnet. For your Linnet the following stock seed mixture will be difficult to beat: Canary, three pints, teazle, hemp, linseed, summer rape, and charlock one pint each. For "tit-bits" give in a finger drawer frequent pinches of maw, niger, wild seed mixture, cracked sunflower, gold of pleasure, lettuce, etc., seeds—not all at once, of course, but varying them. If you can get the ripe wild seeds, such as plantain, shepherd's purse, chickweed, knapweed, thistles and the like, you certainly ought to supply them—they are invaluable, helps in bringing a Linnet into condition—in which connection, too, a free use of the bath must not be overlooked. The Greenfinch will thrive admirably on the same stock mixture, etc., providing you give him sunflower seed liberally every day. Roller hens can certainly be mated with Finches, and will produce good Mules for songsters—too small for any other purpose.

Keeping a Blackcap.

Blackcap.—It is not absolutely necessary to "pad" the top of a Blackcap's cage. Still, I prefer canvas-topped cages for "stock" use with all such small Softbills myself. You need not worry about the "migratory fever"—a good Blackcap would repay one for far worse troubles than that. The stock food should be that I recommend for small insectivorous birds, viz., powdered Osborne biscuit, three parts; best ants' eggs, two parts; dried flies and powdered silk-worm pupæ, one part each; meat meal, half part, by measure. Take the quantity required of this, and mix it just crumbly moist with grated raw carrot, or finely chopped lettuce, watercress, or chickweed (use young leaves only), or cold boiled potato, varying it frequently. It is necessary, of course, to give, in addition, all the live insect food (flies, spiders, wood-lice, earwigs, small beetles, smooth caterpillars, green fly, live ants' eggs, etc.) one can possibly obtain. To the above stock mixture I occasionally add, after damping, a teaspoonful or two of preserved egg-flake, or part of a hard-boiled fresh egg, finely minced, and, more occasionally still, a little finely scraped raw lean mutton or beef. Good cream cheese is a splendid food, too; give a little, finely chopped, and mixed, of course, with the above biscuit food, or just laid on top of it. Ripe fruit should also enter into the menu, either grated or shredded, and mixed among the soft food, or stuck between the cage wires; banana, very ripe pear and apple, strawberries, grapes, elderberries, blackberries, raspberries, garden currants, etc., are all more or less appreciated—you will soon find out your bird's likes and dislikes. Remember that the Blackcap is passionately fond of fruit, which should enter freely into its dietary, either mixed with the soft food or hung up in the cage or wires.

Brevities.

Bad Plumage of Thrush (H. Davey).—I expect you are correct in thinking insects were at the root of the feather troubles. This is borne out by the fact that the bird has commenced to sing again since you got it the new cage—which also shows there is not much else seriously wrong. The plumage, of course, cannot be reproduced without a moult; so you see you will have to wait patiently until the next moulting season, or else throw the bird into a cross moult—a risky proceeding. Let it bathe freely on all suitable days.

A Weed and a Mule (Nancy).—The weed you send is certainly not shepherd's purse—in fact, I don't know what it is; nothing that I gather for my own birds. You ought easily to recognise shepherd's purse from the drawing and description of it recently given. Am not surprised to hear the Mule turned out a regular Tartar when you put him in the aviary; as I told you, indeed, this is generally how they act after having been in a cage by themselves.

Sex of Goldfinch (Puzzled).—You are not the only one puzzled, for I confess your letter mystifies me. Hen Goldies caged by themselves, and well fed, will sing freely; I have often heard them, and have known many owners deceived thereby. Your written description would lead anyone to declare the bird you have to be a hen. And this I shall name it, in spite of its commencing to "sing very low." If the black on the head and wing coats is a dirty ashy colour, you can wager it is a "Mary Jane."

Skylark not Moulting (Skylark).—I can't see what you have to worry about. Ten to one the bird will not come to the slightest harm. Have known birds go more than one season and not, apparently, cast a single feather. Speaking of Larks, I am often saying that one of the best-known winners last season was a bird which had not moulted that back-end. It is always more or less risky to throw birds into moult. You can do it by keeping your bird for about a fortnight in a cold place (if not in one now), and then transferring him suddenly to a cosy corner in a warm room, covering his cage over, if necessary.

Hard or Soft (Tom-Tit).—You are right: the Blue Tit is the "ordinary small one that raises a crest at will." The other common small Tits are black-headed. The correct class for all the Tit family is the "Softbill" or insectivorous class.

About a Linnet (E. W. Garnsey).—I should think the Linnet has merely caught (or twisted) the toe in the wires, and that it will come all right in time. The best treatment you could adopt would be to steep the toe for a few minutes daily in fairly hot water, afterwards anointing with a little Zambuk. Evidently the bird is not used to a cage, and nervous, but this will wear off as he gets used to you and to captivity. He will not commence to sing (or "chirrup") until steadied down somewhat.

More about "Bobbie" (Robin).—I have given several replies about the Robin lately, which doubtless you will have seen. There is one this week dealing with the sex question. As I have said before, there is no reason at all why the Robin should not be kept in a cage (except a sentimental one), providing an old, intractable specimen is not chosen for that purpose.

Identity of Bird (Seaman).—I cannot throw any light on the identity of the bird, and your description is so vague that I doubt whether anyone could do so. You ought to give me the size, and state the colours of the plumage on the different parts of the body, also the markings. It might be the Mealy Redpoll (some are very big) which settled on your ship while in migration. Couldn't you supply fuller details?

In an Aviary (Chips).—I have often told querists that breeding results are very uncertain with a mixed lot of British birds thrown together in an aviary. The reasons for this are set out at length in several recent replies. Your own aviary is not deep enough from front to back to please me—a place 9ft. long and 6ft. 6in. high should be at least 5ft. wide. Still, your present aviary is a nice one, and if suitably fitted up (you should read an article which appeared in No. 1 of the "Bird World Magazine") one or other of the couples might nest successfully. Try Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Siskins, Redpolls, Linnets, Greenfinches, and Twites—sexes equal.

More Aviary Breeding (Pell-Mell).—I commend your plan of sticking to Canary hens in your aviary. It is far the likeliest plan to produce youngsters. Pity the place is not wider—2ft. 6in. is very narrow. You could easily get a dozen Canary hens in it. I should think one or two cock Goldies, a Redpoll, and a Twite would add to the place's attractiveness; a cock Bullfinch, too, would be a decided acquisition, and you would have a chance of producing a Bullie-Canary Hybrid, which would be of considerable value.

Linnet III (J. J. C.).—I don't think, from the symptoms you describe, there is much chance of your Linnet recovering. I should say he was at the "last gasp" when you wrote, and possibly will be no more when you read this answer. If still alive, try a few doses of dandelion juice (taraxacum) from the chemist—half-a-teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Give for three days, then another dose or two with intervals in between on plain water. This might serve to restore him, though I am afraid he is beyond the help of medicine.

Goldfinches Dying (A. Hallas).—I don't think you need look beyond the railway journey to explain the death of the Goldfinches. Four days on the way! Why, it seems almost incredible they were not dead as door-nails when they reached you. Someone, I should think, must certainly have given them a drink while en route.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Diet for Amazon Parrot.

Doubtful.—(1) Keep water in its cage by all means, so that the water-vessel is placed in such a position that it cannot get fouled. No, the diet is altogether wrong; stop the slops, table scraps, etc., at once. (2) A mixture of canary, oats, wheat, dari, small Indian corn, hemp, and sunflower seeds in about equal parts (get a quart of each, and it will last some time), should form its staple diet; supplement this at intervals so as to vary its diet, with ripe fruit, plain sweet biscuit (dry), raw carrot, boiled potato (dry), nuts (shelled walnuts are best), green food (lettuce, green peas, etc., as in season), cuttlefish, grit, and water for drinking and bathing. (3) The small quantity of raw potato will do no harm, but if you wish the bird to remain in health, do not give it table scraps, sops, or any tea or coffee. If you read other replies in this and last issues, it will help you in the management of your bird.

Identification.

Zebra.—Being unable to get over to the Museum personally, I had to send a messenger over, and though the Museum authorities very courteously assisted him, they were unable to name No. 2 from your sketch, owing to there being several species, so much alike, that without a finished drawing identification is almost impossible. No. 1 belongs to the family Tanagridæ (Chorophonica longipennis). It is usually sold under some such name as Emerald, All Green, or Blue-Green Tanager. The diet given last week will fully meet the case if it will eat them, two or three mealworms per bird daily, would be an advantage. No. 2 is some closely allied species, and probably a female.

The Spice Finch.

Dick.—Your bird is the Spice Finch (Munia punctulata). It has a number of other vulgar names, such as Nutmeg, Bar-breasted, and Topela Finch; it is also known by the designation of Spice Bird, the term Bird being used instead of Finch for all its other vulgar names. It is an Indian bird, very freely imported, and is also to be usually obtained for 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. a pair. Canary, millet, and spray millet, with green food, and gritty sand on cage bottom, will fully meet the modest needs of this pretty little Finch.

A Parrot Picking Its Feathers.

A. M.—I should say your bird has been improperly fed; you do not give diet, so I can only refer you as to this to other replies in this, and especially last week's issues. Do not give table scraps, milk, tea, or coffee slops, or any kind of animal food. Spray the bird with quassia solution every other day for a fortnight, guarding carefully against draught till dry. For one day only make its drinking water just saline with Epsom Salts, and repeat the dose after an interval of three days. On other days, and continue for some time, make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food.

Speechless Parrot.

Anxious.—Your note gives me no ground to go upon; you must say how you have been feeding and how long the bird has been in your possession, before I can give you definite help. Parrots frequently exhibit jealousy and become sulky, when they see another bird being petted, and it is possibly merely sulking, and will find its tongue again later. It is a dangerous practice to place a new purchase in close proximity to an established bird. All new purchases should be kept in a separate room, away from other birds, for three or four weeks at least, till you are sure they are sound, or you may contaminate every bird you have. Make its drinking water just saline with Epsom Salts for one day; follow this by making its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food; this treatment will suffice while you are sending me further particulars, and waiting for reply.

Paradise Parrakeets, etc.

Pulchræ Aves.—(1) Paradise Parrakeets are very rare, and their price would be what the dealer thought he could get, certainly a high figure. Varied Lorrikeets are scarce on the market at present, but by advertising you might get a pair for 60s., but I would not take double that sum for my pair, which are out of doors at the present time, and are in exhibition condition. (2) A good-sized Parrot cage, one that will give them space to climb and twist about in. (3) Almost everybody differs on this point; at the present time I should swear by the Hawk-headed Caique, but I doubt if you could get one of these birds now; I believe there are only four in this country at the present time—my own bird, one at the Zoo, and the other two in the hands of those who would not readily part with them. Tui Parrakeets are a small and pretty species, and become very tame and chummy. I will think the matter over, and name one or two others in our next issue.

The Rosella Parrakeets.

A Bird Lover.—I will keep your query before me till our next issue; you appear to have some species of Song Sparrow, but which, at the moment, I cannot say. Re the Rosella, when a bird is bald, as you describe yours to be, recovery is not rapid, but more often the plumage is only very slowly reproduced. Continue the treatment already advised. If it will eat a crust of bread or a piece of plain biscuit, slightly damp either one or the other, and well dust same with flour of sulphur, giving this daily for a time. I have a very rare Tanager that got very badly pecked early in July, which has only just regained decent plumage, in spite of very special care, for it is a very valuable bird, and I believe the only one in this country, if not the actual first living specimen to reach Great Britain. Yes, you can keep the Parrakeets together; it largely depends on space. It will be well to keep a watch on them at first, as there is so much individualism with these birds that a "hard and fast line" cannot be drawn. Note, you must not put Parrakeets out of doors at this time of year that have been kept indoors or in cages during the warmer weather.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a reply direct 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (Fairfield).—Liver enormously enlarged and diseased, lungs congested. Fear you have got an inheritantly diseased strain. Give milk-sop occasionally, and salad or boiled carrot, or ripe bananas daily.

Canary (J. Welsh).—Sudden chill—inflammation of lungs and liver ending with apoplexy.

Grey Parrot (Mrs. Fielding).—Well-established liver disease, with more recent inflammation of the kidneys, caused the death of your bird. Dieting queries can always be answered through the query columns.

Cinnamon Lancashire Canary (O. Hamilton).—This bird was much too fat, and the upset with the cock Canary might have induced the apoplectic fit from which it died, although I suspect the evident congestion of lungs.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Hens Together; and Book (E. Millar).—You can certainly keep two hens together in the same cage; but they should be separated in some way (by a partition or other means) when breeding. You will find this and all other points explained in House's Canary Manual, which we have duly sent you.

Cutting about Show (T. H. Marrison).—We are extremely obliged to you for thinking of us, but you will see we had arranged for a full report.

Classes Omitted (F. J. Putner).—We are quite at a loss as to how the classes you mention got omitted, for the Novice Section is one we are always anxious to notice. We will make enquiries, and thank you for drawing attention to the matter.

Addressing Letter (W. G.).—Letter has been duly re-addressed.

Complaint (H. Davies).—If you will kindly comply with rule 8, under "Questions and Answers," and send the name and address of the person complained about, we will write him on your behalf. To publish your letter would only be to cast suspicion on innocent people, as we feel sure you will see after a moment's reflection.

Book Wanted (Mrs. Croysdale).—We think your best plan would be to insert an advertisement in our prepaid columns, which would doubtless bring you the book you desire. Sorry we have not a copy to spare ourselves

Another Theft from a Show.

The secretary of Ayr Show, Mr. J. Thomson, informs us that a Norwich Plainhead was stolen from that exhibition. The offender, according to the advertisement appearing on our Show page this week, is known, and likely to be severely dealt with.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

YORKSHIRE Fanciers, and more particularly those who have been in the fancy for a number of years, will regret to hear of the death of Mr. James Wilkinson, of Lidget Green, Bradford, who passed away on Friday, November 22nd, having passed the allotted "three score and ten" by some three or four years. Jim, as he was more familiarly known, was an astute fancier of the Yorkshire variety, and was one of the pioneers in the making of this now popular breed. He is the third of the old school who during the last few years have been laid to rest, the other two, with whom he was on most intimate terms, being Mr. Isaac Holroyd and Mr. John Thackray.

A CHAT with Mr. Wilkinson on birdy topics of the old days was always interesting and instructive. Many a time has he kept a goodly company on the tiptoe of excitement by relating his experiences in the fancy, amongst others being the day when borrowing birds for exhibiting was the rule rather than the exception, stating that then it was no uncommon thing for one exhibitor to stage from thirty to seventy birds at one show, a large number of them being "gathered up" from amongst fancier friends. For a long number of years Mr. Wilkinson was a member and enthusiastic worker for the Gt. Horton O. S., and even up to the last year or two rarely missed visiting the shows.

FANCIERS here are now enquiring when the Cinderella Fund Canary Show business is to be brought forward, as it is thought that such a show should not be allowed to fall through. On referring to the balance-sheet for the last show, I note that no less a sum than £15 was paid over to the Cinderella Fund, which no doubt was well spent in ministering to the wants of the poor bairns of Bradford. Of course, the question of date has been a little perplexing. But now I hear that the Palace Show has been postponed a week, and if this is corect, it leaves a nice little opening into which the Cinderella Show might step, thus taking the date left open by the Yorkshire Union when fixing their shows, viz., February 1st. This would doubtless prove convenient to the C.F. Show Committee. It was mooted, after the last show, that the next one should take place somewhere in the City, to be more central, and if a good room could be found, this would certainly be advantageous to all concerned.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CATCHING NEAR LONDON.

SIR,—Can any reader kindly state through your valuable paper the nearest district, common or forest, to London for catching birds, and say if there is any restriction as to net, trap or lime; also what kinds of bird would be likely to be caught there, and the close time for netting?

CONSTANT READER.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR HORWICH AND DISTRICT.

SIR,—Having been approached by several bird fanciers as to the advisability of forming a Cage Bird Society for this district, I make a second appeal to all fanciers within a twelve miles radius to let me have their names and addresses who wish to become members, in order that a meeting could be arranged at some convenient place in the town to inaugurate the same. I see no reason why such a society should not be formed, as there are plenty of fanciers around here, who would make good members if only they would come forward, and give a helping hand in its formation.

WM. FISHER.

A BASTARDLY ACT AT PENRHYN

SIR,—I regret to see the letter in your last issue, re the above. As one who knows Mr. Opie, I may say I have always found him an upright, honest fancier, and one who is always pleased to show anyone his birds, and give his advice. He can ill afford to have his pets put away in this brutal manner. I have always found the Penrhyn people most kind and humane. Tradition has it that Penrhynians robbed the Church, but at the same time they didn't slaughter anyone (or even a bird) My opinion, which I share with many others, is that no Penrhyn man did this dirty piece of work; it was evidently done by some person or persons who are sent to Penrhyn to do duty, in a different form to slaughtering innocent birds, out of spite. One may ask where are the police at night? They are paid servants to protect the public whilst asleep; they have evidently failed to do their duty in this case.. Suspicion falls on a certain person who poses as a religious man. Better, that this man should practice what he preaches, and act up to the Golden Rule, doing unto others as he would be done unto. One would think we had degenerated back to the state of the barbaric ages, instead of being in the progressive Twentieth Century. Mr. Opie has the sympathy of all genuine fanciers in this district in his sad loss. MAN-IN-RED.

ALLEGED LACK OF MANAGEMENT AT DULWICH & PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—With reference to the letters of Mr. A. Morris and Mr. George Hill, which appeared in CAGE BIRDS last week, I would respectfully submit that what I wrote on the subject was entirely in good faith. Most of the facts contained in my letter came under my personal notice, and I have no reason whatever to doubt the accuracy of the information supplied to me by the officials of the show. I certainly think, in view of the exceptional circumstances, some allowance should be made, especially by such good fanciers as Mr. Morris and Mr. Hill, and that the hitch in the arrangements, which everybody regrets, should be treated in a more conciliatory spirit.

JOHN B. WATERMAN.

SIR,—In reference to Dulwich and Peckham Show, I see some fanciers are condemning Mr. Woolhouse on the management of the said show. I am sure I never saw a manager work harder for the benefit of the exhibitors than Mr. Woolhouse. At the best of times managers and secretaries get hard knocks, and under the condition of the hall being engaged till very late, it did not give the committeemen and Mr. Woolhouse a chance with so large an entry. I wish the Dulwich-Peckham Society every success. W. VARDY.

SIR,—My final letter on this subject, in reply to Mr. Woolhouse, re numbers. After my recent experience, I am sorry I cannot take his word without further corroboration I am sure it is very kind of him, asking me to pay his self-imposed penalty of £1 for the trouble I have caused! Surely he must be getting into more muddles. I was not the show manager! The Crippled Children's Fund, I think, is closed, but no doubt there are the poor of Peckham, and as Christmas is near, and as a sportsman, if Mr. Woolhouse will send his cheque for 10s. to your paper for the poor of his district, and your paper will send me word he has done so, I will likewise send my cheque for the same amount for the poor of my district. I should like the fanciers of Dulwich and Peckham to know they have my good wishes, as I have no grievance whatever with them or the show, and under good management I wish them every future success. J. E. REEVES.

BREEDING HYBRID PARRAKEETS

SIR,—In my article on the breeding of Hybrid Parrakeets, in your double number last week, your printer makes me say: "They (the young) have quite a curious way of 'squeaking' if anything disturbs them in the nest." It should read "squawking," as there is no squeak about it; it is more like the word "hawk" long drawn out.

C. P. ARTHUR.

ROUGH HANDLING OF EXHIBITS IN TRANSIT.

A Remedy Wanted.

SIR,—Can any of your readers suggest a remedy for the rough handling of live birds (exhibits, etc.) by railway companies? My own opinion is it is only the work of a few of the servants of companies, and who are more fit to load brick carts. Now, C.B.U.!

GREYPATE.

AN ALLEGED MISLEADING ADVERTISEMENT.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me through your correspondence column to protest against what I consider to be a misleading advertisement, and a just grievance. I have been annoyed lately, through it having been brought to my notice that there is a certain fancier of the same name as myself, who is allowing other fanciers to asume that he is the Walsh that owns the strain of Yorkshires that is winning at the Yorkshire Union shows, when as a matter of fact the strain is mine. Now, Sir, imagine if you can, my annoyance at seeing his advertisement in your current issue, in which he gives no particulars as to where his winning Yorkshires have won. Had he given a list of the shows where he has won with his birds, I should have had no real grounds for complaint, and this letter would never have been written. H. W. WALSH (Halifax).

COCKERMOUTH F.S. & THE C.B.U.

SIR,—After reading the various letters relating to the above, I have come to the conclusion that Mr. Lythgoe is not so much to blame as they try to make him out to be. To my mind the dispute is between the two societies. Therefore, instead of Mr. Oglethorpe blaming Mr. Lythgoe he ought to put the blame on the right shoulders, viz., the committee of the other society, who, according to Mr. Oglethorpe, had every opportunity of seeing the advertisement in the "Cumberland Times" stating that they altered the date of their show to December 6th and 7th. In Mr. Lythgoe's postcard, dated August 6th, he makes it quite clear when he asked the Cockermouth Society if they had any objection to the other society becoming affiliated. In Mr. Oglethorpe's reply he states that they welcome their adhesion. Would it not have been better if they had objected to the other society being allowed to become affiliated unless they altered their date? I will give you a case in point. The Darlington Society made application for a licence for a show on the same date as Blaydon. Mr. Lythgoe wrote to the secretary of the Blaydon Society to ascertain if they had any objections. They objected, and their objection was upheld by the C.B.U. Therefore I am of the opinion that if Cockermouth had objected the other society would not have been admitted members.

ONLOOKER.

HYBRIDS AT PERTH SHOW.

SIR,—Would you kindly allow me to put a few questions to the judge of Hybrids and British birds at Perth Show through the columns of your valuable paper? I exhibited a Dark Canary-Bullfinch in Class 55 (exhibit No. 3), and it was marked "wrong class." Now, the classes are as follows:—54, Light or Variegated Canary Mules; 55, Dark Canary Mules; 56, Hybrids; so readers will see that my bird was certainly in its right class. I would like to ask the judge what cross it is if it is not a Canary-Bullie? I understand he calls it a Greenie-Bullie. He might kindly let me know where the Greenie cross comes from. I have exhibited this bird and been in the tickets under such well-known specialist judges as Mr. James F. Dewar (Edinburgh), Mr. J. J. Watson (Arbroath), Mr. A. W. Watson (Leith), Mr. Marlin (Hamilton), and Mr. Robson (London); and he has been 1st, spl. at Falkirk and 1st, spl. at Grangemouth this year under Mr. Gardner (Bathgate). He was 1st, spl. at Perth last year in the same class. He has been repeatedly commented on in the Fancy Press as a gem of a Canary-Bullie (see CAGE BIRDS report of Brechin Show, November 9th). I think it is high time something was done to ensure fanciers getting justice. It is very hard to have your bird thrown out by someone who evidently does not know what he is judging. I hope the judge will reply to this next week, and perhaps some of those who were present will have something to say on this subject. I will give £5 to any charitable institution you, Mr Editor, may mention if the judge can prove that it is not what I have shown it as, namely, a genuine Canary-Bullie.

JAMES OVENSTONE.

SINGING LINNETS.

SIR,—In reply to "Grey Linnet," I would say that if his Linnets are over the moult he should give them as a staple food plain canary seed, German rape, and English rape. Then get this mixture made, which we will call No. 1: Dandelion, 2oz.; white lettuce, 1 oz.; gold of pleasure, 4 oz.; and maw seed, 4 oz. Also mixture No. 2: Niger, 1 pint; hemp, 1 gill. Keep them separate, and give one teaspoonful of each every day, when you will soon hear your linnets sing.

SCOTCH FANCY CANARY CLUB.

SIR,—Having at the request of the late secretary and members taken over the duties of secretary to the Scotch Fancy Club, I shall be pleased to receive members' subscriptions, also to hear from any fancier wishing to become a member; or to receive any suggestion from members which shall have every consideration so far as it concerns our section. We are giving the club patronage to Gateshead show, a silver medal for best cock and ditto for best hen. Will members support? They did splendidly at Leeds. J. HARRISON.

THE CHALLENGE SHIELD AWARD AT DULWICH SHOW.

SIR,—With regard to last week's correspondence in your columns, relating to the seven guinea shield at Dulwich and Peckham Show, I would like to corroborate what has been said by both Mr. Baker and Mr. Vardy on the subject, and to repeat here what I have already said verbally—i.e., that I was at the time of the show, and am still, perfectly satisfied with the decision of the judges. I know everything was done for the Norwich that could be done, and I am satisfied that Mr. Crisp's bird did fairly win the shield. J. HODDER.

SIR,—I should like to say a word re Mr. Baker's letter. I wish him and all fanciers to understand that what I said in my letter of November 16th was not from any jealous motive, but simply because I do not approve of the system under which the birds were judged. Mr. Baker speaks of giving honour where the same is due. Kindly allow me to say it was not for him or anyone else to do this, but Judge Vardy, who was appointed to judge; it was for him and him only to give his expert opinion on the Norwich Plainhead. He also speaks of my buff cock being ill on the first day of the show. I should like to ask him why, then, it was awarded first? One reporter reports it as being well staged. Anyway, I have lost the bird and have got to pay for it. Respecting me looking after my own bird, it was as much as I could do to look after other people's, to try and get them a bit straight. W. MORRIS.

PROPOSED SOCIETY FOR TOPSHAM.

SIR,—For a long time it has been thought desirable that a Canary Society should be formed in "our historic town" of Topsham; but probably some pessimist will be ready to exclaim: "What! a Canary Club for Topsham?" In reply, I would exclaim with still greater emphasis: "Why not? For is it not a fact that in these advanced days of pleasure-seeking nearly every small town and remote village has its fancy pet club and annual show?" In view of the same, I wish to say there are plenty of resources at hand, which, if properly initiated, would, I am confident, be well patronised and generously supported by the inhabitants, many of whom are ardent admirers of the feathered tribes. I may mention, if I dare, that we have residing in our midst some well-known local fanciers, viz., Mr. W. Tremlett, a respected Yorkshire fancier; and Mr. Parkes, a prominent Norwich fancier; also another Yorkshire fancier, whose controversial letters, it will be remembered by your numerous readers, appeared in your esteemed journal, CAGE BIRDS, about two years ago, under the heading, "What is the Yorkshire type?" and others, many of whom have won prizes at Exeter and Exmouth Shows. This fact alone should be sufficient encouragement for the undertaking of so worthy an enterprise, and only requires a few business organisers in order to give this most interesting pursuit a fair start, so that many who remain disinterested would, I am certain, come forward with a helping hand, and who doubtless would be highly pleased to have the opportunity of entering into friendly competition by endeavouring honestly to produce in the course of time such specimens from their respective fancies as shall eventually challenge outsiders to excel. I would also like to remark from personal experience that notwithstanding many adverse circumstances and vexatious losses I have found the keeping of Canaries a very fascinating pleasure, and at the close of the season, or year, have discovered to my delight a small balance on the credit side of my bird account. It only remains for Topsham fanciers to put their shoulder to the wheel. I trust these few suggestions may prove an incentive, FREDERICK ELLIS.

SCOTTISH NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB MATTERS.

SIR,—The Press always welcome new records. I am sending you one herewith for publication, which for cowardliness and evasion of the truth I believe never had its equal in the annals of the Fancy. It has apparently for its object the throwing of dust in the eyes of the members of the Scottish Plainhead Club, to divert attention from the real cause—why the International contest is not to take place in 1907. This is a strong accusation, and if I fail to prove my case, then I am the coward. I am referring to the following circular sent out to members:—

SCOTTISH PLAINHEAD CLUB.

Dear Sir,—As you no doubt are aware arrangements were come to between the English and Scottish Plainhead Clubs to have contest in Scotland this year. A vote of our members was taken where they wished contest, and resulted by a large majority in favour of Glasgow and West of Scotland Show on November 15th and 16th, being chosen. As Secretary of the Club, I sent on result of vote, with classification offered, to Mr. Raynes, Secretary of E.P.C. We were informed that date had been previously fixed for one of their competitions, and we would have to try and change our date. In answer to letter, Glasgow and West of Scotland could not change date arranged. Still trusting that E.P.C. would make arrangements to meet us, in reply to my letter I received letter on 7th October, informing us what we already knew, that two contests had been held in Scotland and two in England, and seeing the E.P.C had come to Scotland first, it was now our turn to go to England, and proposed that contest take place at Nottingham, on 16th and 18th, and they were trying to get the Southern Club to meet them on that date. I trust you will take note of this on the very date we had fixed for contest. Why the Scottish Club should be subject to such treatment I am at a loss to know. It does seem like as they were only playing with us, and will only come to Scotland when it suits them. This is now the second occasion they have treated this Club in the same manner. A special meeting of the Club took place at Glasgow on Saturday 19th, and was largely attended, to consider letters received. It was agreed to have no contest with E.P.C., but to hold a Club Show on date agreed upon for contest at Glasgow and West of Scotland Show, November 15th and 16th.

D. SMITH, Secretary.

The 1906 contest was voted to take place in conjunction with the Kelso Show, but as it did not comply with one of the conditions of the English Norwich Plainhead Club, viz., that they don't give either their patronage or support to mixed shows, it of necessity fell through. One would have thought that a new secretary would have mastered the conditions under which the previous contests had taken place, for had this been done it would have saved the Kelso Committee a deal of expense, and the members of the S.P.C. their first disappointment. Experience teaches some, but when one is inflated with a sense of his own perfection, no one can teach him. One would reasonably have expected that as he had bungled his first contest, he would have avoided bungling his second. But no. Look at the business-like way of the English Norwich Plainhead Club. We find reported in CAGE BIRDS issue of the 18th May the whole of their fixtures settled at their meeting held on the 11th May. Amongst them is their Club Show to be held in conjunction with the Nottingham Show on the 16th and 18th November. How different the management of the Scottish Club! The secretary keeps dilly-dallying till about the beginning of October before he issues his voting papers, and it is about the middle of that month before he intimates to the English Club that the contest has now fallen to be held in conjunction with the Glasgow and West of Scotland Society's Show, to be held on the 15th and 16th November. So soon as the result was known it was pointed out to me by a member that it could not take place at this show, as these dates clashed with the E.P.C.'s Club Show, fixed five months before, for the 16th and 18th of the same month. Thus finished the 1907 contest! Supposing the contest had taken place in Glasgow, it would have been a violation of a very important rule governing the contest proposed by the then very astute secretary and committee of the Scottish Club, "that the contest be held each year in December," and agreed to by the English Club. The present members should feel grateful to those who inserted such a wise provision, as the difference of our climate causes our birds to be later in getting through the moult, and it is fully December some seasons before they are properly fined down. Yet in face of this rule our present secretary would fain have gone on. There is one thing we must admire our secretary for—in doing just what he promised. Readers may remember his taking the opportunity through the medium of the Press of thanking his numerous supporters for electing him to the office of secretary. He distinctly stated then, "that he would stand no interference." The committee gave away their birthright when they allowed him to assume office on these terms. They became subservient to the secretary, not the secretary to them. I can quite understand members who do not know the "ropes" so well as I do, asking each other: "Although we could not get the contest at the show fixed on, why not have taken the one having the next highest number of votes?" Herein lies the kernel of the whole matter. The secretary was secretary of another society, and he voluntarily retired from it, stating at the time he would continue to work for its best interests. But, whether he was disappointed at the ready way his place was filled or not, he suddenly turned round, and vowed to a member of committee that he would do all in his power against its interests. This member reported same at an adjourned annual meeting of the society, when it was at once moved, duly seconded, and carried unanimously, that he be expelled the society. That society was the Scottish National, and it stood second both years, as the society having the next highest number of votes. This is the reason for the contest not taking place there. It is very hard lines on the breeding and exhibiting members of the S.P.C. that they should be robbed of their most cherished competition because its secretary has vowed to do all in his power against the S.N. If this is allowed to go on, then the days of the S.P.C are numbered. It resolves itself, to my mind, into the question whether we had better lose the club, or lose the secretary. I would not have written a single line of this letter had he not attacked the E.P.C. executive behind their backs, blaming them falsely (as I think I have shown) as being responsible for the contest not taking place these last two years, while he, and he alone, by his consistent bungling, is solely responsible. I am truly sorry for the treatment meted out by the Scottish Club to our English friends, after the generous way in which the latter granted them a second opportunity of bringing off the contest in Scotland. Could some way not be devised to remedy it yet, even at this late hour, as a mark of appreciation (by some of its members at least) for the uniform kindness and courtesy extended to the S.P.C. ever since its institution?

WILLIAM AITCHISON.

UNIFORMITY OF SHOW CAGES.

SIR,—In answer to "B.," re the variety of material sent in the bottoms of show cages to different shows lately, I beg to say that anything but plain canary seed sent to the Bristol Show has always been turned out previous to judging.

SOFTENING WATER FOR WASHING BIRDS.

SIR,—I have only just noticed a printer's error in my batch of "Canary Notes in Brief" of November 16th, which it may be best to correct. In "A Note on Washing" the method of softening water is made to read "boil a few months before using." That it was an error must have been obvious to everyone, even if the real meaning was not understood. It should have been "boil a few moments." To be more precise: if hard water boils fifteen or twenty minutes and then stands until cold, it is very much softer, a large proportion of the mineral salts which cause "hardness" being deposited at a boiling temperature.

CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

ALLEGED MALPRACTICES IN YORKSHIRE CIRCLES.

SIR,—In "Under the White Rose," of November 16th, the writer dealt somewhat fully with our showing a cock in the hen class. But I see again this week that he has heard another whisper; this time that the "alleged offenders" (we being the offenders) are said to have been guilty of borrowing and trimming, of which we are not guilty. I made a special journey to Bradford City Show to see Mr. R. Garnett, Sec., C.M.Y.C.C., to learn if he had heard anything; but found he has heard no such complaint. I might say that as we have been guilty once, he must think we are full of these fraudulent practices. If we are defaulters in one action, why does he print these whispers, which he doesn't know are true, and try to make all the fancy think we are guilty of other practices? The writer was at the C.M.Y. Club meeting when we were suspended (if I am informed right), and when I objected to three of the club members for trimming, borrowing and lending, which I am prepared to prove, and when the delegates of the Y.U. and C.M.Y.C.C. meet, the matter will be gone into. I hope he will sign his name and face the public, so they may know who to make prove the rumours.

B. COOK.

[Mr. Cook has entirely misconstrued the meaning of the paragraph in question, as Straight 'Un" was not referring to any further charges being brought against Messrs Cook and Son, but to Mr. Cook's own charges against other exhibitors of Yorkshires (as mentioned in his letter printed above), the latter being the "alleged offenders."—EDITOR.]

Several Letters unavoidably held over.

DOVER.

This, the seventh show of the Dover Society, was held in the Town Hall, a most suitable building, on November 26th and 27th. The exhibits were nicely staged in the large hall by themselves, and their wants well attended to by the committee and stewards, all of whom seemed most earnest in their efforts to make this, their second show, a success in every way. Messrs. Birch, chairman, Disch, vice-chairman, and Lewis, treasurer, nobly led the way, and their efforts were ably seconded by Messrs. Tampany, Charlwood, Pym, Dane, Domford, Gravener, Reeve, Chapman, Austin, Brown, Fogg, Richards, Simms, Coleman, Johncock and Maxted. Mr. Borrex, the indefatigable hon. sec., seemed to glory in the arduous work attached to his office, and by his energy and geniality, did much to render the show both successful and pleasurable. A good classification had been sent out, and the entries came up well, totalling 230, which, for a country show, must be voted very good indeed. Taking the section generally, the quality was most excellent, especially in Norwich, where Mr. Gibbs secured all the plums, with a grand team of nice cobby, close feathered birds of rich colour. Yorkshires made a good show, the quality very even, and the competition keen, amongst them was found the winner of the Challenge Cup for best cage bird, and the members' Challenge Bowl, both honours being secured by Mr. Leaver's handsome clear buff. Borders were a nice, select lot, and commanded much attention from visitors. Mr. Broad's handsome Crest easily won the section special, and had it not been indulging in a bath, it would doubtless have run hard for the Challenge Cup. British birds made a very nice show, but, owing to the bad light were most difficult to see. We particularly admired Mr. Brett's lovely great Grey Shrike, the same gentleman's Wheatear, Mr. Curd's Bullfinch and Mr. Wickham's Linnet and Goldfinch, Foreigners, were not numerous, but some very nice exhibits were staged, the special fell to a good Green Cardinal shown by Mr. Birch. Mr. J. North had been announced to judge, but owing to indisposition, was unable to fulfil his engagement, and his place was taken by Mr. House, who was officiating in the Pigeon section of the show.

MORRISTON.

The first show of the Morriston and District C.B.S. was held on November 21st, in the Drill Hall, a building most admirably adapted for a show of this kind, as there is plenty of room, with immunity from draughts, and the light can only be described as perfect. We think for an initial show it may be fairly described as a successful one, as the entries in most of the classes were good and the quality all round was first-class, many well-known winners being staged. All the exhibits were nicely staged and had every attention paid them by a thoroughly up-to-date and enthusiastic body of fanciers who constituted the committee. Mr. D. Jeremy makes a capital secretary, as he is cool, capable and courteous, and we think the Society fortunate in having such a hard-working official. We think there is a bright future before this Society, as it numbers a keen lot of fanciers, a good working committee, an energetic secretary, and a real good hall. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne.

JEDBURGH.

Jedburgh C.B., Etc., Association held their Annual Exhibition in the Public Hall on Nov. 23. The President is Mr. Geo. Balfour, and the vice president, Mr. John Yellowlees. The Society possesses a very able and obliging secretary and treasurer in the person of Mr. A. Frater and an assistant treasurer in Mr. R. Frater. The following composed the committee—Messrs. Renilson, McLevy, Brown, Taylor, Lenton, Aitchison, Wood, Richardson, Waldie, Carruthers, Middleton, Lawrence, Muir, Easton, Coltherd, Bathgate, Scott, Neil, and McNaught—truly a goodly array of fanciers, who were able to manage a much larger entry than that obtaining here. We fully expected a good turn-out of cage birds, situated as Jedburgh is in the very heart of our Borders. Surely fanciers must very quickly get tired of exhibiting when such a good schedule and prize money are the excellent inducements to them to turn out their birds. It is somewhat discouraging to a good hard-working Secretary and Committee to see such a comparatively poor turn-out after all their efforts to cater for the fanciers. Jedburgh Show, like most of our Border shows, has had its ups and downs, and it is only by being worked up by real fanciers that it has been kept going. We hope other Border societies who have yet to hold their fixtures, will be more generously helped. Entries were rather shorter here than last year, but quality was well up to the average. Messrs. J. Alexander and A. Watson judged.

SCOTCH FANCY CK. (5): 1, spl., 4, Veitch, leading with a good clear yell., fine head and neck, deep rib, 2nd and 5th, Pringle, former buff pied, heavy shoulders, broad and well filled in, trifle shorter body; 3, McLevy, buff, good top and neck. HEN (5): 1, spl., 2, Pringle, foul buff, massive shoulders, well rounded wing and rib, hardly so good in reach as 2nd, a clear yell, very fine head and best of shoulders, good quick action; 3, 5, Veitch, former yell. pied., long body, good top and gets well down; 4, McLevy, good reachy hen, hardly so massive in body, perhaps. NOR. CK. (4): 1, 2, Cameron, leading with a good clear yell., nice chubby front, neat wings; 2, grand body and head, well polished; 3, Little, good buff, not quite so chubby, perhaps, as winners; 4, Bell, light body, well behind perch. HEN (4): 1, spl., 4, Cameron, 1, buff var. leading, good round head, nicely filled in neck and front, short back, wins well; 2, Lockhart, good feather, nice chubby body; 3, Little, very neat fine buff. BORD. CL. YELL. CK. (2): 1, Bennet, Galashiels, winner in fine form, nicely rounded, grand sound colour; 2, Blackie, neat head and front, trifle heavy in tail. SUNDERLAND.

The Eighteenth Annual Show of the Sunderland C.B.A. was held in the Workman's Hall, Monkwearmouth on November 22nd and 23rd. They had a splendid entry of 500, and the quality was grand in every section. The hall is most suitable for the purpose of an exhibition of this kind, being lofty, well lighted, and kept at a nice temperature all day. Mr. F. Gordon makes a splendid secretary, most courteous and obliging, and a real nigger for work. And he not only works himself, but he sees that others are working too, and woe betide any committeeman who is having a "rest" if the secretary's eye falls upon him, for, as he says there is a lot of work to do and we all must lend a hand and then it will get well done. Fortunately, he is ably backed up by a hard working committee, consisting of Mr. Farrer (Chairman), Mr. Snowball (Vice-Chairman) and Messrs. Rischorough (who is Treasurer, and we noticed was looking after the financial interests of the society at the door), Ogleby, R. Armstrong, W. F. Swan, A. Elliott, H. Gordon, T. Hird, J. Walker, W. Reid, H. Oxley, J. Copeland, and Dr. O'Neal. Where all went so well it is unfortunate that through someone's negligence Mr. Sandiford's birds did not turn up until 1.50 p.m. They were at once attended to, and Mr. Gordon wired to Mr. Sandiford who replied that they left Preston at 3 o'clock on Thursday and had thus been in the hands of the railway company for close on 23 hours. After they had been watered and fed, Mr. Cameron was asked to affix the awards they would have got if they had been in their classes when he judged same, and he said they would have had two firsts, one second, and two thirds. He noticed Mr. T. Robson, secretary of the Northern Crest Club, busy looking after the interests of his club and the bird he admires. We were also very pleased to meet that well-known old Crest breeder Mr. G. Sutherland, who, considering his long illness this last summer, was looking hale and well. Norwich Plainheads made a grand display, some typical specimens being staged by Messrs. A. Brown, A. Grey, Stanger and Herdman, and T. Irons. Crests and Crest-breds, as usual at this show, were quite an exhibition in themselves, some of the best in the country being on view, notably the young Crest exhibited by Mr. T. Taylor which is undoubtedly one of the best youngsters ever staged. Cinnamons, though not numerous were of grand quality, Messrs. Godley and Dorrner holding the whip-hand in this variety. The two border classes held some smart little specimens of this variety. Yorkshires were more numerous than we usually find at this show, and several really typical specimens were staged. Mules and Hybrids were not numerous and contained little of outstanding merit, but the British were better and contained some very fine birds. The special for most points in the show was won by Mr. E. Godley. We trust this very fine show will come out a good financial success, which is what the Sunderland fanciers well deserve. Messrs. A. C. Cameron and G. E. Russell judged and their awards on the whole seemed to meet with general approval.

The Norwich and Crests.

NOR. CL. YELL. (7): 1, spl, A. Brown, hot colour, rare size and substance, good head, neck, wings, and tail, in grand condition; 2, A. NEWARK SHOW.

In connection with this fixture held November 21st, cage birds were well provided for and came up better than any other section in the show. The quality too was very good for a limit show, and everything possible was done to safeguard the comfort and interests of the birds. The Imperial Hall is an admirable place for the purpose, and the committee are quite in earnest to make the fixture a show where good management can be depended upon. The secretary, Mr. S. C. Wilkins, although new to the work, had everything in excellent order, and if he can be prevailed upon to continue office, the society and its annual show must flourish. Unfortunately the date this year clashed with that selected by many other societies, and this we fear will prevent the fixture being a financial success. Mr. T. J. Ambrose judged.

NOR. CL. (12): 1, spl. hc, Butler, grand, thick set, chubby bird, good feather and shape, buff; 2, res., Wilson and Fox, yell., not quite so good in chest, nice feather; 3, vhc, Bishop, yell., nice colour, silky feather, loses only in shape; vhc, Tonybee; hc, Mackender; No. 525 absent. THE ROLLER CANARIES AT LEEDS

Appended we have pleasure in giving the points scored by the Rollers at Leeds show. The judges had hard work to judge such a number of birds in the time allowed. The exhibitors could help a great deal by training these birds for show. Many of the birds could not have been in their show boxes more than 24 hours, which would take a bird all his time to get used to his cage, without thinking of or making an effort to sing. This applied notably in Nos. 24 and 25, Class 11. Had these two birds opened during the judging, the result would have been different. As far as the young bird class is concerned, the judge found the birds are fuller and deeper in their song, but having very little variety. Nearly all the birds heard had sharp whistle tours, also, to a great extent, aufzug. Judges, C. Roelil and J. Netthewood.

AYR.

Ayr O.S. held their forty sixth Grand Annual Exhibition, Nov. 23, in the Pavilion, Dane Park. Office bearers: President, Mr. Colin Paterson, vice-president, Mr. Wm. Jackson; sec. and treasurer, Mr James Thomson, jun.; collector, John Muir; auditors, Messrs. David Cellars and William Knox; committee, Messrs. A. Reith, Wm. McConnell, Wm. Knox, Charles Jackson, W. Piper, P. Mackie, Geo. Crockett and J. Hogg. The present show was held in the "Pavilion," as the old premises, the Volunteer Hall, were found to be much too small. The "Pavilion" is a large and commodious hall, with abundance of space and good light, but rather cold and draughty. The committee adopted every precaution for the safety and comfort of the exhibits and visitors alike. There was a large turn-up of the latter, and the staging of the exhibits was so well arranged that not the slightest inconvenience was felt by the visitors, who were able to view the exhibits in the different classes with perfect ease and comfort. To secretary Thomson and his able band of helpers much well-deserved credit is due for the general excellence of the arrangements. The judges were for Norwich and Bor. Fancy—Mr. George Smart; all other classes Mr John Goodfellow. The entries were slightly under last year's number, but the quality throughout was very good. Norwich and Border Fancy were a capital turn-out, there being some well-known winners staged. The Brit. and For. collections were also an excellent class. Mr. P. McQuiston, of Ayr, carried off the principal honours, winning ten firsts, six seconds, three thirds, a fourth, vhc, hc., a very fine record, out of 22 classes. A few Glasgow winners were in their right places here to-day. There was a strong muster of fanciers present, and all the arrangements were perfect. The weather conditions were not of the best, being cold and wet, which no doubt made the gate drawings a little less than they might have been, but we hope this will not make a material difference in the funds. The judges' awards seemed to give general satisfaction.

HEBDEN BRIDGE & DIS. C.B.A.

Annual show was held on November 16th in the Co-operative Hall. It attracted an entry of 112, which compares favourably with previous shows. The specimens were of a meritorious type. The shaw was fairly well attended, and thanks to the efforts of Mr. A. Pickles, secretary, assisted by a hard-working body of committee men, the show was a success in every respect. Mr. S. D. King won the society's silver cup for most points. Mr. R. Sutcliffe, of Windhill, adjudicated, and his awards appeared to give satisfaction.

NORTHAMPTON.

The 36th annual show of the Northampton Good Intent Society was held Nov. 20 and 21, at the Corn Exchange—a spacious, suitable building for the purpose. Mr. G. M. Larkman is the hon. sec., and a very capable one he makes. He had everything in thorough working order and the show was carried through in admirable manner by the committee and stewards, who are old fanciers, and know their business. Mr. G. Lawrence (Coventry) judged.

ST. HELENS.

This, the second venture this year of the new St. Helen's Recreation F and F.A. was held in the Volunteer Hall, St. Helen's, Nov. 23. It is a very fine hall, with large windows on both long sides, and gives splendid light therein, 2,000 birds could easily be staged. Hot water pipes run round the room, and the temperature can thus be regulated. A very liberal schedule of classes for Nor., Yorks. and Brit., had been compiled, and, this, without any hall prize money rule. A better response by exhibitors should have been made on this account. As it was, this fact seemed to be overlooked, and so the rule of returning entries in very small classes had to be resorted to, and a number of classes were cancelled. Those which stood, with eight or more entries, contained some grand specimens, and competition ran very keen. The Nor. were a very level lot in the yellow cock section. The buff cocks were excellent both in type and quality, particularly the first pair. It is but fair to state that three or four yells. and a couple of buffs were more or less wet, and didn't nne down time enough to do better. The hens, particularly the first three, were ideal ones for type and quality, and many of our old time Prescot, St. Helen's and District Norwich men admired them much. Only the Yorks. hen class stood, and this saw the appearance of several very smart ladies of the Fancy. The Hybrid class brought together a rare good mixture. It was sad to see Mr. J. D. Leigh's grand Greenfinch-Bullfinch with some of his outer left wing flights missing. He looked like a winner if the wing had been right. The leaders, and indeed all were in good form and difficult to divide. The British, which stood, saw a good "Gale" leading, with a fine Hawlinch second, and a very smart yell Bunting third. The Foreign brought out Mr. Pickles' strong team, led by his charming maroon Tanager, in grand form, with a superb 2nd, and Mr. Brownhill 3rd, with a fine Alexandrine Parrakeet. Some very good and cheap birds took the lead in Selling classes. Members' classes brought out some superior specimens, Mr. Levi Whittle securing special for best members' Canary and special for best bird in show, with his fine Crest. In the open classes specials were won by Mr. T. Bixter (Sandiford's), G. Croucher, J. Stewart, J. Pitchford and J. Grice (Ffyde's). This Society is a very strong one, being composed largely of employees of the great firm of glass manufacturers, Messrs. Pilkington Bros. A good list of valuable specials was given by leaders of the firm and other gentlemen. The management of the show was very good, and with each succeeding venture, the officers should prove worthy of greater confidence and support from cage bird exhibitors. All was got through in good time. Mr. J. Judson is chairman. Dr. Siddall, vice-chairman; Mr. J. T. Leather is hon. treas; the committee are: Messrs. Foster, Blanchard, Bickerstaffe, Charlston, R. Forber, J. Grice, L. Whittle, R. Helm, W. Hardman, R. Pickering, and J. Wolfe. Mr. J. Shufflebotham is the hon. secretary, and a very capable one he makes. He is to be congratulated on the success of his efforts. He was assisted by Mr. W. Vose, who also deserves credit, and by Mr. R. Little as show manager. These gentlemen, one and all are capable and painstaking, and desire to progress each year. Mr. Chas. Houltou judged, and got through in good time, with apparent satisfaction.

Open Section.

NOR. YELL. CK. (13): 1, Croucher, an ideal clear yell, bold chest, fine head, good neck, back wings and tail, level colour, nicely fined down; 2, Dunn, another clear, very similar in type, rich colour, sound feather, level and clean through, nice head, stands well; 3, Grice, shows up well, bit patchy in colour perhaps, but well got up in feather and condition; vhc, Turner, heavy var., rare substance, might have gone up but had been wet; hc, Vose, grand head and type, same fault kept back; c, Coulson; No. 292, Bixter, winner of Sandiford's, was wet when judged, but when dried was fit to take honours. BUFFS (9): 1, Turner, real slasher, grand size, var., lovely bloom and condition, clean through for his size, much admired; 2, Croucher, clear buff, smaller, but a real gem for type, quality, fine finish; 3, Winn and Hinde, marked head, pretty shape, fine head, rare carriage and tight in condition, runs close up; vhc, Coulson, very fine head, good body, had been wet, which spoiled the fineness; hc, Bixter, bit thinner body, but fine feather and condition; c, Thompson. HENS (8): 1, Cleminson, big clear, great in all typical points, buff, bright colour, clean right down in feather, any amount of substance; 2, Coulson, six-pointed yell, a regular thick-set bouncing big hen, just a trifle beaten in complete feather and carriage, grand bird all the same; 3, Winn and Hinde, most typical clear buff, exquisite shape and feather, fine carriage and finish, smaller some would prefer; vhc, Tasker, clear ycll., very smart; bc, Chesworth; c, Hawkes. NON-FED (8): 1, Thompson, var., grand Nor. type, beautiful quality and condition, just suit a Nor. Green breeder; 2, Roberts, fine big buff Nor., plenty feather, but cobby type, lovely feather for quality; 3, Wiles, clear Crestbred buff, good bird; vhc, R. Helm, heavy var, grand quality and condition, nice sbape; hc, Wiles; c, Croucher. D. Leigh, Linnet-Bullfinch, beaten in colour and breast feather by first, also Greenfinch-Bullfinch, his crack bird, has lost some wing flights, or might have won outright in class, a very grand bird; c, J. F. Lea, grand yell Siskin-Canary, fine size, colour, markings and condition. BRIT.: (12): 1, vhc, Walker, very tight-feathered Nightingale leading, and a yell Wagtail, nice feather, would show better with 3 perches instead of one, all on a level low down; 2, Jones, grand size, rich red Bawfinch, lovely level breast and bloom steady, well shown; 3, Stewart, perfectly marked yell. Bunting, in grand colour, feather and condition; hc, Smith, smart good-colonred Greenfinch, medium size, nicely shown; c, Wiun and Hinde, nice yell. Bunting. Several other good Buntings in class. FOR. (10): 1, 2, vhc, Pickles, grand rare maroon Tanager leading, a gem in all respects; 2, grand superb Tanager, in equally brilliant colours and condition; vhc, pair very good Grassfinches: 3. Brownhill, very fine ring Alexandrine Parrakeet, wants a little more, or higher perch to clear tail feathers, to show well; vhc, Sherlock, pretty pair of Cottbreasts; hc, Herbert, nice pair moulted Parrakeets, c Sherlock, good Barnard's Parrakeets, thank when judged, better later. SELL. LANGWITH.

The Third Annual Exhibition of the Langwith and District C.B.S., took place on November 23rd, under C.B.U. rules. The room at the Gate Hotel, in close proximity to the station, is a very good and cosy one. Entries totalled 123, in the open section, and 80 odd in the members'. Norwich Plainheads made a nice display. Yorkshires were stylish, and of capital quality. British Mules and Foreign helped to swell the attractions and several were far and away above the average. The members classes contained some exceedingly nice specimens, and reflected high credit on the members of the society. Cup for most points went to Mr. W. Vardy, he staging a magnificent team of Norwich. The President is T. W. Turner, Esq., Vice-Presidents are Messrs. R. L. Jones, T. Wild, J. Price, M. Levi, J. Dent, and F. Barker, all of whom are liberal supporters to the club. The Committee of Management consists of able practical fanciers. Great praise is due to them for the manner in which they take their part, viz.:—Messrs. W. Mason, Kirk, Jeanes, Sadler, Hempsall, Cutts, Burgin, Braitsford, A. Hatton, C. Hatton, D. Mason, H. Cottam, J. Holmes, and G. Parkes. The Hon. Sec. is Mr. H. Wilson, who proved himself the right man in the right place; thoroughly understanding the proper working of a venture of this kind. Courteous and obliging, he is a capital official, and his untiring efforts did much for the success of the show. The staging of the exhibits was neatly carried out, and judging over in good time, and cards up promptly. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction. The stewards were Messrs. A. Hatton, C. Hatton, and W. Mason, who got through their work in excellent style. NOR. YELL. HANLEY.

Hanley and Dis. C.B.S. held their second annual open show, Nov. 21st, at the Albion Hotel. The room is a capital one for the purpose. Like the other two shows recently held in this district, entries were somewhat disappointing, and the Committee were compelled to cancel no less than ten classes for this reason. The quality of the exhibits was very good, many recent winners being staged. Some splendid Norwich were staged by Messrs. Bowyer, Hull, Williams, Rathbone, Wootton, Roberts, Bevan, and Lingard. The successful Yorkshire exhibitors were Messrs. Williams, Peake, Dewhirst, Simcock, Dyke, Mole, Maitland, Hawley, Holmes, Walsh, Jones and Williams. British were but moderate, but Messrs. Tams and Son put down a fine Linnet and Goldfinch in A.O.V. Mr. Ward's grand Linnet-Bullie, Lulque II, won with something to spare. Members' classes also contained many excellent specimens, some of which would have given a good account of themselves in the open. The management was very satisfactory, the following officials and Committee being responsible: Messrs. S. Wootton, W. Bickerton, T. Newman, A. Scott, S. Pygott, J. Clunn, G. Wildigg, T. Underwood, S. Wild, J. Topliss, J. Williamson and B. Peake, the last-mentioned setting a splendid example by the energy he displayed, in fulfilling the duties involved in promoting a Cage Bird Show. The society have a most capable secretary in the person of Mr. C. J. Robinson, and if the show did not turn out the success anticipated, it was no fault of his. The awards were made by Mr. J. Wilcock, and appeared to give general satisfaction.

TONBRIDGE.

Tonbridge and Dis. F.A. held their First Annual Show at the Public Hall on November 20th and 21st. The show, which was open to Kent, Sussex, and Surrey, was very successful, and the quality of the exhibits was very good indeed. The Hall is very suitable, as it is well lighted and free from draughts. Mr. Burton, the secretary, and Mr. Taylor, assistant sec., two very obliging and capable fanciers, and a good hard-working committee, had everything in excellent working order, ready for judging early. The prize cards in each class were up as soon as judging was over. In the Norwich Plainhead section the principal winners were Miss Hollamby and Messrs. Warner, Berry, and Marshall, who showed some good specimens. In Norwich, Crested, Mr. Holland was 1st with two specials, one for best bird in show. In Crest-breds, Mrs. Simpson and Miss Hollamby were 1st and 2nd with two massive birds. In Yorkshires, Messrs. Edwards, Knapp, and J. Reeve carried off the prizes with some really grand birds. In Mules, Mr. Richards was 1st with a very fine Green Finch Mule, and Mr. J. Peters followed with a good dark Goldfinch Canary. In British Finches, Mr. F. Bathard took 1st and special with a gem of a Goldfinch. In British Softbill Mr. Brett won with a fine specimen of a Thrush. In British birds, A.O.S., Mr. Brett was again 1st with a good Hawfinch, Miss O. Conway Gordon won 1st and special in Foreign birds with a pair of beautiful Pekin Nightingales. Judge, Mr. J. Dobson.

BEGINNERS READ THE ANNUAL.

CROOK.

Crook, Co. Durham, held their annual exhibition in the Mechanics' Hall, Nov. 23rd. The entry totalled over 700 altogether, of which the Cage Bird section accounted for no fewer than well over 500. Although the Norwich, with a few exceptions, were only of fair quality, the Yorkshires were well represented and good all round, Messrs. Cuthbertson, Broughton, Broadley, Elliott, etc., staging nice teams. Britishers were good all through, both in numbers and quality, and were quite the feature of the show. The Members' classes contained many birds of merit, which reflected great credit on the exhibitors. The one and only drawback to the show was the smallness of the hall, and we hope the Society will be able to remedy this next year. Under the circumstances the working portion of the committee did all they possibly could, working very hard indeed to make things go smoothly, and they succeeded splendidly. With this one exception, lack of space, the show must be considered a decided success. Much of the credit of this is due to the able secretary, Mr. A. Bowes, who worked well and hard to bring things to a happy issue. Mr. H. W. Battye judged.

HULL.

The Hull C.B.S. held their thirteenth annual show on November 22nd and 23rd. The exhibition (under the C.B.U. rules) took place in the Corn Exchange, which is situated near the various railway stations, and is excellently lighted, spacious, and draughtproof, also nicely warmed by hot-water pipes (when necessary)—a more convenient room no one need desire. Entries all told were 297 in the open section, and 114 in the members. The show had the patronage of the National British Bird and Mule Club, which no doubt helped to swell the entry in this section. The catalogue opened with the Crests and Crest-breds, and although in numbers on the small side, the quality was present. The Norwich Plainheads were up in full force, some really magnificent specimens being on view—a collection worth going many miles to see. Topping exhibits were the Clear Yellow and Yellow hen staged by Mr. G. Harland, great credit being due to their breeder, while the unlighted Yellow shown successfully by Mr. D. Hope, was one of the first water, and with luck should be a hard nut to crack when another season comes round. Other lovely birds were those shown by Messrs. J. Haigh and Son, Pepper, J. M. Williams, Pickering and Wright, H. E. Wilkinson, D. Hunter, W. Clews, and J. Atkinson. Yorkshires were full of true character, standing like so many rushes, and of exceptional length in most instances. Messrs. Bailey and Swanger staged a magnificent team, gaining all four first prizes. Cinnamons were few, but of the right stamp. The Variety class contained several rare birds, headed by a 4-pointed Yell. Yorkie belonging to that well-known fancier Mr. H. Hudson. The Selling classes provided many bargains, while the Novice Norwich and Yorkshires made a very good display, out of which one could select several quite capable of appearing amongst the "upper ten." Hyde's Special went to Mr. R. Banks, his Buff Dark Crest doing the trick. The staging of the exhibits was done in an up-to-date style, and those responsible for this neat arrangement deserve great praise. The exhibition was opened by T. R. Ferens, Esq., M.P., his speech being very encouraging to all the members of the society. On Mr. G. W. Oliver's stall we noticed a nice lot of birdie literature, and our attention was attracted to the excellent display given to CAGE BIRDS, for which we tender him our thanks. The Committee of Management consists of a well-known and willing band of excellent fanciers, viz.:—Mr. D. Hope (Chairman), the right man in the right place, Mr. T. Perkins (Vice-Chairman), a more than capable "understudy," and Messrs. Brumby, Banks, Pepper, Buckley, Barwick, Walker, Stones, and Harland, all of whom have heart and soul in the welfare of their society. Hon. Treasurer is Mr. G. W. Oliver, a good worker and very useful official, while the auditors, Messrs. Loughorn and Jopling also deserve mention for their services. The Joint Secretaries are Messrs. Potter and Stamford, both of whom are ever ready to render assistance, always on the go, and courteous and obliging in the extreme, a better pair could hardly run in harness. Much of the success of the show is certainly due to them. The judges were Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) and Mr. C. Houlton (St. Helens). Both are well known, and their awards appeared to give entire satisfaction, as very little grumbling was heard. Judging over in good time, and cards displayed promptly. Messrs. Pepper and Kling (Canary section), Walker and Perkins (British section), made a quartette of splendid stewards; some special winners were: best splendid stewards; some special winners were: Best cock shown in open by member, Mr. D. Hope; best hen, Mr. G. Harland; best 1907 yell. York. (Novice), Mr. J. Precious; best buff, Mr. G. Girling; best Yorks. hen, Mr. G. King: best 1907 Nor., Mr. H. Cliff. Perkins' specials for Hottest Fed went to Messrs. Spruit, Mason, and Brumby.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

(9): 1, Emerson, cl, yell, good in colour and quality, very shapely, nice substance, clean cut; 2, 4, Cliff, cl buff, and cl yell, both unfli, good colour, shape and feather, with time should make up well; 3, Shaw, good colour and feather, nice type; vhc, hc, Longhorn; c, Fairhurst. HEN (7): 1, c, Cliff, cl buff, grandly feathered, good colour and meal, fine shape, clean under; 2, Emerson, yell. cap mkd., A1 colour, very shapely, good carriage, close up; 3, Duckett, buff, mkd head, good in shape and size; 4, Crowston, cl yell., lovely colour and quality. A1 shape; vhc, fine specimens, and three or four very peculiar coloured ones attracted the attention of several fanciers. To satisfy curiosity they were tested, and survived the ordeal. They are undoubtedly a remarkable colour, rarely seen on a moulted specimen in a cage. Goldfinches were good. Mr. Houlton put a fine hen Bully first in its class, and left out a very fine Finch, which has got the benefit, 'tis said, once or twice before. The bird is "on the line," and many thought no one could grumble rightly whichever way it goes. A grand Cock—real Britisher—was in the class, but it had by some means lained itself and put it out of a possible first prize. The A.O.S. saw a clinking pair of Hawfinches 1st and second, both gems of the first water, the leader being the Nottingham (late Hakes), and last year's Palace winner. He was hard pressed by 2nd, a very tight feathered bird. The Soft Bills (large) saw Mr. Axe's crack Thrush to the front, whilst the small Soft Bills were headed by one of the finest Wheatears ever staged, with a wonderful Nightingale 2nd. The Foreign birds were very pretty indeed, and Mr. Hollins came with a splendid team in both large and small. The members British birds brought a strong class. The Gift class brought together 19 birds, and as each received a special prize (collected from various sources), it was a stiff task to place every bird in order of merit down the class—not many would be envious of this job.

DARK CAN. HYBRID (6): 1, Wilson, good coloured yell, Green-Canary, nice medium size, good shape, feathered to a nicety; 2, Sissons, very pretty Siskin-Canary yell., good size, shape and markings, very silky feather; 4, Harrison, nice yellow Gold-Canary; vho, Pogmore; buff Gold-Canary, in good condition; hc, Oliver; c, Dale. GOLDFINCH, BRIT. (10): 1, Axe, full of merit, broad chest, fine clean cut blaze, deep colour, neat moons and cars, nutty brown, broad chest, nice neat feather and condition; 2, erkins, just beaten a little in blaze and width of chest, good brown on body, moons and bars, nice and steady, shows well; 3, Duckett, rich colours all over, fine quality, just a trifle short of body and breast condition; 4, Booth, broad face, clean cut, nice bars and buttons; vhc, Pogmore, wants a little more conditioning of feather; hc, Hague; c, Crowson. BULLFINCH (6): 1, Clark, Richardson; hc, Hogg and Son. YORKIE (18)—a good lot: 1, Wood, yell, mkd right wing, feathered like glass, standing like a guardsman, real gem, would have stood high in open; 2, Clark, cl yell, straight as a pencil, delightful feather, lengthy; 3, Robinson, buff, mkd. wings and tail, A1 quality, good position and length; 4, hc, Snowden, cl yell, hot in colour, rich feather, capital stand; vhc, Galling; c, Precious. HEN (11): 1, Robinson, cl yell, warm colour, rich silky feather, rare legs, splendid length; 2, Clark, cl buff, exceptional length, A1 position, capital feather, well up on leg; 3, Wood, cl yell, grand long drawn bird, lovely feather, 4, c, Galling, cl yell, lengthy, good stand; vhc, Parker; hc, H. and C. T. Parkes. MEMBERS' NOR. (10): 1, 4, c, Oliff, winner cl. yell, grand depth of colour, nice type and substance; 4, cl buff, well feathered, shapely; 2, Mason, cl. yell., rattling colour and quality, very shapely and clean cut; 3, Spruit, mkd yell, fine colour, good shape and substance; vhc, hc, Calvard UNFLI. (13): 1, 4, vhc, Oliff, trio of very promising youngsters, showing nice substance and shape, capital feather and colour; 2, 3, Spruit, former, yell mkd eye, lovely colour, good feather and size; 3, cl yell, ablaze with colour, shapely, nice substance; hc, Oliver; c, Calvard. HEN (14)—a good class; 1, c, Oliff, yell ticked on neck, full of quality and colour, good size and type; 2, hc, Mason, yell. cap mkd, nice colour and shape, jaunty carriage, close up; 3, Stamford, cl buff, very shapely, clean cut; 4, vhc, Spruit, cl yell, nice colour and shape, well across perch. YORKS. (13): 1, hc, Stamford, cl yell, wonderful length, rare feather, well up on leg, a beauty; 2, 3, 4, Kling, three very choice exhibits, well up in position, good length, grand feather; vhc, Banks; c, Prentice. UNFLI (24): 1, 4, Precious, both lovely specimens, winner ticked yell, good length, capital stand and quality; 4, ticked buff, very lengthy, shade stronger, yet sweet; 2, vhc, Girling, cl. buff, straight as a rush, well feathered, grand back and wings, fails only in length to above; 3, Parks, cl yell, fine long drawn bird; c, Kling. HEN (15): 1, 2, Kling, cl yell and tkd buff, former very lengthy, capital quality and position, latter not quite so lengthy, but all there otherwise; 3, Stamford, buff, lovely colour, straight good stand; 4, Prentice, yell, Cinn. mkd, good in colour and feather, nice length; vhc, Lightfoot; hc, Precious; c, Potter. A.O.V. (9): 1, 2, 3, vhc, Banks, quartette of fine specimens, winner buff almost green, DC, good in substance and shape, crest round, fine droop, centre nicely placed; 2, buff, almost green, CB, well up in size, very shapely, rare width of skull, well lashed; 4, hc, c, Spruit, buff, heavy mkd, CB, nice size, good quality and skull character.

Mr. Houlton's Classes.

The Hybrid classes this year did not come up well at all, the light class and the Hybrid having to be cancelled. This is not the way to get better classification offered another year. More life and go wants putting into this section. Surely it cannot be that men are afraid of meeting each other's birds? Britishers on the whole were a grand lot for all-round excellence, and a very pretty show they made. The Linnet class contained some very fine hen in the pink of condition; 2, vhc, Boyle, second very good colour and feather, vhc was lame else might have won; 4, Hollins and Son, slightly paler, very fair condition; hc, Garnett Bros.. LINNET (15): 1, Axe, wonderfully fine Linnet, great size, profuse markings, regular teazer for colour, will puzzle many in that respect; 2, Atkinson, real genuine pale cage-moulted Linnet, good size, shape and markings, full-chested, in fine condition; 3, Crowson, another of the right stamp, good head, long body shape and markings; 4, Cullum, fine size, nice shape and markings, beaten only in substance, steady; vhc, Isherwood; hc, Fairhurst. GREENFINCH, ETC. (13): 1, Chick, crack Notts Bramble, all over a good one; 2, Dale, very smart Chaffinch, in splendid bloom and sheen, colour and markings very pretty; 3, hc, c, Hollins and Son, third smart Greenfinch for size and colour, polished very finely in condition of feather; 4, Axe, grandly shaped Bramble, only beaten in head and spangle a little, a topper; vhc, Medley, fine, big Chaffinch, in rare feather. THRUSH, ETC. (5): 1, 3, Axe, pair of champion Thrushes, former the better in shape and spotting, latter magnificent colour, both spleudid in feather and condition, steady and well shown, one practically as good as the other; 2, Bescoby, rare sized Redwing in grand feather, rich in colour, shone like satin; vhc, Brumby; hc, Sherwood. A.O.S. SEED (4): 1, Chick, Notts winning Hawfinch, had hard race to beat; 2, Axe, another Hawfinch, Manchester, etc., winner, a real topper, and very fine race between them, one has size and shape and brightness, the other style, slimness of condition, and dense, rather opaque colour, a grand pair withal; 3, Axe, splendid yell. Bunting in perfect feather and condition, lovely head markings, spangle and colour; 4, Medley, very large Corn Bunting very steady, well spangled in good feather. A.O.S. INSECT (5): 1, 3, Chick, first about the best Wheatear ever seen staged, a perfect picture, greatly admired by all, third very pretty Blackcap, grand feather, good cap, steady, in very tight body condition; 2, Arnold, magnificent Nightingale, great size, shape, colour and condition, well shown; 4, Medley, another Gale's grand condition, very fair size and shape. SMALL FOR (7): 1, 2, 3, 4, Hollins and Son, grand team, all in the pink of condition, leaders pair of Grass Finches, second White-headed Nuns, third Chestnut Finches, and fourth pair Cutthroats, other three in class absent. LARGE (7): 1, 2, 3, 4, Hollins and Son, a rare team, marked, many coloured, King, and blue and green, Parrakeets all in fine condition; vhc, Mrs. Toole, very good feathered Grey Parrots; Nos. 2 and 7 absent. MEMBERS' BRIT. (16): 1, vhc, Banks, fine Blackbird, grand body, deep black, good feather, very steady, just a slight bit of black on beak, rest is fit for open competition, vhc, good Goldie, nice feather, moons and bars, hit pale in colours; 2, hc, Hollins and Son, smart shaped Bully, tight as wax in feather, good cap, nice colours, might have won in open to-day; 3, Barwick, real good Crossbill, well cage moulted, and in rattling condition; 4, Pepper, very good feathered Greenfinch in nice colours and steady; c, Perkins, Goldie. GIFT CLASS (19): All receive a special prize, subscribed from various sources; a real treat and no mistake; 1, Spruit, very good buff Nor., fine shape; 2, Lightfoot, nice buff Yorks; 3, Barwick, sweet yell. Nor.; 4, Prentice, typical buff Yorks.; 5, Jobbing, ditto; 6, Riley, lovely yel. Yorks.; 7, Brumby, buff Nor.; 8, Kling, buff Yorks.; 9, Mason, yell. Nor.; 10, Parks, yell. Yorks, 11, Pepper, yell. Nor.; 12, 15, Oliver; 13, Longhorn; 14, Cliff; 16, Hope; 17, Calam; 18, Banks, 19, Calvert. The last special was practically equal in value to the first, all getting a good article or about 5/- in money.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Annual show held in the Market Hall, Nov. 23rd. Entries came up well considering the number of shows being held at the present time, though we have seen them more numerous here, especially in British. The quality throughout was excellent. Choice specimens in Norwich were staged by Messrs. Hall, Bowyer, Needham, Butler, Moore, Mason, Emery, Hathaway, Cameron and Smith. In A.O.V. Mr. Peters led with a good Crest. British were only represented by the Finch class, in which Mr. Weaver won with a nice Goldie. Local classes also contained many choice exhibits, which were staged to the best advantage. Two very interesting exhibits were staged, not for competition, and attracted much attention, one being the beautiful Albino Blackbird, the Nottingham winner, owned by Mr. S. Hakes. The other was a Greenfinch Canary Hybrid, of good size, and showing the parentage very distinctly, but absolutely without eyes—a most uncommon exhibit. The cage bird section received every attention at the hands of Mr. J. Cameron (chairman) and Messrs. W. Mason and A. Emery. Mr. F. Cameron makes an excellent secretary, and his efforts are in the last degree praiseworthy. Mr. J. M. Roe judged. NOR. CL., ETC (13). 1, Needham, grand shaped buff, nice size, lovely colour and quality, well put down; 2, Butler, buff, fine size and shape, good head, nice quality; 3, Bowyer, very fine cb., grand type and colour, excellent quality; 4, Moore, buff, rare size and shape, grand colour and condition; r, Williams; vhc, Pegg; hc, Wright; c, Colloby. Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

BLACKWOOD.

Blackwood O.A. held their fourth annual open show in Southfield Hall and St. John's School, Nov. 16th. President, Mr. S. Pate; Treasurer, Mr. John Jackson; committee, Messrs. J. Hamilton, J. Curr, J. Pate, J. Chalmers, Jas. Hamilton, G. Muir, Rob. Hardy, W. Johnstone, A. Buchanan, D. Hainey, J. Brownlie, A. Walker, J. Marshall, and D. McArthur. All worked hard and well. There was a large turn-up of visitors, the Hall being uncomfortably packed in the afternoon. The judges were Mr. John Kean, for Scotch Fancy Section, Mr. John Calderwood for Borders, and Mr. John Farquhar for Norwich. There were 9 classes for Scotch Fancy; in Border classes there were 11. The Norwich Section had 10 classes, and to the Secretary's appeal a very hearty response was made by breeders turning out their birds in such satisfactory numbers. There were some capital birds shown, and each class was well supported in point of entries, the quality all through being very good. Mr. E. Waye's Buff Foul Cock, carried off the Blue Ribbon by winning Cup and Medal, also B.F.C.C. Medal for best (members') Border Fancy. A typical bird and a well-known winner, shown in capital condition. The best first in Scotch Fancy Section, was Mr. Jackson. Best first Hen, Mr. Jas. Craig, in Norwich Section, Crestbred, Mr. M. Roy. Plainheads best first, Mr. C. Owen. Mule and Hybrid Section, Mr. W. Johnstone, Grecnie Hully. Brit. Section, best first, Mr. W. Telford, Bullfinch. The judges' awards gave general satisfaction, and the arrangements made for the comfort of visitors and exhibits alike, were of the most complete description, reflecting much credit on the Secretary, Mr. James Ritchie, and his assistants. The show proved a record success, being very much in advance of former years. Specials in Border Fancy Section were:—Best cock, cup and medal winner, E. Waye; best hen, A. and J. Thompson; 2nd cock, T. Ritchie; 2nd, 3rd hen and 3rd cock, A. Walker; 4th hen, Sommerville and McLean.

CHAPEL-EN-LE-FRITH.

A very nice little show was that promoted by the Chapel-en-le-Frith Fanciers' Society, and held in the Drill Hall, on November 23rd. The competition was restricted to a twelve miles radius, and the prizes were only 12/- in each class, yet the quality of the exhibits was of a much higher character than one would expect to find under such circumstances. The executive were not over-done in the matter of space, but they made the most of the accommodation at their command, and attended well to the needs of the exhibits. Mr. Welch, the chairman, set his colleagues a good example, and they nobly responded to his lead, whilst Mr. Cooper, as secretary, was quite the right man in the right place, and by his tact and geniality did much to further the success of the venture. In its limited sphere of action the Chapel-en-le-Frith Fanciers' Society is evidently doing good work, and well merits the support and approbation which it evidently receives from the people of the neighbourhood. Mr. C. A. House judged. YORKS YELL. (7): 1, spl, Potts, nice racy bird, stands well, capital colour, and feather; 2, Lomas, beautifully-moulded, nice length, very tight and nice in feather; 3, vhc, Dewsnap, very shapely and nice quality, good head and back; 4, Flint, very racy and nice length, not so clear with wings; hc, c, Dickinson. LEYTON.

The Leyton and Dis C.B.A. held First Annual Show at the Leyton Constitutional Club, Nov. 16th. The entries totalled 212, a very good start for their first venture. There were no less than five Challenge Cups, and 33 specials for competition. A good many well-known exhibitors sent birds, so making the competition very keen. All the classes provided some wonderful specimens. Mr. B. F. Forse, the General Secretary, meant his first show to be a success. He, with the aid of his committee, left nothing undone to make it so, and, judging by the large attendance, they have no reason to complain. They had the grounds when led up to the Hall, nicely lit up in the evening, with Japanese lanterns, giving a very fine effect. We first congratulate this society on their first venture. The Committe consists of well-known fanciers: Messrs. A. J. Marley, C. H. Cooper, A. B. Forse, R. Mein, J. A. Bartlett, A. and E. Morris, and F. R. Handscombe. Mr. F. Williamson is the chairman, and Mr. C. Carr the vice-chairman, with Mr. H. Ovenden as treasurer. Mr. B. F. Forse, the hon. secretary has Mr. H. W. Burbidge as his assistant. With such well-known fanciers as these, the society cannot help but prosper. Mr. J. Robson placed the cards.

EDINBURGH N.C. AND M.B.C.

Edinburgh Norwich Canary and Mule Breeders Club, held their 8th annual show in the Buccleuch Parish Hall, on Nov. 16th. This is one of the best class shows we have had the pleasure of visiting, and really represents the Scottish National show on a miniature scale. The hall is one of the cosiest and most suitable for a bird show, there being splendid top light and nicely arranged staging. Another matter which we admired greatly was the height of judges' tables, which were at a suitable distance from the floor to admit of birds being seen at first glance; it also saved a great deal of unnecessary lifting about and upsetting. Office bearers: Pres. Mr. A. Rodger, vice-pres. Mr. J. Kay, sec. and treasurer, Mr. W. Dunlop, Committee: Messrs. G. Brown, Atkinson and Buglass. Entries mustered close on 450, which speaks well for the breeding season with Edinburgh fanciers. Quality throughout was excellent, and not a few really splendid specimens were on view. Norwich were here in strong force and well up in type and colour. The clear buff hen which won in a class of 29, also secured Hyde's spl for best exhibit, being a really excellent one. Crests contained some very promising youngsters, Mr. D. W. Cairn's crested hen being first and runner-up for Hyde's. Borders were a grand show and contained some toppers; Buff cocks were choice, and here the Cup-winner turned up, and also secured B.F.C. Medal for best Border. Greens or Cinnamons were a good lot, and the honour was won by a very nice Buff Cinnamon hen. British also were a fine display. Mule classes were well to the fore, Mr. A. Rodger winning Cup and spl with a fine Linnet and Can. Mule. Mr. J. McLay had the handling of Norwich, Mr. H. Bennet Borders and Mr. J. Goodfellow Brit, For and Mules. Their awards gave general satisfaction.

KIRBYMOORSIDE.

The third annual show of the Kirbymoorside and Dis. F.A. was held in the Market Hall on November 21st. Eleven classes were provided, and the entry was a record one, being forty more than last year. The birds were staged at the far end of the upper room, free from draughts, and with plenty of light. The hardworking and able secretaries are Messrs. Iced and Calam, who, assisted by the stewards had everything in good order. The wants of the birds received every attention at the hands of the cage-bird steward, Mr. H. Hill, and his willing helpers. Our variable climate was on its best behaviour, and with plenty of sunshine caused a goodly number to visit the show, which was a decided success. Mr. H. W. Battye judged. YORKS CL. (24): 1, vhc, Cooper, leader yellow, fine head, neat feather, nice narrow back, good wings and tail carriage, well up on leg; 2, Ormandroyd, buff, lovely quality of feather, hardly so stylish as winner, but very nice wings and tail; 3, Wilton, capital feathered buff, shapely, fine quality; hc, Watts; c, Ireland. TICK, ETC. (18): 1, spl, for best Yorks, Davison, long, upstanding stylish bird, nice feather and colour, grand position, sweet head, good wings and tail, straight as a pencil, wing ticked yell., easy win; 2, Wainwright, buff, mkd. cheek and wing, fine length, nice style and feather, good second; 3, Riley, variег., long, raking bird, of nice shape, fine carriage; vhc, Ormandroyd; hc, Ireland; c, Watts. A.O.V. CAN. (13): 1, Hodgson, buff, Belgian, nice sweet head, good shoulders, in good feather, would show to still better advantage if a little quicker in gaining position; 2, c, Wilton, Crest-bred, fine cushion-shaped head, turns up well, heaps of feather; 3, Calam, nice veiny feathered, clear-bodied Crest, some thought a little deficient in eyesight; vhc, Wilcock; hc, Garbutt, No. 10 same owner, clear Crest-bred, good bird, but blind. LOCAL.—CAN. (8): 1, Sonley, yellow Yorks, nice narrow back, smart style and feather, looks like a hen, and if so, is a good one, wins comfortably; 2, 3, Sample, leader long, nice shape and style, fails to leader only in wing carriage, third buff, capital feather, bit shorter in body; vhc, Rumble; hc, Master Sample; c, Lines. NOR. (11): 1, vhc, Hesp, leader fine, close feathered buff, good, deep, broad chest, in nice order; vhc, beaten only in feather; 2, Calam, yell. unflig., capital feather and colour, nice head and chest, very promising; 3, Lee, buff, lovely quality, nice type, but trifle on slim side, good third; hc, Sonley; c, Humble. GOLDFINCH (10): 1, spl, for best Brit. in show, Mrs. Simpson, nice square cut blaze, large and bright, fine size and shape, neat button and wing bars, nice condition, wins; 2, Wildsmith and Hawkins, little beauty, lovely condition, grand polish, nice face and wings, not quite so good in shape or so large in blaze as leader, good Finch, though; these two stood clean away from the rest; 3, Watson, nice face and body colour; vhc, Sonley, good shape and size, capable of being moulted into a good Finch; hc, Wilton; c, Leefe. BULLFINCH (16): 1, Calam, hen and one of the best we have seen for some time, great size, grand, glossy, jet-black cap, clearly defined wing bars, very steady; 2, Harper and Nicholson, good cap bars and general condition, nice breast, very steady, in fine condition; 3, Smith, field-moulted and a fine Bully, though not quite so steady as leaders, which were house-moulted; vhc, Woods; hc, Jackson; c, Sherwood. LINNET (11): 1, 3, Stamp, both colour-fed, leader nice shape and colour and markings, in good trim all through, 3, very similar but hardly so clear in markings; 2, Wildsmith and Hawkins, good shape and finish, a shade clearer in markings, steady as a top; vhc, Palmer; hc, Leefe; c, Sealman. MULE, ETC. (10): 1, spl, for best bird in show, Mrs. Simpson, five-pointed Goldfinch and Can. Mule, nice shape, feather and condition, very fair size and staged in spotless condition, a gem; 2, Wildsmith and Hawkins, good, dark Linnet and Can., nice colour, fair size, in nice order; 3, Wainwright, nice condition, lightly mkd. Goldfinch and Can.; vhc, Wilton; hc, Mrs. Price; c, Humble. A.O.S. BRIT. (10): 1, Mrs. Simpson, nicely-laced, bright-coloured Bramblefinch, not big but very good; 2, Chapman, well mkd. Thrush, good colour and size, fairly steady and surely worth a more suitable cage; 3, Wilton, good mealy Redpoll, nice size and condition; vhc, Wilkinson; hc, Wildsmith and Hawkins; c, Denham. SELL. (10/-) (14): 1, Wilton; 2, Sample; 3, Barfe; vhc, Cooper; hc, Calam; c, Sonley.

GUILDFORD F.A.

The fourth annual show of the Guildford and Dis. F.A., was held Nov. 19th and 20th, at the Drill Hall, when a goodly number of exhibits were staged. Mr. A. C. Yorke made an excellent secretary. Assisted by Mr. C. Turner, he had all the arrangements well in hand, and to them is due a large measure of credit. Mr. Billett judged.

GRAVESEND.

Annual show of the Gravesend F.S., held in the new Market Hall (a commodious and well-lighted place) on Nov. 19th and 20th. Several of the classes were cancelled owing to fewness of entries. This was accounted for by the dates clashing with other shows. The committee are to be congratulated upon the excellence of their management, everything being attended to in a thoroughly practical manner, with Mr H. R Jewiss as secretary Mr. A. Terry, treasurer; Mr. S. C. Stevenson, chairman; Mr W. Gates, vice chairman, and Messrs. J. Bassett, J. Stewart and R. H. Terry as Cage Bird Stewards. Owing to the illness of Mr. J. North, of Reading, the awards were made by Mr. J. C. Wilmot of Bedford, who gave general satisfaction.

EASTBOURNE.

A largely increased entry this year was the result of Eastbourne F. and F.S.'s appeal to the Fancy, and the display of quality in the Cage Bird section was very apparent. The cage birds were staged in the New Hall in Seaside road, and an excellent room it is. Mr. C. Attree was again at the helm of affairs, and a more enthusiastic fancier or energetic hon. secretary it would be difficult to find. His two able coadjutors Messrs. J. Gibbons and H. Mills (the assistant hon. secretaries) were indefatigable in their efforts to lighten the labours of Mr. Attree. The Society has a most generous and ever-ready president in Major J. F. Maitland, J.P., while the list of vice-presidents is a lengthy and influential one. The committeemen are Messrs. E. G. Horn (chairman), C. Puckett (vice-chairman), C. Cole, W. Fry, A. Burgess, O Tutt, N. Sayers, G. Tugwell E. Gibbons, E. L. Newman, A. Thompson, J. Tucknott, J. Hobden, E. Gunsden, Welsh, J. Bridges, and G. Crump. Mr. T. Gale won special for best exhibit throughout the whole show, the winner being a rattling variegated Crestbred, with a massive head, wide entrance and dense, and long in head feather. The quality throughout the show was highly meritorious. The Cage Bird stewards were Messrs. Tugwell, Hobden, and Cole, all of whom rendered able assistance during judging. Again at Eastbourne, coincident with many other shows this season, British birds made an excellent display. Mr. Geo. Gardner made the awards. NOR. CL. YELL. (9): 1, Spinner, a rich coloured, thick-set bird, shapely and fine silky feather; 2, Wheeler, chubby, fine quality; 3, Kilby, lovely quality, rich colour; 4, Miles, hot colour; vhc, Miller. NOR. CL. BUFF (10): 1, 2 spls., Spinner, chubby, rich colour, well wound up; 2, Frost, close boxy feather, nice shape, bloomy; 3, Kilby, fine quality; 4, Mills; vhc, hc, Wheeler; c, Miss H. H. Keasley. NOR. A.O.V. WISHAW.

Annual Show of the Wishaw C.C. was held in Watson's Hall, November 16. The entries were 28 less than last year, owing to the backward season, but some of the finest specimens ever shown in Wishaw were entered. During the afternoon and evening the show was visited by a large number of fanciers and visitors, and Mr. Wm. Robertson, the energetic secretary, is to congratulated on the great success obtained, his arrangements being carried out with marked ability. SELBY.

Selby and Dis. held their fourteenth annual show in the Armoury, on Nov. 21. Mr John Hy Dixon, the secretary, worked very hard amongst the exhibits, looking after their welfare, and he was ably assisted by Messrs. Vallans, Sadler and Haigh. The quality of the exhibits was of the finest and they were about the best that have ever been staged at Selby. Messrs. Watts, Barrett, Booth Bros., Kemp and Son, Reed and Green put down some lovely Yorkshires, and in the Norwich section, Messrs. Heap, Harland, and Axe exhibited some most typical birds. Mr. W. Mandell, Bradford, judged, and his awards were well received.

MATLOCK.

The eighth annual exhibition was held Nov. 14th, in the Victoria Hall, Matlock Bank—a capital place for the purposes of a show. Entries were good, there being 64 in only 5 classes. The quality of the whole of the exhibits was excellent; in fact. It was said repeatedly that never was there seen a better lot of birds at Matlock. Norwich were a perfect picture, and the Yorkshires were not far behind in quality. The British Finch class was a grand success, there being some very strong competition here. The local class came up beyond all expectations in the way of variety; quality here too, was well up, and there were some splendid fanciers among the exhibitors. Much credit is due to the secretaries, Messrs. A. H. Slater and F. Turner, who had the arrangements well in hand, and to the stewards, who all worked hard and well. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged.

LOUGHBOROUGH.

Loughborough show, held November 23rd, was a complete failure, owing to the Cage Bird Union refusing to grant them a licence, because Burton-on-Trent show was being held on the same date. The Loughborough officials and fanciers could not understand this treatment, because one show is in Derbyshire and the other in Leicestershire. It kept all the fanciers around here and Leicester way from exhibiting at Longhborough, therefore they had to cancel seven classes. The Town Hall is a very good, well-lighted place for a show, and in the secretary, Mr. Frank Mee, the local fanciers have a very good official. Mr. George Lander (Leicester) judged all the classes that stood, and his awards were well received. YELL. YORKS. (7): 1, hc, Wall, grand length bird, full of quality; 2, Walsh, also well-drawn and good in length and quality, close up; 3, vhc, Foster, grand yellow hen, leading. FALKIRK.

The 19th Annual Show took place November 16 in the Oddfellows' Hall, when there were over 400 exhibits. The judges were Messrs. John McLay, Kirkintilloch, and Mr. J. Gardner, Bathgate, whose awards, after a hard day's work, seemed to give every satisfaction. Mr. Wm. Clubb, secretary, who was ably assisted by Mrs. Clubb, got through his duties in a most creditable manner, everything being done in a workmanlike style. The committee, who are all experienced hands, rendered every assistance. Mr. Hugh Moreland, the veteran Norwich fancier, who, by the way, is the originator of this society, was there doing yeoman service. The office-bearers consisted of the following:—President, Mr. Geo Davie; Vice-President, Mr. R. Reoule; sec., Mr. Wm. Clubb; Committee, Messrs. T. Wallace, M. Baird, A. Eadie, Hugh Moreland, H. Sharp, R. Dickson, Jos. Binnie and James Morris. The hall which has often been described—is one of the most suitable for a cage bird show, and was well lighted. The attendance was good, and from what we heard, this show is likely to prove a great success. Norwich classes were exceptionally large and some great winners were staged, as were also Borders. British and Hybrid classes also contained some good specimens.

BIDEFORD.

Bideford held their annual open show Nov. 20th in the Market Hall. The day was a miserable one, being very wet, cold and dark. There were plenty of stoves to keep the hall warm, but the light was not of the best, there being no top light, which made judging rather difficult. There was a good entry, and classes on the whole were well filled. The British were a feature of the show, some grand birds being staged, and put down in tip-top condition; notably Mr. Poole's Golden crested Wren and Black Cap, and Mr. Lock's winning Goldfinch, which held same position last year, and also first at Barnstaple. In the British class, for Goldfinch or Bullfinch there were two sets of winners. In the local classes, competition was very keen. Some real good birds were staged. Judging did not commence until late (nearly 3 o'clock), and as was only to be expected, grumbling was much in evidence among the local men. Mr. Sing is an ideal secretary, hard working and most obliging, and the committee is composed of genuine fanciers. Mr. G. Billett judged.

YORKS. (8): 1, vhc, Lashbrook and Sons, first yell., good length, grand quality, straight as an arrow, staged to perfection; 2, Gilling, another yell., very nice exhibit, good quality, just a wee bit slack about thighs; 3, res., Pincombe; third cinn. marked yell., a real gem, long and excelling in quality and style; vhc, Langmead. NOR. SUTTON COLDFIELD.

The first annual exhibition in connection with the Sutton Coldfield and Erdington Society was held on Nov. 20th and 21st, in the Masonic Hall, Sutton. The Cage bird section was staged in the Mayor's Parlour, which is a very nice room lighted by electricity and free from draught, being at the same time roomy and the ceiling very lofty. The exhibits were well staged and attracted a large number of visitors and local fanciers. Among the birds on view was a King bird of Paradise, exhibited by Mr. DeVon, of London. Its gorgeous plumage proved a great attraction. It was shown to perfection and was awarded the special for best bird in show. Mr. G. Lawrence's well-known Canary-Bullfinch Mule arrived at the show in a state bordering on collapse, and when judged was on this account only placed reserve. We saw this bird at Bromsgrove the day previous, when we remarked on its excellent condition and bloom. We are glad to say that towards evening the bird was almost itself again. Another exhibit in this class, a handsome Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid exhibited by Mr Tonks, was passed for being blind, much to the astonishment of the exhibitor, who was, we were assured, totally unaware of the fact, the bird having been in the money on previous occasions. A most unfortunate happening was an annoying blunder on the part of the printer, as, when the catalogues were delivered, the numbers were wrong, and proved to be quite useless in locating the owners of the various exhibits. With the able assistance of the chief steward, of the Cage bird section, we were able to arrive at a list of winners after a little delay. The capable and courteous secretary, Mr. Jones, under circumstances well calculated to upset anyone, came out of a trying ordeal with every credit. Mr. J. H. Brindley made his initial appearance as judge at an open show, and gave general satisfaction, taking much care and patience in making the awards. The Crest and Crestbred classes were amalgamated. Created pairs 25/-, were cancelled, Nor. and Yorks, 15/- Sell. were amalgamated and the A.O.V. for British Hard and Softbill were also cancelled.

Critique.

CREST OR C.B. (13): 1, 2, 3, Marshall, leader dark Crest, good body substance, crest of nice radiation and centre; 2, almost green crest, not quite so good in body as winner, crest feather denser, very fair droop and radiation; 3, green Crestbred, nice substance and lash, good entrance; 4, res, Memmott, heavily var. Crest, bonnet rather on small side; vhc, hc, Smith; c, Sturges. NOR. CL. ETC. YELL (7): 1, 2, 3, Davis, nice team, winner a big bird, lovely type. SALE OPEN O.S.

First annual members' old-bird show held Nov. 9th at the Sale Hotel. Entries totalled 303, this being highly creditable, seeing the society was only formed at the end of last February. Yorkshires were a choice collection, special for best Yorkie and best bird in show falling to Mr. Bleasdale's yellow hen. Norwich turned up in good numbers. Mr. Unwin won the Pearson Challenge Cup with four nominated birds, gaining four firsts. Borders were fairly numerous, and here Mr. Wardleworth won special for best. Good birds were shown in the British and Foreign classes. The duties of secretary were ably carried out by Mr. Geo. F. Hardcastle, he paying all prize-money, specials and point specials out to the successful exhibitors by 6.30 p.m. on the day of show. He was ably backed up by Mr. J. Irlam, the assistant secretary, by Mr. W. Thurston Buckley, the chairman, and Messrs. Ball (vice-president), J. Leigh, J. Gray, F. Field, H. Whitney, E. Bleasdale, W. Whalley, C. H. Smith, A. Taylor, E. Schofield, W. Fildes, and others. These gentlemen worked with a will, and everything passed off without a hitch. There was a grand array of specials, the principal winners of same being Messrs. J. Waters, most points in show, best green Border, most points in Borders, etc.; R. Unwin, challenge cup and spl. most points in Nor.; J. Lindsay, most points in Yorks.; S. Beaty, gold medal, runner-up for cup, spl. for best team of Brit., and spl. most points in For.; J. Irlam, best unfll. Nor. and best Nor. in amateur section; W. Whalley, best Nor. cock in novice classes; and W. Fildes, best Nor. hens, etc.

INVERNESS.

The twenty-seventh annual show was held 26th Nov. in the Music Hall, a fine room place in which to hold a fixture of this description, the light being very good in the daytime, the hall being brilliantly lit up by electricity in the evening. Its advantages were made the best use of by the hard-working and enthusiastic fanciers who compose the Inverness O.A. The newly-elected Provost, in a stirring speech, on behalf of the Cage-bird Hobby, declared the exhibition open to visitors at one o'clock. Mr. A. Urquhart, the secretary, and his assistant, Mr. K. Urquhart, played a large part in the carrying out of the work, and to their tact, courtesy, and desire to please everybody concerned was due the great success achieved. The entry was about the same as last year, but the quality throughout was far in advance of that of any previous fixture. The Scots Fancies, only four in two classes, were a great disappointment. How is it that this grand bird has fallen so far back in recent years? When we look back just a few years, recollections of good old fanciers come vividly before us, such as J. B. Falconer, T. Urquhart, J. Johnstone, T. Young, E. Todd, J. Duncon, H. Gibb and A. R. Langlands, all of whom in the days of yore exhibited each more than turned out at this fixture altogether. The Norwich came up well and of those with the red tickets it was difficult to single out any for special mention. British numbered about the same as last year and there were some deck-sweepers amongst them. The Yellow Wagtail exhibited by J. T. Nicholson, was indeed a stormer, grand colour, size, steady as a rock and put down with a masterly hand. The Magpie of Mr. Todd's was also a gem, not a feather out of place and shown as he knows how. The Siskin, shown by J. Law, some thought lucky in winning special for second best British; he is undoubtedly a good one and likely to be heard of later. CAGE BIRDS competition proved a great success and was keenly entered into; the best first was adjudged to be the Magpie of Mr. Todd, which well deserved the honour; the second went to W. and R. Duncan for their second prize Buff cock Norwich, a bird possessing good style and quality, but slightly uneven in colour. The third was captured by Mr. Milne, Arbroath, with his var. hen, a good one, though some are of opinion that it might be shorter in tail and flights. Mr. J. Sandison, Aberdeen, judged all Canaries, Mules and Goldfinches and gave entire satisfaction. Mr. C. Ross, Forres, here made his debut as a British bird judge and the way he spotted the winners left very little room for criticism.

The Canary Section.

SCOTS FANCY HEN (1): 1, W. and R. Duncan, buff, in good form, very fair shoulders and length of side. SELL., 20/- (3): 1, 3, Junner, yell., good size, lacks only in style, third nice specimen; 2, W. and R. Duncan, tkd. yell., should make a nice stock hen. YORKS. NON-FED (8): 1, 2, Anderson, first buff, grand, long bird, feather like wax, very typical, slightly rough at thighs and vent, second not quite the feather of his stable mate, but a good sized one; 3, hc, Lavin, third yell., nice colour, grand slim yell., like a cigar; c, Mackenzie, No. 1, some thought he had had at least an occasional smell at the pepper pot. BORD. CL., ETC., YELL. (5): 1, 3, Craig, former well shaped, neat and trim in rare bloom, latter very jaunty little fellow, feather in tail broken; 2, Simpson, another good one, inclined to cross wings, close up, not much between three; vhc, hc, Connochie. BUFF (6): 1, Simpson, good colour, on the large side, perhaps, but wins here; 2, 3, Craig, former nice colour and type, needs training to show cage, latter another well shaped nice one; vhc, bc, Connochie; c, Macleod Bros. A.O.C. (5): 1, 3, Connochie, first even-mkd., correct type, and A1 colour, really a good Border, wants washing, third a green, well drawn, little flat on top, but very good even colour, nice type for a green; 2, hc, Craig, second larger, rich colour; vhc, Simpson. NOR. UNFLI. (8): 1, Anderson, grand size for a youngster, plenty depth, nice type and carriage; 2, Milne, very promising bird, hardly through moult, but worth its place; 3, Thompson, fine size, needs some filling in at chest, yet good exhibit; vhc, hc, Stanford, both Crests will improve. CREST (10): A good class; 1, 2, Mackie, no getting away from this couple, first wins hands down, beautiful leafy crest, perfect centre and radiation, fine size of skull, second also good skulled one, nice frontal but lacks the radiation of winner, nice droop; 3, Stanford, smaller in skull nice oval shaped crest; vhc, Ross; hc, Smith; c, Mackenzie. CREST BRED (9): 1, Mackie, a gem, heavy variegated, wonderful cushion-shaped skull, great broad entrance, a bird to be proud of; 2, Paterson, clear, nice head and entrance, well shown, but beaten to-day; 3, Ross, good sized one, appeared little soft when taking notes; vhc, J. Mackenzie; hc, Smith; c, W. Mackenzie. NOR. CL., ETC., COCK, NON-FED (6): 1, Gordon, true Nor., grand type, short tail and flights, wins; 2, Macdonald, great size and quality, slightly browed, but worth its place; 3, Todd, another large one, hardly finished, lovely colour; vhc, Macmillan; hc, Miller; c, Mann. HEN (8): 1, Macdonald, fine shaped hen, good colour and quality, nice head, well placed; 2, Todd, not quite the size of winner, chubby, wants little handling; 3, Smith, nice bird, very fair neck and breast good; vhc, Stanford; hc, Miller; c, Macdonald. BUFF CK. (13): A good class; 1, Sarden, true Nor., grand quality, full chest; 2, Fraser, chubby, finely mealed, close up; 3, Maclean and Russell, another chubby one, only lacks in size; vhc, Gordon; hc, Paterson; c, Macdonald. HEN (8): 1, Fraser, good shape and feather, wants washing; 2, Anderson, fails only in type and size to winner, well put down; 3, Paterson, fine size and type, crosses wings little or might have gone one up; vhc Clark; hc, Macmillan; c, Falconer. VARGTD. COCK (7): 1, Paterson, grand deep chest, nice size for a yell, looking very fit, wins; 2, Mactavish, nice chubby one, good feather and colour; 3, Wattie, good type, rather leggy perhaps; vhc, Gorden; hc, Shearer; c, Wink. HEN (3): 1, Paterson, correct type, lovely colour and substance, wins; 2, Wattie, good colour, nice body; 3, Wink, small one, not quite in condition. CINN. (2): 1, Stanford, small, but very fine exhibit; 2, Stewart, fine type, shown in bad cage. COLOUR FED CINN: 1, Ewen and Anderson, wonderful sized and coloured one, type little obscured perhaps; 2, Todd, very typical, nice size and colour. YORKS. (4): 1, 2, Macdougall, first great sized buff, nice feather, good position; second yell., good colour, nice exhibit; 3, Gordon, good York, if properly shown, give him a wash Mr. G.; vhc, Brodie. NOR. CL. ETC., YELL. COCK (7): 1, Thompson, good type, colour and substance, nice tail and flights; 2, Clark, same remarks apply, fails only in condition to winner; 3, Anderson, good coloured chubby bird, nice quality, our choice; vhc, W. and R. Duncan; hc, Maclean and Russell; c, Paterson. HEN (6): 1, Maclean and Russell, correct type, nice colour, full head; 2, Thomson, very fair all over, close up; 3, Lumsden, nice bird, very fair colour; vhc, W. and R. Duncan; hc, Todd; c, Paterson. BUFF (6): 1, Anderson, grand quality, beautiful colour, nice head and neck, wins; 2, vhc, W. and R. Duncan, second good type, nice neck and head close up; 3, Paterson, large, lovely colour; hc, Lumsden; c, Maclean and Russell. HEN (4): 1, Thompson, grand size, correct type, nice head and neck, well mealed, pity it crosses wings little; 2, Anderson, good type and size, tail broken; 3, Paterson, nice type, well mealed, in fine order; vhc, Todd. VARIEG. COCK (6): 1, Thompson, a deck sweeper, rare colour, head, neck, and chest, will take some beating; 2, hc, Paterson, second grand shaped one, good substance; 3, Gorden, beautiful colour and type, rather long tail perhaps; vhc, Mackie; c, Maclean and Russell. HEN (7): 1, Thompson, correct type, well up in size, fairly rich colour, wants a wash; 2, Maclean and Russell, good size, nice colour and condition, some preferred; 3, Milne, make good stock bird; vhc, c, Paterson; hc, Clark.

Mules, British and Foreign.

MULE CL. CK. (4): 1, Bruce, very light Goldie-Can., nice size, little pale in colour; 2, Gavin, Goldie-Canary, another very light one, good colour, very unsteady, or would have won; 3, Mackenzie, nice Linnet-Canary, beaten here. DARK (6): 1, Lumsden, Linnet-Canary, nice size and colour in fine condition; 2, McBean, Siskin-Canary, rare size for this cross and good colour, wants some handling; 3, Mackenzie, Goldie-Canary, small for a buff, but very good colour; vhc, Cumming; hc, Murphy. GOLDFINCH (4): 1, Stanford, nice Goldie, well coloured and defined, square blaze, nicely tanned, in full plumage; 2, Durward, good blaze and well mooned, rather light in tanning, house-moulted; 3, Macdougall, dark and undefined in blaze, good buttons, very unsteady, when taking notes; vhc, Mackenzie. SELL., 10/- (8): 1, hc, R. Duncan, big bouncing Nor., great size, nice colour, cheap; 2, Milne, very typical Nor., nicely mealed; 3, Smith, clear Crest; vhc, c, Todd. BULLFINCH (9): 1, Law, a gem, beautiful breast colour, dense, well defined cap, fine slate coloured back, perfectly marked wings, the right size, not too big to make one suspicious of his nationality and by no means too small, wins and something in hand; 2, Ross; we could not locate the whereabouts of this "Bullie"; 3, Macleod Bros., very large one, nice cap and whites fails only in breast colour and bloom; vhc, Snowie; hc, Martin; c, Cumming. SISKIN, ETC. (13): A good class; 1, Law, Siskin, nice sized and shaped one, grand colour, well put down, no bib; 2, Smith, Siskin, splendid exhibit, large, fairly well shaped, nicely defined bib, in rare bloom, wants flights on right wing or might have won; 3, Nicholson, nicely marked Redpoll, good sized one in fine bloom; vhc, Macrae; hc, Macpherson; c, Ross. LINNET, ETC (3): 1, Law, nice Lintie in rare form, good pencilling, grand deep brown wings, perfect whites, wins; 2, Macdougall, nice size and bloom, excels in pencilling; 3, Cumming, steady as a rock, trifle light on breast perhaps. GREENFINCH (4): 1, Ewen and Anderson, grandly shaped Greenie in fine form, beautiful wing and tail bars and well up in size, presumably a yellow, but "anight was falling when taking notes; 2, W. and R. Duncan, another nice all-round Greenie, fine colour and size; 3, Smith, same remarks apply, somewhat unsteady; vhc, Gavin. A.O.S. LARGE: 1, Todd, gem of a Magpie, not a feather out of place, nicely marked, great size and put down like a new pin, wins comfortably; 2, Brands, Blackbird, dense colour, nice size, perhaps a little pale in cere and bill, steady; 2, Gavin, a tip-top Bramble, wonderful size and colour, wrong classed. SMALL (7): 1, Nicholson, yell., Wagtail in A1 form, finger tame, best we have seen for some time; 2, Todd, Yellowhammer, steady as a rock, dense markings, rare, bloom, good second; 3, Anderson, Bramble, good colour and size; vhc, Gavin; hc, Duncan; c, Mackenzie. BRIT. SELL. (5): 1, 3, Todd, former pretty Siskin, in good trim, latter sweet Bramble; 2, Smith, Greenie, rather small, but in good form and well shown. PARROTS (3): 1, Fotheringham, yell. fronted Amazon, big fellow, in good condition, a talker we heard; 3, Anderson, Roseate Cockatoo, large one, looking well. A.O.S. FOR. (2): 1, Bruce, Black headed Gouldian, a perfect picture, but wants part of outer toe of right foot; 2, Clarke, Siberian Bullie, great size, fails only in colour. AVIARY: 1, Duncan, beautiful selection, all in good condition, some nice Nor. amongst them. METROPOLITAN ASSOCIATION C.M. AND H.B.

First annual show held November 13th at headquarters, The "Crown" Hotel, Lavender Hill, S.W. The room is an ideal one for show purposes. The birds, which were staged down one side in three tiers, looked very cosy and comfortable, there being plenty of light both in daytime and at night. Entries were not large in number, but the quality was extra good throughout. In the Champion Nor., Mr. F. J. Martin carried all before him with a very fine team, winning spl. for best unflighted bird. In the Champion Yorks, Mr. C. Mabey did likewise. In the novice sections, the principal winners were Norwich Mr. W. Sawyer, and Yorks, Mr. A. J. Head. The committee consists of Messrs. W. McGregor, F. J. Martin, C. Pick and W. Sawyer, and all worked with a will and had everything spick and span. Mr. A. J. Head makes an excellent secretary. There was a good attendance, and no doubt the Society's first venture will prove a success. Mr. T. Heath judged, and his awards gave satisfaction.

HASTINGS.

The ninth annual show of the Hastings C.B.S. was held November 19th and 20th in the Central Hall, a place well adapted for a bird show, as it is very free from draughts and centrally situated. Entries totalled 470, being an excess of 90 over any previous show. The quality was first-class almost throughout the show, many grand birds being staged in the open Nor. and Yorks. classes. Birds of great merit were to be found in the classes devoted to members. Local breeders have certainly feather and quality in their Nor., and well shaped bodies; they should be able to produce birds that will give a good account of themselves. Mr. Warr staged a rare team of Yorks. In the members' classes, and succeeded in capturing most of the firsts. The exhibits were nicely staged, and received the best of care and attention from a good body of genuine and most enthusiastic fanciers, who seemed to vie with each other in their endeavours to make the show a success. Mr. Mabey had the misfortune of his team of Yorks., arriving at the show too late for judging, although we heard that they were dispatched in good time. Messrs. Godden make a pair of thoroughly hard working and courteous hon. secs., and they had arrangements well in hand. Everything passed off without a hitch of any kind. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

The Canary Section.

With Some Answers by Expert Breeders and Exhibitors.

The list of questions is given on page 398 of last week's number.

Mr. R. Halliday replies:—

(1) Purchase birds in pairs from a well-known and reliable breeder of winning Yorkshires.

(2) Yes, if you have no birds to mate up to those which are unrelated; if you have several such you will not need fresh blood.

(3) Yes, both ways, if right birds are used.

(4) In feather only.

(5) Do not mind which, provided they mate in other points.

(6) Get to know what your hens prefer, and act accordingly. Some hens feed better with the cock helping, others not so well.

(7) No; but I use one hen and one cock when birds are not quite so long as I like.

(8) Egg food all the time; crushed rape seed after young are taken from hen.

(9) Early part.

(10) In their first two seasons.

(11) Cannot say. I prefer them to remain under hen until hatched out.

(12) Cannot account for, but think great cleanliness would prevent them getting anything to cause the ailment.

(13) Constant handling in show cage, so that they become as fearless in it as in the old.

(14) No hard and fast rule; they come both ways.

(15) Yes.

(16) Best I know.

(17) An unfed would stand little chance against a level-coloured (fed) bird if equal in all other respects.

(18) Cannot say; prefer other material.

Mr. E. Radley replies:—

(1) Go to the best and most reliable breeder of the day and purchase three pairs of the best properly-matched birds he will part with.

(2) No; it is useless to introduce fresh blood until you understand the strain of your birds.

(3) No.

(4) Difference is in feather only.

(5) In my opinion there is no difference.

(6) No; she would not be so liable to give up sitting.

(7) Yes; with one cock and one hen you get stronger young.

(8) Fresh egg and bread, German rape soaked 24 hours in cold water, a little maw seed, all mixed; crushed mixed seed when five weeks old.

(9) In the early part.

(10) In the second and third years.

(11) 16 days is my longest experience.

(12) Eating more seed than they can digest. Remedy: Milk sop and a few drops of whisky and glycerine in drinking water. Use insect powder.

(13) Hang show cage in front of them, handle often, and set them in rows on table with cards cut, so that they must stretch to look over.

(16) It is correct.

(17) Should take 10 points preference.

(18) Too many.

Mr. S. Drake replies:—

(1) Should not advise going to a deck sweeper for his birds, but to a breeder who pops in with a winner now and again, as these are the men who supply the deck sweepers. An honest breeder will give the beginner best instruction and best value. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred show birds do not breed show birds. So it is necessary to go where they are bred, as is done by the large exhibitors in Yorkshire. Should advise pairing a small, tidy yellow hen, a lot too small for the show bench, but with a bit of real breed in her, to a good, long upstanding Buff cock, well on the leg and of good feather, but too large for bench. These can easily be had of nice feather if large.

(2) Stick to your own birds if you have plenty, and always pair best to best. If you have only one pair you must introduce new blood the following season, as they will be too near akin to pair. I believe in in-breeding, but no nearer than cousins. By doing this, if you have two good birds related, and as near perfection as possible, they will breed to line; that is, like will produce like fairly often. You can pair the following year to a bird not related, and they will not depart much, if any, from the way they were bred before. Do not run away with the idea that you will breed show birds in every nest, because you will not, but you are getting nearer to perfection by so breeding.

(3) An advantage is to be gained by this method, but it is necessary to know the reason why done before such advantages can be secured. If birds are put together any way, disappointment must be expected. I know some double Buff, feathers like satin, which lay close as wax, and shine like silk.

(4) It is my impression that double yellows deteriorate both in bone and feather, but with double Buffs size can be gained; only one needs to know when and where to do it. From double yellow one gets, as a rule, very harsh feather, but a good Buff bred by this method is a bird to be valued.

(5) I prefer nice, tidy yellow hens, as you get type and quality of feather. I like breed on the hen side. In the breeding room of an old pro. exhibitor, whom I know, I don't think a hen above 5½ inches can be found. If pairing up Norwich I have the hen buff and the cock yellow. From two double buff hens and yellow cocks I have reared 11 young, 10 of which are yellows.

(6) I let my cocks stay all along unless I want to try one with another hen, or unless he annoys his mate. The cock seldom fails to assist hen to feed the young, which, in my opinion, are made in the nest.

(7) No, but I do not practice it myself for reasons given above.

(8) Have given full details in my lecture before the Manchester Society, report appearing in CAGE BIRDS of March 17th and 24th.

(9) In the early part, as the birds are then in pink of condition.

(10) I like a two-year-old cock to a young hen; a good pair of birds will breed excellent specimens up to four or five years.

(11) In March when it is cold. They will keep longer than in July, when the egg will begin to incubate immediately laid, and at a certain stage will rot if not sat on. I do not advise keeping eggs longer than three or four days in hot weather; in cold they will keep a week, if turned daily.

(12) Have treated subject fully in the lecture referred to above.

(13) From five weeks old, constantly running them into show cage, and keep them there for a day now and again.

(14) Yes, if the stock is line bred. If not, you have no sound foundation, and will breed neither type nor quality. Always bear this in mind—stamp the type in stock first; quality will follow, and you can easily get size.

(15) Yes. Have bred a four-pointed hen myself this season, and many very nice specimens in the past, but as shows nowadays do not provide classes, such birds do not pay for the trouble they give. Halifax, until a year or two ago, made these classes, but they were always failures. A perfectly marked bird is very rare, but it is a class that is faked a lot. I could fill a book with rare tales of even-marked birds.

(16) It is my impression that the standard is undergoing slight alterations, or, rather, the block of the bird is. A committee has had this under consideration for some time, and, I believe, are getting one as near perfection as possible.

(17) No; if a bird is equal in every respect except colour, it should stand equal chances with a coloured bird.

(18) A most difficult question. Some people would take half as long again as others. I have bred the first cross Belgian, and a novice could trace no sign whatever; but sometimes signs will show for generations. It is here that line breeding must be departed from until the required type is obtained, and much discretion must be used. It is impossible in a short space to give details in such a way as to make them understood.

Variations in Birds.

By F. FINN, B.A., F.Z.S.

Only recently, Mr. Seth Smith has shown that the Yellow-rumped Finch of Australia shows in some cases a decided tendency to turn into the Chestnut-breasted Finch.

Structural Variations.

In addition to variation in colour we have also to consider structural variations, though these are very much rarer. We are, however, familiar with the slender Yorkshires and chubby Norwich type in Canaries and wild Finches, and this probably is very widely distributed. In the Pekin Robin, which is generally of a very chubby type, I have occasionally noted very slender and beautiful specimens. If this bird would only breed in captivity and were taken up by the Fancy, I doubt not we should have a breed of Yorkshire Pekins. The shape of the beak is a structural point in which variation is familiar, especially in the case of the Goldfinch, where you have all noticed the somewhat Roman-nosed tendency shown in some Siberian cocks. This variation reaches its maximum in the Reed-Bunting, of which there is in some localities a race with a bill almost like that of a Bullfinch, yet it seems to grade into the ordinary kind with the typical Bunting's bill. It is easy to see how variations of this kind may be of advantage to their possessors and thus how the form of the beak might become fixed under certain circumstances. I have seen the head of a Rook, with a prolonged and slender bill, very like a Chough's, and there is a skull of a very long-billed Starling in the British Museum.

A very remarkable variation is that which sometimes occurs in the common Pigeon, which is at times partially web-footed. I have only once seen such a specimen myself, but of late years quite a number have been reported. The character is not, I believe, usually inherited, but should anyone desire it, I have no doubt that by selection a race of web-footed Pigeons could be perpetuated. It is easy to see how this variation might be useful. The Pigeon, although in no way a water-bird, will sometimes alight on water to drink when the element is not easy of access from the shore. The web-footed specimen ought to have a considerable advantage when starting again. It is possible that in this way water-fowl became web-footed. No doubt when their ancestors first took to swimming they had no web to their feet, as is still the case with the common Moor-hen.

Propagation of Variations.

This brings us to the subject of the propagation of variations. The first appearance of the yellow or buff Canary is, of course, lost in mystery: all we know is that the Canary, when first mentioned in Natural History literature, was a green bird, and we do not know whether the yellow colour arose suddenly or whether it was produced by working from pied birds; but as to colour breeding in Canaries, you all know much more than I do, and I merely wish here to give a few hints as to the possible production or re-production of light varieties in other birds. Attempts to do this have usually ended in disappointment. Some years ago Mr. C. Swailes recorded that he had tried to produce light coloured Redpolls by pairing and breeding from white and cinnamon ones, but could never get anything different from the normal form. I had a similar experience myself in Calcutta. I once procured, at about the same time, a cinnamon cock Sparrow and a white hen; these I gave to a friend, who had an aviary, and the birds bred there, but the one young one produced was a dis-appointment, as it was hardly lighter than an ordinary common Sparrow.

In connection with this subject, however, I would here direct your attention to Mendel's "Law of Heredity." According to this, when you cross a normal form with its variety, such as a grey with a white mouse, the offspring will all be of a normal colour. If, however, these be crossed among themselves you will get a white form again in the proportion of one to every three coloured specimens, and if these whites be bred again between themselves they will infallibly produce whites in their turn. It is therefore expedient, if, when crossing a coloured bird with an Albino one, the results become coloured, to retain these specimens of the second generation with particular care, and try what they will produce when bred in their turn. Sometimes, of course, by good luck, the results may turn out the other way and the white bird is dominant, as it is called, in which case the problem is very much easier. White or light colours must be very easily bred in some cases. We have white varieties of all our poultry, and among Cage Birds, in the Java Sparrow, Bengalee and domestic Dove; while in addition to the yellow Canaries, of late years, as you all know, yellow Budgerigars have been raised. These probably appeared suddenly as pied and pale Budgerigars are almost unknown.

To show how important it is always to breed from varieties if possible, I may mention that the only two blue Budgerigars ever bred were produced from yellow parents, which is not at all what one would expect. A whole breed of white wild ducks was also recently raised from two white "sports."

Jonque and Mealy.

The distinction between Buff and Jonque cage birds is familiar to all of you. It is most conspicuous and best known in Canaries. Mr. G. E. Weston has pointed out that it occurs in British Finches generally, and I have myself observed it in groups remote from these. Thus the Grey-headed Porphyrio, a large blue Moorhen, common in India, is usually decidedly mealy in colouration, but a Jonque form of it occurs—if one may apply such a term to a blue bird—in which the mealy edgings of the feathers are absent, so that even the grey head which gives the species its name is not to be seen in such examples. The same thing occurs in the black Swan, which is never quite black, but in some of which the grey edges to the feathers are much more noticeable than in others. In a pair of these birds I recently observed, the male was rather mealy and the female decidedly black. Mealy birds have, as everybody knows, a fuller covering of feather and thus furnish an explanation of the tropical forms of widely-ranging species. They are smaller and richer in colour than those found in temperate climates, the more fully feathered though duller-coloured birds being better fitted to stand the cold, whilst it is the brighter but thinner-plumaged ones which are more at home in a hot climate. It is therefore quite easy to see how local races arise. In some cases the two forms are found existing side by side, in others, circumstances favour the almost exclusive production of one or the other variety. The reddish and grey varieties found in Owls possibly are Jonque and mealy types.

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., etc.

Adult male: Upper surface, cinnamon-red, wash with grey on the neck and upper back; lesser wing coverts, cinnamon-red; middle and greater coverts and quills, black, the former edged with white and the two latter with brown; tail feathers, black, edged with rufous; crown, black; sides of neck and lower half of cheeks, white; ear coverts, lores, upper half of cheeks, throat and upper breast, black; remainder of under surface, dull white, washed with grey on sides of body; beak, black; legs and feet, dark brown. Total length, 6ins.; tail, 2½ins.

Adult female: Duller than the male; crown of head, sides of face, and throat, dusky; breast and abdomen, whitish-buff. Total length, 5⅝ins.; tail, 2¼ins. Habitat: South Africa, extending to the Transvaal on the east, and to Benguela on the west.

The Grey-Headed Sparrow (Passer diffusus).—A pretty species which may be readily recognised by its grey head, pale moustachial streak, ruddy brown wings, white throat, and dull white abodmen. Total length, 6ins.; tail, 2¼ins. Habitat: Ranges over the whole of S. Africa, and also in W. Africa, from Senegambia to the Niger region.

Swainson's Sparrow (Passer swainsoni).—Larger than the preceding species (diffusus), but similar, though having the upper surface darker brown; rump, bright chestnut; under surface, ashy-grey, lighter on the throat and abdomen. Total length, 6½ins.; tail, 2⅛ins. Habitat: According to British Museum catalogue, Vol. xii., from Bogos Land and Abyssinia to the Zanzibar district in East Africa.

The Rufous-Backed Sparrow (Passer pyrrhonotus).—A handsome species, local to Sindh, very seldom to be obtained.

Adult male: Head and ear coverts, grey; eye streak, chestnut; upper surface, ruddy chestnut, with dark centres to the feathers of the back; wings and tail, dusky, with paler edges; throat, black; under surface, whitish-brown. Total length, 5ins.; tail, 2ins.

Adult female: Differs from the male in being altogether browner, lacks the ruddy back and black throat of the male.

The Yellow-Necked Sparrow (Passer flavicollis) —A pretty Indian species ranging over the greater part of India, where it frequents groves, avenues and gardens. It has a similar note to P. domesticus, and nests in holes in trees. The eggs are greenish-white, thickly blotched and streaked with purplish-brown.

Adult male: The upper surface is principally ashy-brown; below, pale brownish-white; shoulders and lesser wing coverts, rich chestnut; there are two bars across the wings, formed by the white tips of the coverts; beak, black; legs and feet, brown. Total length, 5½ins.; tail, 2ins.

The Abyssinian Golden Sparrow (Passer luteus).—This really fine species calls for a more lengthy description, as it is often to be obtained and fairly ready to nest in captivity, though, so far, I think, young have only twice been reared in this country. A pair I possessed for some months made themselves quite at home in my aviary; built the usual untidy nest in a Hartz travelling cage, and steadily sat; unfortunately, just before hatching was due, I carelessly left a flap open in the aviary and I lost these and others before their absence was noticed; the three eggs left behind were fertile and almost due to hatch. The birds were amiable, rather noisy, and very fond of turning out the contents of the seed pan. A well-coloured cock is a fine fellow indeed, some individuals have the whole of the head, neck and breast, rich canary-yellow.

Adult male: Above, chestnut; rump sulphur yellow; the wing feathers have dark centres and are edged and tipped with yellowish-white; head, neck, side of face, and the whole of the under surface, sulphur yellow, merging into whitish on the lower abdomen and ventral region; thighs dusky. Total length, 5ins.; tail, 2ins.

Adult female: Entirely lacks the brilliant plumage of the male; she is brown above, more or less washed with chestnut, the wing feathers having dark centres and light edgings; head and neck, pale sandy-brown; sides of face, light ashy; remainder of under surface, pale whitish-brown tinged with yellowish. This species is very variable as to the intensity of the yellow colouring, some individuals equalling the rich hues of a Norwich Canary; others decidedly of a whitish sulphur yellow. Habitat: It ranges over North-East Africa.

The Arabian Golden Sparrow (Passer euchlorus).—This is a closely allied species, much richer in colouring than P. luteus being almost entirely rich yellow. Its range is confined to Arabia.

Adult male: General colour, rich yellow; greater coverts, white, with outer webs yellowish; primaries and quills, blackish, with white outer edges; tail feathers, blackish, edged with pale yellowish-brown; cheeks, whitish-yellow. Total length, 4½ins.; tail, 2ins.

Adult female: Upper surface, ashy-brown, more or less suffused with yellow; wing feathers, blackish, mostly with darker centres and ashy edgings; under surface, yellowish-white, more yellow on the fore-neck and breast.

The Alario Finch (Alario alario). — This bird is also known to the Boers as the Mountain Canary. Although clad in sombre raiment, the Alario Finch is yet a pretty bird, but its tameness and sweet song are its chief attractions. A healthy bird is an almost incessant songster. It does not appear to object to captivity, and as it soon becomes quite "chummy," it is an ideal cage or aviary bird. It crosses very readily with the Canary, but it cannot be said that the progeny are handsome birds. Mr. Fillmer bred this species in 1896, making use of an open Canary nest box, building therein a beautiful little structure of hay and lining it with hair; incubation lasted 12 or 13 days; two young were hatched, which left the nest when about a fortnight old, but were notable to fly for several days. They were reared on soft food, seed, green food, considerable quantities of chickweed and lettuce being eaten. The young birds resembled the adult hen, but were greyer and more speckled. I have found this bird to do well on a dietary of canary, rape, hemp, paddy rice and millet, with green food; they also take a little of the fruit and soft food supplied for there fellow captives.

Adult male: Bears a strong resemblance to the Three-coloured Mannikin as to its plumage; head, throat, fore-chest and a streak down each side of breast, black; remainder of under surface, buffish-white; upper surface and tail, ruddy-chestnut; quills, black; beak, brownish-grey; legs and feet, dark grey. Total length, 4½ins.; tail, 1⅞ins.

Adult female: Differs materially from the male, is a much duller and plainer bird. The upper surface is brown, streaked with dusky; she lacks the black head, throat and side streak of the male, and her breast and abdomen are pale brown, with darker markings on the throat and breast.

The Green Singing Finch (Serinus icterus)*.—This beautiful Southern and Western African bird resembles the English Siskin, as to form, size and markings, but is richer in colour and slimmer built; it is fully as active and entertaining among the branches as our native Tits.

The adult male is greenish above, striated with black, merging into pure yellow on the rump; upper tail coverts, dusky with yellow margins; lesser wing coverts, greenish-yellow; remaining coverts and quills and tail, black, and blackish edged with yellow, tail feathers tipped with light-grey; crown green, with blackish striations; lores and ear-coverts, black; forehead, eye streaks, and cheeks, yellow; under surface, bright yellow, separated from the cheeks by a broad streak of black; beak, light horn colour; legs and feet dusky-brown. Total length, 4 2-5 inches; tail, 1¾ inches.

Adult female: Similar, but slightly duller in colour; browner on the upper surface, and with a small white spot on the chin; for all that, these distinctions in many pairs are infinitesimal, and not apparent in many individuals unless the birds are handled. It is also known as the Eastern Yellow Seed-eater. These birds are hardy and enduring, though there are losses in acclimatising, but, once over the transition period, they may be considered good for four, five, or six years. They are very attractive and pleasing, with a good power of song and fully capable of holding their own in any company. They will not tolerate any other species of Serin when breeding.

*I have not followed Captain Shelley, who insists on butyraceus as the correct name for this species, but have adhered to the nomenclature of the British Museum Catalogue.

STRAY NOTES ABOUT MULE BREEDING.

By Claude St. John.

Wintering Muling Birds.

There is often a difficulty in carrying out the stereotyped advice to run Finches intended for muling with Canary hens during the winter months, for the simple reason that many of the best Finches, which one naturally wishes to breed with, are wanted for certain shows at intervals during the season. The mere separation to show for a few days at a time is no real detriment to the object of keeping them together, but it does not always add to the Finch's steadiness to take him from, say, a large flight cage and put him in a show cage for a day or two. On the contrary, many Finches I know are detestably wild when so treated. In the show cage they bang about in a way that would put many a fresh-caught bird to shame.

To Show or Not to Show.

This should not be a troublesome question in the case of moderate specimens, as only really good ones need be thought of for showing; and for all the rest of more than average quality, if likely to be required for show, I would prefer keeping them in a single cage (nearly corresponding with the ordinary show cage) until the end of the season. Then the change from one cage to another would have no effect on them, and they would always be as steady as it was their nature to be when required for any show, and they could still be kept on good terms with their future partners by hanging the cages side by side, or even hanging the Finch's cage nursery-fashion on the front of the flight.

Helps to Match-Making.

There can be no doubt that the method of keeping the Finches and Canaries together through the winter helps to make matches amongst them in the spring, especially in the case of Goldfinches, Siskins, and Greenfinches. Linnets are far more tractable and it is no uncommon thing for a comparatively fresh-caught bird to mate successfully with a Canary with little or no previous opportunities for forming an acquaintance. When uncommon mules are to be tried for, I should as far as possible endeavour to run the parents together during the winter. The plan has other decided advantages in its favour, besides making the birds familiar with each other, not the least of which is that both birds are gradually accustomed to the same class of food and treatment long before the breeding season arrives, and then what sometimes happens to be a real obstacle to breeding uncommon or rare varieties of mules is avoided.

About Adjusting the Diet.

Although most breeders recognise the necessity for some adjustment of the diet to suit both sides in mule-breeding, it is not infrequently treated in a one-sided manner, by endeavouring to wean the Finch on to a diet which is most suitable for the Canary. Now, the Canary is a far more accommodating creature in this respect than any of the Finches, and if one made an effort to bring a hen Canary on to a diet resembling the natural food of the Finch, it would be found a much easier matter than it is to bring a Finch on to the orthodox diet of a Canary and still retain its health and full breeding vigour. Why should not the Canary be accustomed to something approaching the Finch's natural food, instead of the latter having to go all the way in the opposite direction? Far better strike a happy medium and let the birds meet each other half-way in the matter of diet. The Canary would probably gain by such an adjustment; the Finch would lose but little, or perhaps nothing at all; and the breeder would gain in every way, in the ease with which the birds would be managed, the condition of the birds, and in results from the breeding cages.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

Doings of the Chaffinches.

During the past month the aspect of the country has entirely changed. It has been a splendid autumn, and the glorious colouring of the foliage has been all that one could desire. Gradually the leaves have fallen, until now the bare branches of the fine old elms cut sharply against the wintry sky. With the beech it is different: the long pointed buds and the husks of the nuts prevent the beech woods having quite so bare an appearance. Wherever these trees grow the gay coloured Chaffinches are always to be found, for this year the harvest is fairly abundant. Consequently the bachelor birds, as they are sometimes called, are numerous. Yearly their numbers are regulated by the beech mast crop. Three seasons ago it was something exceptional; the branches were weighted down with the fruit, and some of the beech woods were consequently alive with feathered creatures; the flocks of Chaffinches were of enormous size. This year we do not appear to have exceptionally big gatherings, but, nevertheless, the birds are abundant, and some of them are of splendid colour. One we saw recently was, at the first glance, mistaken for a Robin, so bright and ruddy was his colouring. The breast colour of the Chaffinch is often deceiving; with the full blaze of daylight upon it, it sometimes appears pale and like that of a very ordinary specimen, but with a change of position comes an extraordinary change of colour. The light catches it at a different angle, and it is then that we see how beautiful this common bird really is. Upon closer examination the breast feathers appear to be edged with a pale silvery sheen. It is in reality the high condition and quality of plumage, which in certain lights shows irredescent, in the same manner as the neck feathers of the Starling or wing of the Magpie. Very few of our perching birds undergo greater change of plumage during the year than does this gay bird. The top of the head or cap, as it is called, has only the faintest trace of the rich blue we shall see in the spring; the brown of the back is not so dark, neither the green at the root of the tail. We are told that this change of plumage occurs without the loss of a single feather, that it is only the edges that get rubbed off as the spring advances. This may be so, but to me it has more the appearance of a change in colouring caused by the extra richness of blood, incidental to the healthy condition necessary to the fulfillment of the wild birds' duty during the pairing season.

An Unwilling Favourite.

The favourite foster-parent of the Cuckoo is undoubtedly the Meadow Pipit, the Hedge Sparrow making a good second.

A Note on the Swift.

It has been stated by many that the common Swift is unable to rise from the ground, but experiments prove that the bird can fly away directly it is put down. If the hand is held over it for a short time the muscles become cramped, and it is then only able to crawl in a floundering manner.

Ravens and Moles.

In Yarrell's "Book of British Birds," the author mentions a pair of Ravens that lived almost exclusively upon moles. He had special facilities for examination of the cast up pellets of bone and fur, consequently we cannot doubt the assertion. One would like to have determined the way in which the birds were able to obtain their prey, for the mole seldom gets above ground, and then chiefly after dark. These rodents are most destructive, and since Hawks, Owls, Ravens, etc., have been so much persecuted, they have in some places increased enormously.

The Death of a Swan.

A young swan has been picked up in the street at Devizes, Wilts, having its neck broken. It came in contact with the telephone wire, which it broke with the force of its flight. Some of these big birds, when in full flight, must hit with tremendous force anything with which they come into contact. I have seen a wounded Pheasant crash through the underwood, snapping the branch off like rotten wood. A Pheasant flies fast, and, being a weighty bird, comes to the ground with a thud when hit. I have known a flock of wild fowl to go clean through a short net, although the nets are strongly made, so much so that a single bird seldom gets away, but a flock of a dozen or so flying fast would require a good strong net to stop them.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor for the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers. In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words, MINIMUM Fourpence. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason or so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

to catch birds unless you get proper appliances to work with. All goods sold by me are made by men who are not only practical men, but experienced bird catchers as well, so that they thoroughly understand what is required for the purpose, and neither trouble nor expense is spared to obtain best possible results. I am supplying all the leading professional catchers throughout the kingdom, and many of the Colonies, who, before giving me a trial thought it impossible to get workable articles from an advertisement. I don't ask anyone to purchase from me unless they first try and are satisfied with the goods I send them, and I always refund money in full if purchaser is dissatisfied. For some months last season I publicly asked anyone to have any of my appliances on approval, and a similar article from any other advertiser, and if mine was not far better value at a lower price, they were at liberty to break my articles up, and I would return every penny of their purchase money. Not one article was ever smashed up, nor was I asked to refund money in any single case, thus proving the truth of my statements. I believe in making a genuine article at a price within the reach of every working man, and do not ask for exorbitant profits, hence the low prices and high quality of my goods. Clap nets, made from genuine thread, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair; 4 yards, 5/-; 5 yards, 6/-; 6 yards, 7/-; 7 yards, 8/-; 8 yards, 9/-; 9 yards, 10/-; 10 yards, 11/-; per pair; all have two nets to the pair, and are 5 feet 6 inches deep, with 4 feet fly, and fitted complete with pegs, lines, stave poles, and everything ready for immediate use. Bat folding Sparrow nets for stacks, ivy hedges, etc., fitted on 19 feet bamboo poles, 6/6 pair, complete. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches long, 1/- each; 18 inches long, 9d. each. These net traps are by far the largest and most simply worked on the market, and are guaranteed to catch and hold any bird, from Wren to Rook, without injury. Loose netting, as used in all my nets, made from ¾ inch mesh, genuine thread, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; 12 feet deep, 5d. yard, post free. This netting is very fine, and made specially for bird nets, and must not be confused with the thick, American cotton netting now being sold as bird netting. Send for sample, and compare it with others. Single trap cages, 6d. each; double ditto, 10d. and 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; all have separate compartment for call bird, in addition to traps. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, work automatically, and guaranteed to reset immediately a bird is caught, without any attention whatever, 1/6 each. Real Japanese birdlime, absolutely strongest made guaranteed to hold a Hawk, will catch birds clean, and bold, even in rain, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6, sample box 3d., all post free. Every up-to-date appliance required by catchers kept in stock. Send stamp for full list and sample netting. Cages! Cages!! Cages!!! Goldfinch or Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Lark runner cages, 6d., 8d., 10d., and 1/- each; 3/6, 4/6, 6/- and 7/6 dozen. Round or square-topped calling cages, 3d. each; 2/6 dozen. Blackbird or Thrush cages, 2/6, 3/- each. Bow-fronted Lark cages, 2/- and 2/6 each. Singing box cages, 10d., 1/- and 1/3 each; 8/6, 10/6, and 12/- dozen. All brass drawing-room Canary cages, from 3/6 to 25/- each. Parrot cages, 4/- to £10 each. Dealers please send stamp for sizes and trade price of all cages, it will pay you. Penny tin drinkers, 6d. dozen; 6 dozen 2/3, or gross 4/-. Zinc drinking same size, 9d. dozen, 6 dozen 3/6, or a gross 6/-. Black enamelled drinkers for show cages, 1/- dozen, post free. Halfpenny tin drinkers, three dozen 10d., or 3/- gross. Few more testimonials given below of recent dates. "3, Box Gardens, Wellingborough. November 13th. Sir,—Please send ¼ lime. The netting I bought from you last year is as good as ever. Yours F. Marriott." "7, Cripplegate Cottages, Uckfield. November 18th. Sir,—Received netting, and am very pleased with it. Please send 6 yards more. Yours, F. Wren." "33, The Terrace, East Haddow. November 18th. Sir,—Received cages quite safe, and am well satisfied. Please send pair clap nets. Yours, R. Pudner." "7, Wimbolt-st., Great Moor, Stockport. Sir,—Please send another 24 yards netting. I am sure there could not be better, as it is both the finest thread and the strongest netting I ever used, and I have had a lot of different kinds. Yours, A. Pennor." "158, Kew-rd., Birkdale Sir.—Received birdlime all right, and was very pleased with it. Please send following netting. Yours, S. Whitehead." "Llandrindod Wells Sir,—Please send following netting. That I had from you last year is as good as ever, and well worth the price. Yours, J. Burton." "Myrtle Cottage, Harboro' Park, Rushden. Sir,—Please send following. In August I had some netting and birdlime from you, and am more than pleased with it, and the lime is best I ever used. Yours, J. Robinson." "41 Church-st., Seaham Harbour Sir.—Nets you sent me fortnight ago gave every satisfaction, so please send on the following. Yours, J. Coyle." "7, Birkland st., Mansfield. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime. I had some from you last year and found it very good. Yours, Mr. Barson." "Limebrook, November 4th. Sir.—Received netting, and am well satisfied with it, not having to wait as I had last year from another firm in your city. I shall send again ere long. Yours, W. R." "Waltham Cross, November 7th Sir.—Nets to hand, and very pleased with them. Yours, W. Watts." "34, Smithfield-st., Llanidloes, November 10th. Sir.—Please send following. I had some cages from you last year, and they are very good, strong cages, and best I ever had, and very good fountains, also. Yours, W. Evans." Not merely one or two, but hundreds upon hundreds of similar unsolicited testimonials are open for inspection any time, the majority of which have never been published. Please note everything is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval, at my sole risk, either cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and money refunded in full if every satisfaction not given. See Roller Canary column for further advertisement.

BRONCHORINE, REG. 237,755.

IDEAL lung tonic, for cage birds, especially during the coming season of fogs and winter. Bronchorine at Palace Show. "A lady director was at my stall and spoke well of Bronchorine. She says the advertisement you print of her was correct, and endorsed it by buying a bottle, of which there was a great sale." R. A. Newley, Stockwell Green. 9d., 1/6, 3/-.—Original testimonials, etc., apply Crawley, 112, Radford Boulevard, Nottingham.

PANNASSINA.

Prevents and cures asthma, wheezing, loss of song, etc., takes the birds easily through their moult, and is an excellent winter stimulant. This speciality has built up a lasting reputation entirely on its own merits, invariably effecting a cure after every other remedy has failed. In tins, 7d. and 1/2, free. No bird room complete without it.—W. J. Hammond, 19, Anstey-rd., Coldharbour-lane, Camberwell, London, S.E.

BURROW'S LUNG TONIC.

Every man to his trade. Having worked with chemicals all my life, and being a well-known breeder and exhibitor myself, I have found this tonic successful in saving the life of many of our feather pets. It has had public test, and is used and recommended by all our leading fanciers for curing cold, wheezing, loss of voice, and asthma. It has been successful where others have failed. No bird room is complete without this wonderful tonic. Sent post free to any address, 7½d. and 1/- bottle; awarded two gold medals and five diplomas Crystal Palace.—Note address, Geo. Burrows, 105, Judd-st., Euston-rd., London, W.C.

AVISINE.

An absolutely unique remedy for all pulmonary diseases of birds. Avisine is a cure. There are no simples, nor cheap or nasty drugs in it, which, while pretending to cure one disease, bring on others even more fatal. Its most active ingredient is spoken of by the medical profession as the finest discovery extant, as a remedy for pulmonary diseases. Avisine allays all inflammation of the lungs and air passages, and acts not only locally, but also on the respiratory centre, removing all distressing symptoms almost immediately. As a tonic it has no equals. Avisine is now being used by most of the leading judges, and any eminent bird men may have a sample free on application. We will abide by the results of any fair trial. Sold in bottles, 6d., 1/-, 2/6, and 5/-; postage extra. Agents wanted.

MATTHEWS, LINNET KING.

Gentlemen, If you want a first-class winner or a winning team give my special birds a trial. I guarantee them the best strain in England, and have been selected by a practical man that understands exactly what you want. I am supplying winners every week from my valuable large stock, and my special birds are called by my customers real deck-sweepers. You can win when you wish with them. If you want to win at your show, send to me at once. Don't keep middle-raters, which is only expense without results, when you can get winners from me at once at working men's prices. Let me fit you up with the finest winning team ever advertised at such prices as I supply all the leading exhibitors in England, and my birds are winning every week. They all send to me when they want a winner, as they know my special birds are selected from hundreds of dozens which I sell every week. All my selected birds have been caged months, and are in perfect show condition. I keep every variety of British. Inspection invited to the largest aviaries in England. I keep nothing but the best. Big, fine, healthy Linnets, with nutbrown backs, beautifully pencilled, Norwich type, 1/6 and 2/-. A few giant massive Linnets, beautifully pencilled, ready to win in the keenest competition, 3/- each; also the finest lot of fierce singing Linnets in England, specially trained under my old noted Cheshire Champions, in full song; sacrifice, 2/-; with beautiful singing cage, packet of special seed, instructions, 3/- lot; best value ever offered; worth double; over 500 in stock. Others are following me, so beware of worthless imitations, as you get the first preference from me. Read what others say:—

"Main-street, Hollytown, Lanarkshire, Scotland.—Sir,—Enclosed you will find P.O. for another of your fierce-singing Linnets. The one I got from you last week is a real scorcher in full song, and no mistake. His equal for size at the money cannot be found, and the public deceive themselves going elsewhere. I shall advise everybody that wants first-class birds to send to Matthews, the Real Linnet King, as you are a honest dealer, so use this as you like. From Mr. Carey to Matthews, Bird Catcher." "From Paisley, Blacknill.—Sir,—Bird to hand. I thank you for sending such a fine bird, and your promptness of business. It is the finest and largest Yellow Greenfinch I have ever seen, and well worth the money. You can make what use you like of this, as you honestly deserve it. From Mr. Hair to the old-established Linnet King." Gentlemen, could fairer terms be offered? See your back numbers of CAGE BIRDS for results, so send direct to the old-established firm. DESPITE THE MANY assertions to the contrary, I am the originator of approval system in connection with wild birds, and during the whole 16 years of trading have never dealt on any other terms. I send everything, I sell on approval at my risk, on CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and guarantee every satisfaction or money returned in full. If you want sound, healthy stock at a fair price, give me a trial; but if you want fresh-caught weeds, don't apply to me, as I will not supply them. Genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, big bold birds, in pink of health and condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, or 16/- dozen. Specially selected larger cocks, for show or muling, and in splendid song, 3/- each, three 7/6. Few superb specimens, fit for keenest competition, 4/- and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6. Two-year-old white-legged cock, guaranteed bred Mules last season, 7/6. Grand large cock Brown Linnets, with nut-brown backs and red breasts, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Specially selected cocks, in song, 1/- each, three 2/6. These Linnets are guaranteed exactly same as supplied by me to contest singers, fanciers, and dealers throughout Yorkshire, etc., and which are often re-sold by them at big prices. Absolutely incomparable for size and song. Splendid clean-moulted cock Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Few very large, steady, rich-coloured hens, for show or breeding, 1/6 each; cock Greenfinches, three 1/-, six 1/6. Specially selected Yellow Greenfinches, for show, 1/- each, three 2/-; cock Chaffinches, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Grand lot Snow Buntings, in perfect health and feather, cocks 1/6 each; hens, 1/- each, three 2/-. Few extra large light-coloured and well-marked cocks, for show, 2/6 each. These show specimens are picked from several hundreds, are almost white, and are kept in special steadying cages so as to be ready for immediate shows. Grand cock Skylarks, all big, plump cocks, not half hens, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Few singing nicely, 1/6 each. Two-year-old cock Goldfinch Mule, used to catching, pure Finch notes, and in full song. This is a regular "bell slammer," and just the bird for tricky Finches, price 10/-. Real Siberian Goldfinches, I have already secured a grand lot; price for ordinary specimens, 4/6 each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. These are the genuine Siberian Finches, imported in single wicker cages, not merely picked Russian birds, and my exhibition specimens are real deck-sweepers, with full complement of show points, and as I have supplied hundreds of winners, I know exactly what to send out. Cock Siskins, 2/- and 2/6 each. Few well-marked Yellow cocks, with full bib, etc., 3/- and 4/- each; hens, 1/- and 1/6 each. See following few letters recently received and unsolicited. "14, Marine-terrace, Skinningrove, Yorks.—Sir,—Last lot Linnets I got from you were beauties, and as large as Larks. Please send another six, as your birds sell well here; they are far better than those that come from Lancashire. Yours, C. Hart." "65, Faraday-road, Northwich, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Bird arrived safely. I am greatly pleased with it, and shall be pleased to have further dealings with you in the future. Yours, J. Murphy." "Morgan-row, Cwmbach, Aberdare.—Sir,—Cock Linnet arrived safe; he pleased me in every way. I have had Linnets from dozens of dealers before, but this is the boldest, sweetest, and prettiest I have ever had. Yours, D. Thomas." "Church-road, Mitcham, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am well satisfied with them. Yours, F. Tutty." "22, Kay-street, West Stanley.—Sir,—Thanks for birds received all right, and very satisfactory. I am quite pleased with them. Yours, J. Hutchinson." "Middlesbrough, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied. Yours, J. Moody." "Colcorton, Nov. 2nd.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in grand condition. I have never before had such value for the money. Yours, W. Richards." "Chapel House, Witton-le-Wear, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied with them. H. Hill." "75, Sellar-street, Abbeydale, Sheffield, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Please send three more Goldfinches. I was delighted with the last you sent. Yours, A. Macefield." "Hilldrop, Oxted, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinch you sent me few weeks ago has turned out a beauty. Please send another, also a Linnet. Yours, A. Wright." "West Newton, Aspatria, Nov. 5th.—Sir,—Goldie arrived safe and well, and I am greatly satisfied with him. Yours, J. Clarke." "Cannicpairt, Tayport, Scotland, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in good condition, and I am highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Robertson." "21, Belgrave, Wilnecote, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Linnets arrived in splendid condition. I did not expect such birds at the price. Please send following. Yours, D. Hare." "2, Tenterfield-terrace, Lobmill, Todmorten.—Sir,—Please send following birds. The last Linnet I got from you has won several first prizes. Yours, Moore and Son." "4, Odell-street, Old Kent-road, London.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and I am highly delighted with them. I would not part with them, for they are a marvel at the price. Yours, E. Alderman." "21, Market-street, Tredegar. — Sir, — Received selected Linnets, and am very pleased with them. Two of them are singing now. Wishing you every success. Yours, A. Selvey." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in county of Worcester, and are well caged, steady, and properly on hard seed before being sent out, and are sent on approval at my sole risk. Inspection cordially invited any time. See "Roller Canary" and "Appliance" columns for further advertisements.

are fulfilling all promises. I don't supply you with columns of testimonials, but I supply you with a £2 2s. Roller for 10/-. The following testimonial is deposited with Editor:—Dec. 1st, 1907.—Dear Sir,—Some time ago I had a Cascade Roller from you, which turned out an excellent singer. I put him in our show with a number of my birds, some bred from £2 2s. parents, but your Cascade Roller attracted all attention. I was so pestered with people wanting to buy him that I offered my others much cheaper, but they would have the Cascade Roller. Can you let me have another cock with as sweet notes, also some Cascade hens, as I want to introduce their variety of song into my birds? For obvious reasons I don't want my name and address published—Cascade Rollers are guaranteed to be equal to anything imported. For sweetness and variety of song they are unrivalled. By request, I am importing a few Cascade Schoolmasters; the most fastidious judges pronounce them perfect; price 15/-. With either bird I give my beautifully-fitted British Roller singing cage; terms cash or deposit.—Pearson, Cascade Roller Importer, Greenwich.

IF YOU KNOW

WHO YOU ARE DEALING WITH.

that should be a guarantee that you are sure to be suited, that is if (and it is a big "if") you are sure the person means what he says; in a word, that you can rely upon his statements, then you know too your money is safe, for you can have it back in full. I do not believe in giving either birds or myself a fictitious name, all the following are on one weeks' approval—Cash or deposit.

LARGE COLLECTION

as follows: SEIFERT and other noted strains not fictitious absurdities, in stock, to be seen and heard; a really fine and superior collection, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/- and up; Hens, same strain, 3/6 and 5/-.

HARTZ COCKS, singing, 5/-, 5/9, 6/6 each; Hens, 1/6, 2/-.

Don't be gulled with fictitious names, they are simply absurd and I defy contradiction; but send for best strains procurable in Germany. Home-bred, guaranteed Seiferts, best cocks, unnamed, 7/6 each, worth any money for breeding; best procurable hens, 3/6, 5/-. worth double. All on week's approval.

UNSOLICITED LATEST OPINIONS.

Preston, Nov. 29, 1907.—Hen Roller arrived safe yesterday. I thank you for attending to my order so quickly. The bird started singing the moment I took the wrapper off. Am very well pleased with its notes. They are very sweet to listen to.—R. J. to W. Rudd.

Deeping St. James, Nov. 25, 1907.—I shall keep the Roller. It is a very nice bird. You have suited me well.—C. R. J. to W. Rudd.

21, Eustace Road, Chadwell Heath, Nov. 30, 1907.—We received the birds safely, and they are very satisfactory. The Roller has a lovely tone. — W. Gower to W. Rudd.

14, Coronation Street, North Shields, Nov. 25, 1907. —Finding every satisfaction in the Roller you sent me.—R. Douglas to W. Rudd.

Frogmore, High Wycombe, Nov. 27, 1907.—The Hartz Roller I had from you a week ago is quite satisfactory. It is the finest singer I ever have had. Wishing you every success.—J. Gibson to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

Lehnich Kannengieserstr, 34a, Braunschweig, Germany. Sole Agent for England, B. Schomann, 2, Chapel-st., Bedford-row, W.C.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Mr. Aron Aden, Willenhall, in sending his third order, writes:—30th November, 1907.—Again the birds give every satisfaction. I can assure you I shall put your name forward in every case as a straightforward person to deal with, etc. Mr. Hodson, Bird Dealer, 33, Crooke, near Wigan, writes: 30th November, 1907 (fourth order).—I am quite satisfied; all the birds started singing soon after arrival, etc. Scores of testimonials I receive weekly. —John Smith, 13, Threnzweg, H2, Hamburg, 5, Germany. Lists free; letters 2½d.; cards 1d.

Hummel Rollers.

Finest Rollers imported. To speak well of the Hummel is to gild refined gold. Testimonials from customers who say the Hummel is still singing as sweetly as when purchased four, five, six, and seven years ago. All Hummels have delightful deep, delicate bow roll, hollow roll, hollow bow roll, do pipe, hollow bell roll, grand round bass roll, vibrating hollow roll, and charming water bubble roll; one price only, 12s. 6d.; no fancy prices; Hummel hens, 3s. each; a beautiful pair of Hummels for 15s. St. Andreasberg Rollers, 5s. and 7s. 6d. each. Hummel Schoolmasters, 20s. each, better than can be obtained elsewhere at treble the price. Thousands of testimonials have been published by me in CAGE BIRDS from satisfied customers. I guarantee strictly honourable trading and satisfaction to all.—Varney, sole proprietor and importer of this remarkable Roller Canary. Twenty years advertiser.—Varney, Stratford, London.—St. Mary Abbey, Mill Hill, December 1st, 1901. Received the Hummel; it sings beautifully indeed. It sings sweetly, and oh so softly, all day, and I cannot imagine any bird with a more lovely voice; he begins, even these dark mornings, at 7.30, under his serge cover, and sings till 6 o'clock. Although his song is so lovely, it is beautifully sweet, he has no shrill notes, and I am able to read through it. Miss F. Blockett. December 1st., Southfelt, Poynton, Cheshire. Received the Hummel, and am more than delighted with such superior song. W. Glover, to Varney, the largest importer of Rollers in London.

CONTEST ROLLERS.

The celebrated Preston contest St. Andreasberg Rollers have arrived, and are better than ever before, and, seeing the great number of winners we supplied last year, this is saying a great deal, and although we are paying more for them to the breeders we shall not advance the price, but we expect to sell more than ever. The price of these birds is only 15/-, and we send them on 14 days' trial at our risk, and we don't want your money until you are fully satisfied with the bird. Deposit the 15/- now with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS and don't you buy a Roller or any other article on any other terms, no matter if the advertiser is a large advertiser or a small one. Always deposit your cash, and then you can't be imposed upon. Every one of these Rollers is sent out in prime condition, and a receipt is given, with full instructions how to keep them in condition and contest form, this alone is worth pounds to every fancier, and every bird we sell gets us a testimonial. We could publish hundreds, only we prefer to give value in the birds themselves rather than spend the money in advertisements, and out of the hundreds we sold last year, the Editor of CAGE BIRDS can prove that we had only one deposit to return. Send for one of these masterpieces, and send also to some other advertiser for a 20/- or £2 Roller and compare the two, and I guarantee you will prefer the one we send. A word to the wise is sufficient. German Hartz Mountain Canaries in full song, same as sold by others as Rollers, price, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, and 8/6 each. Singing cage cabinets, with closing shutters, complete, 2/6 each. Anything, alive, bought, sold, and exchanged. We have won thousands of prizes.—Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk-rd., Preston.

Read more customers' opinions:—6, Dean-terrace, North Shields, Nov. 30th, 1907.—The bird you sent me last Saturday gives every satisfaction. It woke me next morning with its splendid song. It continually sings from early morn to late at night.—W. Brownsword to Miss Storey. North Ferrily, Brough, Nov. 30th, 1907.—I have now had the birds 14 days, and am pleased to say I am more than satisfied. I take this opportunity, thanking you for your way of dealing, which is a credit to you.—B. Wreighitt to Miss Storey. 18, Harsley-terrace, Fetherstone, December 1st, '07.—Bird safe to hand on Wednesday; am well satisfied with it. He is in perfect health, and sings both day and gaslight.—J. Longbotton to Miss Storey. 9, Bemstead-road, Walthamstow, 29/11/07.—Roller arrived safely; it is a very nice bird, and sang a treat directly the paper was removed. I am quiet satisfied; it is good value for money.—A. Fisher to Miss Storey. Queen's Hotel, Swindon, Wilts, 30/11/07.—I am more than pleased with the H.M. Roller you sent me; it is a splendid singer by day and gaslight. I would not take double the price I paid you for it.—F. Porter to Miss Storey. 22, Annfield-road, Dundee, 30/11/07.—Birds arrived in good condition. Thanks for quick despatch. The cock started singing on arrival. I am quite pleased, and consider them better value than I got elsewhere.—J. Guild to Miss Storey. 4, Woodbine-terrace, Outwood, Wakefield, 29/11/07.—Bird arrived safe, and commenced singing at once. I am highly satisfied with it, especially at the price.—W. Hastley to Miss Storey. 1, Featherstone-road, Southall, 30/11/07.—Bird arrived last Saturday, and was singing within 10 minutes. Am well satisfied; he is good value for money. I shall most certainly recommend you. —W. Sharp to Miss Storey.

Pure Hartz Rollers.

Direct importer. The finest Seiferts strain from Germany, with pure Nightingale, Woodlark, Titlarks, Waterbubble, and bell notes; marvellous songsters; 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/- each; on approval. Now, hurry your orders up for first choice. Hens, same strain, 2/- and 2/6. Wholesalers, write for terms. Just a few testimonials picked from hundreds. These have come from birds I have sent hundreds of miles from Preston. Mrs. Downs, Chelmsford Road, Dublin, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"Thanks for the beautiful Roller. He arrived safely about 11 today, none the worse for the journey. He is a beautiful colour, and has a lovely voice. I like him well; he is singing over my head this moment. I want a nice cage for him; send on price of one." Mr. Glenny, Bachelors' Walk, Dublin, Oct., 1907—"Sir, am pleased with Roller, which arrived safe. He is singing continually night and day since he arrived. Scores of testimonials like this. If above not proof enough, send for catalogue and scores more testimonials. Mr. J. Patterson, Cork, Ireland—" Sir, I think it only right you should know that the Roller you sent me won the All Ireland Roller Singing Contest, held here November 8th and 9th." Mr. McConquodall, Greenock, Scotland—"Sir, received Roller and box cage safe; he was singing half an hour after I got him. He is the best songster I ever had. The cage is most suitable." Mr. H. Brooks, Wakefield, Yorks.—Sir, the Hartz Roller to hand. He is a splendid bird and sang under three minutes after caged. He sings in the gaslight; first thing in the morning. I have given twice as much for German Rollers not half as good as this from you." A few real Hartz Rollers—not Belgians, price 5/- and 6/- each; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. Proper singing Roller box cages, 1/6; enamelled inside and out, inlaid fronts, sand drawers; beauties, 1/10 each; approval with any; established 1879.

PERHAPS YOU THINK

that because my prices are so astonishingly low that the quality of my birds is low also, but to convince you that this is not so I ask you to peruse the unsolicited letters printed below. I import all Rollers direct and save all middlemen's profits, therefore can sell better quality at lower prices than most dealers. I have a grand stock of pure St. Andreasberg hollow Rollers, all direct from Leipzig, in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft ronlades, piccolo trills, deep bass rolls, Nightingale jug-jug, bell, harp and du du pipes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from Titlark or any other harsh notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/6 each. Special Schoolmasters 10/- each. I also have a limited number of real contest masters, pure Seifert strain, price 15/- each. These contest birds are gems of the very first water and perfect masters of their art. Roller hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. Ordinary loud free Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, 5/- each. Hartz hens 2/6 couple, 12/6 dozen. These Hartz cocks are often described and sold by unscrupulous dealers as Hartz Mountain Rollers at fancy prices. All Rollers sold by me are stamped on wing." Hans Weber, Leipzig," and if you would have a genuine Leipzig Roller you must purchase from me, as I am the sole importer, and no other dealer can get so much as one feather of this strain, unless purchased from me. Following few letters give an idea of quality of the Leipzig Rollers, but to obtain better proof please have one on a week's trial from me. "33, Dorset-st., Burnley, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller safe. I have written CAGE BIRDS to send you the money, as I am well satisfied with him, as he sings beautiful.—Yours, T. Bailey." "Dean-st., Oakham, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller this morning and am well satisfied with it. Thanking you very much.—Yours, T. Carter." "37, Windbourne-rd., Liverpool, Nov. 2nd. Sir,—Birds arrived safely on Friday. I am more than pleased with the light variegated cock; it started singing immediately on arrival.—Yours, F. Edwards." "29, Astor-st., Bramley, Leeds, Nov. 4th. Sir,—The Leipzig Roller arrived in splendid condition, and no worse for the long journey, and he is singing well. I shall not forget to tell my friends where he came from.—Yours, J. Pratt." "Paris House, Portmadoc, Nov. 4th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller cock. I bought one from you six years ago, and he is still singing as merrily as ever.—Yours, R. Owen." "9, Croft Terrace, Jarrow-on-Tyne, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller alright, and have no hesitation in keeping him as he is such a sweet singer.—Yours, J. Young." "4, Brickyard Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Roller quite safe, and am quite satisfied with it. He begnn to whistle soon after arrival. We think it is beautiful, and are delighted. Wishing you every success.—Yours, W. Bradbury." "Thornbill, Dumfriesshire, Nov. 6th. Sir,—I had a Roller from you before; he was a splendid little fellow, and pleased me extra well. Hoping I may receive such another this time.—Yours, R. Davidson." "2, Bretway Road, Dinas Powis, Nov. 9th. Sir,—Roller arrived all right and in splendid condition. Lovely notes; am quite satisfied.—Yours, J. Hooson." "Port Talbot, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Received Roller safely, in grand condition, and singing nicely; I am quite satisfied, and shall deal with you again.—Yours, D. Gibbs." "54, Melbourne Street, Gorton, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Have you any Leipzig Rollers in stock? I got a cock and two hens from you last year and wns very pleased indeed with them, and also your straightforward dealings. — Yours, J. Kay." "6, Bartonhall Row, Waterloo, Wishnw. Sir,—I got a Roller from you last year and it wasn't in the house half-hour before it commenced singing; five weeks ago I sent to another dealer for one and after waiting four weeks he sent me a hen full of asthma, which died. I am going to send for one of yours this week.—Yours, J. Halliday." "605, Berridge Road, Nottingham. Sir,—Roller arrived safe; was singing few minutes after arrival; a very good songster. I am quite satisfied; good value for money.—Yours, H. Richardson." "2, Johnson Street, Silverdale. Sir,—Roller to hand; I am highly pleased with him, being a well built bird with steady flow of notes. — Yours, J. Bibby." See back numbers of CAGE BIRDS for hundreds of similar testimonials to above, all of which are entirely unsolicited. Every Roller is guaranteed to be exactly as represented and all are sent out on full week's trial entirely at my own risk, either on receipt cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. Wholesale prices on receipt trade card.—Note address, the largest Roller retailer in United Kingdom.

SATISFACTORY AND SOLID BUSINESS!

E. TAYLOR.

Bird Specialist,

BRADFORD.

It is an accepted fact among all classes of civilized trading men, that, in order that business be carried through on satisfactory and solid lines there must be perfect confidence on both sides. That is to say that the buyer must be sure of the seller's honesty of purpose and the seller must have confidence in the buyer's financial rectitude. This is exactly the position of matters which obtains between E. TAYLOR'S business friends and E. TAYLOR himself. There is never any doubt in the mind of the customer as to E. TAYLOR being well able to serve his clients BEST, in Birds, Cages, or Appliances, and the pleasing result is a most harmonious helpfulness on both sides of the counter.

E. TAYLOR'S

Splendidly Illustrated Catalogue, will fully explain how this result is arrived at. It will, besides, afford you much valuable information regarding matters in Bird transactions generally and will be cheerfully sent on receipt of two penny stamps, to cover postage.

THE Largest varied collection of Canaries in the World to select from, and neither they nor their owner are hidden by any fictitious name or other subterfuge.

Surprise Visit by "The Daily Mail."

Yes, they came and saw, as others have done, and though I was unexpectedly visited, when busy packing, it mattered not. The grand collection was there, and nothing before ever seen like it.

Just a few more DATED OPINIONS.

The Square, Crewkerne, Nov. 29, 1907.—I am glad to say a colour fed cock I had from you at the beginning of the breeding season has fertilized 28 eggs out of 29, and is still now a good singing bird. R. Bensell to W. Rudd.

A beauty.

163, Harborne Lane, Selly Oak, Dec. 1, 1907.—Just a line to say bird arrived safe, and I think him a beauty. Thanking you; he started singing as soon as put in cage.—E. Pickett to W. Rudd.

Singing.

69a, Caledonian Road, London, Nov. 26, 1907.—The bird started to sing Monday. It is a lovely singer, and I am so pleased with it.—Mrs. Martin to W. Rudd.

19, Argyle-st., Ayr, Nov. 29, 1907.—Birds arrived safe in good condition. The cock started singing shortly after arrival. Thanks for prompt attention, and for the good birds sent.—J. Still to W. Rudd.

9, St. Michael-st., Greenock, Nov. 28, 1907.—I beg to ack. receipt of birds, after a travel in the frost, it is wonderful that they should look so well. I consider them lovely, and so say others.—T. Watson to W. Rudd.

21, Oxford Street, Rugby, Nov. 27, 1907.—It is no more than right that you should know how pleased I am with the Siberian Go'dfinch you sent me. It is far better than I expected for the money. If everyone were as straightforward as you there would be no need of the deposit system.—W. H. Dickens to W. Rudd.

Have some of these on approval.

BOOKLET FREE.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all times to send my Parrots on four weeks' trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

SINGING CONTESTS.

YORK.

Weekly contest held at Crown Inn, North-street, 22 of the best birds in York were hung up in pairs to compete for five good prizes given by Mr. J. Smith. Some good singing was heard before a crowded house, with the following result:—1st, J. Stotbard; 2nd, Firth; 3rd, W. Wilson; 4th, Booth; 5th, Buckle. Judges, Messrs. W. Perry and J. Mason.—J. SMITH, hon. secretary.

BLACKBURN LINNET S.A.

The Blackburn Linnet Singing Association held their annual feather show November 30th. The prize winners were: 1st, G. Rostron; 2nd, W. H. Toping; 3rd, A. Catterall; 4th, G. Rostron. There was also a week-end singing contest. Prize winners: 1st, W. H. Topping; 2nd, R. Haybirst; 3rd, J. Harrison.—R. HAYHURST, sec.

LEWISHAM.

Held at the Coach and Horses, High-street, Lewisham, November 30th; was won by Barber, with 4 score 4 chalks; 2nd, Robinson, 3 score 10 chalks; 3rd, Larney, 3 score 7 chalks; Butcher, 2 score 16 chalks; Ingram, 1 score 17 chalks. Special for most chalks in November was won by E. Robinson. A Christmas pudding is being given for the contest winner on December 21st as a special prize; all intending competitors please enter early with Mr. F. HOUGHTON.

LEEDS.

Usual weekly singing contest was held at the King's Head, Shannon Street, Dec. 1st, when 24 of the best birds in Leeds sung for 3 good prizes given by Mr. W. Tillottson. Some very good singing was heard before a packed house. 1st and 3rd prizes went to T. Stead, 2nd prize A. Hodgson. Judges, T. Hineson, C. Cooper. Also held, Nov. 24th, a German Canary singing contest, when 17 very good birds sang for 3 good prizes; 1st and 2nd prize, W. Rowe; 3rd prize was shared by Messrs C. Biss and Lacy. Judges, T. Summers and H. Hardcastle.—T. SUMMERS, Hon. Sec.

BRISTOL.

Linnet singing contest held at the New Inn, St. Philip's, Nov. 30th. There were a good number present, but the singing was not up to the usual standard, owing probably to the weather. The result was 1st prize and spl, Froggy Walker; 2nd, C.B. spl, Will Sheppard. The winning bird sung 104 songs; 2nd bird, 67; 15 mins hanging; 5 pairs entered. Judges, Messrs. J. Parsons and H. Griffiths. Time-keeper, Mr. H. Jones. W. SHEPPARD, hon. sec.

BLACKBURN LARK F.A.

Final show of the season held at headquarters, "The Good Samaritan," Gramshaw Park, Blackburn, on November 30th, when a most pleasant and successful show was held, after which the members had a hearty good "hotch potch" to which all did perfect justice. The association is in a very flourishing condition, every member who staged a bird being entitled to a prize. There were a splendid lot of birds shown in both the fed and wild classes, which must have given the judge something to do to arrive at his decisions. Eighteen wild and 15 fed birds were exhibited. Fed: 1st, J. Sheffield; 2nd, J. Walmsley; 3rd, S. Fletcher. Wild: 1st, W. Cooper; 2nd, H. Ainsworthy; 3rd, J. Jackson. The judge was Mr. N. Bury (Accrington), who gave very general satisfaction. We are now getting ready for singing contests (which commence in February), with a membership of very near fifty. That genial lover of song, Mr. David Bentley (Great Harwood) attended, and, in his speech at the supper, very kindly promised us a potato pie supper at our first sing in the coming season. We shall have two silver cups and a gold medal to sing for in the club sings next year, and we ask all Lark fanciers around here to join the association.—JOHN SHEFFIELD, sec.

FALKIRK AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

The monthly meeting was held in Oddfellow's Hall, Nov. 7th, when a successful year was brought to a close. The office bearers for the ensuing year are: Messrs. Robert Dickson, president; Robert Rennie, treasurer; William Clubb, secretary. All Society business to be addressed to W. CLUBB, 14, Cockburn Street, Falkirk.

LLANELLY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held at headquarters, Nov. 30th, when the chairman (Councillor) D. R. Jones, presided over a good attendance. On conclusion of business in connection with annual show, the chairman called upon Mr. Portsmank, who delivered his promised lecture on Red Mite, etc., which proved one of the most interesting and instructive ever delivered before the members. After several questions from the members to Mr. Portsmank, a hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer brought a pleasant evening to a close.—J. SIMON, Sec.

THE SHOWS.

SHIPLEY.

This society held its annual show on November 30th, in the Institute, Saltaire. It would be next to impossible to eulogise this hall too highly, it is well adapted to the purposes of a bird show. Here was perfection as regards light, the hall was absolutely free from draughts, and the temperature could be regulated to a nicety. The exhibits were all nicely staged, and presented a very uniform and pleasing appearance. The quality all round was of the best, and entries were good, totalling over 500. Nearly all the crack exhibitors were represented by the best of their studs, so that the competition was of the keenest description, very little separating many of the winners. Mr. H. Dobson carried out his secretarial duties in a most pleasing manner, and was the personification of tact, zeal and courtesy. He was well supported by a good body of willing workers, consisting of the following: Messrs. D. Marsden (chairman), H. H. Towers (vice-chairman), H. Stubb (treasurer), and a huge number of members. Mr. J. H. Payne judged the open classes, and Mr. H. Hodgson the novice and selling classes.

ASHINGTON AND HORST.

This show was held on Nov. 30th, in the Harmonic Hall, under C.B.U. Rules. The Hall is one of the best possible, being well lighted and free from draughts. The total entries reached 236, this being 60 more than last year. Mr. J. Robson placed the cards, and his judgments seemed to give satisfaction. The exhibits were splendidly staged, and high credit is due to the committee for the manner in which the show was conducted. The society are to be congratulated on having such an able chairman as that well-known exhibitor, Mr. Thomas Floyd, who was here, there and everywhere. Secretary Jos. Miles is also a most obliging and capable fancier, and had everything well in hand, exhibitors present being paid their prize money. Altogether the venture proved a gratifying success, which must have delighted the local fanciers, and well repaid them for their efforts. The list of officials is: Chairman, Thomas Floyd; secretary, Joseph Miles; treasurer, Arthur Davison; committee, James Miles, T. Thompson; J. Jacques, J. Armstrong, S. P. Lackey, S. Evans, E. Floyd, J. Smith, A. Dippie, R. Richardson. Specials for most points in whole show fell to Jos. Miles, 72; Thomas Floyd, 57; Jos. Armstrong, 52; and S. P. Lackey, 51. In members' classes, Jos. DUNDEE.

The City of Dundee and Dist held their seventh Annual Show in the Gymnasium, Ward Road, on Nov. 30, under the patronage of the Scottish Brit. B. and M.C., and the Scottish P.C. The "Gym" is a most suitable place, nicely lighted, free from draught, plenty of room and comfortable. The weather was at its best, and the sun shining brightly—the judges had everything in their favour; entries totalled over 500; we were sorry to hear that they were 75 short of last year, but what was lacking in number was easily made up for in quality. Crests were exceptionally strong and some of the finest exhibits were staged to perfection. The Crested cock shown by Mr. J. McLay was a real topper, almost green, with plenty of substance. Another bird of special note was the green crested hen shown by Mr. Geo. Mackie; it is one of the first water, plenty of substance and grand formation of crest. Norwich classes were back on last year; still, some grand exhibits were staged. A lovely Challenge Cup presented by Mr. James Howie for the best in show, was won by Mr. Geo. Davidson, with a Norwich clear buff cock of the right type and grand quality of feather; this bird also won the Club Medal for best Norwich belonging to a member. Mule classes were up to the standard, some old champions coming well to the front. Duncan and Logan winning most of the prizes in this section. Mr. J. Patterson won most honours in the Border classes. This was without doubt as good a judged show as we have had the pleasure of seeing this season. The Secretary, Mr. Alex. Miller, kept hard at work the whole day, and deserves great credit for his able management. He was well backed up by the vice-president, Mr. John Byers, and a strong committee. Judges: Crests, etc., Mr. Allan Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; Norwich, Mr. John Adams, Dundee; Borders, Mr. John Craig, Brechin; Mules, etc., Mr. Alex. Cochrane, Edinburgh—and their awards gave entire satisfaction.

BIRMINGHAM.

Held in the large Assembly Room of the Crown Hotel, Station Street, on Dec. 4. The birds were nicely staged along three sides of the room, and made a good display. Entries came up well, close on 300 being on view. Norwich were well to the fore both in numbers and quality. Yorkshires were a little disappointing, but Cinnamons and Crests, though not very numerous, were a grand lot, while the British classes were a treat to see, quality being of the very best. Members' Classes contained some capital specimens, and the management was first class. Mr. Wilkins, the courteous and energetic secretary, had everything in good order, and was ably assisted by Messrs. Smith, Collier, Davis, Paddock, Walker, Cowley, Wells and others. Mr. H. W. Battye judged. NOR. YELL. NORTH LONDON C.B.A.

The North London C.B.A. fifth annual show was held in the Library Hall, Stoke Newington, on Nov. 29th and 30th, and although the entries were not quite so numerous as those of last year, the show was an excellent one. The quality in the Norwich Plainhead classes was of a very high order, a remark which will be all the more apparent when we mention that the teams of Messrs. Hodder and W. Morris were present in full force, the latter gentleman securing the cup with a rattling unflighted ticked buff, and his team of yellows was much and deservedly admired. Mr. Hodder, however, gave Mr. Morris a tight race for position, and the competition between these two gentlemen's birds was a matter of considerable interest. In champion Yorkshires, Mr. Rennie had quite a field day, and amongst his winners were some really fine birds. In the amateur section the Norwich challenge cup fell to Mr. Landgridge, but Mr. Reynolds also staged a fine team, and annexed many prizes. In Yorkshires, Messrs. Pegrum and Done were the chief winners. In the novice classes, Mr. Marley annexed the Norwich Plainhead cup, but the competition was very keen, and the prize winners more widely represented. In Yorkshires the chief winners were Messrs. G. T. Green, Williams and Penton. Mr. Forse won the British bird cup with a smart Goldfinch, and generally the quality of the British birds was good. Altogether, however, we think the Society has good reason to congratulate itself on the show. Mr. R. P. Harper, the hon. secretary, did yeoman work, aided by the assistant secretary, Mr. [illegible], and the verdict "Well done" may be pronounced upon the efforts of one and all. [illegible] the staging was conveniently arranged, the birds being placed at a nice height for being viewed, and the light was excellent, both for judges and sightseers. The show management of Messrs. J. W. Rennie and S. A. Griffin, gave evidence of intimate acquaintance with the work. Messrs. J. Robson and S. Cook judged.

BRISTOL.

Seventeenth annual show of the Bristol F.A. was held in the Drill Hall on December 4th and 5th. This year cage birds were staged in a separate room, and a most admirable one it is, quite free from draughts and with the best of light. Had the committee only advertised this fact, we think they would have had a considerably augmented entry. The quality of exhibits all round was first-class, and entries were good, many of the best on circuit being put down. Amongst the Crests, special mention should be made of the grand youngster of Mr. Taylor's, the Crestbred of Mr. Pool's, and the Yellow Crestbred of Mr. T. J. King's. Cinnamons were a good lot, and Yorkshires, too, made a nice show, several of the leading exhibitors of this variety being represented. The bowl winner of Messrs. Shearn and Owens is a gem, and was put down in good form. Amongst the Norwich were some good, Mr. Baker's ticked Yellow being much admired. Britishers were grand in quality, many of the best being staged. Of the management we cannot speak too highly. Mr. Ind, as usual, had charge of this section, and right well did he perform his duties. Had plenty of help from a good lot of enthusiastic and well known fanciers. Mr. T. Smith judged Crests, Crestbreds, Lancashires, and Cinnamons, Mr. J. H. Payne taking all other classes.

SOUTHPORT & DISTRICT C.B.S.

The above Society held their Annual Members' Show in the Commercial Sale Room, on Nov. 23rd. The room is a splendid one for a show, being spacious and well-lighted. From fourteen exhibitors 8 birds were staged, which made a record entry. Mr. Sandiford's Medal for best fed bird in show was won by Mr. E. Sutton, with a yell. Norwich. The Society's Cup, for most points throughout year, was won by Mr. T. Johnson. Mr. A. Hirst judged and gave general satisfaction.

WEYBRIDGE.

Held Dec. 4 and 5. In the past Weybridge Show has been limited to a radius of ten miles, but this year the committee decided to add a few open classes to the schedule. The response, however, excepting in the Yorkshire classes, was not very encouraging. Visitors to the show in the splendid Holstein Hall, though, had a very nice collection to look over. The entry in the ordinary radius classes came up as well as ever, and the competition in them was very keen, many of the contestants having won high honours at other important events, and it was much for the keenness of the local [illegible] to [illegible] strict pitting their best teams against each other. The [illegible] in the restricted classes, fell to a handsome bird shown by Mr. H. [illegible], the Corporation Insec., whose exertions have caused the Weybridge Show to become so popular in the district. The British and Foreign [illegible] were not numerous but were of most excellent quality. Thirty-six classes were scheduled, and they contained 140 exhibits. Messrs. W. J. Randall and C. Benstead, the chairman and vice chairman, set their colleagues a very excellent example by the manner in which they laboured, and to the credit of all concerned, it may be said they nobly followed the good lead given. The other members of the executive were Messrs. R. Ellwood, A. C. Smith, F. Jones, A. Marchant, E. Palmer, T. Smithers, W. Fogwell, T. Buggins, H. Parrott, A. Potter, F. Foster, and J. Howard, with Mr. Garratt as treasurer. The Rev. Spencer R. A. Buller, presided at the luncheon. The day unfortunately was dull and the task of judging arduous. Mr. J. Robson judged.

PEMBROKE DOCK.

The eighteenth annual show was held Nov. 27th, in the Market House—a very suitable building for the purpose. The exhibits were well staged and everybody was satisfied with the smart arrangements of the hon. sec., Mr. Thos. Hay, to whom great credit is due. Pembroke Dock show is blessed with a plethora of workers and men who understand the routine of show work with Mr. Hay at their head. The entry did not come up to expectations owing to Cardiff Cage Bird Show being held the same day. However, what were there excelled in quality and were fit to win in strong classes. The committee were forced to delete some of the prize-money as before explained due to shortness of entry. Mr. John Blackey judged, and his awards met with general approbation.

CRADLEY HEATH.

This society held their first open show on November 27th and 28th, in the Schools, Cradley, and it proved a great success, as entries came up well, taken all round. There were only three classes for cage birds, and one had to be cancelled. For lack of support, but the two others were well supported. The able secretary, Mr. H. Grainger, had everything well in hand. Judging was over in good time, and cards quickly up. Mr. Witton judged. CANARY: 1, vhc, Capewell, nice stylish buff Norwich; 2, 4, Fallows, two nice Yorks., yellow leading fine length, good shape, nice head and tail, in its right place; 4, was a very fair buff ticked; ex. 4 Mullet, buff crested Norwich, fair size, plenty of feather, nicely shown; 3, res, Weeks, buff Plainhead, leading, nicely fed, fair size, neat head, well shown, res, a very taking buff Norwich; c, Bloomer. SHOWS continued on page 469.

BINGLEY AND DISTRICT O.S.

A good muster of members and friends met at the Assembly rooms, Bingley on Nov. 19th, to witness a washing exhibition, kindly given by Mr E. Townley, Bingley. There were 8 birds put through, to the astonishment and delight of many. Mr Townley gives the birds a thorough overhauling, and he had some real dirty ones to wash. He showed how great the contrast was between a clean washed bird and a dirty one. His method was to have three brushes, one for each bowl. He liked brushes for washing better than sponges, as one had a better chance of getting the soap thoroughly out of the feathers, which was most essential. A hearty vote of thanks, brought a most instructive meeting to a close. A. LIVESEY, hon. sec.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B

Meeting, Nov. 11th. Mr. F. Parrington was nominated for membership. The Toronto C. and C.B.S. (Canada) exchange of Medals was accepted. Recommendation by the Council that there be no change in determining winners at the various judging competitions was adopted. After an exhaustive explanation by the Chairman and Mr. A. W. Curtis, the Council's recommendation was adopted to an amendment to rule 13 of the C.B.U., viz.: "The Executive Council shall consist of one representative from each of the twelve districts; they shall be nominated by the Societies affiliated in each district, not less than twelve weeks prior to the Annual Meeting, and he elected by ballot taken by each Society in the district for which he has been nominated, and the result declared at the Annual Meeting. The candidate must have resided in the district for the twelve months immediately preceding to such nomination and must not be in arrears with his subscription to his Society." Mr. Burn's amendment to rule 17 of the C.B.U. (unanimously carried) was:—to add after the word show in the fourth line, "Non-affiliated Fanciers will not be allowed to exhibit at affiliated Club Shows." Result of Yorkshire judging competition was (Champion) Mr. P. G. Cooper, 5 points (Amateur) Mr. A. C. Burn, 12 points and (Novice) Mr. G. Bryant, 11 points. Mr. A. E. Rouse presented three Special prizes for the Annual Show. V. WYNN, Hon. Sec.

OUR RECENT DOUBLE NUMBER.

A host of congratulatory messages from kind friends reached us concerning our last Double number, and the coloured plate of Hybrids it contained, and we must apologise for pressure on space preventing our acknowledging same earlier, or printing more than the appended few of those received.—EDITOR.

I think the plate last week and the double number one of the best I have seen.—A. S. BAWN (Bristol).

I thank you for the lovely coloured plate and double number last week.—J. ROWLANDS (Port Dinorwic).

I much appreciate the beautiful coloured plate given away with the splendid double number.—J. W. CURSON (Lowestoft).

I was very much interested in and pleased with the coloured plate given away with CAGE BIRDS. I have been a reader many years.—W. HELLES (Walthamstow).

I heartily congratulate you on your coloured plate last week. It is the best I have ever seen. I wish you even greater success.—WM. LLOYD (Pendlebury).

I must congratulate you on your big double number—a big two pennyworth—and the plate, which is a splendid piece of work, writes Mr. JAQUES (Doncaster).

Many thanks for the beautiful coloured plate. It is splendid. I have been reading your paper just twelve months, and I must say it is far better than any bird paper I ever read.—JOE BYRNE (Dublin).

I think the coloured plate of Mules given away this week is charming, and a great credit to the artist, also to CAGE BIRDS for publishing such a wonderful plate for we Mule fanciers.—F. COLLINS (Camborne).

What a grand issue of CAGE BIRDS you have given us to-day, with supplement and plate. Every success in your new venture is the wish of an old subscriber.—N. N. HUXFORD (Lyme Regis).

I was agreeably surprised to see my Norwich Plainhead depicted on one of the pages of your grand Double Number. It is a very good picture and I thank you much for placing him there. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—J. HODDER (London, E.C.).

Your latest coloured plate was very favourably commented on at our last meeting, and it was also decided to again keep our place on your Map of Shows, but the date of same was left over until another meeting.—J. LOGAN, hon. sec., Dysart C.B.S.

I cannot allow your double number to pass without congratulating Mr. Norman on the coloured plate of Hybrids. It is one of his best, exquisite in every detail. How I wish I had them in the flesh. They are simply superb.—GEORGE DIX (Barnstaple).

I think your double number a treat. I must congratulate you upon your splendid drawing of my Unflighted Yellow, first at Dulwich and Peckham and special for best Norwich shown by a member. Kindly send me on another double number, as I want to send it to New Zealand, where I have just sent some birds at a high figure.—W. MORRIS (Stoke Newington).

Your special number is full of valuable and reliable matter. All Scotch exhibitions of any importance are ably reported, and I know many who retain CAGE BIRDS as the standard record for reference, etc. The beautiful plate is an exquisite work of art, and nothing but praise is heard in its favour. Your growth and expansion know no bounds. That your journal may continue to prosper is the earnest wish of—THOS. SMITH (Glasgow).

Of the many plates you have prepared for your many readers, none will please the Mule breeders more than the one with this week's issue. I call it superb. If we can only be as successful in breeding the living gems during next season's operations as your artist has been to put them on paper, there will be some eye-openers at next year's shows. Thanking you for the beautiful plates we have had from time to time, and wishing CAGE BIRDS still more progress in the future.—FRANK THOMAS.

Allow me to say your double number this week is a treat. The plate of hybrids is specially interesting to me as it is this part of the fancy I am most interested in. Although from business demands I am unable to exhibit, I have tried various crosses for years, with more or less success. It would be unfair to mention any one of the birds on the plate—they are all perfect, and the colouring is most beautiful. Wishing you all success.—J. W. MITCHELL (Morley).

QUEEN'S PARK AND DIS. C.B.A.

At meeting held November 21st, after the prizes and prize money had been presented to the successful exhibitors, the chairman, Mr. J. G. Lawrence, announced that he had one of the most pleasing functions of his term of office to perform, which was to present the secretary with a marble timepiece subscribed for by the members, as a small recognition of his services, so ably carried out. He hoped the secretary would fill the post for many years to come. Mr J. C. Birch was greeted with applause, and in thanking the members for the very handsome present, said he should always prize it for its value, but more so for the kind feeling that prompted its presentation. He had, he said, no wish for remuneration, his aim being to forward the interests of the society, and he was rewarded sufficiently if his efforts were appreciated. Mr. H. J. Rogers said he was proud to be able to say that he prevailed on the secretary to take up the duties when the society was in low water, and he was pleased at the change in the society's financial position, and asked all members to assist in furthering the club interests which were full of promise for its future.—J. G. LAWRENCE, chairman

CLUB REPORTS.

RUTHERGLEN AND DISTRICT O.A.

Monthly meeting held Monday, Nov. 18th, in the Town Hall buildings. In the absence of the President and Vice-President, the chair was occupied by Mr. Livingstone. A good deal of discussion took place regarding the show on December 21st, to be held in Rechabites Hall. The secretary was instructed to write to all absent members informing them that entries for the show will close December 10th, and urging them to make the show as great a success as possible.

LEWISHAM AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held Nov. 19th at temporary headquarters, 202, High-st., Lewisham, Mr. Legg in the chair. It was decided to remove headquarters to the Rochock Hotel, High-street, Lewisham, where we have obtained a nice room, having a private entrance, entirely distinct from the public entrance to the hotel. Also decided to hold a table show of cage birds (all varieties) on January 7th. Will all members attend on December 3rd next? Kindly note that from that date meetings will be held monthly instead of weekly as heretofore.—H. Thos. Lucas, hon. sec.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

The members held a judging competition November 16th, at headquarters. Twelve birds were put up for competition, and these were judged by Messrs. Cruise and Cowgill. Competitors were afterwards allowed to judge, to see who should be winners of the four money prizes. There was a fairly good entry of members who had each drawn for place. The winners turned out to be: Messrs. J. Northrop 1; H. Peacock 2; G. White 3; W. Laycock 4. This for a first effort was a success, one good point about it being that it gave a good insight into the problem of what constitutes a winning Yorkshire.—H. Hill, Sec.

DARLINGTON AND D.B.F.A.

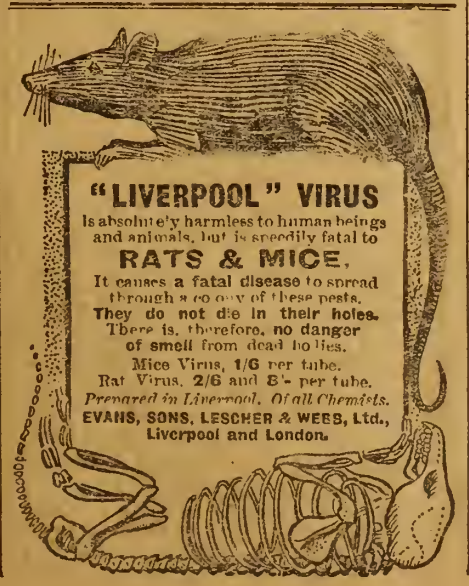
Monthly meeting held at George Hotel, November 20th. The balance-sheet of second annual open show was read and accepted, we have again to report a balance in hand after all prize money and expenses are paid, and also an increase of 124 entries more than last year. On our next meeting night, December 18th, it has been decided to make arrangements for a members Table show, to be held during the Christmas holidays, when several special prizes on hand will be allotted to the classes arranged. The "Pike Pease Bowl" won by Mr. J. Cuthbertson for best bird shown in the members' classes at our open show was handed over.—R. S. Black, Hon Sec.

DYSART O.B.S.

Annual meeting was held November 23rd, at Normand Hall, when there was a good attendance of members. After hearing Secretary's report of last show, the balance-sheet was passed. It was agreed to purchase the bird racks, and after meeting all other expenses the Society was found to be in a flourishing condition. The business of the society was followed by a Social and a very happy evening was spent. Songs were rendered by all the members present, and some selections on the gramaphone by H. Bisset were very much appreciated. It is hoped this is only the forerunner of many more happy "annuals" to come. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by Messrs. D. Walker, the President, J. Macgregor and R. Trail, who gave us one of their fine comedies, and by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."—J. Logan, Hon. Sec.

CINNAMON CANARY CLUB.

Important General Meeting at Manchester.



At the annual meeting at the last Palace Show it was moved that in future a general meeting of the club be held at the club show annually, and in accordance with that resolution the same was held at Manchester Show. The attendance and the enthusiasm shown by the members augurs well for a new life for the club. The membership for the past four years has been on the decline, and it is to be hoped that now the members have awoke to the fact, it will become their duty to bring the club up to its former strength and prestige. Mr. W. A. Bladon, the president, took the chair, and was supported by Messrs. E. Godley, H. Riding (Rishton), A. Bentley, J. Wilson, J. T. Hargreaves (Great Harwood), J. Rukin (Rawtenstall), G. E. Bairstow, G. A. Mallinson (Halifax), J. H. Heys (Waterfoot), W. Milburn (Southport), and R. J. Pretty, hon. sec. (London). The president expressed his satisfaction at such a goodly attendance, and hoped they would bring forward any matters that they were desirous of discussing with a view of promoting the welfare of the club. The minutes of the annual general meeting having been read, Mr. Wilson said the present specials (which were moved at that meeting) were not at all satisfactory, and he thought to give each member a chance there should be four selected birds, say, one in each class, as it would be better for the competition. He further advocated the drawing up of a standard, and having the judges to judge to it. Mr. Riding asked the number of paid members, and on being informed that some 20 subscriptions were still outstanding, he thought there must be some foundation for such a falling off of membership. Mr. Godley suggested that when giving specials they should go to those who had not won a first prize. Mr. Bentley pointed out that the four points specials were given with the idea of getting a better entry at the shows, and contended that to debar the first prize winners would not improve the entry. Mr. Bladon contended that the club could not debar those winners, and further they had no right to debar them. Mr. Wilson, further defending his point of nominated birds, contended that when a bird is nominated under one judge they may do all right, but under another they may go down, and then someone else would step in for the points. Mr. Godley replied that the club gives 5s. for the most points, and first prize winners not to count. Mr. Heys asked if the club could not do more for the novices, as at present they had no chance for these points specials, only the gold medal for points throughout the year; the only chance they did get on their own was at the club show once a year. Mr. Bentley suggested a special for most points, and to sink the other specials for one year. Mr. Bladon thought that the suggestion to sink the specials was a good one, and by doing so they could get a big fund in hand. Accounts were handed round, showing an income of £12 12s. 10d., against which was an expenditure of £6 2s. 1d., leaving a balance in hand of £6 2s. 1d., the cost of the medals for last year being included in the expenditure. After some discussion, Mr. Wilson moved: That we do away with expensive specials, and in future nominate one bird in each class, and the points at the end of the year count as first, second, third and fourth. Mr. Riding seconded. Mr. Rukin opposed, contending that if a novice nominated his birds, he probably would star his worst, and he further suggested that at each show must in club's patronage a prize be given for the best bird shown by a novice. Mr. Heys moved an amendment. That the novice be catered for the same as the champion, and to give prizes at all patronage shows, one bird to be nominated for in each class. Mr. Rukin seconded. Mr. Wilson asked to withdraw his proposition in favour of Mr. Heys' amendment, and the same being put to the meeting, it was unanimously carried. Mr. Riding asked if something could be done with respect to the water tins. He complained that they very seldom got a turn back from the shows, and suggested that we have the round ones. Mr. Wilson supported, as did many other members, and Mr. Riding putting it as a proposition, which Mr. Wilson seconded, it was unanimously carried. Mr. Godley suggested that it be done gradually, so as to use up the present stock; this was also agreed to. Mr. Wilson expressed his opinion that the rule respecting the position of the perches should be enforced, which Mr. Barstow supported. But some members contended this was the fault of the club cage—that it was out of date, and that it did not show off the bird properly. The President agreed, and also mentioned that they wanted a special packing case for them, and suggested that a square cage be adopted. Mr. Wilson, in supporting, moved: That we adopt a cage the same size as the Norwich Flamhead, but painted gobstin green. Mr. Bladon suggested that all the cages be repainted next year, as the question of the proposed alteration must come before the annual meeting at the Palace. A question was raised as to the present stock (as one member remarked he had just bought a dozen) if this alteration was adopted, but it was pointed out that it would be a gradual alteration, and another suggestion was to use them in selling classes. The President asked Mr. Milburn (an old Cinnamon breeder) if he would rejoin the club, and he agreed, and thereon was proposed, seconded, and carried by acclamation. Mr. Godley intimated that next season he would give 5s. as a special at each patronage show, and, further, he would stand down if Mr. Dorner would do the same. Mr. Bladon thanked Mr. Godley for his offer, and hoped it would be accepted. It was pointed out during the meeting that the number of paid members in 1904 was 69, in 1905 49, 1906 44. The meeting lasted two hours. Mr. Wilson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Bladon for presiding, Mr. Riding seconded, and it was unanimously carried. Mr. Bladon thanked the members for their attendance, and asked the thanks of the meeting for Mr. Pretty for having specially come from London to attend. Mr. Bentley seconded, and the Secretary briefly replied, and terminated a most interesting meeting.

SALE OPEN O.S.

At a meeting held November 25th, Mr. W. T. Buckley presiding, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Wm. Procter Pearson for the Silver Cup presented to the society. Mr. Reginald Cullen wrote thanking the officials of the last show for the way the exhibits were looked after, also promising to give a sterling silver cup for competition at our next old bird show. The sum of 21s. was voted to the secretary and 10s. 6d. to the assistant secretary for their services in connection with the show. Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. Gardner for the loan of the staging; [illegible] for the use of the room, and all the special prize givers. The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Alf. Wellings, thanking him for the great pains he took with judging. Owing to unforeseen circumstances the date of the dinner has had to be altered to January, 1908. A committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Gray, J. Leigh, J. Hurst, J. Irlam and the secretary has been formed to make arrangements for the same. Mr. H. Whitney wins the clock for selling most tickets (128); Mr. F. Field coming second with 116. —Geo. F. Hardcastle, Hon. Secretary.

DUDLEY AND DIST. C.B.S.

A very fair number of members and friends attended monthly meeting on November 13th to witness a washing exhibition by Mr. R. Russon. Having everything in readiness, Mr. Russon commenced to wash a bird in the following manner: he first dipped the bird in the water for a few seconds, and then with a sponge, commenced to wash the tail, at the same time well rubbing in the soap. Having finished the back and sides, he turned the bird over, well washing breast, chest, neck, and head. The beak received special attention; it was, said he, the most particular part, and wanted doing well, for as a rule that was the part which showed most dirt. He did not mind the soap getting into the bird's eyes, as this did not seem to harm the bird. Having finished lathering the bird all over, he proceeded to rinse same, in the next basin, at the same time, telling his audience to he very careful to get all soap off them or else their labour would be in vain. If they did not get all the soap off the birds, they would look worse than if never washed at all. After well rinsing the bird, he very carefully wiped same all over with the drying cloth, getting as much moisture as he could out of the feathers. He then transferred same to the drying cage. Several questions were asked; Mr. Russon answered very satisfactory. A hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. Russon. It was then decided to hold an open show of Cage Birds in January. Four new members were elected, and a vote of thanks to the Chairman concluded a very enjoyable evening.—J. Jones.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given per next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stamps will be given for winning Contribution; or to all the numbers up.

An Amusing Chaffinch.

Two years ago my father and I were out every other day trying to catch a white Chaffinch. It seemed a beauty in every way although it was a little grey on the neck, but all the rest was as white as snow. It seemed to be very shy with the other Chaffinches, and we tried in vain to catch it. I was told that it was killed by another boy.—James McAlpine (age 12 years), 18, Donaldson Place, Tannochside, Uddingston.

The Goldfinch.

One of the handsomest birds is the Goldfinch. It has a rich gold band on its wing and that is why it has been named the Goldfinch. We can hear its sweet song in the middle of April. It is a smart and beautiful bird and for this reason is kept in cages. It is often paired with Canaries in order to breed mules. It feeds on thistle seed in winter, which it finds in the fields. The nest may be found in apple trees or such-like places. The eggs number four or five, which are white, thinly spotted with reddish brown and pale purple.—Mar on Thomas (age 12), 3, St. Thomas Street, Lampeter.

A Veteran Blackbird.

It may be interesting to record the death of an old Blackbird, which has just taken place at Harrogate. He was captured by his owner 15 years and 7 months ago, and as he would be at least a month old when caught, he had reached the ripe age of nearly 16 years. For five years he was clothed in the normal plumage of his kind, but after the fifth moult white feathers began to appear, increasing in numbers after every moult, until at the time of his death a considerable portion of his plumage was white. The veteran continued in good health and song until the end.—Sent by C. E. Falkingbridge (age 15), 17, Grange Avenue, Harrogate, Yorks.

We have got a Starling which is a little darling, with speckles on his breast and a long and pointed beak. When I make his food he acts very rude; he stands upon his perch and gives me lots of cheek.—Mary Gentry (age 13), 54, Moreland Street, Goswell Road, London, E.C.

REVIEW OF SCHEDULES.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

THE Shipley O.S. Show, held November 30th, was a decided success, the entries again coming up remarkably well, averaging fully eight per class in the 27 classes provided. The cinnamon marked hen classes were a grand lot, twenty in the yellows, and twenty-five in the buffs, and the face of the genial secretary of the C.M.Y.C.C. (Mr. R. Garnett) wore a broad smile as he looked them over. British etc., also came up well, forty-eight in the three classes provided, being a big improvement on previous shows. Here some grand birds were on view, and proved a big attraction to the visitors. I was sorry to hear at this show that the Bullfinch, the property of Mr. J. Edmondson, of Allerton, winner first at Leeds and Chesterfield, etc., had passed over to the great majority during the week; in fact, it was entered for this show, but died between entries closing and the show day.

THE Committee of the C.M.Y.C.C. held a meeting at the Shipley O.S. headquarters (Victoria Hotel), to investigate the charge brought by Messrs. Cook and Son against an exhibitor, for alleged trimming of a cinnamon-marked buff hen, shown at Manchester, the property of another fancier, who is a member of the C.M.Y.C.C. After hearing a great quantity of conflicting evidence from both sides, the Committee were unable to convict, as no tangible proof of trimming could be obtained. The bird under dispute was brought to the meeting for inspection, but as it is many weeks since the alleged trimming took place, the bird would have had time to get into proper order again, and therefore could be of no use to the Committee in their investigations.

ANOTHER charge brought by Messrs. Cook and Son against the above-mentioned fancier, of alleged borrowing of a bird for exhibition, comes under the jurisdiction of the Yorkshire Union, and will probably be dealt with at a meeting to be called at Laisterdyke Show, to be held on December 14th. Messrs. Cook and Son's case will also be brought forward at the same meeting, as the bird for which they have been suspended by the C.M.Y.C.C. was shown at two Union Shows, and therefore will also have to be dealt with by the Y.U.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

PRESENTATION TO MR. W. VARDY (Huthwaite).

A meeting was held in a private room at the "Workpeople's Inn," Huthwaite, on November 30th, for the purpose of presenting to Mr. W. Vardy, so well known in the Norwich Canary fancy as a foremost exhibitor and popular judge, with a purse of gold, by the fancier friends in his immediate neighbourhood. As it was the day for holding the first annual show at Huthwaite, many fanciers availed themselves of the opportunity to be present, and amongst others we noticed Messrs. Collings (Nottingham), W. and T. Twine (Hucknall), Adnett and Driver (South Normanton), George Walker (Pleasley), Beardall (Huthwaite), Ingram, Devenill, etc. Mr. J. Thompson, the popular sec. of the Huthwaite C.B.S., occupied the chair, and in a few well-chosen sentences announced the purpose of the meeting, concluding by asking Mr. W. Roslyn (Mansfield) to make the presentation.

Mr. Roslyn, after briefly reviewing the history of the fancy since Mr. Vardy first embarked in it, now some thirty years ago, and saying with what interest he had watched his career and his manful efforts to get to the top and keep there, in the face of great difficulties, made the presentation in the following words:—"Mr. Vardy, I am honoured by being asked by your neighbouring fanciers to present you this purse of gold, as a token of the respect in which you are held by them, and to wish for them that your health, which has been so tried for the past two years, may improve, and that you may be restored to perfect health again. I do so, sir, with the greatest pleasure, and sincerely hope that this money so generously subscribed by them may be a blessing to you and yours." Mr. J. Driver, in a neat little speech, explained that the "little gift" had been confined to the immediate neighbourhood because they wanted Mr Vardy to realise the esteem in which they held him.

Mr. Vardy having by this time somewhat recovered from his surprise, said: "Fellow fanciers and neighbours. Words altogether fail me to say how much I thank you for the generous gift just handed to me by Mr. Roslyn, whose face we are at all times glad to see amongst us, and I value the gift more on account of the kindly spirit in which it has been given than even its value, acceptable as that will be to me. Gentlemen, again I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

The usual votes of thanks having been accorded, a very pleasant meeting concluded.

We learn that Mr. Forrest's varieg. buff cock won Hyde's and Ramsden's special, and special for best member's bird at Perth Show.

Members of the L. and P.O.S. are asked to note change of date of annual meeting to December 11th (Wednesday evening).

Mr. W. P. Barnes writes informing us of his change of address from 44, Commercial Road to 12, Saunder Terrace, Grantham.

Entries for Laisterdyke close December 10th. We look to fanciers for a splendid entry. Sec., J. Pownall, 69, New Hey Road, Bradford. —(ADVT.)

Up to time of writing, writes Mr. John Challenger, sec. of the Perth Show, I have only received 18 entries. Will fanciers kindly help us?

Kirbymoorside report credits Mrs. Simpson with first and special for best bird in show, writes Mr. T. Marwood, Brompton. It should be Marwood.

Barrow, December 13th and 14th. Fanciers hurry up and give us a good entry. Splendid specials. W. Willison, 5, Methuen Street, Walney.—(ADVT.)

The first show of the newly-formed Tivyside Fanciers Society is, we hear, to be held at Cardigan on January 15th, when Mr. C. A. House will judge.

It was not my bird which won at Cardiff in the yellow hen class, nor did I get a fourth prize with a yellow marked cock as reported, writes Mr. R. L. Crisp (Chelsea).

Crook (original) report credits Broughton with second in Buff Yorks., writes Mr. F. Brown (Crook) and Hirst also second; this should read second Brown, third Hirst.

Mr. A. Wellings, we hear, will judge Douglas (Isle of Man) Show on January 1st, next.

Fanciers should see grand classification at Edinburgh. Sec., Jas. Melrose, 97, Montgomery Street.—(ADVT.)

I won third prize at Sutton Coldfield Show in the Bullfinch class, and not Mr. Osborne as stated, writes Mr. J. H. Barnett (Walsall).

The Green Canary Association (Liverpool) has fixed upon February 14th and 15th next for its club show, and Mr. J. C. Barnes, (Sheffield) is, we hear, the appointed judge.

From my last advertisement I sold birds all over the country, and several to Liverpool to a noted exhibitor, which shows CAGE BIRDS has a good circulation.—A. THOMAS (Loftus).

I hope fanciers will not forget Ruthin's first show, writes a Ruthin correspondent, when we are offering 14 classes, and a special in each, with Mr. J. Williams (the "Mule King") as judge.

It may interest your readers, writes Mr. A. G. Kendrick, Coventry, to know that I received for preservation this week a pure cinnamon Sparrow, shot at Langley Green, Worcestershire.

We have elected an extra judge for Huddersfield Open Show, writes the sec., Mr. Sam Lodge. Mr. J. Dawson will judge Yorkshires, and Mr. George Level (Huddersfield) the Norwich classes.

Kindly thank the numerous readers who replied to my advt. re Pom. puppy, through your columns, writes Mr. J. H. Rowles, Bilston. It is quite impossible to answer all, having over forty up to date.

The balance sheet of the U.K. Belgian Canary Association, which reaches us from the hon. sec., Mr. W. B. Cobb, shows an income of £9 7s. 6d., and, we are pleased to say, a small balance on the right side.

OBITUARY.

MR. J. LANGMAN (Plymouth.)

It is with great regret, writes Mr. T. Pope, that I have to inform you of the death of Mr. J. Langman (Plymouth), which occurred on November 26th. The deceased gentleman was partner with the late Mr. T. Kent, and a few years ago they were great winners in the Crest and Norwich classes at all the leading shows. Although Mr. Langman had practically ceased to keep any birds, he was keenly interested in the Fancy up to the last, and was a subscriber to the W.C.O.S., which Society was greatly indebted in past years to him for his efforts to promote its welfare. Although, perhaps, not well known to the younger generation of fanciers in the West, those of the older school, especially members of the W.C.O.S., know what a genuine fancier and good fellow the deceased gentleman was, and expressions of sympathy are everywhere heard in and around Plymouth for his sorrowing relatives.

Mr. W. H. Tavener also writes:—Little did we think just four years ago, when I notified you of the death of Mr. Tom Kent (of Crest and Norwich fame), that the junior member of that old firm, Mr. J. Langman, would also follow in so brief a time to that bourne from whence no traveller returns. By his death another link with the Fancy in the past is severed, and serves to remind us of the other dear and gone but not forgotten worthies who so ably upheld the prestige of the Fancy down West, and of the W.C.O.S. in particular. May we always keep their memories green. To his sorrowing wife and children we tender our sincere sympathy.

Kindly state that I have had so many answers to my advert. (winning Yorkshire hen) in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. E. Ashworth, Southport, that I cannot reply to all. I think your paper is a grand advertising medium.

Mrs. A. Bayly, of Margate, writes that she bred and sold to Mr. Warner the clear yellow Norwich cock taking first prize in class of 18 at Tonbridge, and special for best in show; also the buff hen that took second in same class.

I had such a successful sale the week before last, writes Mr. S. Martin (Rochester) that I had to drop my "ad." I cleared my stock right out, thanks to CAGE BIRDS. I must also apologise to the many whose orders I could not execute.

Kindly inform all applicants for my Rollers advertised in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. C. E. Miller (Uttoxeter), that they were so numerous that I could not possibly answer them individually; applications came from all parts of the country.

Northampton Show report credits T. Hinds with 1st and 2nd in the Norwich yellow class, writes Mr. T. Irons, Northampton, 1st and 3rd in the buff class, and Fennell with 1st in the hen class; in each case the name should read T. Irons.

At the recent Sudbury Show, Mr. J. F. Hills had on exhibition (but not for competition) his noted lemon-crested Cockatoo, the age of which is put at 80 years—for noise and fun it can still give the "young 'uns" a start and a beating.

Being a constant reader of CAGE BIRDS, which I consider a good paper both for advertising and show reports, we beg to draw attention to the mis-spelling of our name in show reports—Linton instead of Sinton.—A. and W. SINTON (Jedburgh).

The Lancaster Primrose Avicultural Society will hold an open show in the Park Hotel Assembly Rooms on Jan. 18th next, writes Mr. H. J. Brown, the sec. It will be under C.B.U. Rules, and fanciers should look out for the schedule; it will be a good one.

My birds arrived back from Bolton Show early on the Saturday night, and I received prize money first post Monday morning, writes Mr. H. F. Hardy (Littleborough), and I think the committee are deserving of both praise and support for such promptitude.

His many friends in the fancy will be interested to learn that Mr. H. J. Hawes has taken over the old-established bird business lately carried on by Mr. H. Jones, at 15, Parliament Place, Forest Gate, where he will keep a first-class stock of all species of birds.

I much regret to say we have been compelled to cancel all cagebird classes at Brackley Show, writes Mr. W. G. Pollard, the hon. sec. Entries averaged only three per class, and in the absence of a rule for reducing the prize money we had no other alternative.

The annual dinner of West London F.A. is to be held at the Bush Hotel, Shepherd's Bush, on Thursday, December 12th, at 7 p.m. Mr. J. Dewhurst, the hon. sec., 52, North End Road, West Kensington, will be pleased to send particulars and tickets to friends.

A fawn Goldfinch was caught near Camborne last week, writes Mr. F. Collins. It is a nice bird, with a good blaze and markings. There is also a pure white Linnet here, flying about. I am trying to catch him and if I succeed will let readers know. Further, we have three white Blackbirds in the district.

Owing to a printer's error, writes Mr. W. Jackson, sec. of Pendleton and Salford O.S., the schedule of show states that exhibits must be delivered on December 10; this should read December 12th. We are having three Border classes, and exhibitors are asked to give us a good entry.

Permit me to offer my congratulations both to you and to your artist, writes Mr. Geoff. Benson, New Brighton, upon the splendid picture of my Self Buff Green which you kindly placed in so prominent a position in last week's CAGE BIRDS. I and many of my friends who know the bird are greatly impressed with the clever life-like production.

Kindly convey through your splendid paper my thanks to Capt. Perreau (4th Gurkhas, Punjab, India) for his kindness in publishing therein his appreciation of my bird trap. Though it is many weeks since I advertised in CAGE BIRDS, I still receive orders weekly (including a large repeat order from the above gentleman).—A. BUTLER (Sheffield).

Kindly note misprints in Hamilton Cadzow Oaks Show schedules, writes Mr. R. Gadsden, sec.:—Class 25 should read Yellow, Green or Cinn. Cock or Hen; class 45, Buff, Green or Cinn. Cock or Hen. There is an additional class: Any variety small hard-billed British bird not classed. Specials 130, 131 and 132 are not confined to Glasgow and Western Counties, but are open.

We had the misfortune upon receiving our Wryneck and Long-Tailed Tit from Crook show to find both birds dead, writes Messrs. Wilkinson and Danby (Yarm-on-Tees). Upon making enquiries we found they had been delayed for about 20 hours on the railway. We have claimed on the N.E.R. Company for damages caused by alleged neglect of their servants, there being no blame attached to the show committee.

The following particulars of the United Kingdom Belgian Canary Association Cup were too late to be inserted in the Edinburgh Ornithological (open) Society's schedule, writes the hon. secretary, Mr. W. B. Cobb:—Silver Challenge Cup (value £5 5s.) presented by F. Reddihough, Esq. The member gaining most points (two highest birds in each class to count) in Belgian classes after the last show to hold the cup for the year. Cup to be won twice, not necessarily in succession, before becoming the property of any exhibitor.

At a committee meeting of the Cinnamon Marked Yorkshire Canary Club, held November 30th, with Mr. J. Greaves in the chair, an alleged case of trimming came before the committee, writes the secretary, Mr. R. Garnett. The bird was produced for the committee to see. After hearing evidence both for and against, the committee decided that they could not uphold the objection as the evidence was so contradictory, also owing to the length of time since the alleged trimming took place. The deposit was returned to the complainant.

I have at time of writing received only two entries in cage bird section, writes Mr. J. Francis, hon. sec. Carmarthen Show, and I urge fanciers to send in their entries at once. We have 27 classes, and want to make this year's show a record one. I may point out that we never amalgamate classes, and always pay full prize money, if only five entries. We have four Yorkshire classes and would be grateful if some of the big men from the county of broad acres would patronise us. Entries are extended until first post Monday next, December 9th.

I have sold the whole of my winning Borders, writes Mr. D. H. Tedstone (Brecon); in fact all my Borders. These birds cost me a lot of money as the strain was built up from the following studs:—Messrs. J. B. Evans, Duncan and Logan, Patterson, Arnot and Jamieson, D. Jenkins, and R. H. Jones, so you see they are from good rooms. Mr. Patterson's yellow hen, the bird of the year, is amongst them. Mr. J. B. Rees (Abercanaid) is the purchaser. I sold out to make room for my Norwich. I have not the time to run two varieties.

Order Next Week's XMAS DOUBLE NUMBER Now or You May Miss it.

TO OUR READERS.

Next week will be issued CAGE BIRDS' great annual Christmas number. It will consist, as usual, of a huge budget of literature and pictures, not forgetting the ever-popular coloured plate. Our readers will have observed the remarkable number of small advertisements CAGE BIRDS has published each week of late. This is an infallible test of circulation, and we are profoundly grateful for the continued favours showered upon us by a sympathetic and discerning public. The many thousands of people who regularly read CAGE BIRDS have during the past month or two been again handsomely augmented, and before the season is over we hope to publish another certificate of actual sales, which will prove, we think, astonishing reading to those who are not cognisant of the extent to which our hobby has grown of late. Cage bird fanciers who remember exactly how much reading matter was provided for them before our journal, CAGE BIRDS, arrived, may well stand amazed at the number of show reports, articles, letters, etc., now published weekly for their benefit, but they never forget to attribute the blessings they now experience to their once "little pal," CAGE BIRDS, and they are equally certain that were CAGE BIRDS, by some unforseen calamity, to be suddenly destroyed, the position of the cage bird fancier would indeed be a parlous one. Be that as it may, we are obliged to our friends for the kindly tokens of goodwill which are continually reaching us, and we trust to long deserve their encouragement and their pardon for such errors as we may in our human disposition from time to time commit.

Will intending advertisers in our Christmas Number kindly make a point of sending in their announcements as early as possible next week, and so help us and our printers over what will be a very heavy task.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO ONE AND ALL.

At a public meeting held in the Kelty Co-operative Hall on November 28th (Mr. James Wilkie, president, in the chair), it was decided to have a cage bird section in connection with the Kelty and Blairadam Show, on October 17th, 1908, writes Mr. J. Ford, sec. The balance sheet of the last showed a good balance on the right side, so that exhibitors can rely upon getting fair treatment.

We note that in a recent issue of the 'Hove and Portslade Star," that esteemed fancier and well-known judge, Mr. Walter Swaysland, of Brighton, appeared in all the glory of martial array, appended to the portrait being an interview which a local scribe had with this worthy Urban Councillor and volunteer enthusiast at his neighbouring bird stores. Mr. Swaysland's father, we learn, was the owner of the celebrated collection of Owls on the West Pier, recognised as the finest in the world; whilst Mr. Swaysland's own exploits in the fancy have accounted for about 40 gold and silver medals, cups, etc., besides a host of money prizes. The article concludes:—"Who does not know Mr. Walter Swaysland? Who has not received one of his giant boxes of matches? Bright, cheery, jovial, he is, in spite of his 54 years, one of the youngest of us all. Long may he remain so."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

For Rules see issue of Nov. 23.

CANARIES.

Pairing and Purchasing.

Bert.—1. If you know the breeding of the ticked yellow cock, and he comes from marked stock, then I should advise you to pair him to a clear buff hen. But if he is bred from clears, then you may pair him to a variegated. Judging from the stock he threw last season, I should say pair him to a clear. 2. You will do quite right in pairing the variegated yellow, son of his, to a clear buff hen. You should get two hens, such as you want for from ten to fifteen shillings each. 3. It all depends upon what you wish to breed; if self greens, then pair green hen to a green cock, but if ticked and marked, then pair it to a clear. 4. Good sen greens bred from good Norwich stock are not very easy to procure. You may try a heavily variegated and you will be sure to breed some greens, probably the greater proportion. Such a bird would be easier to purchase than a self, and would answer your purpose equally well. You should be able to get what you want for about a sovereign.

Breeding Results.

Grocer.—I do not think the birds will take any harm by your removing them to the new room, but I should certainly do as you suggest and keep the racks away from the wall six or eight inches. 2. It is, as you say, quite against the rule to recommend any particular advertiser. If you look through the columns of Cage Birds you should find an advertisement of some good and successful breeder who would no doubt supply you with a good stock bird for the sum you name. 3. A great deal would depend upon the stock from which your hen was bred. If she came from decent feathered birds, then you may reasonably expect to breed something good from the yellow cock, which you say is as tight as wax, but on the small side, seeing that you have plenty of size in the hen. You would probably get some medium sized buds, and, no doubt, a few that would follow the cock.

Norwich as Breeders.

Motor Boat.—Sometimes there are good matched pairs at shows in the classes provided for breeding pairs at limit prices, such as would suit you, but I should advise you to obtain the opinion of a practical fancier before purchasing. See that you have young birds; have unflighted ones, and you will be alright. There are plenty of breeders that would be only too pleased to supply you with a good well-matched pair of stock birds at a reasonable price. Look over the advertisements in Cage Birds under the heading of Norwich. 2. Let the staple diet be plain Canary seed, with an occasional pinch of the following mixture as a change and a treat, say, twice a week: Hemp, Niga and German rape. 3. You may take the cock away if you like, but I should advise you to let him remain; that is, of course, if he goes on the right way.

A Question of Temperature.

Phoenix.—As you say your room is quite dry and that you only find a little moisture on the nails which comes through the roof when the weather is frosty, I can quite imagine the quantity of moisture from the nails is but small, and not sufficient to cause any vital dampness. I do not think the loss of your two hens was in any way attributable to the room, as they died at the end of the summer, when the place would be thoroughly dry. If you had a wooden floor, instead of stone, you would be surprised at the difference it would make. I should advise you in the winter months to cover your cages over with an old blanket.

Down in the Dumps.

E.W.—Stop giving your birds the boiled rape and give instead a little boiled carrot. Let them have on alternate days, for a fortnight, in a small teaspoonful of egg food, for each bird, as much Aromatic Confection as will stand on a threepenny piece. Give in the drinking water fresh daily for a week, a piece of Sulphate of Iron about the size of a small pea.

Out of Sorts.

David Price.—Let your bird have as much Aromatic Confection as will stand on a threepenny piece, and mix with a small teaspoonful of egg food on alternate days for ten days. On the days he is not having this, give in the drinking water eight drops of tincture of quinine. By this time the looseness you complain of in your birds' bowels should be stopped.

YORKSHIRES.

A Nervous Specimen.

Alpha.—From the description of your bird's movements and condition, I can only come to one conclusion, viz., that your bird is practically blind. Perhaps it may be able to see just a little, but I don't think so. If you keep it in the same cage it will find its seed and water all right, and may live and continue to sing for you, as from your description I don't think there is anything else the matter with it.

Hints on Breeding.

A.S. (Newcastle).—1. My advice is, Keep the hens in as large a flight cage as you have at your disposal through the winter, and the cocks singly in good-sized breeding cages. There is no real necessity for the pairs to be together, until you pair them up for breeding. 2. Derbyshire lime, unless you wish to have them painted, then enamel is best; 3. Let the birds' staple food be sound, clear White Canary in the hoppers, and give three times a week half a teaspoonful per bird of the following mixture: 2 parts summer rape, 1 part mawseed; keeping the birds clean and daily well supplied with good gritty sand and clean water.

Out of Condition.

H.P.—Your bird has caught cold. Probably through being in an open wire cage and through being kept in the kitchen, it will most likely be subject to sudden variations of temperature. Cover the cage up at nights, and keep it hanging lower than the gaslight. Give in drinking water fresh daily ten drops of whisky, and six drops of glycerine well mixed. Keep free from draughts and feed as you have been doing up to the present.

BORDERS

Cinnamons.

Walton.—Your green cock has been bred from a cinnamon strain. I suppose the young cin. marked will be cinnamons. 2) I am afraid you may expect the most of the progeny heavily variegated cinnamons from this pair, you might get a few with only a few light feathers in tails and flight, but there is too much class blood for what you are wanting. However, they would make good stock birds, either for marks or self. From this pair you would get self greens and cinnamons, but would greatly depend on the class blood they carry. The most of them show the cinnamon feathers, which would be of the very finest quality, and if the cock bird has colour you would see the influence very marked. Pleased to see you are such an admirer of "C.B." Push it along.

CRESTS AND CRESTBREDS.

Answered by W. E. GREAVES.

A Weak "Understanding."

P.H.H.—Your bird is suffering from weak legs, a complaint many Crest and Crestbred birds suffer from, and in some strains is hereditary. You do not say the age of your bird, but certainly they do not improve with age. All you can do is to give a tonic; the best for this complaint is nux vomica. Put six drops in its water for three days, then every other day for a week. Feed on good sound seed and give plenty of room for exercise.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "SCHOOLMASTER."

All in Moult, etc.

Studley.—You are feeding on much too heating seeds, also keeping your birds too hot—45 to 50 degrees is plenty in the daytime, and 50 to 55 at night. Drop the groats and oatmeal for a time entirely. Give equal parts rape and Canary always, and the mixed seed twice a week only, with egg food likewise (not both on the same day). Let your birds bathe freely, and stir a spot or two of glycerine into the water. Let them have a little green food (free from frost) occasionally, also ripe fruit such as apple, pear, banana, or orange, frequently. Get an ounce or two of citrate of iron and quinine crystals from a chemist, and every second day dissolve a small teaspoonful in a pint of water and give all the birds to drink.

Breeding Canaries.

F. B. Parsons.—Several varieties of Canaries are "easy to breed"—Yorkshires, Norwich and Borders, for instance—and are quite suitable for a beginner. Rollers are the same, and in addition have a very fascinating song, especially when well trained. Why not visit a good bird show, see the different varieties, and then pick out the one you fancy most? 2. All the above breeds are good songsters, the Norwich and Yorkshires the loudest voiced, with Borders next. The Rollers cannot be compared with either, as their song is artificial to a great extent, and quite peculiar to the bird. 3. It is contrary to the rules of this paper to recommend any particular advertiser, or place to purchase birds. There are many good and reliable dealers and fanciers advertising in CAGE BIRDS every week.

Five Rape Samples.

Aeolus.—Sample No. 1, at 4d. per lb., is excellent summer rape. Of the other four, at 3d. per lb., No. 4 is not summer rape at all, but, in my opinion, simply charlock. No. 2 I am not keen on, but No. 5 seems nice, and No. 3, I like much, and would just as soon use as the high-priced sample.

Canary Seed.

T. Hood.—Yes: I should say the sample of canary-seed is good value at 3d. per lb. It is probably Spanish, though better samples of that kind are to be had. It looks mostly well-ripened, and tastes well. I say "mostly," because the grains seem to vary somewhat in size and colour, suggesting a blend of two sorts of seed.

Birds Dying.

C.M.U.—Am afraid I cannot advise you to much purpose. Your loss of birds, and the way you lose them (some dying in a few hours; others bad for a long time) point to some infectious complaint being rife amongst the stock. You should certainly send a dead body up for post-mortem examination, to Mr. North. In the meantime, isolate all the healthy birds in clean cages, in a room to themselves. Give plenty of milk-sop to eat. In a pint of water dissolve a small teaspoonful of crystals of citrate of iron and quinine, and give this to drink daily for a time. Keep in a room at a not too low temperature. Treat the unhealthy ones the same, and keep them strictly to themselves. Possibly you have had the misfortune to recently introduce an unhealthy bird amoug them. Re the young; perhaps you take them from their parents too soon. The egg should be dropped when feeding themselves, but soft food must still be given.

Weak on Legs.

Anxious.—You should fill an egg-cup, or tall, slender wine glass, with fairly hot, very strong whisky and water, and immerse the bird's legs in same for two or three minutes night and morning. In its drinking water (two tablespoonfuls) for ten or twelve days stir a small teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food from the chemist. This treatment should soon put the bird right, seeing that in other respects he seems quite well. Write again, if necessary.

SCOTCH FANCIES.

Answered by R. WRIGHT.

Sitting "Huffy."

Camlechie. — I think your trouble is either caused by a draught or by faulty feeding. If the former, try and prevent it, and keep birds covered over with a cloth at night. Feed on plain canary seed (best Spanish) as a staple diet, with a third of German summer rape added one day; the next, half a teaspoonful egg food, with ten drops Chemical Food mixed through it, and sprinkle a pinch of maw seed on top. Let them also have twice a week a small piece of boiled carrot. Give in water for four days (fresh daily) 10 drops tincture of aconite, and after replace until well with 10 drops tincture of quinine. If they are wheezy take equal parts of paregoric, whisky and glycerine, mix together and give 15 drops in water. If you give the latter discontinue the other tonics. Your query is very meugre; you might have given me more information. Catch the bird and rub the pen feathers lightly between the finger and thumb.

MISCELLANEOUS CANARY QUERIES.

Wing Injured.

Novice.—(1) I don't think the hen's breeding will be affected by the injury, if, as you say, she can hop from perch to perch alright. The only danger there is, is that she might drag some of the [illegible] The birds may stay together another month, after that you should separate the cocks and hens, but don't pair them up till the end of March; just keep them in separate cages. (3) You may try your luck with a cock Canary, then Linnet, but generally the sexes are reversed, the hen bird being a Canary.

Enamel v. Whitewash.

Toby.—There can be no question about enamel being better than whitewash for your breeding cages. You should first of all give the cages a coat of ordinary paint, then rub them down with pumice stone, so as to make smooth, and finally give a coat of the enamel. If you make a good job of it you will henceforth have little trouble with red mite.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

The Wren and the Sex of Robins.

Fancier, No. 2.—The Wren is a totally distinct bird to the Robin, so your friends that "know a little about natural history," and say that the Wren is the "female of the Robin," have yet a good deal more to learn—like the majority of the rest of us. There is Mr. Wren and Mrs. Jenny Wren, husband and wife, and barely a quarter the size of the red-waistcoated Robin. There is very little difference in the looks of Mr. and Mrs. Robin, especially in the winter, though in the summer Master Bob has the richest coloured vest, and at all times has the red of the breast and face (among the cheeks) more expansive, that is, extending further back. He is, too, more cheeky and pugnacious. This query of yours is one I have more than once had asked of me, and there seem to be quite a number of people who believe the "old woman's tale" about the Wren being the "female of the Robin." A friend of mine once asked me (when I was laughing at him over this very thing): "But do the female Robins sing?" "No," I replied. "Well, then, Mr. Know-all, he cried, "perhaps you'll tell me how it is no-one ever sees a red-breasted Robin that is not singing?" But the answer was easy. "You think they never do so," I said, "but the fact is people never look. I'll wager in nine cases out of ten it is the song alone that draws your attention to the bird." And he was bound to admit it. There are plenty of hen Robins to be seen by those who specially look for them. Zebra and Ribbon Finches are easy to keep; this, however, is a question for the foreign bird department.

All Together.

L.B.P.—I can't quite grasp the size of your cage in the recess—5 feet high, 3 feet 3 inches wide, and 1 foot deep you say, which, I presume corresponds to 5 feet high, 3 feet 3 inches long, and 1 foot from front to back. This is a very awkward size—height is of very little advantage. It would be far better to divide it, so that it made two cages, each 2 feet 6 inches high. Each compartment would then comfortably hold one pair of Bullfinches and one pair of Goldfinches — but you could not well get eight birds in it as at present arranged. What do you mean by "placing the food"? If you refer to receptacles, then outside seed-hoppers would be best—the sort that the birds put their heads through holes to get at. But inside hoppers would also answer well; most bird-shops keep a good stock of such-like suitable appliances.

Management of Hawfinch.

No Tail.—You need have no fear as to the Hawfinch turning out a nice pet. I like the bird very much, personally. It is true they can be very "racketty" and unsteady when first caged, but can be got delightfully tame. I prefer a canvas-topped cage at first. Sunflower should be a Hawfinch's principal food—get it (the seed) sound and plump (with good kernels) Given this, and a mealworm or two every day, the bird asks for little more. The mealworms, however, should be given direct from the fingers; a little patience, and he will take them fearlessly, so great is the bird's love for them. They are an invaluable agent in steadying a Hawfinch. The bird also appreciates hemp, linseed, canary, oats, and sometimes a little buckwheat, dari, groats, summer rape, small maize, etc. His powerful beak makes short work of beech-mast, walnuts, plum and cherry stones, hawthorn, privet, etc., berries, and the like. One never need be fast for dainties acceptable to the Hawfinch. Green food they are not particularly keen on, but appreciate a little young lettuce, watercress, chickweed, shepherd's purse, also ripe apple, pear, etc., occasionally. They make an exception in favour of tender green garden peas, and these should be given in the pod when obtainable. Let the bird bathe freely.

Russian Goldfinches.

Persevere.—Evidently you had not read your last week's CAGE BIRDS when you penned your query, for therein I dealt fully with the treatment of Siberian (including, of course, Russian, too) Goldfinches. There is no possible method of treatment which will "make sure of Goldfinches not going wrong"—I have no reason, however (if I may say so) to grumble at the result of the method I adopt, and which I gave last week. A cold-room is most certainly the best to keep them in.

German Paste.

W. H. Dearnabey.—German paste is sold at practically every bird-shop in London, and I should have thought you would have had little difficulty in getting it in Manchester. Try a bird-shop near to where you live; and if not kept there, run down to Tib Street and enquire at the bird-shops in the neigbbourhood—you are hardly likely to "draw a blank" there.

Sex of Song Thrush.

Christian—Cock and hen Song Thrushes are exactly alike in plumage, therefore the only safe way to sex them is to hear them sing. Many old, experienced fanciers can make a good guess at the sex; but it is only a guess when all is said and done. Often the hen is a finer bird than the cock; as witness the fact that some of the most famous exhibition Thrushes have been of the gentle sex. The cock is generally a longer, flatter headed bird (when viewed in profile), is more alert in look and manner, and generally the deepest brown on the shoulders (upper back). Some will tell you he has always a clear spot (free from mooning, or marking) just beneath the lower mandible; but I know for a certainty that this is not always the case. Others say that a bird with the bar of light brown feathers across the wing coverts (upper part of the wing) very distinct and clear, invariably turns out a cock. "You pays your money and takes your choice."

Linnets with Diarrhœa.

D. Price.—Prepared chalk is a simple and effective remedy for diarrhœa. Get a pennyworth or two from the chemist, and well mix half-a-teaspoonful with two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Keep the water off the birds' cages for some time, to make them thoroughly thirsty, then offer the chalk mixture, stirring it well up. When they have had a good drink, take it away, and repeat the procedure after a further interval. This is usually sufficient, but the chalk can be given as necessary, until the bowels assume a normal condition. I should drop giving niger as a regular thing, if I were you. Let the birds have maw-seed liberally, until well again. It is often best to give birds, suffering with diarrhœa, a dose of saline medicine, to clear out any irritating matter from the stomach—as much sulphate of soda as will just cover a shilling dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water will act admirably. For the Goldfinch you mention, stir six drops (not more) of chlorodyne into two tablespoonfuls of water, for a few days, and see if this improves its condition.

Feathers Gone.

Linnet.—Undoubtedly, the presence of red mite in any quantity could cause the loss of neck and head feathers, and stop the bird from singing. The best thing you can do is to get some Keating's insect powder, and well dust it among the plumage of the Linnet, especially at root of tail, under the wings, and round the neck, working it well down to the skin with the tip of a finger (gently, of course). Then place the bird in a new, clean cage, and hang same in a fresh spot, if possible. The old cage can be stowed for a few minutes in a very hot oven, or washed out with boiling suds (not knowing what kind of cage, makes it difficult to advise) By-the-way, work some powder with the finger-tip round the head of the bird, keeping it out of the eyes as far as possible. Do you, as you ought to, let the bird bathe frequently?

A Jay; and Show Cage, &c.

Anxious.—Last week, I gave full details as to the feeding of a Magpie, and that answer covers the Jay, Jackdaw, and the like, equally well. The Jay should always be given the opportunity to devour a little ripe fruit at frequent intervals. The stock cage must be as large as you can conveniently accommodate—not less than four foot long, three foot high, and two foot from back to front, though an extension in length and width would be a vast improvement. You will do far better to get your show cages from any up-to-date cage maker advertising in our columns, rather than try to make them yourself, as you will do but little, and possibly lose much in effect. Write and get prices; you can safely leave yourself in the maker's hands as regards size, as he will know the exact requirements. For the Jay, have the inside and wires a very light blue or green (very pale), while many exhibitors favour these shades for the show cages of Hawfinch s, though, personally, I prefer a very dark (holly) green for wires and inside woodwork. Outsides black, in both cases.

Wild Seed, etc.

Cantab.—I do not know the precise name of the wild plant you enclose, but it belongs to the same order as the wild mustards (Charlock), probably all of which are eaten by the birds in a state of nature. I always gather some, when in seed, for my own birds. Like yourself, I have frequently seen flocks of Linnets, etc., feeding upon it I should advise you to pair a good-sized cock Goldfinch with the hen Linnet, which built and laid last season; a good Goldie-Linnet Hybrid is a valuable show-bird, and very pretty. Hope your Cinnamon-coloured Sparrow is still thriving. I am very interested in all rare-feathered birds. Sorry your specimen and query got mislaid.

A Variety of Things.

H. S. Thomas.—The German hen Bullfinch is not larger than any good English hen Bullie—many are very small, in fact. The Foreign (i.e., Siberian) Goldies and Bullies are bound to throw the largest progeny, being so much larger themselves. Fanciers differ very much in opinion as to the breeding propensities of Foreigners and Britishers. I have heard heated arguments, some "old hands" saying there is no difference 'twixt them, some favouring one or the other. My own opinion is that there is a good deal of luck in getting hold of the right bird, and that both kinds are difficult to get to cross successfully. Redpoll, Goldfinch, Greenfinch, and Siskin-Bullfinch will afford you splendid ground to experiment on; while you could add Hawfinch-Bullfinch and Canary-Bullfinch. For your aviary hand-net, write any of the large advertisers of fanciers requisites using our columns; or try a local fishing shop—a strong butterfly-net is sometimes used, but they are too "baggy" for me. I should prefer a clear or ticked pink-eyed Yorkshire hen; she should be clear-bred—not from marked stock.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

The Sexing of Java Sparrows.

H. V. Johnson.—This can only be told by comparison; while the head of the male is a little more snaky in appearance than that of the female; it is the shape of the beak that I always depend on for sexing my birds, and though at first it is a little difficult to discern, the eye soon becomes trained, and it is then fairly easy to distinguish the sexes among a number of birds; but it is difficult even for the expert to tell the sex of an individual bird. The beak of the female is narrower at the base and more tapering than that of the male; this difference is most distinct when viewed in profile. I should be inclined to think it would be Common Grey Waxbills you would get under the name of Senegal Waxbills, but, of course, under this designation the dealer could fairly send you any species of Waxbill he happened to have in stock that came from this locality; so that it is quite possible that two purchasers would each receive a different species. Bib Finches are diminutive and plainly-clad birds. The principle colouring is browns of various shades, and a small black bib under the lower mandible, from which it takes its names. It has been well known for years, but has been somewhat uncommon on the market the last few years.

Resembling the Redpoll.

Shama.—This is a trim little bird, about the size of the English Siskin; it is a brown bird, with darker centres and streaks to most of the feathers, giving it somewhat the appearance of a Redpoll, but the browns of its plumage are greyer; and when the wings are tightly closed over the back, no other colour is visible, but when it sits at ease, or is seen on the wing, its brilliant yellow rump makes it appear almost brightly-coloured. It is a gay little fellow, and once it is over the hardships of importations, nothing seems amiss with it. Its song is very sweet, mellow, and fairly sustained, and in the vilest weather. In my garden aviary, it is vivacious, merry, and nearly trilling his little lay. As you have the Grey Singing Finch, I may say the browns and markings of The Yellow Rump are somewhat similar, as is also its song, but the Grey is the better performer. I should not advise the keeping of two species of Serins in the same cage, as all the genus Serinus are most intolerant of one another. Very shortly, nearly all these birds will be described in "Housing and Keeping Foreign Birds," and the poorest performer among them is not to be despised for song. Green Singing Finch and Grey-necked Serin are both handsome birds and good songsters. All the species thrive well in either a roomy cage or the garden aviary.

The Feeding of Budgerigars.

J. Rukin.—The treatment of Budgerigars is so simple that it is almost impossible for the merest tyro to go astray, providing the birds are kept clean, protected from draught, and not kept in too small a cage. In fact, they are more productive in an outdoor aviary, than they are under the conditions of cage [illegible] If kept in a cage, a pair ought to have one of the box type, not less than 2½ft. by 1½ft. by 2ft. high, with plenty of branches to climb about on, and two cocoa-nut husks fixed high up in opposite corners, with the husk openings towards the light. Diet: Canary, millet and spray [illegible] a week, grit, cuttlefish, green food (lettuce, grass or clover) and water ad lib. When they have young to feed, supply oats daily. Do not supply husks till next March, when they can be left to choose their own time for breeding. They frequently take a little time to settle down before doing so.

Treatment for Young Grey Parrot

E.W.—It largely depends on how the bird has been treated. If it has been fed on boiled maize, you must continue same till you find it eating heartily of the dry seed diet; as soon as this occurs, gradually wean it from the boiled maize, this latter only keeps fresh one day and the food vessel must be kept strictly clean. Diet: A seed mixture of 2 parts each Canary and oats and one part each hemp, wheat, dari and sunflower seeds; well mix and always keep a supply in the cage. In addition, supply ripe fruit, plain biscuits, nuts, raw carrot or little (dry) boiled potato; keep a piece of cuttlefish in the cage, and let it satisfy its thirst 3 or 4 times a day. Do not give table scraps of any kind, neither tea, coffee or milk slops, nor any kind of animal food. The bird must be kept warm and out of all draught, at the same time it must not be kept in a vitiated atmosphere. If the bird should appear weak or ailing in any respect on arrival, it should be carefully treated at once.

The Safest Plan with a Parrot.

C.B.—Such case ought not to be treated by correspondence, nor yet dealt with by unskilled hands. I cannot conscientiously advise any other course than to call in a Vet., he would remove the offensive matter, and from your description of the bird's condition it should soon be in condition again. Your query does not indicate whether the matter is fluid or of a cheesy substance. In either case it must be removed, and the wound cleansed with some anti-septic wash (from a chemist). A little zinc or spermaceti ointment would assist healing. Diet the bird as advised regularly in this column, and do not give table scraps, slops or any kind of animal food. In such a case I should not attempt to treat a bird of my own, but call in a Vet., it is quicker, safer and saves the bird possible needless suffering; and I strongly advise you to take this course.

A Red-Faced Lovebird.

L.G.—It is certainly customary for these birds to roost and yours may do so even if you put a box in your cage. At the same time a box would supply some novelty for the bird, possibly arouse its curiosity and help to kill ennui; but you must so arrange that it can be readily got at for cleaning. If you keep it in a room in which lights are burning till fairly late, arrange to have a cover in front of cage, and unless mice get in and disturb it, this should check its restlessness.

A Shaft-Tailed Whydah.

H.P.—(1) This bird is mostly known as the Paradise Whydah, which is the better name for it, as the Queen Whydah is also known as the Shaft-tailed Whydah. Canary, millet and spray millet, green food, a few ants' eggs (if it will eat them), and two or three mealworms or other insects per bird daily—grit, water and cuttlefish, of course. (2) Velvety black on the upper surface, the under-surface is a combination of black, white and a kind of mahogany-chestnut colour, the body of the bird is about the size of a Sparrow; in the summer its tail plumes are fully 12 inches long. (3) I have so kept, but all depends on space and what kind of a night shelter you have attached. The worst feature is they moult during our winter, and are, of course, in worst condition and least able to bear cold at this period. Of course, with a bird in the moult, on the first sign of its looking puffy, etc., it should be removed indoors.

Caging of Waxbills, etc

R. M. Young.—(1) Take out the nest box or husk till the spring, well furnish the cage with twiggy branches, and keep a spray or two of millet hanging about; this should cause them to take more exercise; a blind before the cage when they are finally left for the night should keep them secure from cold. I keep all these birds out of doors all the year round in a large aviary. (2) The only thing to do is to cage the Waxbill up separately till it is in condition again, as it is very improbable the other birds will let the feathers grow. Waxbills and many small Finches often pick the feathers off one another's heads when confined in cages, and sometimes also when in aviaries. In the cage, I think it occurs from want of occupation—so the remedy is obvious, try and supply them with plenty of exercise, keep the food vessels in various parts of the cage, and once a bird is bare, cage it up separately until it is in condition again.

Diet for Grey and Amazon Parrots.
